Third: That no arrangements were made with the 2d av line to run cars over its tracks, between 57th and 60th sts, and it would, therefore, necessitate four tracks on 2d av at this point.

Fourth: That there is a large public school on 57th st, between 2d and 3d avs, and the lives of thousands of small children would be endangered.

Fifth: That the map or plan of the City of New York has been changed, by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, laying out the block between 59th and 60th sts, 2d and 3d avs, for a plaza for the new Queensboro Bridge, and that it is expected the property will shortly be acquired, wherein all the cars from the bridge would centralize and eliminate the necessity of a line on 57th st.

A number of witnesses were called by Mr. Robinson, who were examined by the respective counsel, and after hearing all those in favor and in opposition, the Chair declared the hearing closed and reserved decision. The general trend of opinion was, however, that the new company put up a poor showing and the application would be denied.

SANITARY GARBAGE CLOSETS.

Property owners who contemplate erecting apartment houses in New York will do well to consider equipping them with garbage closets. Receptacles of this kind are made of cast iron, so there are no crevices for the secretion of vermin. A well-made closet has a fresh air intake which allows the air to circulate in the closet at all times. One of the advantages of the device is that it obviates the necessity of setting the garbage pail on the fire-escape, for it is provided with an extra large pail, the lid being made with a flue which connects with the main flue, therefore carrying all fumes to the roof.

The modern garbage closet was thought of during a summer of extreme heat. The fumes from a garbage pail placed on the fire-escape on the wall below the apartment in which the inventor (Cornelia S. Robinson) lived, made it necessary to keep the kitchen window closed. This annoyance was the incentive to the development of the device. Later a model was made and placed for inspection with the New York City Board of Health and the Tenement House Department. It was commended by both bureaus. This gave confidence to the inventor who at once proceeded with the preliminary steps to obtain a patent. This was accomplished about ten years ago. The inventor then enlisted the aid of capital and finally a company was formed to market the product. It may well be said that the closet has come to stay, because no tenant having once seen and used it would care to live in an apartment without it.

THE WEEK.

BUSINESS from a sales standpoint was fairly well distributed, though the market was not active. It compares favorably with the corresponding period in 1908. While brokers are still complaining of the difficulty in closing deals, still the number of inquiries is increasing weekly and there is a splendid prospect of their having a good fall and winter business. At the present time a good deal of their attention is directed to leasing. There are a large number of renewals being reported, and while there are a number of desirable dwellings to be had at the moment, they are being snapped up quickly, and if present conditions continue two or three weeks will see the most of them disposed of. There has not been any material increase in rentals though prices have been held firm. Plenty of moderate priced apartments on the West Side are to be had, though brokers report that the condition of the market is satisfactory. The greatest variety in the apartment house line is to be had in those houses that rent from $900 to $1,600. This is due to the fact that builders have completed a vast number of structures of this character and are willing to make some slight concessions to get desirable tenants. This condition will right itself, the law of supply and demand playing an important part, as usual.

Real estate brokers along Westchester av are taking optimistic views of the realty situation in the East Bronx. They affirm that as a result of the building of the higher-grade apartments in that zone, rapid lot buying will inevitably follow.

The sale of Nos. 48 and 50 Duane st, a 5-sty building on a plot 35x61.7x irregular, is interesting, inasmuch as it is a section of the city which is undergoing violent structural changes. The completion of the new Hall of Records on the block to the south and the new Municipal building, besides several other operations of prime importance lend weight to every operation in this zone. The property just disposed of has been in the hands of the selling family for upwards of half a century. The purchase by the New York Post Graduate Hospital of the three 3-sty brick dwellings, Nos. 302 to 306 East 21st st, is also worthy of notice. The hospital recently acquired the abutting parcel on 20th st, and is the owner of an improved plot on 2d av, between these streets. It is stated that the ultimate intention of the buyers is to build an addition to their present structure and use the combined plot for hospital purposes.

The Carlyle Realty Co., Bing & Bing and Edgar Levy, bought from Herman F. Bindsteil a plot, 100x70, in the south side of Cathedral Parkway (110th st), located 125 ft. west of Amsterdam av, and also from George A. Morrison and George Ellis a plot, 100x100, located 225 ft. west of Amsterdam av. This company is largely interested in real estate in this locality, having purchased from John D. Crimmins a large plot with frontages on 110th and 111th sts, last August. Some of this property has since been sold to builders for improvement, and on the remaining parcel two 12-sty high-class apartments are under construction. The vacant plot, known as Nos. 1004, 1006 and 1008 Park av, 57 ft. south of 84th st, 55.2x82.2; was sold by the Charter Realty Co. The selling company was the owner of the adjoining parcel on the south and was disposed of by them to the South Church, at present located at the southeast corner of Madison av and 38th st. The purchaser in the present deal contemplates improving his new holding with one or two handsome residences, one of which he will probably occupy. Should this development be carried through it will have an important bearing on the future of this section. At present there are but a few high-class residences on this avenue, north of 80th st.

The activity in the building loan market still continues. A number of large operations are about to be started, Washington Heights and the Bronx coming to the front. Money for building purposes is easy to obtain, at the present time. It will be remembered that during the panic no money was obtainable, at any price. Gradually this condition changed and loans were made, but only south of 155th st on Washington Heights and the choicer sections of the Bronx. This line was finally shifted further north to the Ship Canal, and a greater area in the Bronx was taken in. At the present time any property that is fairly well located will be considered, and the interest rates are moderate.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THAT bidding in the salesroom was very slow can be readily seen when it is considered that during the first three days of the week there were all told twelve parcels advertised for sale and only two went into outside hands. Several of the properties offered were of interest, but for some reason or other investors are loath to take advantage of the opportunities afforded. Unquestionably there are many bargains to be picked up in the auction mart at the present time. Many properties can be purchased for little more than the encumbrances. For example take the 5-sty tenement and store at No. 171 West 133d st, located 75 ft. east of 7th av, 25x99.11. The amount due on the judgment was $1,145.04; taxes and other charges aggregating $66, and a prior mortgage of $19,500. This property was sold at the stand of Joseph P. Day to Lewis Levy for $21,568. This figure just about covered the expenses. At the stand of Herbert A. Sherman the vacant property on the west side of Ferris av, about 816 ft. south of the lands of St. Joseph's Institute for Deaf Mutes, 473.5x823.4x irregular, having a frontage on Westchester Creek, was knocked down to Joseph M. Bennett for $35,000. There was a judgment on this holding of $24,298.26, and a prior mortgage of $10,000. The figure paid was but little in excess of the charges. The two 5-sty tenements Nos. 186 and 188 Madison st, 42.6x100, located 183.4 ft. west of Rutgers st, were sold to the plaintiff in the action for $57,790. The sale was the result of a suit brought by Jonas Weil et al. The judgment was for $10,963.71; taxes and other charges $1,746.54. The property was further encumbered with two mortgages aggregating $52,000.

LAW DEPARTMENT

"ONE-SIDED CONTRACTS."

Unilateral, as they are legally termed, or one-sided contracts, as they might in common parlance be called, have been and probably always will remain a source of much difficulty in the courts, and always productive of annoying litigation.

Of this nature are options to "call" or "put" stocks, and also the very general form of newspaper and magazine advertising contracts.

A stock operator sells a right to some individual in the market to call upon him, at some later date, or deliver to him, a certain lot of stock at a named price.

An advertising contract is generally in terms a signed order authorizing a publication to insert in its columns at a given price, a certain amount of advertising matter for the customer.

Now the stock option is usually accompanied at the time of delivery by a bonus or consideration paid for it, while the advertising contract is generally delivered without any money being paid on account, and the only payment made being (or not being as the event may prove) the amount of the bill rendered after advertising is completed.

The law abhors a stock-jobbing operation of any kind, but it has fixed rules and principles against the enforcement of any contract without an actual consideration, to an even greater degree, wherefore, perhaps, we rarely hear of suits to enforce or annul stock options which are always accompanied by actual consideration, while of suits to enforce advertising contracts, the offices of attorneys for newspapers and magazines are always full.

The patron who orders a room at a hotel, by telegraph, or a theatre seat to be reserved for him, by telephone, goes or stays away as he may see fit, and believes that he is in his right—likewise the would-be advertiser feels that he may at any time before or even during publication of his "ad," revoke the contract, regardless of the fact that it is not only when the matter is turned off in the presses, but long before, that the publisher has paid out money, and made arrangements and obligations, based on the secured contract of advertising.

It is this ignorance of fact which we believe to be responsible for the attitude so often taken by advertisers and subscribers—the cry of "Stop my ad," or "Stop my paper," being generally made in a tone of most seemingly righteous authority if not indignation.

Now advertising or newspapers cannot be furnished to advertisers or subscribers off-hand, and much preliminary as well as subsequent expense has to be paid down or incurred for later payment, long before the publication is actually made, so an actual injustice is done by any breach of the contract on the part of the advertiser or subscriber, within even perhaps a day of the contract's making.

Therefore to render this the courts while not as a rule enforcing these contracts with a consideration lacking, yet read into them an element of public policy and equity, in pursuance of which a breach is made responsible in damages given—the amount of the contract if performed being prima facie the basis of the recovery.

AN OWNER'S LOSS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A leases for two years two stores on Broadway and obtains B's consent in writing to make such repairs as necessary for the carrying on of his business. A verbal agreement between them is that A is to pay the cost of same. A is dispossessed for non-payment of rent. As A has not paid about $1,000 still due on repairs made, can his creditors hold owner liable for same?—INTERESTED.

Answer.—Under the provision of Chapter 418, of the Laws of 1897, Section 3, known as the Lien Law, a contractor, subcontractor, laborer or material man performing labor or furnishing material in such a case may have a lien upon the real estate on filing the usual notice of lien, and the courts in the reported cases have generally given effect to this section against the interests of the owner in like cases.—EDITOR.

AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In case of property sold 33 years ago; 25 per cent. cash balance on bond and mortgage at 7 per cent.; interest on mortgage and taxes paid promptly for eight years; nothing paid for the last 25 years. Could the mortgage be foreclosed at any time now and a deficiency judgment rest against mortgagor? If so, could that judgment rest against or seize personal property held by the mortgagor? Property had been advertised many times for taxes.—BROKER.

Answer.—No. After 20 years, in which nothing has been paid, principal or interest, and no other acknowledgment of the debt, the mortgage cannot now be foreclosed, for that reason. No judgment could be obtained that would be a lien against any property of the mortgagor.—EDITOR.

CATHEDRAL PARKWAY.—The Carlyle Realty Co., Bing & Bing and Edgar Levy, purchased from Herman F. Bindsteil, 100x70, in the south side of Cathedral Parkway (110th st), located 125 ft west of Amsterdam av. The purchasing company is extensively interested in property in this location. Last August it acquired from John D. Crimmins a large tract extending from 110th to 111th sts, west of Amsterdam av. The company sold off a portion of this property to builders and are improving the remainder with two 12-sty high-class apartment houses. These buildings will be ready for occupancy in the fall. There has been considerable activity in this portion of the city of late. There are large operations being conducted by the Johnson Co., at Broadway and 113th st. INFORMATION FOR APARTMENT SEEKERS.—A careful reading of advertisements is reassuring. For the kind of apartment one really wants to live in the annual rental appears to be from $3,200 up. Most of us, as usual, will stay where we are to save the expense of moving.—F. P. A.—Mail.

Duke, president of the Tobacco Trust, and is to be developed by the purchasers into a high class residential park. This property was purchased from the original owners in October, 1908, by Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank. He disposed of it at a profit in January of this year to the present sellers. No price was mentioned in connection with any of the transfers, but Mr. Welles said that the present sale permits the City Realty Co. a profit of 70 per cent. over the price it paid to Mr. Vanderlip.

HOBOKEN, N. J.—One of the most important purchases this week is in the Greenville Heights section. On both sides of Armstrong av, just west of the Hudson County boulevard, the Comman & Lavine Realty & Construction Co., of Hoboken, bought from the Realty Co. of New Jersey 16 lots for $22,000. The purchasing company will build 20 2-sty semi-detached dwellings, each of which will measure 15x50 ft. and contain 8 rooms, reception hall and laundry. The cost of the buildings will be $80,000. RYE, N. Y.—A syndicate headed by Clifford B. Harmon has purchased a tract of 600 acres at Rye, N. Y. The seller is Hobart J. Park. The purchase price is reported as being $800,000. Mr. Park is the owner of about 2,000 acres around Rye. He acquired most of his holdings from his father, Joseph Park, who purchased all told about fifteen farms surrounding one owned by him. The seller in the present deal has one of the finest residences in Westchester county, with lodges, outbuildings and several attractive houses for his employes. The property in the present deal has frontages on Polly Park, North st, Purchase st and the estate of John W. Sterling. The estate of Charles Greer and the Apawamis Golf Club are just to the southeast. The tract includes about 100 acres of woodland and the balance is clear. It measures about 1½ miles from east to west, at its widest point and 1 mile north and south. It is stated to be the intention of the purchasing syndicate to convert the property into a park for unusually fine residences, having a plottage of from five to ten acres each. There will, in all probability, be a restriction clause binding the buyer to erect residences to cost not less than $15,000 each.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The F. Dornberger Realty Co. removed its offices to 1511 3d av, in the Yorkville Bank Building.

Joseph P. Day was in Providence, R. I., Wednesday, as the guest of the Providence Real Estate Exchange on the occasion of its annual outing.

There was recorded Wednesday the lease of 14 to 18 Wall st and 3 Nassau st by Adele Livingston Sampson to the Bankers' Trust Company, for twenty-one years, at an annual rental of $90,000.

Lewis & Conger took title on Tuesday to 782 to 792 6th av, southwest cor of 45th st. The transfer was made by the Sixth Avenue Realty Associates for a nominal consideration over a mortgage of $410,000.

If you own improved property your building heated with a modern plant will yield from 15 to 25 per cent. increased rent, and the property will keep steadily rented, besides, you will be enabled to secure a higher class of tenants.

Real estate appraisers should always be familiar with the conditions governing the realty market. Lack of knowledge in this direction will ultimately cause much embarrassment not to speak of the loss of much business in court work.

Edward H. Burns sold his interest in the firm of William C. Flanagan & Co. to William C. Flanagan. Mr. Flanagan will continue with the business of general real estate under the firm name of William C. Flanagan & Co. at the same address, 2609 8th av.

The properties, 52 and 54 4th av, adjoining the northeast cor of 17th st, 52x115, together with a one-quarter interest in a strip, 10x131, at the rear, fronting on 17th st, were conveyed Thursday by Eva J. Coe and another in the Germania Life Insurance Co. for an expressed consideration of $275,000, subject to a mortgage of $68,000.

On January 1 of the present year there were 5,599 local building and loan associations in the United States, with a total membership of 1,920,557, and assets of $784,175,753. The total receipts from members last year were $519,721,576, of which $134,085,170 was loaned on bond and mortgage. A member of a building and loan association is a partner, so to speak, in a large business, and although usually sharing well in its profits, he must always be prepared to suffer loss when misfortune occurs—that's the great drawback of membership in associations of this order.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Charles Warren Trembley, in the record pages of this issue. In references to water front factory and mill sites, it might be added that Mr. Trembley is generally considered a specialist in this kind of development and has made a study of harbor real estate values and improvements for years. Some of the most important transactions of recent date have been consumated by his office, among them one tract which he sold to private parties in Bayonne at $200,000 and was indirectly responsible for another involving a purchase price of $275,000. Within the last few days Mr. Trembley has closed a deal for the largest and handsomest industrial building in Hoboken, the details of which will appear later in the Record and Guide.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1908.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the lettrs "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

VALUATION OF FACTORY PROPERTY.

Mr. Charles T. Main, engineer, of Boston, favors the Record and Guide with the following opinions on this subject of never-ending controversy. His views are applicable, no doubt, to most manufacturing plants.

THE Public Statutes of some States direct that the assessors shall make a fair cash valuation of all the estate, real and personal, subject to taxation therein. It seems as though this definition of the cash value as the taxable value did not intend that assessors should consider the plant in the same light that a purchaser would, for the reason that the earnings cannot be included in the assessor's investigation, while they are the all important item to the purchaser.

The average assessor knows but little about the physical qualities, to say nothing of going into the estimate of all the items that make a mill more or less profitable than other factories located elsewhere.

It is not at all improbable that some mills which are running at a loss, or making a slight profit, would be better off to abandon their present site and move their machinery to some more favorable location.

It may have been that when such a ruling was made the choice of locations was not so wide as now, and that it was intended not to consider such broad questions as must be considered by a purchaser, and which to him might render a property of no value to purchase, and yet it might represent a large amount of property.

It would seem, therefore, that in considering the taxable value of a mill, the assessors must ignore the broad questions of labor, location, transportation, etc., and confine themselves to the physical condition of the plant existing at a certain place, which place is assumed to be advantageous to the carrying on of the business. Even in this limited consideration they cannot be as severe upon the plant as a purchaser would be.

For example, suppose that the looms in a mill are old, and so constructed as not to be able to run at anything near the speed and production of modern looms, and that the price of weaving is consequently so much higher than on modern looms as to wipe out what would otherwise be a fair profit on the goods. A purchaser taking this into consideration would say that the looms were of no value; but, unfortunately, they are in the mill, and if the company prefers to keep them, they are taxable property, and the company is unfortunate which possesses much of such property to be taxed.

Vol. LXXXIV. AUGUST 28, 1909. No. 2163

IN considering the prospects of the real estate and building market for the coming year, it looks probable that an increasing activity in real estate would be accompanied by a lessening activity in building; and the reasons on which this prediction are based are both obvious and convincing. The year which is now drawing to its close has witnessed a remarkable and in its amount a wholly unexpected revival in building. The plans filed for new construction to be erected in Manhattan and the Bronx call for an expenditure of over $125,000,000, against a projected expenditure of only $63,000,000 during the corresponding period last year. The Brooklyn figures for the same period are about $38,000,000 for 1909, against $19,000,000 for 1908. Thus, in the three largest boroughs, twice as much money is being invested in building as there was a year ago. Still more remarkable is the fact that the figures named above are larger than those for the corresponding period of 1906, and are about equal to those of 1905, which was the biggest year in the history of the city. On the other hand, real estate has shown no corresponding increase in activity. The number of conveyances of Manhattan and Bronx real estate recorded up to date show an augmentation of only about seven per cent. over the figures for the corresponding period in 1908, and in Brooklyn the proportion of increase is still smaller. The totals, instead of being about equal to those of the record year of 1905, are only about half what they have already been. Hence, it will be seen that the revival of activity has taken place rather in building than in real estate, and there are good reasons for believing that conditions during the coming year will tend both to a large speculative and investment business in real estate and a somewhat smaller volume of new construction.

THE reasons which lead one to expect a diminishing volume of building lie upon the surface. The huge amount of new construction undertaken during the current year was due to a combination of favorable general and local conditions. Money was plentiful, after a prolonged period of stringency. Building materials were cheap. Contractors early in the year had comparatively little to do, and were willing to make low bids merely for the purpose of keeping their business alive. Then there had been a couple of years of comparatively moderate building. There was room on Washington Heights for a large number of new flats; and there was a demand in the new wholesale district for a large number of new loft buildings. The more expensive grade of apartment houses were also renting well and could be erected in considerable numbers. During the coming year many of these favorable conditions will be modified. In all probability money will still be abundant, but it may not be quite so abundant as it has been recently. Building materials are increasing in price, and as a consequence of the general constructional activity may well go higher. Contractors have plenty of work, and will no longer underbid, in order to get a prospective job. The cost of building, consequently, will probably be some ten or fifteen per cent. higher, while at the same time the local opportunities for profitable speculative enterprises are likely to be smaller. A very large proportion of the new construction now under way is going up between Twenty-third and Forty-second streets. During the coming year there will be a diminution of building in this section. The movement will not, of course, entirely cease; but the enormous coming increase in rentable space will have to be partially occupied and digested by business before builders will feel justified in proceeding as rapidly as they have done in the past. A somewhat similar condition will determine the amount of new construction undertaken on Washington Heights. That section will have to submit to the increasingly severe competition of New Jersey and Long Island. This competition will not be sufficient to put a stop to new building on the Heights, because there is no other district in Manhattan in which any room exists for improvement with medium-priced flats; and the Heights, consequently, gets the benefit, not only of whatever increase in population Manhattan is retaining, but also of the process which is taking place in certain parts of Harlem of crowding out higher-priced tenants by an inferior class of settlers. Hence, there will undoubtedly be leeway for a good deal of new building on the Heights and at Inwood; but not for as much as has been projected in 1909. Altogether it is probable that the amount invested in new building projects may well be smaller by a quarter or a third than the sum now being spent on new construction.

THE reasons which make an increase in real estate activity very probable are equally obvious. As we have already seen, the current year has been a comparatively dull one in real estate. The buying which has been undertaken for building purposes on Washington Heights and in the new wholesale district has not been accompanied by any considerable revival of speculation. On the contrary, purely speculative purchases of real estate have not been very numerous, and speculative advances in price either widespread or considerable. The professional operations have been content to sit tight and to hold on as best they could. But during the coming year many of them will be supplied with funds by their ability to refund their mortgages on better terms; and the general atmosphere of prosperity will tempt them to look around more sharply for real estate that has some chance of increasing in value. Moreover, we believe that they will be encouraged to do so by an increasing investment demand for improved properties. The Record and Guide pointed out last week some of the reasons which made such an increasing investment demand very probable. Well improved real estate looks like a better income-producing form of property than good stocks and bonds. This present week the papers report that business men have been selling stocks purchased at lower prices, because they needed the money to meet the demands of an increasing business. If any further rise of prices takes place in the fall, as may well be the case, many investors will adopt a similar course; and real estate is bound to get the benefit of the release of this capital. Of course, nothing of the kind is to be expected in case there is a break in the price of good securities, or in case the rates for money go up. In the former event the shrewd investor will wait for the better price, which he is pretty sure to get, and in the latter case, he will probably expect that cash may be more valuable than either stocks or real estate. But assuming a moderate advance in the price of securities next Fall and continued ease of money, a very considerable investment demand for real estate is most probable. It is a curious fact but true that at no single moment since the business revival of 1901 have the conditions been favorable for the widespread purchase of real estate merely as an investment. As soon as prosperity came in 1901 and in 1905 the capital of the country was immediately required to finance its business expansion. Real estate was purchased largely for use, and great increases in prices have taken place for that reason; but conditions have never been favorable for a large investment demand. It is at least possible that they will be more favorable than for many years during 1910, and in any event there is sure to be a considerable expansion of purely speculative activity.

IN a current magazine article Controller Metz predicts that New York will have a population of 4,700,000 in 1910 and of over 6,000,000 in 1920. It seems to the Record and Guide that these figures are rather an underestimate than an overestimate. They are based on the percentage of increase in population which New York attained during the decade between 1890 and 1900; but the ten years between 1900 and 1910 will be years of greater industrial activity and urban growth than the ten preceding years. Assuming that the population of the whole country will augment at about the same ratio as it did during the preceding decade, a larger proportion of this augmentation will seek residences in the cities; and every indication points to the fact that New York has secured more than its fair share of the increase in urban population. We should not be at all surprised in case the census of 1910 gives New York a population of almost 5,000,000—say about 4,800,000 and over, and in that case the number of people resident in New York in 1920 would be nearer 6,500,000 than 6,000,000. But taking even the more conservative figures of the Controller, the population of the city must now be increasing at the rate of almost 150,000 a year, whereas ten years ago its rate of increase was not much more than 100,000 a year. The number of additional people who must be provided with places in which to live, to work and to have a good time is fifty per cent. greater than it was in 1900. Every three years New York adds to its population a city as large as Buffalo; every five years a city larger than the greater Boston, and every ten years one about as large as Chicago, and even these figures do not tell the whole story, because there are two or three counties across the Hudson River in New Jersey whose inhabitants should really be reckoned as inhabitants of New York. Many of them transact their business, make their purchases and take their pleasure in Manhattan, and if the increase of these counties in population were added to the totals already given, one would be justified in saying that every five years Greater New York adds almost a Philadelphia to its population. In five years that is, almost a million more people, no matter whether they live, in the Bronx, Long Island or New Jersey, will be by their business or their amusements contributing to the value of real estate centrally situated in Manhattan. Why not buy some?

ACTUAL BUILDING OPERATIONS in the metropolitan district, judged by the amount of employment for mechanics and by the condition of the material markets, are increasingly heavy. Plan filings continue numerically few, but this is not viewed as an adverse circumstance when the number of projects already in hand are considered. Besides, this is the vacation season for the investing public; it is a season when many operations are being hurried to completion for the Fall renting, and when business plans for new enterprises have not been fully matured. Pretty much everything is as it ought to be—"present or accounted for." The prices of a few materials that were depressed are again in the ascending scale, but prices as a whole are favorably disposed toward the builder. There is a speculative profit to be made from the certain advance in the future of building costs alone, irrespective of the increment in property values generally. Working forces are fairly well distributed over the city, with the exception of the financial district, where there are this year fewer operations than usual. Millions upon millions of dollars are going into new apartment houses on Washington Heights. Building is also active on Morningside Heights, where a particularly high grade of houses is being reared. In the midtown sections an exceptionally large number of lofts are rising. The Hunt's Point section of the Bronx, Queens, Brooklyn and the Jerseys are other busy parts of the great territory embraced within the metropolitan district. Mr. Harriman's return from abroad has been an important event of the week for all business lines. His very presence restores confidence.

EVERY MAN engaged in an industry allied to building construction in its various forms should realize and take advantage of the knowledge that another business boom has set in. As something more than an era of prosperity is meant, the term 'boom" is used. Under the existing monetary laws business activity does not pursue a regular course. No one would have it stay at a dead level of uniformity, but the extreme fluctuations that culminate in panics could be prevented. The last session of Congress did nothing to change fundamental conditions, and business men, learning from recent experience, should plan to take the utmost advantage of the prevailing forces and then in due time to protect their interests from the consequences of the "after-cure." Fundamentally, the city and country will have prosperity for a period of years, swelling after awhile into a "boom," which may culminate in a severe "break," and be followed by a spell of depresion or "after-cure." The extremes are usually about ten years apart. A plethora of money furnishes the energy, and later on the exhaustion of the money market chokes off constructive activities. In spite of everything, the whole business structure of the country is subject to this fluctuation, and has become more or less a speculative proposition. The wise thing to do is to turn this fact to account individually. Set your "clutch" into the forward movement; invest your capital where it will work for you to the best advantage. The "boom" ahead will probably be the biggest the country has ever had, and the city will see a wonderful growth, in which Long Island, Westchester County and the Jerseys will participate. Select your locality, your investment, your line, and plant your capital—now.

WHY THERE IS BUT LITTLE BUILDING IN THE MIDDLE BRONX.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In relation to your article of August 14, 1909, regarding the proposed opening of the Grand Concourse and Boulevard:

What would you think of a builder who would open an apartment hotel for business through a side door and leave the main entrance unfinished?

Had Borough President Haffen completed the Grand Concourse five years ago, as might have readily been done, there would now be surrounding that great drive a growing community of splendid houses comparing favorably with the East and West sections of the Bronx. This central section is the best located land topographically in the Bronx, all things considered; but owing to the checking-up treatment of Borough President Louis N. Haffen and Topographical Engineer J. E. Briggs it is to-day the only quiet location fit for a cemetery in Bronx Borough. For this we are indebted to the two gentlemen above named, who may have both been on their jobs politically, but in the sense of a proper development this Middle Bronx section has been deliberately HELD BACK for reasons that we do not see. Now an effort is made to spoil the Grand Boulevard by an entirely inferior method of approach.

If the Record and Guide will publish the original plans of Louis Risse, former chief topographical engineer, who planned the Grand Boulevard, you will understand that the changes indicated by Mr. Briggs are either made from professional jealousy or from a quite inadequate grasp of the situation as relating to a city of over four million people. There has been considerable quiet comment that the Grand Boulevard contractors were allowed to work as they pleased, without proper supervision and without proper results. This may yet develop on lines quite unsatisfactory to those in authority.

Again, it is one of the extraordinary methods of modern engineers to build great public works, bridges, etc., WITHOUT ADEQUATE MEANS OF APPROACH. Perhaps Mr. Briggs, in his Grand Boulevard methods is only following out what the engineer of Delancey Street Bridge did; also what the engineer of the Blackwell's Island Bridge did: Provide a large public work, then wait for the future, with the Lord's help, to provide a method of getting at it.

ISOLATED HOMES AND FARM LAND.

To understand how the Middle Section of Bronx has been neglected, I ask a real estate comparison of 161st st and Broadway, 161st and Walton av, and 161st st and 3d av. This middle section in the Bronx is isolated homes and farm land, and I beg to advise Messrs. Haffen and Briggs that the garden truck grown up in 161st st and Gerard av is of very excellent quality, brings in good prices, but the returns are hardly great enough to pay for the taxes on the property.

Destiny cannot be thwarted even by a Borough President and a complaisant engineer; and 161st st is destined to be one of the main streets, running east and west, of Bronx Borough. About every half mile in New York City there is a cross street where values are excellent, and where both trade and travel are of considerable magnitude. This is not an absolute rule, but with exceptions it is generally true. In the Bronx we have as cross streets of considerable importance, now and in the future, 138th street, 149th st, 161st st, 177th st, Kingsbridge road and 190th st, and it would seem good municipal practice to develop the east and west cross streets at the earliest opportunity; then improvements would filtrate through the district tributary thereto.

Why should the residents and property owners of this section of Middle Bronx be treated as the "poor whites" of New York City? Presumably they are intelligent enough to protest, but that they do not is simply because of a fear of higher taxes and because they have lived so long on HOPE it has become a steady diet to them, and some people get more out of anticipation than from actual realization.

As a practical real estate man, interested in housing the very considerably augmenting population of the metropolis, I think the neglect of this Middle Bronx by Borough President Haffen and Topographical Engineer Briggs is a plain proof of their incapacity to consider the situation except in an entirely local way. Bronx values and taxes are City values and City taxes. If the Bronx is not an integral part of the City, then Bronx Borough President Haffen and Engineer Briggs are right.

I consider a city of over four million inhabitants requires men of large ideas and executive force to develop their respective spheres of action, in harmony with the methods of Greater New York. While they may be local, they may not be parochial and small. My own opinion is that the layout of the Bronx and its development is too big a job for Messrs. Haffen and Briggs. Consequently, the residents of that borough are working for its best interest by DEMANDING A COMPLETION OF WORK ALREADY IN HAND ACCORDING TO ORIGINAL PLANS, and not in a small, petty or mean way. The methods and development should be in harmony with the original plans, and in my judgment Bronx Borough as planned should be, in completion, New York's greatest borough ultimately.

REAL ESTATE OWNER.

CONSTRUCTION

DETERIORATION OF APARTMENT HOUSES

Probable Duration of High Class Buildings—What Percentage for Depreciation Should An Owner Charge Off Annually?

QUESTIONS concerning the deterioration of office buildings on Manhattan Island were recently propounded to a number of experts—architects, builders and managers—with the object of obtaining for the real estate public the benefit of the opinion of the highest authorities. Messrs. D. H. Burnham, Ernest Flagg, Henry Ives Cobb, Charles S. Brown, Douglas Robinson Company, E. A. Tredwell and A. L. A. Himmelwright participated in the discussion in the pages of the Record and Guide.

The prevailing opinion seemed to be that every proposition must be considered separately, but that there is a certain percentage of economic deterioration and also a certain percentage of physical deterioration annually, and that an amoritization or sinking fund plan should be provided in the case of every large office building.

Mr. Burnham calculated that four to six per cent. should be charged off annually for the depreciation in the value of office buildings from both physical and economic causes. Mr. Tredwell's view was that the physical deterioration in office buildings amounted to 1 per cent. to 2 per cent. per annum, and the economic depreciation 1½ per cent. to 2 per cent.

THE CASE OF MODERN APARTMENT HOUSES.

Questions like these are being raised more and more every day, in Manhattan, because real estate and building activities are being reduced more and more to an exact science. The desirability of possessing a rule for estimating the deterioration, or of having reduced to a single expression or figure the views and estimates of experts, is obvious.

The inquiry was confined at that time for reasons of precision to but one class of buildings, for a starting point—the modern steel frame office and loft structure, presumably fireproof, and situated in the Borough of Manhattan, because buildings go out of fashion and are superseded by more advanced types more rapidly in this borough than elsewhere. The limitations of ground area and the rarity of vacant land here puts property under constant pressure, to be put to its highest economic use.

A similar series of questions, made applicable to high class apartment houses, has been propounded to experts in that department. The replies received are enlightening.

QUALITY AND MANAGEMENT.

The head of one of the most prominent firms of building operators, in discussing the matter for the Record and Guide, said that although they had built houses with the intention of holding them, they had never held any piece of property longer than five years, and this he said, was entirely too short a time to judge of the different kinds of deterioration. In order to go into the matter carefully, he said he would require statistics from offices older and more experienced than theirs. But anonymously he would say that the physical deterioration of a modern apartment house depended, in his opinion, on quality and care in management. And he added:

"The difference between the deterioration of a well constructed building and a poorly constructed one is probably more than any of us are willing to make allowance for; the same can also be said of the difference in deterioration due to proper or improper management. It has always been our endeavor to avoid this deterioration by liberal expenditure when occasion required, and we feel sure that the buildings which we sold were in better condition at the time of the sale than they were when our management department first took them over, and this even in the case of buildings which we built ourselves.

"A non-fireproof building, even when properly constructed requires considerable overhauling at the end of the first year, due to shrinking of beams, lath, etc., even if there be no settlement of the walls. Furthermore, the class of work in non-fireproof buildings has, as a rule, been inferior to fireproof buildings and, therefore, the deterioration on this account would be greater. As to fireproof buildings, of which there have heretofore been, comparatively speaking, very few, the deterioration in the building itself we believe to be extremely small. Everything seems to hold up better in a fireproof building. There is practically no warping, very little vibration and usually no appreciable settlement at all.

MUCH DEPENDS ON THE SITE.

"The economic deterioration depends a great deal upon the care with which the site was originally selected. If the builder was far-sighted enough to see what might happen in any particular location, and wished to maintain the economic value of the apartment house itself, he would naturally build opposite a park or parkway, or in front of some open space where the inroads of business would be less apt to occur, and where the light and air would always make the locality desirable for an apartment house; and if the builder put together a little better house than the neighborhood required, so that the property would get the benefit of the general improvement in most locations, there would take place an economic increase instead of a deterioration. We believe, however, that WHEREVER THERE HAS BEEN ECONOMIC DETERIORATION, THE VALUE OF THE LAND FOR OTHER USES HAS RISEN ENOUGH TO COVER NOT ONLY THE ECONOMIC BUT ALSO THE PHYSICAL DETERIORATION. But this has nothing to do with the matters that are being discussed.

"There is, however, another sort of deterioration which you have not mentioned, and that is, the UNDESIRABILITY OF OLD APARTMENTS in not being adjusted or capable of adjustment to new ideas. As our civilization advances we require more comforts and luxuries and an apartment cannot possibly be laid out in advance to cover the numerous requirements of generations to come. At the present time in a well equipped apartment we need more baths than we ever thought of putting in formerly; likewise washstands, fireless cookers, garbage receptacles, vacuum cleaners, service as well as passenger elevators, washing and drying rooms, laundries, filtered water, etc. Who knows what we may need in the future? Perhaps a landing station in each apartment for our airships, as well as space for our automobiles, and perhaps some other things that we do not even dream of. Our best built private houses are now filtering their air.

WHEN A SINKING FUND IS UNNECESSARY.

"In spite of the foregoing, however, we know that the vast majority of apartments which have become antiquated rent for as much, if not more, to-day than they did when they were built. This is due to the general rise of rents in Manhattan, and to the general improvement which is taking place in all neighborhoods. OUR CONCLUSION, therefore, is that an owner need not create a sinking fund TO TAKE CARE OF EITHER PHYSICAL OR ECONOMIC DEPRECIATION, PROVIDED THE PROPERTY IS PROPERLY MANAGED AND REPAIRS ARE LIBERALLY MADE, AND THIS IS PARTICULARLY SO IN THE CASE OF FIREPROOF HOUSES.

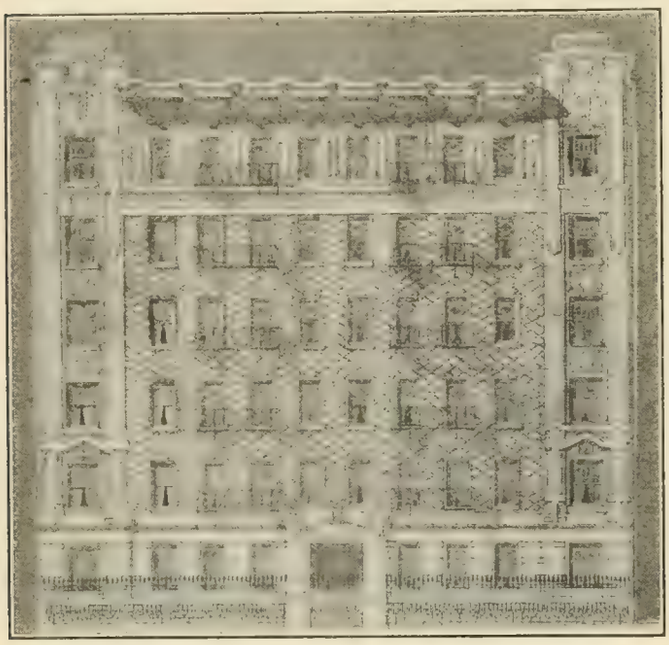
Mr. Oscar Lowinson, of 18-20 East 42d st, a very active and successful architect of apartment houses, answered the Record and Guide's query, with reference to the life of the modern apartment house, by saying that this would depend primarily on the way the building has been constructed, and this surely influenced the opinion as to its durability. He added:

"In a general way I should say in answer to the question, that a building properly constructed will remain physically efficient for an indefinite period. There is no reason why, proper attention having been given to a building, it should not remain physically efficient forever. The materials entering into the construction are not subject to decay unless construction has not been proper and influences working toward decay or disintegration should be permitted to operate.

ECONOMIC DURATION.

"The building should remain economically sufficient AS LONG AS THE NEIGHBORHOOD WILL WARRANT THE TYPE OF BUILDING.

"Physical deterioration is brought about by the elements, primarily wetting and freezing, which attack both woodwork and mason-work, carelessness in repairing leaks, neglecting pointing up and the repair of the installations; and on the other hand, attention to these matters will retard deterioration. There is a slight danger of oxidation by reason of electrolysis."

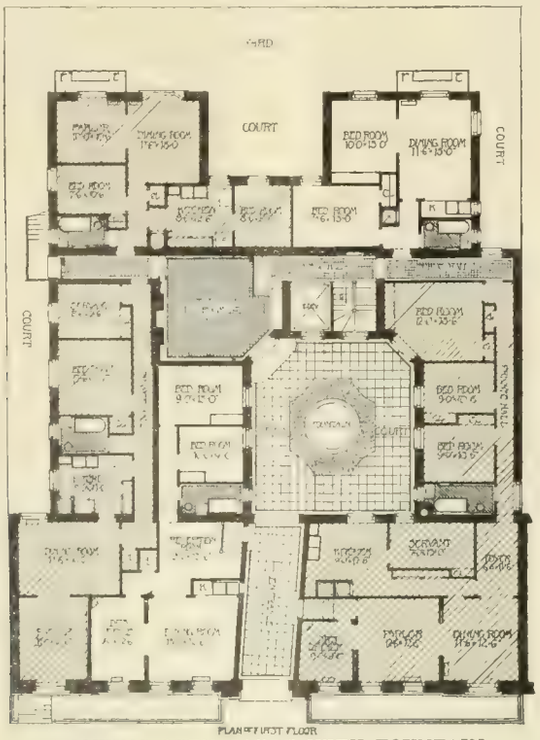


In connection with the lightly constructed steel buildings and the heavier structures, Mr. Lowinson said there should be no difference, because the structure has been designed primarily for the load it is to carry and the wear and tear to which it is to be put; consequently, it would be very difficult to determine whether any difference exists between the two. We do not construct buildings stronger than is necessary, and it is doubtful if this is ever done.

Shifting business and residential centres are the main determining elements of economic deterioration, Mr. Lowinson considered. With reference to an amortization plan for a sinking fund, he thought it should be adopted if possible, and for this purpose the per cent. should be determined by the individual case.

FINE CONSTRUCTION FOR THE BRONX.

The new elevator apartment being erected at No. 827 Union av, opposite the Prospect av station, is particularly interesting, as it is probably the first example in the Bronx of a polychromatic treatment. The first story is of Indiana limestone and the upper stories are laid out in two shades of brick, harmoniously arranged in patterns, relieved by polychromatic terra cotta and ornamented with Moravian tiles. This treatment in connection with an oxidized copper cornice gives a color effect to the building in pleasing contrast to the monotonous fronts usually seen in our streets.



The entrance to the building, as will be seen by the first story floor plan, is through a covered passage into an open court and thence into a reception room. This open court is treated in the same manner as the exterior, with front brick laid in a pattern and decorated with Moravian tiles. The upper portion of this court is built of white enamel brick. The court is laid out in grass plots, and in the centre is an artistic fountain of white marble, with a statue specially designed and executed for this building.

The treatment of the entrance passage and of the reception room and foyer is also special, they being decorated with Hartfort Faience tile. A pictorial frieze is the main feature of this decoration. The apartments consist of five, six and seven rooms and bath and one apartment of three rooms and kitchenette.

SHOWING OPEN COURT WITH FOUNTAIN.

This kitchenette carries the kitchenette idea further than any previously planned, inasmuch as it provides wash tubs in addition to all other necessary kitchen fixtures, also cabinets, drawers, etc. The building was designed by and is being erected under the supervision of Emery Roth, Architect.

FUTURE OF PORTLAND CEMENT.

WE have had a Stone Age, a Bronze Age, an Iron Age, and we are now truly in the dawn of the Cement Age. In fact, it is more than dawn, as the light is fairly strong. In support of this we need only refer to the production of the United States, which in round numbers amounted to about one-half million barrels in 1892, and about fifty-one million barrels in 1908. A production of over one hundred times greater at the end than at the beginning of a sixteen-year period is unparalled in the great industries. At the beginning of this period there were perhaps forty or fifty distinct uses for it, while at the present time it would not be a hard matter to enumerate one thousand uses, and the list is still growing.

DR. H. E. KIEFER.
(Chemist for the Edison Cement Company.)

For eighty years the growth was comparatively slow, as Portland cement was used by contractors and engineers only in heavy work. It is only in comparatively recent years that it has been recognized as suitable for sidewalks, yet in this short time it has taken the lead in this respect with scarcely a competitor, and the numerous precautions recommended for its use a few years ago are now looked upon as ridiculous by even the most ignorant workman.

When engineers of a mathematical turn of mind began to investigate its possibilities and tests were made in a scientific way, the industry received the recognition it deserved, and a rapid growth was the only logical result.

It is not to be supposed that concrete will ever replace iron and steel, but neither have stone and bronze been replaced. Each has its legitimate field and instead of retarding the growth of the use of Portland cement, iron and steel have greatly aided it, inasmuch as reinforced concrete is one of the most prominent features in engineering of the present time.

A prominent engineer of middle age only recently remarked that he could no longer afford to take vacations, as all his spare moments were devoted to figuring how much steel to put in his reinforced concrete. In his college days fifteen years ago, the engineering schools paid no attention to this feature of construction, yet now no institution is without a special course in it.

Portland cement will continue to grow in use—

1st—FOR HEAVY WORK, owing to its adaptability and its increasing availability.

2d—FOR LIGHT WORK, owing to the elasticity in design and low cost.

3d—FOR ENGINEERING FEATS, owing to the vast field opened by scientific study of reinforced concrete.

4TH—FOR ORNAMENTAL WORK, and small conveniences about factory, farm, home and garden, owing to the simplicity with which it can be used.

The future is assured owing to its moderate cost, its availability, its adaptability to almost all kinds of work, its cheapness of construction and, above all, its everlasting properties. We know the history of the first eighty years, we know the phenomenal growth of the last seventeen years, but who can prophesy what the next ten years will show? It will be a substantial steady increase, but the most optimistic cannot look for the same rate as recently. The last fifteen years have been the revolutionary period, and from now on comes the uniform growth of the Concrete Era.

H. E. KIEFER.

HOW HARRIMAN PICKS THEM.

One of "the foolish questions" put to Mr. Harriman was in regard to clothes. The railroad king himself was in a blue serge suit, a Panama hat and a ready-made bow-tie tucked under a turn-down collar, such as were worn when he was a boy. A conventional attire, without distinction, but beyond reproach.

"Mr. Harriman," this was the question, "in picking out men of brains to manage your business, do you let the question of clothes enter into your judgment?"

"No," answered Mr. Harriman, "I pick 'em out by the shape of their heads."

The implication was that some employers select their lieutenants on account of the clothes they wear. Maybe they do in some lines, but most often it is in a way the reverse of what seems to be a very general notion. If Mr. Harriman ever gives the matter a thought, it must be that he prefers his employees to dress like railroad men.

—The best thing to do when white finish turns yellow is to purchase from a reputable paint manufacturer pure French zinc, ground in paste form in the best white damar varnish, thin it with pure spirits of turpentine to the right flowing consistency and apply it over the finish that has yellowed off.

THE COUNTRY HOMES OF MONEY KINGS.

The New Houses of Messrs. Harriman and Rockefeller Probably Mean that Many Other City Business Men Will Follow Their Example and Establish Fine Estates in the Commuting Zone.

PUBLIC attention has been directed this week to the new house which Mr. E. H. Harriman is building at Arden on the Erie. Millions of business people followed him in their thoughts on his journey by rail to that home upon his return from the other side. No other unofficial citizen was ever before made the object of so much solicitude, such being his importance to business interests and the supposed uncertainty of his health.

For several years Mr. Harriman has been building in his own way a mansion in Orange County on "Tower Hill," the nearest railroad station to which is called "Arden." There is nothing at Arden that does not belong to Mr. Harriman. The cottages of some of his employees are there, and also a few of his barns. The house where he formerly lived, and which Mrs. Harriman thinks she prefers to the new palace, is hidden among the trees up the hill.

"Tower Hill" is a height which in time of inland war would be fortified. If the place were in any European country it would have been crowned by a castle these thousand years. It looks down into a plaza among the mountains where three valleys converge. It is natural for Mr. Harriman to choose the best strategical position. Tower Hill by reason of the peculiar topography of Southern New York is like a sentinel at a gateway to the metropolis. An army could not flank it. Try to drive to the city from any town up the State west of the Hudson without passing within range of Mr. Harriman's battlements—and see if you can get through. Mr. Harriman owns thousands of acres in these mountains, which are a section of the Appalachian range. Other thousands are owned by the Government and the Tuxedo association. There are over thirty farms on the estate, and miles of forests, which were acquired with the object of preserving the natural beauty of the country. Far from being a wilderness, it is one of the oldest settled sections in the country, the famous milk-and-butter lands of

THE PROSPECT FROM MR. HARRIMAN'S HOUSE.

Old Orange County. In the valleys are thriving villages—Central Valley, Woodbury, Highland Mills, Monroe, Chester, Goshen and Warwick; and in the mountains are famous fishing lakes.

New York business men have had homes in these valleys for generations. The Tuxedo colony is a modern instance. All the Erie railroad stations, both on the main line and the Short Cut, have their regular commuters. It is a little outside of the regular commuting district as yet, but there is a growing demand for acreage, and more cottages are under construction this year than ever before, especially along the "Short Cut."

Mr. Harriman's house is mostly a county product, with the exception of the plans. The craftsmen of the neighborhood have built it by day's work. It is four years since the plans were drawn, and it will be several years more before the house is finished. As long as Mr. Harriman lives there are likely to be improvements going on, as he takes keen pleasure in beautifying the estate. The house has a hundred rooms, only thirty of which are finished. A "straightforward" American home, Mr. Harriman desired it to be, not highly ornamented, but spacious, substantial, comfortable.

Until now Mr. Harriman has lived in an old Colonial house nearer the railroad station. It is a house of about the same quality as Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan's at Highland Falls, in the same county. The desire to have on this estate a family home of permanent and unburnable material was no doubt Mr. Harriman's primary motive in building the new house. In the natural course of events a gentleman of his standing collects many objects which he prizes beyond estimate, and he dreads to think of them exposed to destruction by fire.

Mr. Harriman's new house is reached either by road or more directly by a cable car up a steep incline. The car is drawn up by a steam windlass. The house is built of blue granite quarried on the estate, but for the interior stone decorations a buff-colored stone from Utah has been used. There are terrace walls of granite, a swimming pool, a stone court yard with a marble fountain, and in various ways a large use has been made of stone. The main entrance hall is 30x60 ft., and lofty. It has a marble floor and is wainscoted to a height of forty feet with oak cut from the estate, and the ceiling is supported by carved oak trusses. Out of this entrance hall leads a corridor with a vaulted ceiling; the principal rooms open off the corridor. The woodwork everywhere is heavy with mouldings and rich in carvings. At the foot of the hill is a turning-shop, where a score of carvers and turners are busy on the finer trim.

In the kitchen and pantry the walls are tiled all the way to the ceiling, and the shelves are of glass. Hot-water heating and refrigerating systems are features of the equipment. Every bedroom has a fireplace. There are accommodations for thirty-five servants in the east wing. On the second floor there is a small dining-room which the family is using temporarily. The library wing has not yet been started, and the west side of the house is still in the hands of the plasterers.

FORCE OF EXAMPLE.

Of recent years there has been a marked revival of the old feeling of preference among people of large wealth for country estates. Newport and its imitators seem to be losing something of their drawing power, and the Hudson River region to be regaining a little of the prestige it had in Andrew J. Downing's and N. P. Willis's time. Business men are inclined to follow good examples, and those which Messrs. Harriman, Rockefeller, Morgan and Ryan have set are certain to have their effect upon men who rely implicitly upon the judgment of the great leaders in other respects. Homes on the Erie and the New York Central lines within sight or reach of the Hudson, and near enough to New York to combine city and country life, seems to be the coming style.

Mr. Rockefeller has recently completed a new house on his estate in the Pocantico Hills near Tarrytown, where he has two thousand acres. The house would not in Europe rank as a "palace," or as a "show house" even; but it is, like those of the other gentlemen named, a "straightforward American home." Men with not one-tenth of the money of either have built have more pretentious houses. From all sides the Rockefeller mansion presents a beautiful appearance. By the careful selection of materials the appearance of mellow age has been given to a new construction.

The roof is covered with green slate and the greenish stained stones of which the walls and terraces were constructed were picked for color and blending from old stone walls on the estate. On the north side the house is six stories high, on account of the sharp sloping away of the ground there, but on the south front the main floor of the residence opens directly to the level of the gardens.

The interior has been decorated and furnished in eighteenth century English styles. Thus, Chippendale has been used in one room, Hepplewhite in another, Sheraton in a third and the brothers Adam in others. Most of the rooms are finished in white panel woodwork that has been fashioned in keeping with the furnishings. Architraves, entablatures and mouldings are beautiful. Mr. Rockefeller's office is finished in dark oak and upholstered in red. Fine engravings of noted financiers are on the walls.

On the lower floor on the north side of the house (two stories below the main floor) there is a suite of rooms set aside for the implements of sports. They have direct egress to the private links of Mr. Rockefeller, and have been fitted with the conveniences of a golf club. As such it contains baths, lockers and lounging rooms. The remaining part of this floor and the whole floor above are devoted to the household service. On the main floor, two stories above, which opens onto the gardens of the south side, are the drawing room, Mr. Rockefeller's office, the hall and music room combined, library and dining-room. All of these rooms have direct openings to the broad terraces that surround the house. Above are ten masters' sleeping rooms and eleven servants' rooms.

SAVING AT THE SPIGOT AND LOSING AT THE BUNG.

By C. M. RIPLEY.

A Comedy in Two Acts and Two Scenes. Dramatis Personae: Office Manager, Downtown. Superintendent—At the Property. A Solicitor.

ACT 1.

Office Manager: "Yes, we know how to practice economy. The records of office expenses show that there is not a cent wasted. See that pile of note paper? Well, that didn't cost us a cent. You see we get a lot of mail here, advertising and otherwise, and in my odd moments I slit the envelopes open all the way round and the side right back of the address makes real good note paper. There isn't any estate in New York City which is being administered with as much care as this one. We are proud to report to the heirs at the end of each year, and they can see for themselves how their interests are being guarded.

ACT 2.

Superintendent (overheard talking over 'phone): "Hello! Hello! Is this the Calumet Coal Company? Well, we want six loads to-day sure. Yes, 59th street. What kind? Buckwheat. What KIND of buckwheat? Why, just BUCKWHEAT! The kind we've always bought—the young lady stenographer there knows, and we want it to-day sure. Now don't fail. Goodby!"

Then turning to a solicitor at his elbow he said: "Now, my good man, I can't spend any more time talking to you, these buildings are being run as cheaply as they can be, and there isn't any saving to be made in our coal bill, so you must excuse me." (Exit.)

Solicitor (soliloquizing as he goes out): Well, well, well! There is 85 cents a ton difference in the price of different kinds of buckwheat coal. These buildings use in the neighborhood of 15,000 tons a year. And yet this man doesn't know what kind of buckwheat he is buying, and therefore is ignorant of a possible variation in expenditures of over $12,000 a year.

FUTURE OF THE LUMBER TRADE.

DURING the recent discussions anent the revision of the building code, the keynote was the fireproof building. The sentiment was conspicuous that wood should be barred from all structures purporting to be fireproof, and the question was asked: "What is to become of the lumber business of New York?"

It is apparent that with improvement in building construction and the introduction of compositions designed to take the place of wood, whether for trim, doors, door frames, window frames and even of flooring, lumber, as an integral part of a modern office, mercantile or industrial building, hotel, theatre or residence, is being slowly relegated to the rear. But while this is in part true, it is not entirely so.

All the legislation that a municipal body could enact in extending fireproof construction would not cripple the local companies to the extent of driving them from business; neither would it have any greater depreciatory effect upon lumber interests than they have already sustained. Any lumber man will say that the day of big profits in lumber have passed; that is, in so far as city business is concerned. Even in the country districts it is not the remunerative enterprise it once was reputed to be. Competition with fireproof materials is responsible for this change.

What is the stock almost universally carried to-day? True, there is some of the old stock that had been carried for years, like clapboards, rafters, etc. Lath is carried in much less quantity. Where these used to be piled high there are to-day stored huge piles of 12x12 timbers and sizes in that range, while there are tremendous stocks of pine of the long-leaf yellow variety of 1-inch boards and 1¼-inch and 2-inch boards. Shingles were almost a neligible quantity. All of this plank is dressed on one side only. There is, however, usually to be found a good supply of hardwoods for flooring purposes.

Reinforced concrete is the savior of the lumber trade to-day. When it is considered that a building of ordinary size being erected at 5th av and 17th st required $35,000 worth of lumber for bracing and making concrete moulds for reinforced concrete flooring and other concrete work, it shows why 2 and 1-inch planking is so much in demand. In some cases this can be used over again, but usually it costs more to reshape the moulds with old lumber than it does to break up and sell the old moulds and buy new for new jobs.

In reinforced concrete work the popular lumber is 1¼-inch and 2-inch spruce planks dressed on one side. In New York, where a large percentage of reinforced concrete work is for floors, 1-inch North Carolina pine is generally used.

Without doubt the future of the lumber business in or near this city is in the suburbs. New Jersey offers a good field, because its building laws are not so insistent upon the absence of wood in ordinary types of fireproof construction, but, on the other hand, the field is well covered, by hustlers who are developing their trade there in exact proportion with the growth of the municipalities.

FLOOD TIDE OF PROSPERITY.

The Thompson-Starrett Company, which some weeks ago announced that it had more business on its books than ever before in its history, continues to book contracts with steady regularity. At a meeting of the company's finance committee, held Thursday, the 19th instant, Vice-President Horowitz, in submitting new contracts for approval and ratification, stated that during the past five or six weeks the volume of business had been augmented to the extent of $3,500,000, and that the company's estimating department, both in New York and in the various branch offices, is working under high pressure figuring new work.

The new contracts include the following:

14-sty apartment house building, 61st st and Park av, New York.
12-sty office building, 123 to 133 William st, New York.
12-sty loft building, Broadway and 4th st, New York.
15-sty bank and office building, "Old National Bank of Spokane," Spokane, Wash.
Warehouse building, Seattle, for the American Steel & Wire Co. (branch of U. S. Steel Corporation).
10-sty office building, for the People's Natural Gas Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Annex to dry goods store building, for the Bee Co., Omaha, Neb.
Alterations to dry goods store building, for the Joseph Horne Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Alterations to residence of Hon. Morgan J. O'Brien, New York.
Residence at Southampton, L. I.
Residence for L. S. Sadler, Esq., Carlisle, Pa.

The indications are that this company's work on hand will shortly pass the $20,000,000 mark, as it is at present on the eve of signing up several big contracts. Such epoch-making figures, and the continued favorable outlook for additional business, would seem to justify the statement that the recovery of the building industry from the stagnation which characterized it a year or so ago is not spasmodic but complete. The building industry, of course, is analogous with the railroads in so far as it reflects general business conditions, and the figures above quoted, taken in conjunction with the recent announcements of heavy railroad expenditures, may be taken as still one more indication that the flood tide of prosperity is at hand.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

—Borough President Haffen of the Bronx is pressing for a new Borough Hall. He says: "The present Borough Hall is entirely inadequate, and it is absolutely impossible to enlarge or adopt it for properly carrying out the administrative work of the borough. The building was constructed before the establishment of borough autonomy. It was primarily intended to house the various bureaus of the Commissioner of Street Improvements. We have long outgrown its facilities. Borough bureaus and branch offices of city departments crowd on each other. None of them possess the room and facilities for the business which devolves upon them. It is necessary to rent quarters in scattered buildings to accommodate several of the bureaus.

—Authorization has been given for paving Broadway, between West 230th st and the city line, at an estimated cost of about $250,000. The regulating and grading of Tremont av, between the Bronx River and the Eastern Boulevard, is practically completed, with the exception of the portion between the Bronx River and the bridge over the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, where a change of grade has necessitated a material amount of additional work. This should be completed during the present summer. The regulating, grading, &c, of City Island av, from the bridge approach to Long Island Sound, will probably be completed during the present season. The estimated cost is $77,082. The paving of Morris Park av, from West Farms road to Bear Swamp road, has been placed under contract at an estimated cost of $90,780, and work has been begun by the contractor.

LARGEST APARTMENT HOUSE IN THE BRONX.

The new apartment house situated in the south side of 163d st, from Simpson st to the Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, which is now nearing completion, will be the largest elevator apartment house in this borough. It is on a somewhat more luxurious scale and in a more expensive location than most other buildings of this character. Its working out and arrangement have been along lines of ampler space and comfort. The block front which the building covers measures 185.10x37x200 x83x irregular in dimensions. As designed by Messrs. Buchman & Fox, of 11 East 59th st, there are six stories and apartments for one hundred families, with twenty stores on the ground floor, three electric passenger elevators, two large entrances, the main entrance hall of which measures 28x56 ft. in size, and is lined completely with white marble. The exterior is of limestone for two stories, and the rest of tapestry brick and terra cotta of varied shades, with a Spanish tile and copper roof. The building is now enclosed and is to be completed by October. The cost is estimated at more than half a million dollars and is being erected for the Henry Morgenthau Company, 165 Broadway, of which Henry Morgenthau is president. The James F. Meehan Construction Co. is the builder.

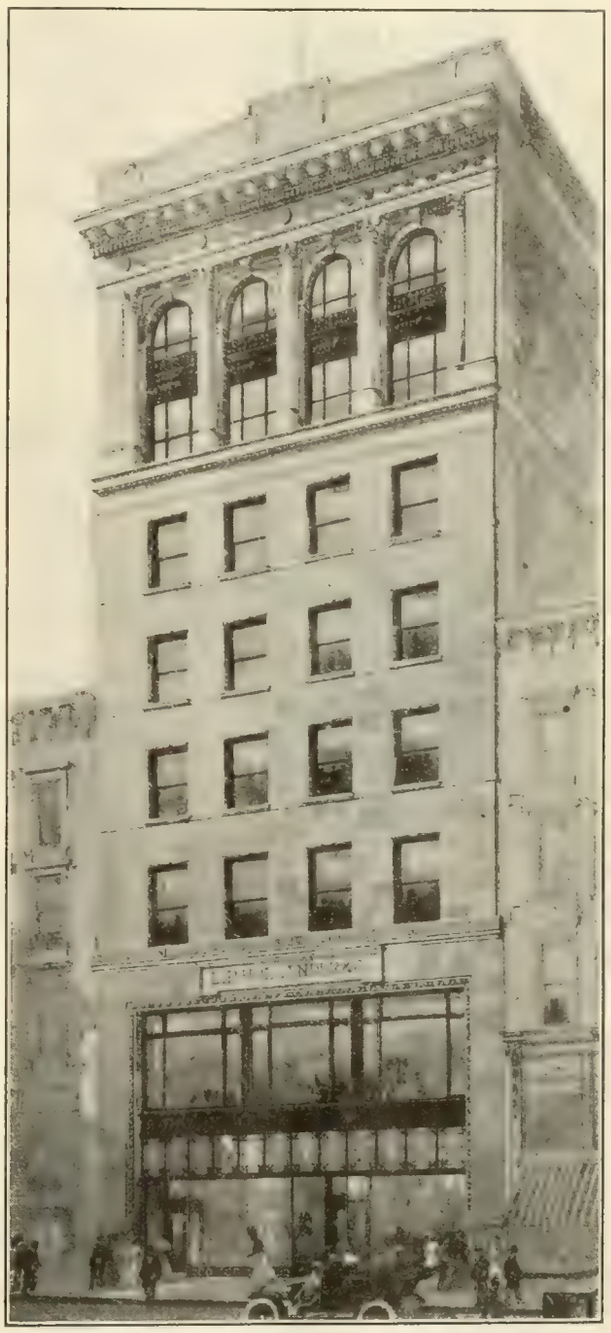
A BIG HOUSE WITH BIG ROOMS.

The "Belnord," that vast and wonderful apartment house which the George A. Fuller Company is completing, and which covers the whole square bounded by Broadway, Amsterdam av, 86th and 87th sts, is open for inspection, but a large force of mechanics is still at work on the premises. It is yet too early for all the features of the building to be apparent, but there is enough finished from which to judge that the tenants will have a very choice house to live in, with apartments exceptionally spacious, most conveniently assembled, and equipped with every facility for making housekeeping easy and luxurious. It is as if floors out of an old country mansion had been transported and converted somehow into suites for this great building, so commodious and numerous are the rooms in the choice apartments. The heating system, with radiator inclosures under the window-sills, the refrigerator boxes, with their ice-making coils, the hardwood floors, doors and trim, especially the mahogany and oak, and the ornamental plasterwork, with the evidence of handsome decorations to come, are a fine recognition of the demand for apartments of finer conveniences and choicer finish than New York people were for a long period accustomed to. The gardens and walks in the court have scarcely been started yet, but there is enough to give assurance that this interior park will be a highly enjoyable feature of life at the "Belnord."



LONG ISLAND RAILROAD IMPROVEMENTS.—The building "boom" on Long Island has only begun. What has been done thus far will seem small in comparison ten years hence, when the Long Island Railroad's betterments are all finished. The corporation is now making arrangements to borrow $16,000,000, which will be required during the next three years for construction work and for equipment necessary to continue the improvements which have been begun and on which large sums of money have been expended. Among the larger items of work the company has planned are:

Main line improvement between Woodhaven and Jamaica	$2,000,000
Jamaica terminal	1,000,000
North side improvement, double track and electrification	1,000,000
Bay Ridge improvement—elimination of grade crossings	1,000,000
150 new motor cars	2,750,000
Various freight delivery yards, passenger stations, sidings, double track, grade crossings, etc	912,662
Electrical equipment of tracks and sub-stations	800,000
Glendale cutoff	309,382
Advances to subsidiary companies for extensions	327,600
Montauk freight cutoff	287,400
Completion of Atlantic av improvement	100,000

—What we have done in the past may, perhaps, be forgotten for the sake of what we will do in the future.

A COMING FIFTH AVENUE BUILDING.

The new business building for L. P. Hollander & Co. (ladies' tailors), No. 222 5th av, and Boston, Mass, under course of construction at Nos. 550-552 5th av, is now well under way. The structural iron work is completed and the exterior stone work is now going through the fifth story. As planned by Messrs. Buchman & Fox, 11 East 59th st, this building will contain many attractive features of importance. The entire facade will be made up of blue Indiana limestone, including all of the cornices. Special attention has been devoted to the interior and exterior treatment of the store arrangement, the entire floor span of which will be free from any obstruction. There will be two electric elevators and a sidewalk lift, an electric lighting plant, vacuum cleaning system, drinking fountains on every floor, and a lunch room and kitchen on the sixth floor, for employees of Hollander & Co., who will occupy six floors of the building. The Montross Gallery (works of art) will occupy the two top floors. The approximate cost of the building is about $250,000. The Hedden Construction Co., 1 Madison av, has the mason and carpenter work, and the Hinkle Iron Works, the iron.

AUTOMOBILE LAMPS.—Round lamps designated as "Automobile Headlight," "Automobile Sidelight" and "Automobile Taillight," respectively, have been designed with stocky, strongly-mounted filaments in order to withstand the shocks and jars incident to automobile service. They are used in connection with storage cells not only on electric vehicles but on automobiles in general, independent of the source of motive power. It is recommended by illuminating engineers that a voltage of six (the approximate potential of three cells in series) be adhered to when installing automobile lamps.

BUILDING TO TAKE 45,000 CU. FT. OF STONE.

Considerable interest is manifested among building stone men in the contract awarded last week for the stonework on the building in course of erection at 334 Fourth av for Joseph Millbank, by the Andrew J. Robinson Co., general contractors, of 123 East 23d st, from plans by George B. Post & Sons, the architects, of 345 5th av. The specifications call for 45,000 cu. ft. of what is known as "Royal Blue" limestone, which will be brought from the Bedford (Indiana) quarries.

When Mr. Homer Foot, of the real estate firm of Horace S. Ely & Co., of 27 West 30th st, directed Mr. Millbank's attention to this investment, Mr. Millbank made one specific order that has stood out prominently among other instructions, that nothing but the best material that the market afforded was to go into this building. It was decided to construct the entire 19-sty exterior of stone, and in consequence stone men watched for the awarding of this contract with great interest.

The award went to Henry Hanlein & Son, and as soon as the contract to supply the raw material reached the wholesaler, orders were at once sent by telegraph to the quarries and something like a record was made, it is said, in the matter of prompt shipments, rapidity of operation characterizing the entire award.

The telegram was sent out at 5 p. m. on Thursday evening and on Friday a wire was received by Arlando Marine, 5 East 42d st, the wholesale dealer who will supply the stone, stating that three cars containing the first shipment had started that day for New York, and that on the following day, Saturday, four more would follow. Within 60 days the entire shipment will have been made from Indiana and will be held subject to the cutter's demand at Weehawken.

The same stone that will be used in this structure was used on the St. Paul Building, Sherry's Hotel at 44th st and Broadway and in Capt. De LaMar's house at 37th st and Madison av, in which building nearly 36,000 cu. ft. were used. It is considered a coincidence that the same builder, the same architects, the same stone contractor and the same material that was used on the St. Paul Building are associated with the present operation.

In connection with the awarding of the stone contract the fact that an unusual arrangement of numerous large exterior columns in three 8-ft. sections each, measuring 4 ft. in diameter is specified. These will be set 32 ft. from centre to centre instead of the usual 22 ft. These will be set under the eaves and are placed so as to give the greatest possible light to the upper floors, and at the same time permit of the carrying out of the Italian Rennaissance architecture.

REINFORCED CONCRETE TESTS.

The increasing use of reinforced concrete as a building material has led to numerous investigations of its strength when variously prepared and when subjected to various conditions. Perhaps the most elaborate series of tests is that now being carried on by the United States Geological Survey, which has recently published (Bulletin 344) a preliminary report on the subject. A full report, with a thorough analysis of the results, will be published after the 52-week tests are completed.

The attempt has been made to bring out the comparative value of gravel, granite, limestone and cinders for use in concrete, and the effect of age and consistency on the strength and on the stiffness.

No attempt has been made in this preliminary report, however, to generalize the results of the tests, or to draw any conclusions, however warranted they may appear from an examination of the test data. It is hoped that the matter presented will provoke discussion, and in order to promote this end extended expressions of opinion or attempted applications of theory to results have been avoided. A running commentary on the results of the tests, however, emphasizing matters of particular interest and indicating a few points that might lead to interesting analyses, is included.

The bulletin, which is by Richard L. Humphrey, may be had free of charge on application to the Director, United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

NEW IDEA IN ROAD TREATMENT.—A section of a State road in Orange County, now under repair, has been treated with a brand new solution for the preservation of good roads. The process is the invention of J. P. Sweeney, of Rome, N. Y., and was put on under his supervision by the authority of the State Highway Commission. The section treated is about 300 feet long. The process is called the glue treatment, and consists of boiling two pounds of glue to a square yard of road in a sprinkler of water, using steam from the road roller; to this is added a certain proportion of folmaldehyde and gypsum, the first to hold the glue solid after the water evaporates so that future wettings from the weather does not affect it, and the latter to cause it to set quickly so the roadway can be used within twenty-four hours. The treatment forms a hard crust several inches thick, and the inventor claims that it will last indefinitely, holding the surface hard and smooth. The section so treated looks fine, and so far appears to bear out all the claims.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

Water motorists (sometimes called "yachtsmen") complain of many timbers floating in the Harlem and Hudson rivers opposite this city. Either the Dock Department or the Police Department ought to see about it. The rivers should be made as safe as the roads. The gasolene engine has conquered the water and the air, as well as the land.

The Maryland Portland Cement Company, Baltimore, Md., intends to double the capacity of its plant by the erection of additional buildings and the installation of new machinery. Plans for the enlargement have not been completed and it is not likely that details will be in shape before October 1. The plant is located at Security, Md., and the plans contemplate increasing the output from 800 to 1,800 barrels of Portland cement a day.

Orders will probably be placed with New York machinery houses within the next few days for a large quantity of machinery to equip the new plant of the Fiat Automobile Company at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The company is going ahead with its plans to establish its plant as fast as possible, and it is learned that the machines to be purchased have been practically decided upon and that the formal orders will likely be signed at an early date.

Mr. Johnson states that money is in good supply for building loans in all amounts, large or small. Some authorities have said that small loans are harder to obtain than large sums, but Mr. Johnson has found no difficulty in providing money in any sum, large or small, on approved property.

Averill Harriman, eighteen years old, son of E. H. Harriman, has started to learn the railroad business from the ground up. He is making his start by carrying the chain in a surveying gang on the Oregon Short Line, in Idaho. Asked if he wanted to start at the bottom, as any other boy would have to, he replied that he did.

Present Condition of Country's Forest Resources.

The forests of the United States now cover about 550 million acres, or about one-fourth of the land of the whole country. The original forests covered not less than 850 million acres, or nearly one-half.

The forests owned by the Government cover one-fourth of the total forest area, and contain one-fifth of all timber standing. Forests privately owned cover three-fourths of the area, and contain four-fifths of the standing timber. Besides having three times the area and four times the forests, the timberland privately owned is generally more valuable.

Forestry, or conservative lumbering, is practised on 70 per cent. of the forests publicly owned and on less than one per cent. of the forests privately owned. This covers the country's forest resources as they stand to-day. Senator Smoot, chairman of the section of forests of the National Conservation Commission, in outlining the future, has said:

"By reasonable thrift we can produce a constant timber supply beyond our present need, and with it conserve the usefulness of our streams for irrigation, water supply, navigation and power.

"Under right management, our forests will yield over four times as much as now. We can reduce waste in the woods and in the mill at least one-third, with present as well as future profit. We can perpetuate the naval stores industry.

"We shall suffer for timber to meet our needs until our forests have had time to grow again. But if we act vigorously and at once we shall escape permanent timber scarcity."

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

Markets Firm—Prices Advancing.

The building material market was much improved this week, firmness characterizing all branches. Prices had an upward tendency. The demand for brick improved a little, but the change was due more directly to manufacturers checking shipments. Hudson River hard brick is quoted at $5.25 to $5.75. Cement is selling at $1.43, but an advance of another five cents is momentarily expected. It is due on or about September 1. Iron was firm and steady. Beams and channels moved up five cents. Solders advanced a quarter of a cent. North Carolina yellow pine jumped from five to ten per cent. Stone is stiffening, but the market is still only fair. Local business is improving. Hardwoods advanced, owing to continued scarcity of raw and finished material. Maple flooring is selling at $5.50 over former prices. Practically all interests agree that the building situation is getting into shape for at least a "good" fall.

Sick Brick Market Convalescing.

The situation in the brick market is clarifying, owing to the fact that manufacturers are not shipping in such large quantities with prices at their present position. The demand shows a slight improvement, although dealers are still stacking. The latter say that inquiries are good, but that the consumption has shown only a slight change for the better. One firm sold 8,000,000 last week, and another reported a transaction involving "several millions." These were taken as evidence of a general recovery.

Manufacturers complain that with prices where they have been practically all summer, they have not found business to be such as to warrant a continuance of manufacture upon the scale heretofore adhered to. Labor is becoming more scarce all the time up the river, and the lot of the manufacturer, altogether, has not been one of an encouraging nature. The indications at the week-end were for a continued improvement in demand and advancing prices.

Arrivals for the week ending August 21 were 68, sales were 67. Holdovers on August 16 were 5, and holdovers August 23 were 6. The records of the previous week were: Arrivals, 71; sales, 77; holdovers for week beginning August 9, 11.

BIG DEMAND FOR RARITAN RIVERS.

The demand in New Jersey Raritan River hard brick was good. The Sayre & Fischer Co. expects a busy fall, and such is its confidence in the continued improvement of its market that the orders are taken at present quotations only for thirty days. Shipments extending up to December 1 are contingent upon higher market prices. It points to the fact that Jersey customers are stacking as an indication of even better market conditions. Rumors of labor troubles in Essex County did not interfere with inquiries toward the week-end. Deliveries were somewhat delayed last week by reason of the fact that it required nearly all the latter part of the week to dry out following the storm of Monday and Tuesday.

Cement Prices May Go Up.

A gradual improvement is noted in cement. This is probably due to the reports received in the offices of the various licensees during the week that a further advance of five cents is imminent. It is due September 1 or thereabouts, but whether it be founded upon fact or not there was a better feeling in the trade. Should the advance come this week, as some hoped, it will make the advance in the price of cement fifteen cents since July 1. It may also permit of shipments over the present 30-day limit.

Iron Orders Increasing.

All through the week pig iron had a good market. The demand improved considerably, with prices remaining firm, although an upward movement is looked for. The inquiry is encouraging, and on deliveries shipments extend up to January 1, with some extending over into the first half of next year. These are taken on the basis of a higher market. Most of this week's transactions were based upon previous quotations.

STRUCTURAL STEEL IN DEMAND.

The demand for structural steel continues. Steel bars were quoted at $1.40, Pittsburgh, Pa., but $1.35 prevailed. The local market is reasonably active, but does not yet harmonize with the activity reported at the mills. Big orders for steel cars and rails are partly responsible for this. The mills continue somewhat behind in deliveries, and New York is getting the benefit of it. Beams and channels moved up five cents.

Among the big contracts awarded this week was one to Post & McCord for the building at 334 Fourth av, southwest corner of 25th st, which is being erected by Joseph Millbank. This represented 3,700 tons. All the fabricating plants are busy.

SHEETS FIRM, WITH GREATER DEMAND.

Continued improvement is noted in sheets. The prices remain firm, and an advance is near. Solder went up a quarter of a cent, making half and half in cases 20 cents and open, 21 cents, while No. 1 in case is quoted at 17½ and open at 17¾. Lead is more active, with some inclination to buy for forward delivery. The market is firm.

Lumber Active—Yellow Pine Up.

The feature of the active market in lumber this week is the advance from five to ten per cent. in long-leaf yellow pine flooring. Hardwoods are much higher, with maple flooring up $5.50. Oak also has advanced, due to a scarcity of raw material and of finished product. The demand for hardwoods is severely taxing the mills, and the demand shows no sign of abating. Maple, based on 2½ face, clear, f. o. b. New York, is quoted at $42.50; No. 1, 2¼, face, $38.00; and factory, $25.50. The new quotations for hardwoods are herewith given. One big order of maple flooring closed this week was for the building at Irving place and 16th st, which is being erected from plans by J. Reily Reilly Gordon, the architect, of 402 5th av. This operation will take 375,000 square feet of clear-grade maple flooring, which will be supplied by the Strasburg Manufacturing Co., of 12 West 31st st.

YELLOW PINE MAY GO EVEN HIGHER.

The advance heretofore noted in long-leaf yellow pine flooring follows a constantly increasing demand reported from time to time in the Record and Guide. This is partly due to the more general use of this kind of wood for mould work in reinforced concrete construction, which has brought about a drain on the mills, thus bringing about a shortage of flooring, coupled with an abnormal demand for flooring. There is every indication that the prices of this kind of flooring will go even higher before it finds its natural level.

ANOTHER BIG MAPLE ORDER.

Collins & Lavery, lumber dealers, of 30 Church st, Manhattan, and Jersey City, have closed for a half million feet of maple flooring for the Lorillard Tobacco Factory that is being erected in the west end of Jersey City at a cost of $800,000, without finishing, there being other contracts still to let.

SPRUCE CONTINUES IN DEMAND.

The demand for spruce shows no sign of abatement, the active market being ascribed to a desire upon the part of dealers to cover before prices advance, the work having already gone out through the Record and Guide and other sources that such action is advisable.

Stone Holding Its Own Again.

The development of Fourth av into an uptown "skyscraper row" has put the stone market on its feet, some important contracts having been let recently or are about to be let. This will include granite, sand and limestone. Conspicuous among these is the contract for stone for the loft building that is being erected by the Andrew J. Robinson Co., from plans by George B. Post & Sons, the architects. This contract was awarded to Henry Hanlein & Son, of 103d and 104th sts and the East River. About 45,000 cubic feet will be used on this building. "Royal Blue" Indiana limestone will be used on this building from sidewalk to roof. It will be supplied to Messrs. Hanlein by Arlando Marine, from the Bedford, Indiana, quarries.

While there is a scarcity of exterior marble work in this city at present, marble men are hopeful of better things, as the present building activity progresses. Marble quarries are busy with out-of-town work, however.

Roofing Economy vs. Roofing Extravagance.

Nowhere does the old adage, "The best is the cheapest," hold more true than in the choice of roofing materials. Every builder knows that the best economy is that which buys the best in the beginning. Conditions change. Materials that years ago stood the wear and tear for years will not retain their protective qualities one-half the time they formerly did. Scientists say that it is because there is more smoke being consumed to-day; therefore more deteriorating gases fill the air, detracting from the life of the materials.

Keasbey & Mattison, specialists in asbestos, are pushing their "Century" Shingles which, according to various authorities are practically non-wear-out-able. They are made from asbestos. Therefore they are fireproof, gases cannot affect them, they are light and their cost is not great. The fact that they are exactly sized makes it possible to lay them with as great artistic effect as is possible with wooden shingles or slate. They do not need paint, it is said, and further, dampness improves them. The Keasbey-Mattison Company at Ambler, Pa., is ready and willing to go into further details with those interested.

Strike Breaking by Automobile.

Messrs. D. B. Collins and G. C. Lavery, of the widely known lumber firm of Collins & Lavery, which has offices at 30 Church st, and yards and box factories in Jersey City, demonstrated several new and novel methods of breaking strikes this week, and in consequence the entire body of employees of the box mill who struck for higher wages, although, according to a member of the firm, they were getting more than similar operatives in competing mills, are back again at the old basis of wages.

The strike was already in progress for one week when, after other overtures had failed, the two young men decided to "pump a little ginger into the situation and fight." The company's automobiles were put into use. The entire office force was bundled into these machines and rushed into the mill. There bookkeepers worked on the benches from 6 A. M. until 5 30 P. M. Mr. Lavery ran the nailing machine and assembled at the benches. Mr. Collins manipulated the planer and looked after the shipments. Every member of the clerical department pitched in, and in consequence the firm not only kept up with its orders but made up shipments that had been held up the week before, the drivers having stood by the firm, as did one mill hand.

Nine loads a day went out of all sizes, and when the strike pickets saw that the company was able to keep up with its shipments, overtures followed and peace was established upon the old scale.

A Difficult Flooring Contract.

One of the largest and most difficult granolithic flooring contracts that has ever been let in this city is nearing completion in the New Theatre of which Carrère & Hastings are architects and Marc Eidlitz is the general contractor. This work is being done by Ronald Taylor, of 520 East 20th st, whose father perfected the present system of granolithic flooring and who has continued the business for thirty years. Already the work is attracting considerable attention, although it is several months from completion, because of its novelty and intricate design. The entire flooring, side walls and borders, covering an area of 200,000 square feet, is being done in three colors, combining geometric figures in complicated array. Squares are worked over and in circles, and vice versa, while diamonds and other angles and combination of angles produce a surface of striking novelty and beauty. Even the sidewalk, which Mr. Taylor is also doing, is being done in the same style. It is said that this is the only flooring design of its kind in the city, and will cover all foyers, corridors, promenades, orchestra pit and reception halls. All foundations for pumps, fans, hoisting machines, dynamos, and other appurtenances are being done in concrete by Mr. Taylor.

The floor composition widely known as "Taylorite," is being installed in many institutions and residences by Mr. Taylor. This is a material that when laid resembles red concrete, but is soft and pliable; tacks can be driven into it for carpets, it does not give out a fine dust with wear, and it can be laid upon wood floors or over old floor boards that have been worn unevenly, without the necessity of removing them. The floor and baseboard is one piece, thus insuring sanitary and clean conditions.

In recent years Mr. Taylor has executed some of the largest contracts for the installation of this flooring, among them being those in connection with the following named buildings: The Women's Hospital, 110th st and Amsterdam av, 100,000 sq. ft. of flooring and 22,000 lin. ft. of base; the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, 60,000 sq. ft. of flooring and 10,000 lin. ft. of base; Industrial Home for Girls, Trenton, N. J.; Yale Infirmary, New Haven; the Colgate residence, Sharon, Conn.; the home of Mr. L. B. Miller, Elizabeth, N. J.; the First Presbyterian Church, Elizabeth, N. J., and the home of Miss Helen Gould at Irvington-on-Hudson, New York. There are many other buildings where this floor is in use, including 60,000 sq. ft. for the store of Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn. An added feature of this kind of flooring is that it is fireproof.

Besides the foregoing installations, Mr. Taylor will supply his granolithic flooring in the new chapel, gymnasium, officers' quarters, chaplain's quarters and six other buildings now being built by Charles T. Wills (Inc.) at West Point. Granolithic flooring may be seen in more than twenty-five of the city's skyscrapers.

Demand for Onyx Increasing.

Marble dealers who also handle onyx say they have noted a great increase in demand for onyx not only for bank and office building vestibule, desk and wainscoting work, but for private houses. The statement was made by Mr. Zicher, of the firm of Cork & Zicher, marble workers and onyx importers, of 325 to 327 East 94th st. That this improvement was due to the present popularity of green as a decorative color and also to the fact that while onyx is somewhat more expensive than marble, its lasting qualities are considerably better was not denied. For bank decoration and embellishment, Mr. Zicher thought that there is nothing to excel it for beauty and permanency of effect.

Four years ago onyx was comparatively out of use in this city. It was found, then, of course, but it was a novelty. To-day it is the most popular and richest of interior decorating stones.

The establishment of Messrs. Cork & Zicher is complete with power machinery for cutting and polishing. This company supplied the onyx for the Greenwich Bank, at 35th st and 6th av, and is supplying marble for an apartment house that the West Side Construction Company is building at 96th st and Riverside Drive, and other big jobs.

American Steel & Wire Co. Busy.

All departments of the American Steel & Wire Co. report conditions which bespeak a busy Fall. Usually from six to eight carloads are held in the Waverly, N. J., storehouse of the Carnegie Steel Co., but at present there are only four on hand. The company's local representatives say that it is from four to five weeks behind on shipments, which is due entirely to the large demand. Business is continuing in good volume, although mill conditions are beginning to operate to the disadvantage of the local end. It has placed specifications with the mill within the last forty days approximating the total of last year's tonnage and it is now thought that this year's increase will be in excess of 400 per cent. over last year.

Taking Care of Fire Escapes.

When a fire-escape or shutter is needed, it is needed badly. It should not therefore be allowed to rust or corrode or become insecurely fastened to walls. Tin roofs also need constant care or their life is considerably lessened. The New York Roof Paint Co., of 100 William st, makes a specialty of taking care of these appurtenances under guarantee. In case of an emergency, such as a leaky roof, or a shutter working loose or fire-escape damaged or wrenched in some way, it might be a good thing to know that John 4599 is a telephone call that will bring an expert who will repair the defect and keep it in condition. Fences are also looked after by this company.

Use of Soapstone Increasing.

According to the statements made by some local dealers in marble, slate and soapstone, the percentage of increase in general use of the three materials named is greatest in soapstone, in spite of the fact that it is more expensive than slate for lavatory purposes. There has also been a noticeable improvement in demand for interior marble and slate, but not so extensive as in the material heretofore mentioned. Mr. Cross, of the Artistic Marble Co., of 310 to 316 East 75th st, attributes this to the fact that soapstone being non-absorbent is particularly sanitary when used for urinal stalls and toilet-room partitions. For that reason it is being used in liberal quantities in public schools and other municipal buildings.

The Artistic Marble Co. reports an increasing demand for colored marbles for apartment - house work, particularly "Breche violete," a French product, and also for several Norwegian types. It is preparing large quantities of these marbles now for apartment-house operations in the Bronx, among them being one at 141st st and Broadway, from plans by Summerfield & Steckler, and another from plans by Messrs. Schwartz & Gross at 147th st and Convent av. This company's plant is equipped with modern power machinery, including compressed-air equipment, and it makes a specialty of "rush" jobs, whether it be plain or ornamental work.

Prevailing Rate of Wages.

This schedule is issued by the Building Trades of New York City and vicinity, through the office of the Consolidated Board of Business Agents of the Building Trades, Office and headquarters, Groll's Hall, 145-147 East 53d st, New York City. (Phone 336 Plaza.) OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

210TH ST.—Opening and extending of East 210th st, from Jerome av to Wayne av; Wayne av, from Reservoir Oval West to Gun Hill road; Tryon av from Reservoir Oval West to Gun Hill road. Notice is given by the commissioners in this proceeding, Peter J. Everett, August Gross and Harold C. Knoeppel, that the abstracts of estimate of damage and of assessment for benefit in this proceeding, together with the damage and benefit maps, and also all the affidavits, estimates, proofs and other documents used by the Commissioners of Estimate, and by the Commissioner of Assessment in making the same, have been deposited in the Bureau of Street Openings in the Law Department, Nos. 90 and 92 West Broadway, Manhattan. They will remain at that place for inspection until Sept. 9. Unless objections are filed the reports as to awards and as to assessments for benefit herein will be presented for confirmation to the Supreme Court on Nov. 18.

ASSESSMENTS.

158TH ST.—(Cedar pl) Paving the roadway and setting curb in East 158th st, from Cauldwell av to Jackson av, and from Forest av to Union av, and from Jackson av to Forest av. Area of assessment: Both sides of East 158th st, from Cauldwell av to Union av, and to the extent of half the block at the intersecting avs. Assessment confirmed by the Board of Assessors Aug. 24, 1909, and entered on Aug. 24, 1909, in the Record of Titles of Assessments, kept in the Bureau for the Collection of Assessments and Arrears of Taxes and Assessments and of Water Rents. Unless the amount assessed for benefit of any person or property shall be paid within 60 days after the date of said entry of the assessment interest will be collected thereon, as provided in section 1019 of said Greater New York Charter. The section referred to provides, in part, that "If any such assessment shall remain unpaid for the period of 60 days after the date of entry thereof in the said Record of Titles of Assessments, it shall be the duty of the officer authorized to collect and receive the amount of such assessment to charge, collect and receive interest thereon at the rate of 7 per centum per annum, to be calculated to the date of payment from the date when such assessment became a lien, as provided by section 159 of this act." Section 159 of this act provides * * * "An assessment shall become a lien upon the real estate affected thereby ten days after its entry in the said record." The above assessment is payable to the Collector of Assessments and Arrears, Municipal Building, 3d av and 177th st. All payments made thereon on or before Oct. 23, 1909, will be exempt from interest, as above provided, and after that date will be subject to a charge of interest at the rate of 7 per centum per annum from the date when the above assessment became a lien to the date of payment.

THE CARE OF ROOFS.—Observing persons must admit that many owners of buildings in the outskirts of New York City have neglected taking proper care of their roofs. It may well be said that the roof is in many respects the most important part of a building. No matter how substantial the walls nor how fine the interior, if the roof of a structure leaks it soon becomes a pretty bad mess, and practically worthless unless attended to. One of the best coverings for roofs is the slate shingle. Although costing more than the wood shingle slate is far more durable when carefully applied. The increase in the production of slate is said to be due almost entirely to its enormous demand for roofing purposes, which furnishes additional proof of its growing popularity where buildings are concerned.

AN ATTRACTIVE DWELLING.

Each year tenants are becoming more and more exacting in their demands, and the result has been that many have purchased plots in the territory surrounding New York City and have erected their own houses, to suit their individual tastes. Many of these suburban investors would never have considered the proposition of leaving town had they been able to satisfy their wants within the city proper. Probably the principle fault is found with the size of the average apartment-house room. While certain conveniences exist in buildings of this character, nevertheless, the rooms are small and a general air of oppression prevails.

The man who has a little ready cash turns to the country and purchases one or two lots on easy installments and commences the erection of a home. A difficult problem for him to face is what kind of a building to build? As a rule, he is not able to pay the sum necessary to run an establishment all his own, therefore the two-family house has become popular.

There are many problems to face in constructing a building of this character, not the least of which is privacy. Many plans have been published from time to time, but in the majority of cases the fault lies in the attic floor. This top floor, as a general thing, is divided between the two families.

An interesting plan is published in Shoppel's Owners' and Builders' Magazine which illustrates this feature. The extra rooms for the first floor are located on the second floor, and are reached by a private stairway.

A COMFORTABLE COUNTRY HOME.

Under this arrangement the entire attic floor is devoted to the sleeping rooms for the occupants of the second flat, making this part of the house very similar to what would be found in a single house. No stairway from cellar to roof is used in common by both families, and each family has a separate entrance for itself, both front and rear. The isolation of each from his neighbor is as absolutely complete as can be secured under one roof.

As will be seen by the perspective, this modern two-family house is very attractive to the eye. For the lower floor a comfortable porch is provided, and above this a balcony for the upper-floor family, which is also provided with a smaller porch for its front entrance.

A cellar extends under the entire house and is divided into two compartments, front and rear. A liberal-sized hot-air furnace is placed in each of the divisions, and coal bins are furnished each, with a cold room for the convenience of the housewife.

The apartment of the first floor consists of six rooms, and that on the second floor of eight rooms. The rooms on the first floor are a parlor, a sitting room, a dining room, a kitchen, a pantry and a sleeping chamber. The bathroom is located between the parlor and dining room, and is entered from the hall. It is fitted with all modern appliances.

The second floor is practically a duplicate of the first, but sleeping rooms are furnished for the family occupying it in the attic. The chamber on this floor is designed for the use of the family on the first floor, and is reached by a private staircase, so that there is no necessity for members of the two families to come into personal contact with each other.

The cost of erecting a house of this kind can, of course, be made to vary, according to the taste and financial capability of the builder. Much will depend upon the locality of the site selected, the richness of the finish applied and the expense of the plumbing fixtures. It is an unusually pretty and convenient two-family house, and one which tenants will hasten to secure, which is the main qualification required by the modern builder of residential houses.

THE CHEAPEST RECORDS are always the most costly. That it is an epigram, but, unlike many epigrams, it is true. The Realty Records Co. does not publish cheap records.

APARTMENT HOUSE VACANCIES.

There probably never has been a year in the history of Manhattan when such a large variety of apartments, of the better class, were vacant. This is due to the vast number of recently completed structures, which the owners are anxious to get tenanted. Every year houses are being built to satisfy the wants of the tenants, though rentals have not increased in proportion. Builders take the stand that if the number of vacancies can be reduced, it will be a paying investment to spend an additional outlay at the start.

Vacancies are expensive luxuries. Owners have found this out to their sorrow. In a house accommodating twenty families, if there are two vacancies, ten per cent. of the gross rental is gone. The owner generally figures on this amount. But when the number of empty apartments exceeds this figure, the net income derived by the owner is considerably impaired.

Many high-class apartment houses have recently been completed on the West Side, especially on Morningside and Washington Heights. The general allowance to a tenant is one month's rent and the decorations to suit his taste. Next year the time allowance will, in all probability, be discontinued, or considerably cut down.

The work of the prospective apartment tenant is considerably lightened this fall, due to the large number of vacancies at the present time. It is the consensus of opinion among the van men that there will be more removals this fall than for many years past. Certain sections of the city, where the building boom has been in progress, are almost unrecognizable to former residents. The entire character of certain streets have changed completely. Take for example upper Broadway, on Washington Heights. This avenue has been practically built up during the past two years from 135th st to 165th st, where formerly there was block after block unimproved. This is only one of many instances which could be given.

The appended table will give some idea of what is on the market at the present time, together with the rental asked.

MICHIGAN INSURANCE REPORT.

The thirty-ninth annual report of the Commissioner of Insurance, of the State of Michigan, which takes in the business year ending December 31, 1908, is just off the press. Wynkoop, Hallenbeck Crawford Co. were the printers.

In addition to a statement by James V. Barry, the commissioner of insurance, much information is given about companies doing business in that State. This volume includes exhaustive statistical tables, abstracts, compiled from the annual statements of the various companies, showing their condition on December 31, 1908, besides abstracts of application statements of companies admitted since the first of the current year.

VAGARIES OF BUYERS.—There are three classes of real estate buyers, said a downtown operator lately. 1. The man who wants a property. 2. The man who thinks he wants it. 3. The man who buys it because somebody else tells him to do so. If a man really wants a property, whether for a home, investment or for speculation, he is comparatively easy to deal with, for he is usually ready to go a little more than half way in making the deal. There are many violent exceptions to this rule, however.

A COVENANT EXPLAINED.

By WILLIAM GRETZINGER.

A covenant is an agreement between two or more persons, entered into in writing and under seal, whereby either party stipulates for the truth of certain facts, or promises to perform or give something to the other, or to abstain from the performance of certain things. (2 Bl. Com. 303 and 304; Bac. Abr. Covenant; 4 Cruise 446; Shep. Touch. 160; 1 Harr, 151, 233; 1 Bibb 379; 2 Bibb 614; 3 John 44 20 Johns 85; 4 Day 321.)

In a promise or contract not under seal, a consideration must be shown; in a covenant under seal, no consideration is necessary to give it validity, even in a court of equity (Plowd 308; 7 T. R. 447; 4 Barn & Ald 652; 3 Bing 111).

The general requisites to a covenant are:

1st. Proper parties.
2d. An agreement.
3d. A legal promise.
4th. That it be properly executed.

FIRST. The parties must be such as by law can enter into a contract. If, either for want of understanding (as in the case of an idiot or lunatic; or in case of an infant (under 21 years of age) where the contract is not for his benefit); or where there is understanding, but, owing to certain causes (as covertures in the case of a married woman (except where Acts of Assembly have conferred separate power upon the wife), or duress, in every case), the parties are not competent, they cannot bind themselves.

SECONDLY. There must be an agreement. The assent or consent must be mutual; for the agreement would be incomplete if either party withheld his assent to any of its terms. The assent to the contract necessarily supposes a free, fair, serious exercise of the reasoning faculty. Now, if from any cause, this free assent be not given, the contract is void.

THIRDLY. A covenant against any positive law, or public policy, is generally void. (Shep. Touch. 163.) As an example of the first is a covenant by one man that he will rob another; and of the last, a covenant by a merchant or tradesman that he will not follow his occupation or calling. This, if it be unlimited, is absolutely void; but if the covenant be that he shall not pursue his business in a particular place, as that he will not trade in the City of Philadelphia, the covenant is no longer against public policy. (See Shep. Touch. 164.) A covenant to do an impossible thing is also void. (Ibid.)

FOURTH. To make a covenant, it must, according to the definition above given, be by deed, or under seal. The law does not seem to have appropriated any set of words as absolutely required in creating a covenant. Any words which manifest the intention of the parties to perform an act are sufficient. (Bouv. L. D. See numerous examples in Bac. Abr. Covenant, A; Selw. N. P. 469; Com. Dig. Covenant, A 2; 3 Johns 44; 5 Munf. 483.) In Pennsylvania, Delaware and Missouri, it is declared by statute that the words "grant, bargain and sell," shall amount to a covenant that the grantor was seized of an estate in fee, free from all encumbrances done or suffered by him, and for quiet enjoyment against his acts. But it has been adjudged that those words in the Pennsylvania statute of 1715 (and the decision will equally apply to the statutory language of the other two States) did not amount to a general warranty, but merely to a covenant that the grantor had not done any act, nor created any encumbrance whereby the estate might be defeated. (2 Binn 95; 4 Kent. Com. 460.)

NO PARTICULAR FORM REQUIRED.

Covenants are express or implied. First. An express covenant, or a covenant in fact, is one expressly agreed between the parties and inserted in the deed. The law does not require any particular form to create an express covenant. The formal word "covenant" is therefore not indispensably requisite. (2 Mod. 268; 3 Keb. 848; 1 Leon 324; 1 Binn 433; 8 J. B. Moore 546; 1 Ch. cas. 294; 16 East 352; 12 ibid 182n; 1 Bibb 379; 2 ibid 614; 3 Johns 45; 5 Cowen 170; 4 Day 321; 4 Com. 508; 1 Harr 233.) The words, "I oblige," "agree" (1 Ves. 516; 2 Mod. 266); or "I bind myself to pay so much a day, and so much such another day" (Hard 178, 3 Leon 119 pl 199), are held to be covenants; and so are the words of a bond (1 Ch. cas. 194). But words importing merely an order or direction that other persons should pay a sum of money are not a covenant (6 J. B. Moore 202n (a).

DEFINITION OF A COVENANT.

A covenant in law, is one which the law intends and implies, though it be not expressed in words. There are some words which of themselves do not import an express covenant, yet, being made use of in certain contracts, have a similar operation, and are called covenants in law. They are as effectually binding on the parties as if expressed in the most unequivocal terms. (Bac. Abr. COVENANT B.) A few examples will fully explain this. If a lessor demise and grant to his lessee a house or lands for a certain term, the law will imply a covenant on the part of the lessor that the lessee shall during the term quietly enjoy the same against all encumberances. (Co. Litt 384.) And the words "yielding and paying" in a lease imply a covenant, on the part of the lessee, that he will pay the rent. (9 Verm. 151; 3 P. & W. 461, 464.)

PROFIT IN PURCHASING OLD HOUSES.

Buying old apartment houses with the view of renovating is a business by itself. It is being followed by numerous property owners in New York City, especially in the upper section of Manhattan. An expert in this branch recently recited one of his experiences which serves to illustrate how quickly the rent roll of a building may be increased by the exercise of good judgment in effecting sensible changes.

The structure was an 8-sty affair, part of which had been given over to other uses than regulation apartments. On the upper floor three apartments had been altered into something resembling a ball room. On the lower floor eight apartments had been sacrificed to the convenience of a kitchen and dining-room, and a few others were devoted to housing the help required in the space mentioned, which was operated at a loss. In addition, two separate apartments were offered for rent notwithstanding that the toilet in each bathroom had been removed. All the vacant apartments were in a delapidated state, and the prospective tenant was given the promise that "the owner would decorate to suit."

The owner estimated at the time that the rent roll was $33,000, of which $4,000 was a clear loss by reason of the presence of the dining-room and kitchen. Upon obtaining possession, he at once restored the original plan of the house, thereby reclaiming the loss referred to. Through making other necessary repairs, the rent roll was finally increased to a sum exceeding $38,000. Thus, in a comparatively short time order was brought out of chaos, so to speak, and the new owner was able to credit his rental account with the handsome advance of 33 per cent., besides creating a new sale value for his holding.

THE HOUSE BEAUTIFUL.

Every housewife appreciates the advantages of decorative harmony in her home, and to procure this, in the upholstery as well as the woodwork, is a problem, according to Shoppell's Owners' and Builders' Magazine, which is often very troublesome in the solution. Beautiful colors and combinations are admired, but very few appear to know the proper use of color. As a rule, the architect can suggest the proper coloring and shading, so that it will conform to the general surroundings; but as in all other things, experts do not always agree, because it is a matter of artistic taste rather than of mechanism. Experience gained in this line, however, has proved that certain effects will blend in harmony with certain colors, and it is by reference to this experience that harmonious decoration is secured.

If the fittings and cabinet work of a room are of light oak, soft greens, blues, or deep reds may be used properly in the decoration, but never purple. With the medium dark oaks, dark greens, rich reds, and the lighter tones of blue will prove most acceptable to the eye. For an effect of metallic relief, old Italian bronze or gold will combine well.

Where light colored woods are used, ivory tints, grays and old rose of modified color may harmonize, and silver or gold may be used in metal ornamentation. Empire green, ivory tints and old rose are appropriate with rosewood, and rich gold, yellow and bright reds combine well with ebony. White woods should have a combination of the light tints of ochre and blue or green, softened with raw umber. Delicate light blue shades, or pink and gold blend satisfactorily with enamel or ivory-white finish. Walnut, being dark, requires the old blues and reds, with deep yellows or gold, and with mahogany furniture deep olive greens or rich deep reds should be used, and the metal ornaments should be rich gold.

THE INEXPERIENCED BUYER.

The inexperienced buyer needs considerable coaching in these days before he can safely proceed where real property is concerned. One of the problems that will confront the uninitiated is, where is the best section to buy, and what is the safest class of property to acquire for a quick rise in value?

Several of these questions were answered some months ago by a prominent student of conditions. He said that a private dwelling should pay 8 per cent. of the cost of value; a modern flat house, with the latest improvements, such as steam heat, hot water supply and open plumbing, should pay 10 to 12 per cent., and a cold water flat or tenement house from 12 to 15 per cent., according to the class of the investment, and cost of maintenance. In the purchase of real estate in the outlying districts the same authority advised extraordinary care; that the investor should know with whom he is dealing, and the exact nature of the conditions mentioned in any agreement of sale. To use his own language: "It is not an exceptional thing when some of these long named companies' principal assets are their stock and printed matter and they actually do not own one inch of the land or hold title to anything except, perhaps, articles of incorporation, which can be procured for a few dollars. These companies themselves sometimes enter into a long term contract for the purchase of land, paying down on a contract the smallest possible amount of cash at Steamboat Landing of the Providence, Fall River & Newport Steamboat Co.

Conanicut Park, Town of Jamestown, Conanicut Island, R. I.

PARCEL No. 1 comprises the property known as CONANICUT PARK and contains 1,579 building lots, mostly 50 x 100 feet each. With streets, parks, unplatted land. In all about 385 acres of land with about two miles of shore front, with riparian rights, water system, waiting station and two houses.

PARCEL No. 2. FARM of about 67 acres of land, adjoining parcel No. 1 on the south. High land overlooking the water on both sides of the island. Level and ready for platting into sites for Summer homes.

CONANICUT PARK is in the Town of Jamestown and comprises the entire northern end of the island of Conanicut, which is situated in Narragansett Bay, between Newport and the Island of Rhode Island on the east, and the mainland of Rhode Island on the west. The island is about nine miles long and separates the bay into the east and west passages. On the island are located the Summer homes of many people from all sections of the United States. The view from the Park, which includes a view of the City of Newport, Wickford, and Hope, Patience, Gould and Dutch Islands, comprises a marine landscape of unusual beauty. From the higher parts of the Park practically all of Narragansett Bay can be seen. All of the water traffic entering and leaving Narragansett Bay passes within sight of this property. Newport Harbor and Dutch Island Harbor are the favorite rendezvous of the United States Navy vessels, the naval vessels of foreign countries, the New York Yacht Club fleet, and the pleasure craft of the entire Atlantic seaboard. The waters of the bay furnish unsurpassed facilities for bathing, yachting, and fishing. The air is pure, soft and restful, making Conanicut Park an ideal location for Summer homes.

The property is offered in two parcels, large enough to enable an investor to devote his time and thought to its development and insuring him a handsome return.

The property must be sold. An absolute sale to the highest bidder. Two thirds of the purchase price may remain on mortgage.

A special steamer will leave Newport on Day of Sale.

DISPOSSESS, OR SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS.

The following is a very general statement of the Summary Proceedings for the recovery of real property particularly applicable in the Borough of Manhattan.

A tenant may be removed, if without the permission of his landlord he continues in possession of the demised premises after the expiration of the term of his lease or if, without permission, he remains in possession after default in payment of the rent, after a demand has been made or at least three days' notice in writing requiring the payment of the rent or the possession of the premises, has been served on him, or if the premises are used for illegal purposes.

Unless, however, the term expires on the first day of May, a monthly tenant in the City of New York shall not be removed from the premises demised to him unless, at least five days before the expiration of the term, a notice in writing is served on him stating that the landlord wishes to terminate the tenancy, and that unless the tenant removes on the day on which his lease expires summary proceedings will be resorted to in order to remove him from the premises.

WRITTEN PETITION NECESSARY.

The application for the removal of the tenant, if made to a District Court, must be made to the court in the district in which the property or part of it is situated; must be made by the landlord or lessor of the premises; must be a written verified petition describing the premises of which possession is claimed, and describing the interest of the petitioner therein. It must also state the facts which authorize the application and the removal of the person from possession, naming or designating the person against whom the proceeding is instigated, and requesting an order that he be removed accordingly.

If premises are used for certain immoral purposes, an owner or tenant of the neighborhood may notify the owner of the premises so used, or his agent, in writing, to have the person using the premises removed, and if an application for removal is not made within five days the person who gave the notice may apply for the dispossession of the person using said premises, stating in his petition the facts which entitle him to make the application.

The justice to whom a petition as before mentioned is made must issue a precept requiring the person mentioned in the petition as being in possession of the property to remove forthwith, or to show cause before him, at a time stated, why possession of the property should not be delivered to the petitioner, or, as the case may be, to the owner or landlord.

WHEN PRECEPT IS RETURNABLE.

The precept must be returnable not less than three nor more than five days after it is issued, except in a case begun to remove a tenant who continues in possession after his term expires, and the application is made on the day of expiration, or the next day thereafter, when it may be returnable on the same day on which it is issued at any time after 12 o'clock noon and before 6 o'clock in the afternoon, but in this instance it must be served at least two hours before the hour at which it is returnable; in every other case it must be served at least two days before the day on which it is returnable.

The precept, generally speaking, must be served by delivering a copy to the person to whom it is directed, and at the same time showing to him the original.

OTHER RULES TO BE FOLLOWED.

Other rules must be followed if the precept is directed to a corporation, or if the person to whom it is directed is absent from his dwelling, or if he cannot be found with reasonable diligence.

At the time when the precept is returnable, if sufficient cause is not shown, the justice must make an order awarding to the petitioner the delivery of the possession of his property, except in the case where the petition was made as herein stated by a person residing in the neighborhood of property used for certain immoral purposes. In that case the order must direct the removal of the occupant.

The petitioner, in either of these cases, is entitled to costs unless, of course, the decision is in favor of the person answering, in which case costs are awarded such person.

Although the issuing of a warrant for the removal of a tenant annuls the relation of landlord and tenant, it does not prevent the landlord from recovering any sum of money due as rent under the lease at the time the precept was issued.

In certain cases a warrant may be stayed by payment of rent and costs, or by giving an undertaking to the effect that the rent and costs will be paid in ten days.

TO FASTEN WOODWORK TO CEMENT.—Occasionally it becomes quite a problem to attach woodwork to cement, especially where it is necessary to place window casings in cement block buildings. One method that is recommended is as follows: Make all the sills and caps two inches narrower to allow a 2x4 or 2x8, according to the thickness of the cap or sill, to be inserted in the wall the same as would be done with cut stone. Also make the water tables the thickness of the wall in one solid piece 4 feet long, with spaces cored out for the joists.

AN INTERESTING LANDMARK.

Among the sixties, or, to be more precise, on the north side of East 61st st, between Avenue A and First av, there stands an old-fashioned brick domicile, which for more than a century has remained one of the interesting landmarks on the middle East Side. Years ago this venerable old residence stood quite alone, but the march of progress has defaced its once-beautiful surroundings, and now ugly gas tanks and noisy tenements hem it in on all points of the compass. It is recorded that in 1799, when Colonel William Stephen erected the building, there was no more romantic spot on Manhattan Island. The house was intended by Smith to be used as a stable, his own dwelling, a large wooden dwelling, being located on the other side of the highway.

Colonel Smith was one of General Washington's personal staff during the Revolution, and after the war was appointed Secretary of the Legation in London, where John Adams was

QUAINT RESIDENCE ON EAST SIDE.

Minister. Miss Adams, the Minister's only daughter, became infatuated with Smith, who was envied as a dashing soldier and a brilliant conversationalist, and they were married in England.

Henceforth the history of the place is a less interesting recital. The New York Press lately related them. Smith, it seems, was extravagant and careless, and shortly came to grief.

When the break-up commenced the residence, which was styled "Smith's Folly," fell into the hands of strangers, and after being used for a long period as a school, was finally destroyed by fire. The old stable eventually became the residing place of Dr. Jeremiah Towle, whose two daughters lived there for 75 years, notwithstanding many offers of purchase. They held out against all these offers until within a few years ago, when they accepted that of the Standard Gas Light Co. "It is perhaps just as well that the quaint old landmark fell into the hands of its present owners," observes Gas Logic, "since it has resulted in an additional extension of life. Eventually, however, the old structure will probably have to make way for improvement, as have many of our famous hostelries and other revolutionary landmarks."

GOOD RULES FOR THE BROKER.

Brokers frequently lose a commission by hounding their client to death, so much so that confidence is entirely shattered. Once let a prospective buyer get the idea that the broker is anxious to make a sale, for the sake of the commission, and the deal is as good as killed. A regular campaign of education must be inaugurated with each new customer. He must be taught that the broker is honest and reliable and is working for his interest—even though he receives his pay from the other party to the transaction. Great care should be taken that every statement made is absolutely truthful and in no way an exaggeration, for should the broker be caught misrepresenting any detail, the chances of making the sale will be greatly diminished.

Brokers are prone, in many cases, to overvalue the property to be sold. They think if they can show that a great bargain is being purchased everything will be smooth sailing. The result is that appraisals are made by brokers, who have no positive knowledge on the subject. It is far better to inform the client that he has no opinion of the value of the property offered, but will investigate and tell him the result. Of course before a parcel is offered, a careful investigation should be made, and its true worth ascertained. Credit will be built up if a broker takes a customer into his confidence, while if this is not done the reverse will be true.

Without exaggeration the possibilities of the parcel offered should be thoroughly gone into and dwelt upon, not only as to the present condition, but also what the probable future of the section will be. Many a deal nearing the closing point has been spoiled by the broker favoring one side or the other. This is particularly true when both parties are present. Great care and diplomacy must be exercised at this point, for it is the crucial moment, and a slight slip would be apt to spoil all the work done.

A good rule for a broker to follow is to get the views of his client. Find out what kind of a proposition he is looking for, and endeavor to suit him. The mistake of arguing is continually made, and the client is inclined to leave in ill-humor.

It is advisable for a broker to have a list of "prospects" always on his desk, where they may be readily referred to. A notation should be made as to what particular kind of property is wanted, and then when a suitable parcel comes to the notice of the broker, steps should be immediately taken to properly present it. Personal interviews are always the more preferable, for even though the property offered might not suit, much information can be gathered which will materially aid in closing another deal.

In walking the streets particular notice should be given to all houses where a sign is displayed. If it is "to rent" or "for sale," the owner should be written to or seen, and the full particulars obtained. A mistake often made is that incomplete data is obtained, and nothing is done to procure what has been omitted, until an inquiry is received, and then it is too late.

Dilapitated buildings are a good source of revenue of the real estate man, though many do not take the trouble to follow up this class of property. In nearly every instance, a building in poor repair is on the market for sale, and many real bargains are obtained in this way. The owners are unwilling or unable to properly take care of their holdings, and are often willing to take a low price, especially if cash is offered. A judicious expenditure of a little money on the part of the buyer, is usually well invested, for the building is immediately placed upon a different renting basis.

The auction market should be carefully watched by every real estate man. This is specially true in the case of withdrawals. As a rule the owners are willing to take a fair price, and in many instances bargains can be secured.

The death column in the papers should be scanned daily, and when the demise of a realty owner is noted, a broker should immediately find out what holdings he has, and what disposition is going to be made of the estate. Many commissions are made in this way. Only a small percentage of the men in the real estate business follow up this kind of "lead," though in the long run it will be found profitable.

When it is noted that a property owner has disposed of one of his properties, it is the business of the broker to find out what other holdings he has for sale, or if he is in the market to purchase. Naturally he has a certain amount of cash from his sale, and he might be willing to reinvest it in realty. Certainly he is worth trying out.

Get the client's confidence by honest dealing and success is assured, for he will be the best possible advertisement.

WHEN RENTS ARE RAISED.

Speaking of the reasons for raising rents, a prominent broker recently said:

"We have so many tenants tell us in advance that they understand we are going to raise the rent. In order to make it more plain for our tenants to understand our methods of doing business, will say, that we make it our aim to take the very best care of our tenants and to treat them the very best we possibly can and that we will treat them strictly on business principle and will not take advantage of them in any way. We regulate our rents according to conditions and expense of the property. All of our rents are subject to a raise or a reduction at any time unless tenants have a lease.

"We appreciate tenants' favors to us and to show our tenants that we will always give them a square deal and treat them the same we expect to be treated, whenever we decide to raise the rent we will give each tenant, as near as we can a sixty-day notice, so as to give them sufficient time to look around to get another place, if they can better themselves and care to do so. We will notify our tenants personally, and until they receive a written notice from us to that effect, we request them not to listen to any idle gossip along this line. We run our own business and deal direct with each tenant personally."

EMPLOY COMPETENT LABOR.

The present is a good time to install steam heating plants. Lower figures may now be obtained for work of this character than during the early fall. Before awarding a heating contract make sure that your steam fitter is an experienced mechanic, else your troubles will be largely multiplied. When a plant of this type is first put into operation listen for objectionable pounding in the pipes. No system of steam heating should be accepted as satisfactory in which water hammer or snapping in the pipes and radiators persist after they have become thoroughly warmed up. In fact, even when steam is first turned into a cold radiator there should be but a slight disturbance, if any. The chance of hammering will be practically eliminated if the main returns are sealed. To do this properly they should run near the basement floor below the water line of the boiler so that they will remain filled with water at all times.

THE WEEK.

THE market was exceedingly quiet, though this condition is a perfectly normal one at this time of year. So many investors and monied men spend a large part of each week out of town, and are unwilling to devote the small amount of time at their disposal in looking for some desirable parcel to buy. The result is that sales are few and far between. Naturally the brokers complain, but the majority feel that there will be an active winter and spring. Prior to July 4 the number of sales reported weekly was satisfactory, but it seemed as though everyone, by common consent, decided not to buy further, and business dropped to practically nothing. Many men, conversant with the present situation, think that Labor Day will witness the revival. It is not unreasonable to expect two full months of dullness, during the heated spell. Another reason for the quietness of the market lies in the fact that both the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Aldermanic Board have adjourned for the summer, and but little in the way of public improvements is started. The work being pushed forward at the moment was commenced several months ago. Undoubtedly a large amount of work on the public highways will be started before many weeks, unless all traditions are upset. The city election always brings occupation to the laboring class, and this year will hardly be an exception to the rule. The professional speculator is very apt to wait until the taxes become a lien on the property before buying, so as to be relieved from having to pay out this additional amount. It will be remembered that the taxes are payable on the first Monday in October, which happens to fall upon the fourth this year.

Brokers are still devoting much of their time to the leasing end of the business. A number of important transactions were reported, including that of the 5-sty apartment house Nos. 25 and 27 West 26th st, 50.2x82, and owned by John Jacob Astor. The present structure is going to be raised seven stories in height, and a new facade erected at the cost of about $40,000. The lease runs for a term of fifteen years at an aggregate rental of about $250,000. A large number of dwellings were also reported leased to private individuals for occupancy.

The sale of the three 4-sty private dwellings Nos. 5, 7 and 9 West 37th st, occupying a plot 75x98.9, was among those reported. It is said that this property was held at $400,000. The announcement is made that a new 12-sty mercantile building will be erected on the site. The entire operation involves an outlay of $750,000. The seller purchased, under contract from various owners these houses, one of the stipulations being that title would not pass before the first of October. Under the resale, title will immediately be transferred to the recent buyer. This section of the city is experiencing a wonderful transformation. A large number of buildings are undergoing alterations, or new structures erected in their stead. Evidently the parties in the present deal do not consider that there is an overproduction as yet, and are anxious to get their building completed and tenanted before that condition becomes realized.

A sale of considerable importance was consumated in the Bronx. It involved a tract of fourteen lots on the east side of Coster st, 200 ft. south of Spofford av, in the Hunt's Point section. It is planned by the buyers to erect eighteen two-family houses on the property, each to have twelve rooms and bath. The Board of Education recently bought eight lots, 200x200, adjoining. It is contemplated erecting a school on this site. The Bronx has been exceedingly inactive during the past few months, though there have been occasional sales of importance reported. This immediate section has had at least four sales worthy of note, including the American Bank Note Co.'s purchase of a large number of lots some months ago. The southeast corner of Grand Boulevard and Concourse and 165th st, a plot of about thirteen lots also changed hands. At present there is a large dwelling on the property, which will be used by the new owners as a young ladies' school.

THE AUCTION MARKET

LEGAL sales continue to hold what little attention is being bestowed on sales at public auction. There have been no voluntary offerings for several weeks past, and none of importance will be held until September is well under way. The market, at the present time, is very dull, the attendances at the various sales being principally confined to those interested in the various sales and a few "regulars" who pride themselves on the fact that they "never miss a sale." It was difficult for the auctioneers to get bids, and almost without exception the properties were knocked down by the plaintiff. In fact, during the first three days of the week there was only one parcel sold to outside interests.

The property referred to is known as No. 353 Pleasant av, located on the west side of that thoroughfare, 67.7 ft. south of 119th st. It is a 3-sty dwelling, 16.8x75. Steven H. Jackson was announced as the buyer and the purchase price $6,410. The sale was the result of a suit in foreclosure brought by Ludwig Riederer et al against Mary Altieri et al. The amount of the judgment was $6,052.08; taxes and other charges amounting to $130.98. It will be seen that the parcel was knocked down for approximately the charges. Joseph P. Day conducted the sale.

At the same stand the 6-sty tenement and store Nos. 98 and 100 Thompson st, 50.3x94.6x irregular, located 226 ft. south of Prince st was sold to the plaintiff for $66,909. The property was subject to two mortgages aggregating $64,000; a judgment of $4,186.91, besides the cost of sale. No. 256 Cherry st, a 6-sty tenement and store, 26.3x96.2, also went to the plaintiff for $60,365. The amount of the prior mortgages was $54,000; the judgment $10,122.42 and the taxes and the other charges $99. The property known as No. 547 Riverside Drive, a 6-sty high class apartment house was to have been sold on Tuesday to satisfy a judgment of $64,126.66, but was adjourned until Thursday last when a further adjournment to Aug. 31st was ordered. It is encumbered with mortgages amounting to $200,000, besides taxes, etc., aggregating $3,671.77.

TO SETTLE A DISPUTE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Does not the City of New York own the sidewalks? And, if this is the case, why are property owners obliged to keep the sidewalks in repair at their own cost and expense?

A PROPERTY OWNER.

Answer.—The question is too wide for a yes or no answer. A municipal corporation acquires street rights, or the actual land for a street, as the case may be (including usually the sidewalk), by user, by dedication, by grant, by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, and by other means. In the old portion of New York City ownership of the whole, or to the centre, of the street very generally remains in the lot owner, the streets having first grown from original user or by the acts of lot owners adjoining, such as wording of deeds and the like. In the upper portion of the city the title to the land as well is very generally in the municipality, the streets having been acquired and laid out by legislative or derivative court processes, with compensation to the adjacent property owners. The right to require repair of sidewalks by adjacent lot owners is founded on constitutional and charter provisions by which individuals are bound either by having voted for them, or as constituting part of the minority bound by the act of the majority.

Thus by logical sequence it becomes as easy and correct for a municipality to require adjacent lot owners to repair sidewalks (or be assessed for the doing of it by others), as to require them to be cleaned of snow.—Editor.

RELEASE OF MORTGAGE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly answer the following questions: 1. What is the definition of a "release of mortgage"? 2. Why is a "release of mortgage" recorded under conveyances? Would not the logical place of record be under mortgages?

INTERESTED.

Answer.—A "release of mortgage" is a document properly drawn, and signed and acknowledged by the holder of a mortgage, to enable it to be recorded, for the purpose of releasing part of the premises included in the mortgage from further lien.

The Recording Acts provide for sets of books—one for "conveyances absolute" and the other "for mortgages, or conveyances intended to operate as such." A release of mortgage properly comes within the first-named class.—Editor.

COLLECTING RENTS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Would you kindly state in your paper what is the price for renting in New York City and how it is usually made up or figured out; also kindly mention the rate for collecting?

SUBSCRIBER.

ANSWER.—The commission for collecting rents for a property owner by a renting and collecting agent varies from 3 to 5 per cent. on the rents collected, though it is a matter of agreement usually between the parties. As with doctors and lawyers the cheapest are not always the most to be sought after in the long run, but the most attentive and conscientious, and by that we mean agents who do not eke out unsatisfactory commissions by "knock-downs" with trades folk employed for necessary repairs.—Editor.

THE "HOFMAN" RULE.

The question is so frequently asked "What is the Hofman rule?" that the Record and Guide reprints this method of determining the value of a given lot.

This rule was first published by Judge Murray Hofman in his "Digest of the Charters, Statutes and Ordinances of the City of New York," in 1866.

The rule is based on a lot having a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 100 feet. The lot is divided into cross strips, the first one being ten feet wide and the others five feet each. The value of the full lot is based on $1,000. On this basis the value of the lot by strips would be as follows:

25	x	10	feet	16	per	cent.	of	the	full lot or $160

M. & L. Hess leased to M. A. Steinberg for a term of 15 years the building 25-27 West 26th st, at an aggregate rental of about $250,00. This building is 5 stories in height, but is to be rebuilt into a 7-sty loft building, with 2 elevators, and will be ready for occupancy Jan. 1. 1910. John Jacob Astor, who is the owner of the building, filed plans during the week with the Building Department for making over the structure. At present it is an apartment house and has a frontage of 50.2 ft. and a depth of 82 ft. In addition to increasing the height of the building 2 stories, a new facade will be erected in the style of the modern Renaissance, finished with bays set between Doris pilasters, and having a cornice and ornamental balustrade. The front will be of brick, with terra cotta trimmings. Wm. A. Biring originated the designs. The improvements will cost about $40,000. The offices of John Jacob and William Astor estates adjoin on the east.

Jas. N. Wells' Sons leased from the plans for a term of 21 years to Joseph Elias, dealer in plate glass, a 4-sty factory building to be erected by the Moore estate to suit the requirements of the tenant, on a 50-ft. plot at 541-543 West 22d st, near the new Chelsea Docks, plans for which have been filed by Architect Paul C. Hunter. John Kennedy & Son have the general contract, and the building is to be ready for occupancy by Nov. 1. As in the case of the Trinity Corporation, the erection of buildings on their land for tenants is a new departure for the Moore estate, which has for the past 75 years adhered strictly to the policy of leasing land only, and requiring the tenants to erect the buildings thereon themselves. However, the demand for buildings in this section has so increased that plans are now being drawn for buildings on two other plots of 100 and 150 ft. frontage respectively, one of which is to be erected by the estate, and on the other one a building and permanent loan is being made. The first operation of this kind was the recently constructed building at the northeast cor of 21st st and 11th av, directly opposite the new docks, on which a building and permanent loan was arranged with the tenants, who erected the building and sold it before completion. James N. Wells' Sons represented the Moore estate in these various transactions.

INTERESTING AUCTION SALE.

An auction sale, involving about 450 acres of land on Narragansett Bay, will be held at the steamboat landing of the Providence, Fall River & Newport Steamboat Co., Conanicut Park, Town of Jamestown, Conanicut, R. I. The outlook from this property is exceptionally fine, there being two and a quarter miles of shore front.

The property is going to be offered in two parcels, large enough to enable the purchaser to devote his time and thought to its development and insuring him a handsome return upon his investment. It will be an absolute sale, and the terms agreed upon are very favorable to the buyer. Two-thirds of the purchase price may remain on bond and mortgage. For the accommodation of prospective bidders a special steamer will be run from Newport on the day of sale.

The first parcel is known as Conanicut Park and contains 1,579 building lots, each about 50x100 feet in size, with streets and parks. All told there is about 385 acres in this parcel, with about two miles of shore front, with riparian rights, water system, waiting station and two summer houses.

The remaining parcel is a farm of 67 acres, and adjoins the one just described. The land is all high and has a splendid outlook over the water on both sides of the island. It is level and ready for platting into sites for summer homes.

Harold J. Gross, James H. Hurley and E. Tudor Gross are the auctioneers in charge of the sale.

Pease & Elliman have been appointed agents for the new 14-sty co-operative studio building recently completed at 44 West 77th st, one of the handsomest buildings on the West Side, and especially suited for artists wishing unobstructed light. It is opposite the Museum of Natural History and Manhattan Square Park.

At the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly on Thursday last the Allaire Hotel, a 3-sty structure located at the northwest corner of Union and Ocean avs, Spring Lake, N. J., was knocked down to Frank Stoors for $40,000. This building contains 103 rooms. The sale was by order of the executors of the estate of E. M. Richardson.

Suit has been begun in the Supreme Court by the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank against Joseph E. Schnugg, Mary Schnugg, and others to foreclose a mortgage of $55,000 on the property at the northeast corner of 3d av and 168th st, 176x337.1x irregular, extending through to Fulton av. The mortgage was made on May 27, 1908.

Edward F. Clark, secretary of the City Investing Co., denies the rumor that there are negotiations under way for the sale of the southwest corner of Broadway and Dey st by that company. The report current was that the Broadway Terminal Co. was the intending purchaser and contemplated the erection of a 20-sty structure on the site.

Joseph P. Day conducted on Saturday, Aug. 21, an auction sale of lots in the Armour Villa Park tract at Bronxville, Westchester County. It comprised 100 lots located on Bronxville road, Wiltshire and Wallace sts and Willett pl. The entire offering was disposed of for about $25,000. The more desirable parts of the property, along Bronxville road, brought about $500 a lot. Among the side streets the prices ranged from $210 to $400 a lot. Among the buyers were Edward Hassett, T. Driscoll, J. M. Carroll, M. A. Broderick, Frank O. Burnett and Pompeo Chippa.

Negotiations are said to be well advanced for the sale of Glen Island by the estate of John H. Starin to a syndicate headed by Max Marx. Glen Island was developed by the late Mr. Starin into one of the best known day resorts around New York. It was opened about 1880 and was operated during the summer months up to about four years ago, when it was closed and placed on the market for sale. Although known as a single island, the property really consists of five small islands connected by bridges. Mr. Starin spent a large sum in beautifying the place. The islands are a few hundred feet out in the sound, near the southerly boundary of New Rochelle, and not far from the New York Athletic Club's summer home at Travers Island. If the negotiations with Mr. Marx have a successful outcome, it is said that the new owners intend to subdivide the property into villa sites.

BATHROOM CONVENIENCES.

If you are an ower of improved real estate containing old-fashioned plumbing and an antiquated bathroom, then you doubtless have experienced no end of trouble in finding the right purchaser for your holding. Too much importance these days cannot be placed upon the necessity of equipping the bathroom of a private dwelling with sanitary and modern plumbing, as well as practical and up-to-date fittings. Nearly everybody delights in a dainty bathroom, and even the calculating and experienced buyer of dwelling property is not altogether immune from the seductive influence of tempting porcelain ware and bright nickel trimmings that form the principal constituents of the ideal bathroom.

Among the new novelties and improvements is a device that will receive collar buttons, studs, tie and collar which can be attached to the wall for convenience. It has several arms, the center one straight and those on the outside curved, resembling somewhat a lyre when laid flat. At the base of the lyre is a small open box on which to place studs. The tie hangs over the straight bar and the collar or cuffs suspend from the curved bars, forming a convenient hanger.

Another article of merit is a receptacle for sheet toilet paper made of highly polished sheet metal. Then there is an attachment for the tooth brush, the holder itself being funnel shaped and flat, with a little lid on top, and the bottom or point is a catch which takes the tooth brush, holding it more securely than can be done by hand, so that powder cannot possibly be spilled when the revolving handle releases the particles.

Still another improvement worth noting is the perfected bath mat. If it will be remembered, the average bath mat, as most of us know, must be tread upon exactly in the center when either entering or leaving the tub. The new mat is provided with strapped hooks near either end which rest on the sides of the tub in much the same manner as the regulation bath seat, except that the mat rests upon the bottom of the bath tub, and in this position it is quite impossible for the mat to slip. The improved mat will be appreciated by persons whose weight exceeds the normal standard.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1908.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the lettrs "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block

Vol. LXXXIV. SEPTEMBER 4, 1909. No. 2164

THE explicit refusal of the Public Service Commission to approve the plans for subway extensions prepared by the management of the Interborough Company only gives an official confirmation to a decision for which everybody should have been prepared. The Commission has given many indirect intimations that it would not allow any proposals of the Interborough Company to be substituted for its own Broadway-Lexington avenue route. The reasons given for the refusal are in part convincing, and in part wholly unconvincing. The broad, general principle upon which Mr. Willcox bases the decision of the Commission is undoubtedly correct. He declares that in Manhattan a complete subway system should look, so far as possible, towards the occupation of each available longitudinal thoroughfare, with a single direct subway. This rule, the ordinary good sense of which will appeal to everybody, is fatal to the proposal of the Interborough Company to run two tracks up Lexington and two tracks up Third avenue. The space under Third avenue, north of 42d street, should unquestionably be reserved for the day when a subway along the whole length of the Bowery and Third avenue is needed. The Commission is, consequently, right in rejecting this part of the Interborough Company's plans; but it is wrong in assuming that the reasons for this rejection would apply to a proposal for an extension of the existing subway up Lexington avenue alone. The plain fact is that the occupation of Park avenue, north of 42d street, by the New York Central tunnel makes it impossible to stick rigidly to the rule that each subway should occupy one longitudinal thoroughfare. If the present subway is to be given a northerly extension on the east side, it must run up either Lexington or Madison avenue. The Interborough Company has always wanted Lexington avenue; but the Commission's answer to this demand is that Lexington avenue should be kept for a subway running south of 42d street to a connection with Broadway; and it suggests that the Interborough Company should occupy Madison avenue north of 42d street. To this reasoning the natural retort is that Madison avenue is really much better adapted to a northerly extension of a lower Broadway subway than is Lexington. A subway running up Broadway and turning into Madison avenue at 23d street would be both a more useful and straighter subway than the Broadway-Lexington avenue route as laid out by the Commission. Lexington avenue, from 42d street to 23d street, does not need additional means of transit. Neither does Madison avenue, between the two streets; but a subway on Madison avenue would at least be much more convenient to the large number of passengers who want to reach points along Fifth avenue. As a mater of fact, the whole difficulty is gratuitously created by the proposal to lay out any longitudinal subway situated altogether on the East Side. Such a subway is bound in part to duplicate the existing subway. The economical way to obtain additional rapid transit is to extend the Interborough's subway route from 42d street on the East Side and south from 42d street on the West Side. Then, as a next step, new through West and East Side lines could be constructed down Madison avenue and Broadway and down Eighth avenue and Hudson street.

THE fact remains, however, that the Public Service Commission has definitely abandoned the sensible and economical policy of the old Rapid Transit Commission of seeking, in the first place, the extension of the existing subway and of using independent routes only as an alternative, in case sufficiently good terms could not be obtained from the Interborough Company. For better or worse, the Commission has definitely adopted an unreasonable attitude in this matter, and their lack of good sense must be taken as one of the conditions of the problem. If the management of the Interborough Company is wise, it will adapt its plans to this condition—as it can perfectly well do. The Broadway-Lexington avenue route is in part a wasteful duplication of existing means of transit; but it should be a profitable route to build and operate, and the Interborough Company, in its own interest, should bid upon the official plans of the Commission. By the time the construction can be completed, there will be abundant traffic to make remunerative the Broadway-Lexington avenue route, as well as a West Side extension of the existing subway south from 42d street along Seventh avenue. This would mean three subways south of 42d street and only two north thereof; but the three subways south of 42d street would have the additional traffic furnished by the New York Central lines and the Belmont tunnel, and the local traffic south of 42d street would be very dense. A few years later an extension could be constructed along Madison avenue to the Harlem River, which would mean three direct and complete longitudinal subways, each of them provided with proper connections in the Bronx. In the mean time the wants of the inhabitants of the East Side, east of Third avenue, could be met by building third tracks on the elevated structures, one of which could be connected with the Queensboro Bridge. The next step in the development of the complete transit system would be, of course, the construction of another West Side line. In case the Interborough Company allows this development to take place without its co-operation, it will be acting not like a cool-headed and sensible business organization, but like an ill-tempered child. The Record and Guide agrees that its claims to consideration have not been sufficiently entertained by the Commission, and that the official plans of that body demand the temporarily wasteful and undesirable expenditure of a good many million dollars. But a corporation should not have any feelings. The one object of the company's policy should be to preserve its monopoly without incurring any wholly unprofitable expenditure, and it is certain that the preservation of its monopoly should be worth even greater pecuniary sacrifices to the company than those demanded by the obstinate unreasoning of the Commission. The plain fact is that a Broadway-Lexington avenue route and a Seventh avenue extension can be made to pay, and with that salutary fact the management of the company should be satisfied.

COMMISSIONER WILLCOX is entirely confident that the proposed amendment to the Constitution, exempting money expended on self-supporting subways from computation as part of the net debt of the city, will be adopted by popular vote; and it is very much to be hoped that this confidence will not be misplaced. It is just as desirable as ever that the city should be free, if necessary, to construct subways with its own funds. The offers of various bidders to provide the capital necessary for subway construction, without calling on the city's credit, apparently does away with the possibility that the city will need to exercise its power; but, in any event, the power should exist. Every corporation naturally seeks to make a bargain as advantageous as possible to itself; and in case bidders for transit privileges understood that the only way the city could obtain additional means of rapid transit was by means of capital furnished by themselves, they would inevitably put on the screws. The constitutional amendment is needed, consequently, as a weapon to be used in negotiations with private companies; and the mere fact that such a weapon exists will be the best possible guarantee that it will not be the cause of any increase in the city's obligations. The one serious objection to the amendment has been removed by the new rapid transit law. There was a danger that a clamorous local public opinion might force the authorities to use the city's credit to build unremunerative subways in the outlying district on the ground that they might be remunerative. But under the new law subways of that kind, when they are built at all, must be constructed in large measure out of assessments levied on the property benefited; and this provision will both cool the ardor of local property owners for unnecessary subways and protect the city's treasury. The passage of the amendment is necessary as part of a comprehensive policy of transit development, and this fact should be made plain to the voters all over Greater New York.

THE lesson of the removal of the former Borough President of the Bronx is obvious, and has frequently been written down in these pages; but it will bear repetition. Borough Presidents should not be elected, but should be appointed by the Mayor, because in no other way can he be made responsible for the economical and efficient administration of his office. The responsibility to the voters, which is supposed to exist at present, can usually be evaded. A Borough President is not elected or defeated on his personal record; he is carried into office on the tide of some general movement of opinion; and when once he is elected he knows that his renomination and re-election will depend partly on the continuation of his personal popularity and partly upon the general political situation at the end of his term of office. He has every temptation, consequently, to be extravagant and irresponsible. The money he spends is derived from the general fund, but benefits only his own constituents. His constituents, that is, profit by his extravagances, but do not have to pay more than a small part of the bills; naturally, they look leniently on expenditures which benefit them, but for which they are only partly responsible. Such a system not merely does not prevent inefficiency and waste, but positively encourages it; and the only way to prevent such semi-dishonor and wasteful practices is to make the official who spends the money responsible to the central authority which disburses it. Comptroller Metz is absolutely right in asserting that the opposition on the ground of "home rule" to the appointment of the chiefs of the borough administration is wholly in the interest of "graft." If the boroughs had a local system of taxation and paid for their own extravagances they would be entitled to elect their own administrative heads; but under existing arrangements, "home rule" means practically local extravagance at the expense of the whole city.

CO-OPERATIVE BUILDING.—Park and Madison avs, above 59th st, seem to be the favorite locations for a new order of architectural construction; new in the sense that in its latest form it is fancied and approved by people of wealth when they have opportunities for studying its advantages. The names that have been used to designate the method of building, for it is more particularly a new "method" than a new "kind" of building, have hardly had an attractive power of themselves with families not allied to Art and having no predeliction for "studios," or with families which, being independently situated, are not at once interested in the term "co-operative." A certain amount of misunderstanding has probably to be removed in each case that would not have been necessary had a more magnetic designation attached itself to the method in the first instance. The fundamental feature is the formation of a stock company whose members each invest an amount sufficient to purchase, each for himself, one of the floors in the house. If there are not in the corporation members enough to occupy the whole house, then the remainder of the floors, or apartments, are leased to other families approved by all the owners. The net expenses are divided pro-rata, and the advantage to the members of the syndicate is that they obtain a home elegant in its appointments and choice in its location for a sum which, while large in itself, is much less than a private dwelling would cost in the same locality. The quality of the house is superior to the speculative apartment house, it is differently planned and finished, and usually has a choicer location. The method differs from speculative operations in that the owners build for their own occupancy. There is nothing communistic in the idea. A few friends to whom the private dwelling appears impracticable, organize a stock company, buy their site outright, select an architect and sub-contractors. It need not necessarily be either a "duplex" apartment house or a "studio building," but in any event the owners find it a pleasant compromise between a private dwelling of the first rank and the only alternatives—an apartment hotel and the regulation apartment house. There would seem to be a new field for a few architects, builders and estate managers in filling the office of organizers of such corporations. It would be their part to suggest the method to a group of friends already desirous of getting a home under such circumstances, but needing a guide and counselor to bring them together and be their executive. The idea has been found susceptible to various modifications and some men who have tried it predict that it will inspire a large amount of construction sooner or later. This paper recently made mention of a syndicate organized by Alwyn Ball, Jr., that will erect a 12-sty house by this method on Park av at the southeast cor of 75th st, on a plot which measures 177 feet on the av and 100 on the st; but two dwellings now there will be permitted to remain, in order to provide a light and air court for the larger building.

FINISHED.—A street preacher standing in front of the Metropolitan Tower took for his text: "It Is Finished." So it is. The scaffolding is down and the golden pinnacle stands revealed. A stupendous and magnificent work is ended.

THE MELROSE PUBLIC BATH.

THE handsomest and most commodious municipal bath owned and operated by the City of New York, has just been completed and opened in the Melrose section at Elton av and 156th st. This is the first interior bath in the Bronx. It was erected by the Calumet Construction Company at an approximate cost of $140,000 from plans of Michael J. Garvin, architect and superintendent. The ground cost $8,000, making a total cost of about $150,000. The architecture is modern French, and the greatest care and skill have been applied by architect and contractor to make the building the most sanitary, complete and practical public bath in the city. They have succeeded most admirably. The edifice has a height of two stories of 40 feet, a frontage of 67 feet on Elton av and a depth of 100 feet on 156th st. The elevations are faced with granite, limestone and highly colored velvet brick. The Elton av facade is enriched with columns, an arcade and artistically carved ornaments. A heavy ornamental stone cornice and copper roof surmount the structure.

Separate entrances for men and women on Elton av open into a spacious and impressive loggia, richly ornamented with mosaic floor, massive stone walls and arches, bronze tablets and bronze ceiling. In the loggia are entrances to waiting rooms for men and women. These rooms are of ample size and of attractive proportions. They are provided with ice water fountains and other accessories to the comfort of the patrons of the baths. The baths are reached from the waiting rooms. On the main and upper floors there are 130 of them, each in a separate room consisting of two compartments, the outer compartment being the dressing-room and the inner the bath proper. Besides the shower baths, a number of porcelain finished tubs have been installed for people who prefer them. All the baths are provided with hot and cold water and are equipped with anti-scalding valves. Every drop of water is thoroughly filtered before it is available for use in the baths. The plumbing is open and of the most modern description. The walls of the baths are wainscoted with polished Tennessee marble to a height of 8 feet; the floors are of terrazzo. Above the wainscoting, the walls and ceilings are finished in Keene cement. In the basement of the building are the coal cellars, storerooms, ventilating and steam and hot-air heating apparatus, boilers and pumps, and the huge filtering machines.

MR. HARRIMAN and the daily newspapers behaved very nicely toward each other. The interest which the news organizations manifested in the condition of his health was reasonable and proper, in view of the great public concern; but when Mr. Harriman himself issued a frank statement of the case and, after extending his compliments, asked to be let alone, the reporters at once departed. Every newspaper respects frankness, but fights craftiness. The great financier was in no danger on account of his health, and the bull market started off again.

"THE GREAT NAIL."—For hundreds of years men and nations have tried to find the North Pole and fly their flags from it. For thousands of years they have tried to navigate the air. This present year sees both feats achieved, and both by Americans. Mother Shipton's prophesies have at last all been fulfilled. There yet remains the South Pole, but otherwise this planet has been pretty thoroughly explored. The next stunt is to get into communication with other worlds, and no doubt some one of Uncle Sam's sons will do this trick also.

—Is your business all that it ought to be? If you are not satisfied, note the difference between your equipment and that of successful real estate offices. At least 95 per cent. of the real estate business in Manhattan is done by subscribers of the Real Estate Directory and the Record and Guide Quarterly. Why do you think this is?

NEW STANDARD OF APARTMENT CONSTRUCTION.

Perhaps the Minimum for All Future Work on Manhattan Island—The Six-Story Elevator House as a Builder's Proposition.

Manhattan builders have practically stopped erecting non-elevator apartment houses. Nearly all the residential work this year is for six-story elevator houses or better. The rates to tenants in the six-story houses are twice as much as in the old five-story houses. Broadway, the scene of the most building, on Washington Heights at the present time, is to be all taken up with houses of this quality, each occupying half the frontage of a block. Similar houses will also be erected in the side streets. Is this to be the minimum standard for all future apartment house construction in Manhattan Borough? If so what changes in household economy are implied for families hitherto unaccustomed to such rates?

THE two long lines of apartment houses that in two years have grown out of lands long vacant on Broadway, north of 137th st, can be studied in several ways, but one of the most interesting will take them as the basis of a comparison between the construction ideals of the present day and those of previous eras. We never had in any previous building movement of a speculative nature an average quality of construction to equal the present workmanship.

"WINDSOR COURT."
Broadway, southeast corner of 161st Street.

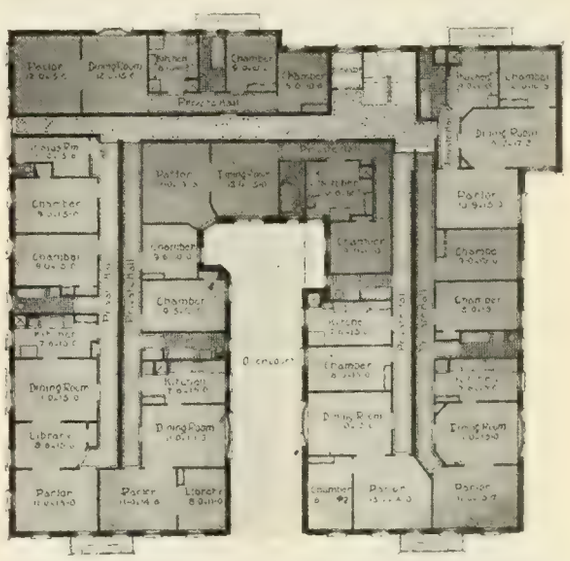
The houses which now frame the same thoroughfare in the sections south of Cathedral Parkway are many of them superior in size and relative cost, but these were put together intermittently, and their construction did not constitute ONE COMPACT AND UNIFIED MOVEMENT like the swift operations which have raised two miles of elevator buildings on Washington Heights in two years or less. With but few breaks the lines of new houses extend northward to the baseball park, and two other lines from the north have reached down to 178th st; in another year the extremities may be joined.

PREVIOUS BUILDING BOOMS.

Before the financial depression the principal building centers for apartment houses on Manhattan Island were in the streets intersecting Amsterdam av on Washington Heights, and in the upper Lenox av section. In the decade following 1890 the seat of apartment house operations was principally on the plains of Harlem, and in a less intensified form on what was then the "Upper West Side." It was in the year 1880 that the overflow from the East Side began to trickle into the Upper West Side. Rents in Harlem in that year were advancing rapidly and the influence of the Third Avenue Elevated Road was stimulating building.

During the year 1883 plans were filed for 183 buildings to cost $3,398,075, between 59th and 125th sts, west of 8th av, and in the same period 849 buildings, to cost $13,754,047, were filed for the East Side—a comparison which shows more clearly than any description where the real seat of operations was at that era. But operations on the West Side steadily enlarged from this time on and in the year 1885 plans were filed for 689 buildings in that part of town, which was equal to the number filed during the same year on the East Side. In 1886 plans were filed for 948 buildings on the Upper West Side, and in the following year 824 were planned.

That was the culmination of the first great West Side boom.



Among the leading operators and builders were D. Willis James, the Clarks, W. E. D. Stokes, Charles Buek, John D. Crimmins, Edward J. King, Ralph F. Townsend, David H. Knapp, Joseph F. de Navarro, George C. Edgar & Sons, Richard Deeves, Thomas Cochrane, J. G. Prague, Lamb & Rich, Walker & Lawson, Charles Batchelor and Samuel Colcord.

In our day the names of individuals are obscured by the titles of their operating corporations, and oftentimes a single building is all that stands in a corporation's name. This fact of itself indicates that building operations require more capital than in former years, and that organized syndicates have largely superseded the lone hand. Twenty-five years ago private dwellings represented the best and most general form of builders' operations. Up to the year 1897 but few large elevator apartment houses had appeared.

HIGH-GRADE CONSTRUCTION.

The 6-sty semi-fireproof elevator apartment house represents the prevailing form of residential construction at the present time on this island. Very few houses of the 5-sty non-fireproof, or "walk-up," class are being erected. The Broadway-Washington Heights house usually occupies one-half of a block front, and its ground dimensions are therefore about 100 feet square. It is better planned and designed and altogether is a far higher grade of building than its 5-sty predecessor.

The floor plans have a close resemblance to the 12-sty fireproof class of apartments, and no resemblance at all to the 5-sty non-fireproof class. Many are planned with a "forecourt" and some have a side court also; a few are built on the "H" plan. They have large marble foyers, a waiting-room for visitors, a telephone switchboard and operator, corridors tiled and carpeted, mail chutes, either garbage closets or garbage chutes, and hardwood floors, with parquet borders in some of the rooms. Above all, the rooms are of much larger size than in the old flats, and they are all light and airy, whereas nearly all the old flats contained some rooms which were small and dark.

RELATIVE COST.

Apartments in these houses rent for ten to twelve dollars a room, or just twice the average rate charged for the previous prevailing type of apartment. Proportionately the buildings cost more also. The Broadway houses which we have in mind represent an investment averaging ten times greater than the builders of twenty-five years ago put into the average West Side tenement house.

"Not only is the total investment many times larger for the present-day apartment house than for its predecessor," said William L. Rouse, the architect, "but the cost is also greater relatively. This is owing to the higher standard of construction, following from the higher standard of public taste. Tenants and investors require more from the builder than formerly. There is a great deal of misconception in regard to the higher relative cost of apartment house construction now than in previous times. The increase results principally not from higher wages to mechanics, but from the higher standard of public requirements. The standard of living is higher and tenants and investors demand finer buildings than formerly, and necessarily materials, workmanship and equipment must be correspondingly better.

"The design is better, dimensions larger, the masonry, the mortar, the plastering, the decorations, the fixtures—all are better than in the houses of other days."

AS AN INVESTMENT.

The fact that builders have selected the 6-sty elevator house in preference to any other for present work is clear proof that they pay better, and the inside fact is that they produce a very much larger net income than the non-elevator houses. As we have said, they rent for twice as much per room, but they do not cost twice as much per cubic foot. The return from the actual cash investment of owners has thus far been very satisfactory. There is found to be economy in large houses.

Most builders very considerably increase the ratio of profit by borrowing half to two-thirds the cost of the property at as low a rate of interest as they can. The value of corner plots having frontages on Broadway and comprising about four lots averages about $125,000, or $1,250 a front foot. The average total investment for house and building approximates $275,000.

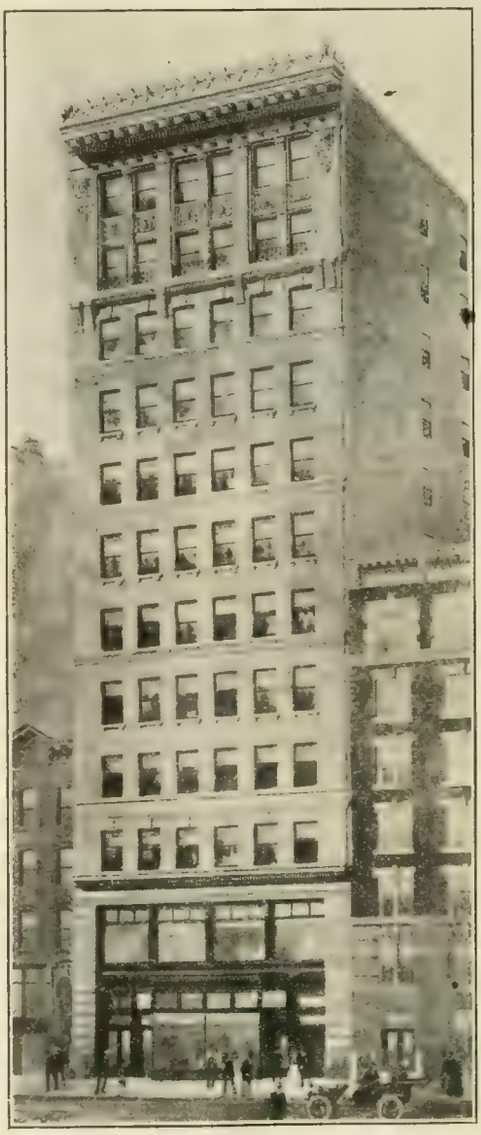
We are at an interesting stage of the construction history of New York. The people have rebelled against small and dingy rooms and plain construction, and the builders have provided beautiful houses with large and airy rooms and new conveniences. The same class of tenants that were in the old houses are flocking into the new, and are paying twelve dollars per room instead of six as heretofore. HOW LONG CAN THIS PROCESS BE CONTINUED?

How many more families are there who can afford to pay the price? Is this class of housing or better to be the standard for all future apartment-house construction on Manhattan Island? Some of these questions will be answered before another year passes.



EXAMPLES.

The "Pavonazza Court," at the southwest corner of 152d st, erected and owned by the Sun Construction Co. (B. Neiberg, president), has a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 150 feet. It has a central court and also a side court. Eight apartments on the floor, with two baths to each apartment. The interior finish is in cabinet hardwoods, with parquet floors in the master rooms. Every apartment contains a wall safe. The kitchens have porcelain tubs and sinks, tile-lined refrigerators, separate dumbwaiters, sanitary garbage closets and plenty of dresser room. The vestibule and hall are beautifullly finished in marble, with mosaic floors, and the stoop is enhanced by a marquise extending its whole length. From some of the rear apartments there is a view of the river.

The "Windsor Court," at the southeast corner of 161st st and Broadway, has a "forecourt," lined with white enameled brick, and stores on the first floor. The entrance is on the street. The Crystal Realty & Construction Company is the owner. The facade is in Harvard brick and limestone. All the floors are of oak, with parquetry in the dining-rooms and parlors. The dining-rooms have solid panel wainscoting capped with plate shelf, and are separated from the parlors by French casement doors. The parlors are finished in white enamel, with mahogany finished doors and Colonial mirror consols. The bedrooms are finished in bird'seye maple and curly birch. The bathrooms are tiled and have Trenton pottery ware, flushometers and showers.

The new store and loft structure which is now under course of construction for the Realty Holding Company, of 907 Broadway, at Nos. 22-24 West 27th st, is rapidly going up. The structural steel frame work and side walls have been completed and the 12-sty facade is more than half up. The building covers a FIREPROOF HOUSES OF TERRA COTTA HOLLOW TILE.

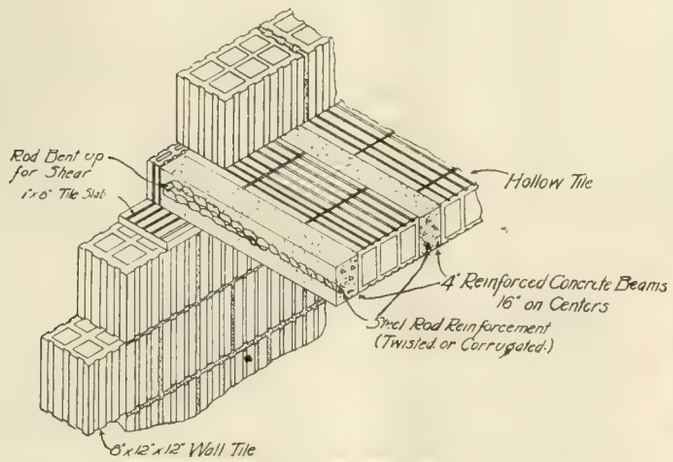
New Examples of This Form of Construction in the Vicinity of New York—Details of Construction and the Cost.

As the price of lumber has risen in recent years, the tendency to choose fireproof materials for home-building has become general, especially in the more thickly-populated centres far from the timber supply. Perhaps the most conspicuous feature of this movement has been the introduction of terra-cotta blocks for structural purposes. In the last two or three years hundreds of homes have been built of these blocks—which were formerly used only for fireproofing; still more are under construction and are projected.



"Hollow tile," as the terra cotta blocks are commonly called, is known to every New Yorker who has eyes for the tall buildings going up around him. It is used there for column covering, floors, and partitions. In homes it is this same material that is used for the walls and every other part of the house—the same material made heavier and thicker.

RESIDENCE OF CHARLES W. CLINTON, ESQ., AT TUXEDO, N. Y.

The block is made of clay burned very hard. In the way in which it is laid in home construction, the cores, or hollow spaces, run vertically, making so-called continuous dead air spaces from top to bottom. These cause the walls to be non-conductors of heat, with the result that the interior of the house is warmer in winter and cooler in summer than if the walls were solid.

Various sizes of blocks are open to the choice of the builder. The commonest one, which has come to be taken as a standard, is 12 inches long, 12 inches high and 8 inches thick. This is quite stout enough for the average home, but, when more than ordinary strength is desired, blocks 12x12x10 and 12x12x12 are used. Proper shapes in terra cotta have been devised for the different positions in the wall. For example, there are the Jamb Block, used for window openings, and the Wall Corner Block. The latter, being longer than the regular wall block, makes possible a perfect bond by the overlapping of joints at the corner.

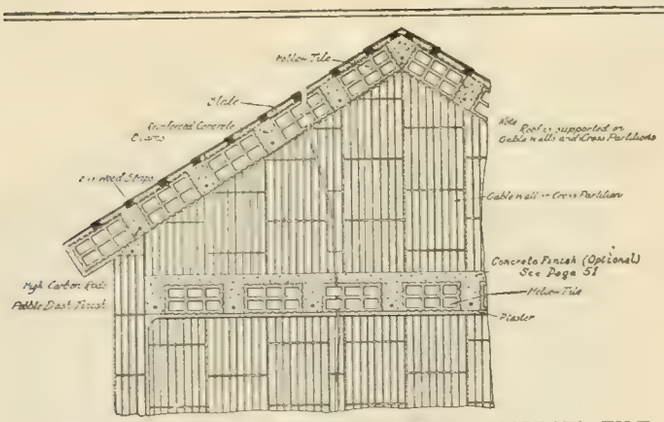
Window sills and lintels, for which concrete or brick was once used, are now built of tile. A "lip," jutting out from one end of the block, forms a perfect case for the window-frame, and prevents moisture from penetrating to the inner surface of the wall. Blocks four inches thick, with the cores horizontal, are laid across the walls' blocks as a rest for the window-sill. For lintels blocks two inches thick are used, one on the outside and one on the inside of the wall, the space between them being filled with concrete. Thus, by the use of terra cotta for the wall surfaces throughout, the stucco finish can be applied to the lintels, frames and sills at the same time as the rest of the building, and the color of the exterior will be uniform.

All the wall blocks are made with parallel depressions in the two surfaces, running up and down, so that the stucco may be applied on the exterior and plaster inside.

In the application of a stucco finish, the tile should be well wetted, and the mortar composed of sharp sand and a standard Portland cement. Sand and cement, in proportions of three to one, with 6 per cent. of lime putty, all thoroughly mixed, make the first coating. This is called the "brown coat." When that has set, the "rough-cast coat" is applied. This consists of limestone screenings, sharp sand and cement. The mixture should be put on carefully, so that the coat will be even and so that no discolorations will appear. The depressions in the terra cotta blocks give the stucco a good fast grip, so that it neither cracks nor falls off.

Roof construction was for a long time a serious problem to the man who wished to put up a fireproof home at moderate cost.



A HOUSE AT BRIARCLIFF IN PROCESS OF CONSTRUCTION.

It was difficult to design a pitched roof—one that would be satisfactory from an architectural standpoint—without using steel, and steel is expensive. A combination of hollow-tile blocks, with beams of reinforced concrete has solved the problem. By this system, the weight of the roof bears on the end, or gable, walls and upon the cross partitions, thus relieving the side walls of the "thrust." The finished roof, slate or tile or composition, may be fixed to nailing strips which are inserted in a thin covering of concrete.

A home may have walls of hollow tile and floors of wood. This cannot, of course, be called a real fireproof construction; it is sometimes called "semi-fireproof." There is a type of floor construction, however, which justifies the application of the term "fireproof" to the home. In this the tile blocks are laid flat, between reinforced concrete beams, the hollow spaces running horizontally, and not, as in the walls, vertically. The ends of the concrete beams rest squarely upon the walls, with a tile slab one inch thick between.

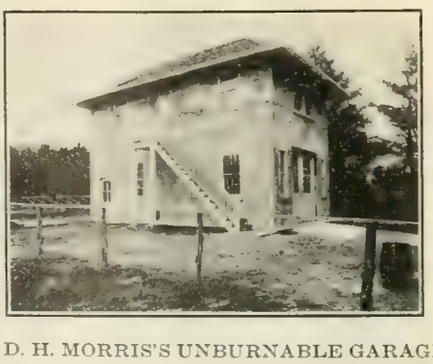
Persons unfamiliar with the new materials are, naturally, curious to know something of its strength. To determine the capacity of hollow tile, Mr. R. D. Bradbury, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, subjected several of the blocks to elaborate tests a few months ago. He found that the blocks, 10 inches thick, with the outside shell seven-eighths of an inch and webs three-fourths of an inch thick, sustained to full-load capacity of the Emery testing machine. This means that each block developed a strength of 300,000 pounds, or a strength of



SHOWING FIREPROOF WALL AND FLOOR CONSTRUCTION.

5,560 pounds to every square inch. The results with the six-inch blocks were equally satisfying, one of them sustaining the whole load of the machine and the other showing a strength of 9,940 pounds to the square inch of cross-sectional area.

THE ITEM OF COST.

The cost of hollow-tile houses, with fireproof floors, has been variously estimated at from 12 to 20 per cent. more than that of a frame house of the same size and plan. The economy in the fireproof construction, however, lies in the permanence, the decreased cost of maintenance, and the lower insurance premium. A peculiarly forcible illustration of the ultimate saving is to be found at Glen Cove, Long Island. Here a four-story hotel has been built of hollow tile; the builder has found that he saves $500 a year in insurance premiums, as compared with what he would have to pay if the hotel were a frame building. This one item will, it is said, in a few years, compensate for the entire difference in original cost.

If the home-builder estimates the cost of his house for five years, and not the original cost, he finds that terra-cotta construction has an advantage over some others. Two architects and two builders, all of them well-known in New York, have approved the following figures as showing the approximate comparative costs of a home in the vicinity of the metropolis: (1) Frame, $10,000; (2) Outside brick walls, wooden inside, $11,000; (3) Stucco on expanded metal, wooden inside, $10,250; (4) Hollow terra-cotta blocks, stuccoed, wooden inside, $10,500; (5) Hollow terra-cotta blocks stuccoed, fireproof throughout except roof, $12,000; (6) Hollow terra-cotta walls, faced with brick, fireproof floors and roof, $14,000; (7) Brick walls, fireproof floors and roof, $15,000.

D. H. MORRIS'S UNBURNABLE GARAGE, WESTCHESTER, N. Y.

NOVELTIES.

A REFRIGERATOR THAT IS PART OF THE HOUSE.—A certain concern has a new proposition to make to builders in the form of a refrigerator that is made from the owner's or architect's measurements, and which may be installed within the wall so as to save room space in small kitchens and at the same time protect its surfaces from the heat from the stove. The refrigerators are well built, tile lined and exterior surfaced, and conform to the United States standard specifications. The ice chamber is built to any size desired, although regular sizes are carried in stock.

A SELF-CLEANING RADIATOR AIR VALVE.—Every housekeeper knows something about the annoyance of a radiator air valve that will not work. Architects are aware of the fact that inventors have been at this problem for years. There are to-day, several on the market, but there is a local concern that has a simple contrivance that seems to have real merit. The valve itself has been on the market for twelve years. It is not a new, untried scheme. It has merely been improved. It has no wells or pockets to retain dirt, oil or core sand. The operation is the same, whether the pressure is one or ten pounds. It is automatically self-cleaning. It also has a locked shield and with the key in proper hands, the valve cannot be tampered with.

A NEW METAL SASH FOR STORE FRONTS.—This is a metal sash, embodying in its construction absolutely no wood. It is made in either cold drawn, copper, brass, aluminum or bronze. The face piece and inside piece unite forming a self-supporting construction. It is made in two styles, one for setting plate glass in window frames above the first floor and another for setting panes in sashes on the ground floor. They are fully equipped with drainage and ventilation device. The design is simple and entirely practical.

SLIDING DOOR LOCKS ITSELF.—Other locks perfected for sliding doors are self-acting, to be sure, but this one is so constructed that no matter how hard the jar or how frequent the shock, the lock cannot be broken. At the same time the lock is a double one, in as much as it is a "bite," that is, one jaw comes down over the top of the holding lug while an under one raises and fastens itself to it. At the same time, all that is necessary to open the door is to give a single pull on lever in the mortised handle and the jaws fly apart. It is an ideal arrangement for sliding elevator doors as well as for sliding parlor doors. The lock must act. Only one tumbler is used in its mechanism. It can be operated from one or both sides. The secret of the contrivance is that the door, not the lock, gets the jolt from the slam.

DINING-ROOM RADIATOR WITH OVEN IN.—All kinds of dining-room radiators are on the market to-day. Some combine dish warmers or tea or coffee warmers. A novel idea is displayed in a contrivance that a well-known radiator firm has put on the market. It is an ordinary sectional, diningroom radiator which embraces, about half way down from the top and through about nine segments, an oven-like shelf wherein a whole dinner may be set or the entire dish equipment for a good-sized dinner may be placed in it until wanted. By keeping the viands entirely enclosed meats cannot dry up.

SINK AND DOUBLE DRAINER IN ONE PIECE.—Here is an idea that should take well in apartment houses, and especially in two-family houses. It consists of a sink, double drain boards and apron all in one piece. The length over all is 54 inches. The sink is 20x24 inches, the back 15 inches and the apron 5 inches. This is all white enameled. It is fastened to the wall and is supported by two white enameled iron legs which are directly under the sink. The advantages claimed for this is that there are no cracks through which water on the drain boards or the splasher can seep through to the floor.

ATTRACTIVE SURFACE FINISH FOR CONCRETE.

By ALBERT MOYER, Assoc. Am. Soc. C. E.

Erect forms of rough boards by the usual methods, in courses of 3 feet or less. Plaster inside of forms with wet clay, work to a plastic consistency which will adhere to the forms. Corners may be rounded by this method, and by indentations bead work and other designs can be accomplished.

While the clay is wet, apply evenly loose buff, red or other colored sand, after which pour in the concrete by the same method as applied to ordinary wet concrete construction; remove forms in usual time, and after clay is dry wash off the clay with water, and, if necessary, scrub slightly with a brush. The sand will thus adhere to the concrete, giving a surface of pleasing color and texture.

THE ADDITION TO ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL, on Morningside Heights, will have reinforced concrete floor slabs in connection with a steel frame and brick construction. The top flooring will be tile and cement; the roof construction of terra-cotta tile, covered with slate; two-inch solid metal lath and plaster partitions; two skylights, 25x25 feet, wireglass; wire mesh protection; kalameined doors to stairs and connecting passages; four-inch standpipe with hose on each floor. Ernest Flagg is the architect.

REGISTRATION CIRCULAR BY NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN CHAPTERS.

A letter sent out by D. Everett Waid, secretary of the New York chapter, shows the progress made toward registration and the attitude of the leading chapters of the Institute in the City of New York. The conclusions of the committee having this matter in charge are worthy of attention:

"The joint committee found that present registration or license laws are charged, justly or unjustly, with savoring too much of the principle of trade unionism. We believe that the profession should scrupulously avoid any attitude which mught subject it to the suspicion of trying to get business by law or of interfering with the rights of others who wish to design buildings.

"The American Institute of Architects has already won a high place in public estimation for architecture as a profession and it cannot afford to place itself in the attitude of trying to create its standing, or increase its importance, by law. On the other hand, the Institute cannot place itself in opposition to legislation which may have as its object the regulation of the practice of architecture so far as it may conserve the safety of life and property.

"This committee, after making some study of the registration laws now in force in California, Illinois and New Jersey, and also the proposed enactments for New York, and after reviewing the sentiments of architects in the three states mentioned above, concludes that the profession should adopt a conservative attitude towards such proposed legislation. We believe that the profession would prefer to see recognition by law deferred indefinitely rather than to accept faulty laws which would be difficult to amend. We should not hesitate to oppose the passage of any act which omits a single one of certain essentials of a wise law. These essential provisions we would describe as follows:

"First—A proper definition of the term 'architect' which must express clearly the fact that the architect's function is a professional one in the interest of the client and in securing the best building for the price.

"Second—That the assumption of the title 'architect' without proper authority of the law shall be a violation of said law and punishable as such.

"Third—That work drawings of every building must be signed by the author, as 'architect,' 'owner' or 'contractor,' and that such signature shall carry with it the responsibility for the structural design of the building.

"Fourth—That in the event a building is not supervised by the architect, the owner and the contractors concerned shall each file an affidavit with the superintendent of buildings (or other designated authority) certifying that the building has been erected in accordance with the drawing and specifications.

"Fifth—That if the law requires a fee to carry the expense of the registration board it shall be a gross sum and not a periodical tax, and that such fees shall be kept in a trust fund for the expenses of the registration board and not be paid into the public treasury."

HARMONY OF STYLE IN BERLIN.

The city of Berlin is taking effective measures to insure the success of the program of beautification. In accordance with an ordinance approved by the municipal authorities, permits for new buildings in many portions of the city may be refused hereafter on purely esthetic grounds, even where the requirements regarding fire protection and sanitation are satisfactorily filled.

Under the new regulations, which are the subject of lively discussion, plans for new buildings and proposed alterations of any kind can be approved only in case they correspond with the general style and charatcer of the surroundings. New structures must "not impair the characteristic aspect of the street view of which they form a part."

The neighborhoods of certain historic churches are especially designated as localities where particular care must be taken as to the impression created upon the eye by the entire perspective.

Berlin has now a population of 2,000,000. Old as the city is the larger number of the buildings have been constructed within the last 15 years.

SIDEWALK GUARANTEES.—Theodore S. Oxholm, engineer in charge of the Bureau of Engineering of the Department of Public Works in the Borough of Richmond, has noticed that in certain cities of New Jersey, contractors for building cement sidewalks must give the city a guarantee before they can procure a permit for constructing same. This appears to Mr. Oxholm as an excellent innovation, at it is impossible for the sidewalk Division of the Engineering Bureau to watch the mixing of the concrete on private sidewalk work; and it would be beneficial to both the owner and the city. Any contractor who refused to repair the walk where necessary during the first two years under his guarantee, could be refused a permit for new work, and this regulation would gradually become self-enforcing.

NEW CONVENT BUILDING IN WEST FIFTEENTH STREET.

THE new building now being erected at Nos. 222-224 West 15th st, as an addition to the Convent of Jesus-Mary, now located at Nos. 225-227 West 14th st, will be an innovation in the architectural field for which it was designed. It will consist of nine stories and cellar, with a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 109 feet. The front will be of Indiana limestone for the first story, with red brick and terra-cotta trimmings above, and finally copper cornices.

The work throughout will be absolutely fireproof, being of steel with reinforced concrete floors and fireproof-block partitions. The roof will be of flat tile with copper flashings, and will offer a pleasant promenade in summer.

On the ground floor there will be a spacious dining-room with a tile floor. In connection with the dining-room will be the service pantries and kitchen arranged so as to give the quickest and best service. The kitchen will have tiled walls to ceiling, and will be fitted with the finest cooking apparatus obtainable.

CONVENT OF JESUS-MARY
222-224 West 15th st.

Convenient to the kitchen will be large store and refrigerator rooms cooled by a refrigeration system located in the cellar.

The lowest story, or cellar, will contain boiler and engine rooms, laundry, bakery and storage rooms. The boiler will be of the horizontal tubular type with a capacity of 125 horsepower, supplying heat and power, and also steam for cooking purposes. An electrically-driven refrigerating apparatus will be located in the engine room for cooling the refrigerators and supplying ice water on all floors.

On the first floor will be located a handsome chapel in the Roman style of architecture. The columns and pilasters will be of the Corinthian order and the ceiling will be coffered with richly ornamental cornices. The windows will extend to the ceiling and will have circular heads and will be fitted with handsome stained glass. On this floor there will also be a meeting-room, library and an infirmary.

Above the first floor there will be seven bedroom floors containing in all one hundred and twelve single rooms and twenty-one suites. Each room will have running water and ample wardrobes. A number of bathrooms with tiled walls and floors and open nickel-plated plumbing will be located on each floor.

Mr. Real Estate Man and Messrs. Architect–Owner–Agent

The use of Gas has become so universal that no matter what purpose your building is designed for it will not be complete and meet all requirements of the occupants unless it is

PIPED FOR GAS

Every day Gas is becoming a greater factor in up to date methods of working and living.

There will be a drinking fountain with filtered ice water in the main corridor on every floor. The building will be lighted with electricity throughout, with switches in every room. The lighting fixtures will be fitted with Tungsten lamps. There will be an electric passenger elevator running from the cellar to roof equipped with all modern safety devices.

A building of this character provides a delightful home for ladies seeking quiet and refined surroundings at a moderate cost. The establishment will be under the management of the religious order of Jesus-Mary, whose houses have long been noted for their success throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

The preparation of the plans have been given most careful consideration and study by the architect, John W. Kearney, of 1133 Broadway, who has examined a number of buildings of similar character and has incorporated in this building the most modern and up-to-date improvements. The construction is being carried out by the Richard L. Walsh Company, of 100 William st.

NEWARK'S BIG BUILDING YEAR.

Figures supplied by the Building Department of Newark for the eight months beginning January of this year, show that Newark has had a record year in building construction. This has meant business for building material and construction firms in this city. The total is nearly $6,000,000 greater than for the same period last year. The total for 1909 is $10,408,528 as against $4,631,422 for 1908. Allowances, of course, must be made for the fact that the depression had a retardant effect upon building operations last year.

The Building Department of that city figures that half the increase should be attributed to the Prudential Building addition, the actual cost of which is $2,250,000, the telephone building and the Firemens' Insurance Company's building amounting to about $900,000 more. In 1907, the banner year for that city, the total construction work for the year was $10,412,000. The Building Department gave out these figures showing building operations by months:

March	1,278,025	499,757
June	1,148,641	751,208
July	990,990	747,271

CONVENTION OF THE ILLUMINATING ENGINEERING SOCIETY.—The third annual convention of the Illuminating Engineering Society will be held in the Engineers' Building, 33 West 39th Street, New York, on September 27, 28 and 29, 1909. The following papers will probably be presented: "Ethics of Illuminating Engineering," by E. L. Elliott; "Some Notes on Illuminating Engineering Practice in Europe," by H. Thurston Owens; "The Importance of Illuminometry in Practical Illuminating Engineering," by Norman MacBeth; "Efficiency of Lighting Installations," by A. L. Eustice; "Shades and Reflectors," by Dr. Louis Bell; "The Design of Reflectors," by A. J. Sweet; "Diffusing Mediums," by A. J. Marshall; "Absorption and Diffusion of Various Forms of Glass Surfaces," by Basset Jones, Jr.; "Factory and Mill Lighting," by L. B. Marks; "The Photometric Laboratory of the United Gas Improvement Co.," by C. O. Bond; "The New Physical Laboratory of the National Electric Lamp Association," by E. B. Hyde; "Modern Photometric Practice in an Incandescent Electric Lamp Factory," by Charles Deshler; "The Problem of Heterochrome Photometry," by E. S. Millar; "Description of a Demonstration Lighting Installation," by W. C. Morris; "Discussion of the Efficiency of the Moore Light," by Messrs. Hyde, Woodwell, Sharp and Millar.

ROAD-BUILDING PROBLEMS are troublesome. It has been found that ordinary macadam won't do. The motor cars tear up the surface, no matter how well it may have been constructed, and scatter it in the form of fine particles. Roads that were built a year or two ago are in worse shape than if they had been subjected to the wear and tear of horse-drawn vehicles for fifteen years. The New York State authorities are experimenting with a surface covering made of bitumen. Allegheny County, Pa., the second in the State of Pennsylvania in population and wealth, will build no more macadam roads, but will use vitrified brick instead. Brick pavement is now in the ascendency.

—The Secretary of War has approved the recommendation of the Quartermaster General of the Army for the allotment of the funds, amounting to $1,528,346, for barracks and quarters of the seacoast defenses. This was the amount available for the present fiscal year and represents a reduction in the original estimate as sent to Congress. This fact necessitated a revision of the various projects at different seacoast forts. The largest expenditures are authorized at Forts Andrews, Mass., $177,449; H. G. Wright, N. Y., $97,474; Monroe, Va., $182,750, and Williams, Me., $135,600.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

ADVANCE REPORTS.

Two More Loft Buildings for Fourth Avenue.—To Cost $3,000,000, and Cover the Block Opposite the Metropolitan Building.

4TH AV.—The old Ashland House, located at the southeast corner of 4th av and 24th st, purchased last April by Henry Corn and later bought by Philip Braender, 143 West 125th st, the builder, is now to be improved by Mr. Braender with a tall office and loft structure, having a total height of either 20 or 24 stories, the exact height of which will be determined within a few days. The site takes in one-half of the block front on 4th av, or about 98.9x150 ft., and includes the property now adjoining in 24th st, taking in Nos. 104 and 106 East. The present lessee of the hotel is protected by a ninety-day cancellation clause, so that in all probability building operations will not be started until the first of January. The plans are now being prepared by William C. Frohne, architect, of No. 38 East 21st st, and on account of undetermined height it will be about three weeks yet before plans will be finally completed. It is also learned that the steel contract has already been awarded, and that Mr. Braender will do the mason work himself. The cost of the building will approximate $1,-200,000.

At the northeast corner of 4th av and 23d st, Nos. 303-311 4th av, and 101-107 East 23d st, the old 3-sty brick school building occupied by Packard's Business College, recently owned by J. M. Horton, is also to be replaced with a similar business building covering a frontage of about 98.9x155 feet, abutting the new Ashland building. This corner is owned by Joseph Milbank, of Greenwich, Conn., and 33 Wall st, this city, and will be constructed by him. As far as could be learned on Friday no architect has yet been officially retained to prepare these plans. The new 16-sty office structure also to be erected at the southwest corner of 4th av and 25th st, by Mr. Milbank, is from plans by Geo. B. Post & Son, of 341 5th av. The total expenditure of the two buildings together is estimated at $3,000,000, and it is planned to have both buildings ready by February, 1911.

Fifth Avenue Baptist Church Plans.

46TH ST.—It has been decided by the Building Committee of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, consisting of Edgar L. Marston, A. S. Walker, F. L. Froment, E. M. Foote, Colgate Hoyt, Harry Hubbard, J. E. Thompson, Charles T. Peck and E. L. Ballard, for the new church edifice which it was recently determined to erect on the site of the old place of worship, No. 8 West 46th st, immediately west of 5th av, to have the competitive plans all in by Sept. 9. It is understood that the committee is receiving competitive designs from six invited architects all of whom are New York men. The architectural character of the new building has not as yet been announced, although it is to measure 100x100 ft., and cost in the neighborhood of $600,000. The Rev. C. F. Aked, 2 West 86th st, is pastor, and Edgar Marston, 24 Broad st, is president of the Board of Trustees.

H. M. Baer to Plan "Churchills."

BROADWAY.—Herbert M. Baer, 542 5th av, has been commissioned to prepare plans for the new restaurant and hotel building which is to be erected for Captain James Churchill further up on Broadway. The site secured by Captain Churchill comprises 1603 to 1609 Broadway and 216 and 218 West 49th st, which forms an L around the southwest corner of Broadway and 49th st. William B. Lockwood, the owner, will erect the building and has leased the new structure to Mr. Churchill for a term of 21 years. It has frontages of 58.11 on Broadway and a depth of 176.4 ft., and there is an L fronting 50 ft. in 49th st. At present three are 3-sty dwellings on the site. The number of stories has not been determined, and work will not be started for some months yet. No contract has yet been issued.

Only one plan was filed on Tuesday, and that for a $2,000 stable to be erected on the Grand Concourse and Boulevard. Rather a feeble start for the Boulevard building movement.

Arising out of a visit to Belgium last year of the Sheffield Master Builders' Association, a large party of Belgian builders, representing the Associations of Antwerp, Brussels, and Ghent, have visited England; and in Sheffield, Liverpool, and London they have been received by representatives of the associations belonging to the National Federation of Master Builders.

The Burt Manufacturing Co., of Akron, Ohio, oil filters, reports that the month of August was the largest and busiest month for business in its history, which extends over a period of seventeen years. The fact that the concern has unfilled orders on the books amounting to nearly 40 per cent. of the entire output for August is an indication of a rapidly increasing demand for this specialty during the last few months.

Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer to the Board of Estimate, has returned from his vacation, and has taken up the subject of experiments with cinder concrete, reinforced concrete and hollow tile, as directed by the Mayor. Mr. Lewis says he is having trouble getting together a satisfactory committee of experts to pass upon the results of the tests. Nearly everybody claiming to be an authority on fireproof construction, it seems, appeared either on one side or the other during the building code hearings. As far as the place for carrying on the experiment work is concerned, the Columbia University testing station at Greenpoint has been offered, but it is too small. Considerable money will have to be spent in enlarging this site if it is used.

The employees of C. J. O'Brien, printer of the Record and Guide, held their annual outing at Feltman's, Coney Island, on last Saturday. Over one hundred employees and invited guests of Mr. O'Brien sat down to an old-fashioned clambake, preceding which a set of resolutions handsomely engrossed, were presented to Mr. O'Brien by his employees, bearing the signatures of practically every man in his employ, numbering nearly one hundred. The resolutions expressed appreciation of the personal and friendly interest shown by Mr. O'Brien in every one of his employees. After the bake there was speaking, singing and other amusements, and the prevailing sentiment was, to quote one of the orators, "if there were more employers like Mr. O'Brien the labor problem would be solved."

Building Material Market Encouraging.

September first came in with brighter prospects for fall business than has been reported this year. The feeling is general that with the passing of August the late depression becomes nothing but history. The brick situation is firmer and prices are moving upward. Cement prices are going up and thirty-day deliveries still rule. Iron is doing a big business at advancing prices. Structural steel is firming up for a general advance. Sheets are behind demand in both black and galvanized. Lumber prices are going forward, spruce following yellow pine and the hardwoods. Stone has almost entirely recovered with big orders in hand and inquiries for liberal quantities. Increasing business is being done in the suburbs by local material men. Fabricators are working nigh to capacity. Spring operations that were held up, only to be further delayed by shaky market conditions during the summer, are expected to go ahead within the next two weeks. This is a good time to buy material because prices will be much higher within a fortnight.

Brick Prices Stiffen as Market Improves.

The Hudson River brick market is improving both from the wholesaler's and the retailer's points of view. Sales yesterday were made at from $5.50 to $6 for hard commons. This is an advance of two shillings around. Shipments continue regular and the demand is steady, but in the former case the disposition is spreading among the manufacturers to ease up on shipments until the local market becomes stronger. Up to date, however, the shipments received here are nearly up to capacity figures, the arrivals for the week ending on Aug. 28 being 84; sales, 85; and holdovers on Aug 23d, 6. Holdovers on Aug. 30th, 6. Under present towing conditions and availability of barges it is considered not possible to receive more than 90 barges a week at the Exchange docks. It will therefore be seen that a good supply of brick is coming down the river. That the demand here is good, is proved by the fact that on Wednesday there was only one barge load of brick at West 52d st.

SOME DEALERS STACKING.

Although it is said that some dealers announced early in the spring that as soon as Hudson River Common got above $5.50 they would stop stacking, most of them have ceased but there are some who are still storing. Manufacturers complain that labor is beginning to get scarce, which is quite usual at this time of the year. Most of the manufacturers are well stocked, but there are some who are piling for holdover stock. On the whole it may be said that the manufacturers are only fairly well stocked.

SEASON'S OUTPUT MAY REACH 800,000,000.

The opening of September business brought changed conditions in the brick market. The orders are better and the inquiry is firm, general and for large amounts. One dealer has one for 10,000,000, which is understood to be for three operations. If the present market continues to improve and the inquiries now in hand materialize in orders, it is estimated that the output this year will have been about 800,000,000. This is better than last year, of course, and a little better than 1907. It was prophesied that the demand within a week or two would be greater than the supply.

EMPIRE BRICK & SUPPLY CO.'S IMPROVEMENTS.

The improvements at the Empire Brick & Supply Company's Glasco and Stockport yards are nearing completion. At the former yards one of the largest crushers along the river has been installed. This will be belt driven and will be used to crush bats and refuse. At the Stockport yards a new dock is being constructed and the channel is being deepened so as to accommodate the company's larger barges, which have a capacity of 500,000 brick each and a greater draft than barges formerly used.

The Empire company has been doing its own towing of late, having chartered the tug "Leonard Richards," of Albany, since its contract with the Cornell Steamboat Co. expired. The fact that the company requires larger barges also necessitates larger tow boats and has given rise to a report that the company is now building a powerful craft of this description. The company is merely looking about and has several propositions concerning some first-class craft under consideration, but it is not building at present.

BIG DEMAND IN NEW JERSEY.

Mention has been made of the great demand for Hudson River brick that has shown itself in New Jersey within the summer months and herewith are some specific figures. The Lorillard Tobacco plant in the West End, Jersey City, will require 8,000,000; Cook & Genung, of Newark, are receiving deliveries of 3,000,000 from Washburn Brothers for small work; School No. 3, Bright st, Jersey City, will take 2,000,000; School No. 32, Eighth and Cole sts, Jersey City, is taking 7,000,000; School No. 17, in Duncan av Jersey City, which is just being completed, took 4,000,000; School No. 33, in Glendenny st, Jersey City, took 3,000,000; and school No. 15, in Dwight st, took as many more; the Adams Express Company's Exchange stables took 900,000, the Prudential Insurance Company's extension in Newark is taking 5,000,000 from the Newark Mason's Material Supply Co. through the Hedden Construction Co., the general contractors, besides numerous smaller jobs in Hoboken, Jersey City and Newark.

To show that the situation there is not merely one of the moment, the futures which will require large quantities of brick are the new skyscraper office building of the Union Trust Co. at Washington and Montgomery sts, Jersey City; the new post office directly opposite, upon both of which sites 4-sty brick and stone structures are about to be razed; the new office building of the Colgate Soap and Perfume Co., at York and Hudson sts, for which no contracts for the building have been let so far, although R. Waddington & Sons, of Jersey City, are excavating for Sanford & Ross, pile contractors. Then there is the First National bank building in Hoboken for which a 4-sty building is being razed.

Cement Men Preparing for Meeting.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Association of American Portland Cement Manufacturers will be held in the Sagamore Hotel, Lake George, N. Y., on Sept. 14 and 15. On Monday, Sept. 13, the New York Portland Cement Licensees Association will meet in quarterly session. Mr. John B. Wight, representing the Alpha Portland Cement Company in this city and Secretary of the Licensees Association, said that he did not think that there would be any formal discussions regarding the cement price situation. The meeting, he said, would be entirely formal, and of a routine nature.

PRICE STILL REMAINS AT $1.43.

No change in the price of Portland cement was announced this week. It is looked for at any time however. The Lehigh offices here report July and August, usually the two dullest months in the year, the two best. The Alpha Company reports business fair with a good prospect for improved conditions in this month. The Allentown Portland Cement Co. is about ready to begin operations in the Lehigh Valley where several other new concerns are getting ready to operate. The Atlas Company has had a good summer, during which time it has conducted an aggressive advertising campaign in trade and popular magazines and in some newspapers. The Edison Company also has had a good business season, but the sales department expects a marked improvement this fall. The Pennsylvania and Lawrence report business under the general heading "It might have been better." Bath, Trowel, Alsens and Vulcanite have felt the effect of the price embargo, but have done a fair business despite that handicap. All are taking business only under thirty-day delivery provisos.

Much Activity in Pig Iron.

Continued activity and strength characterizes the pig iron market. Inquiries were in hand as late as Wednesday for 5,500 tons for a Connecticut foundry, and New Jersey was in the field with inquiries for 3,000 tons. With prices as high as they are this might be termed an unusual condition. The cause is found in the fact that, while the mills are filled to capacity and the furnaces hardly able to keep abreast of the shipments, there is no abatement in sight of the demand of consumers. One lot of about 6,000 tons of Eastern basic sold this week at about $18, delivered for shipment over the balance of the year. General Electric is in the market for 5,000 tons. There is every indication that business will continue good, at least until the first of the year. Buyers tell the jobbers that they are not purchasing on speculation, but to keep up with outgoing finished products. In other words, the market in pig iron is entirely legitimate. Forge iron is scarce and strong, with higher prices obtained in both the North and South. There is still a good demand for malleable Bessemer. All grades are in demand, and prices in some quarters are fifty cents higher.

SHEETS FLUCTUATING IN DEMAND.

A decided change has come over business in the sheet metal market this week. What was reported a fortnight ago as being a strong, steady market, has become a fluctuating one. With the opening of September business, Bruce & Cook are taking orders with deliveries up to December 31. There is a general stiffening in prices and therefore no business is taken for the first quarter even with premiums. This week's orders were not as large as those which feature the month, but the inquiry is fair and indicates good fall business. Other sheet metal firms report practically the same conditions. The mills are making four to five week deliveries on black sheets, but on galvanized are keeping well up to orders.

SUMMER SOMEWHAT DISAPPOINTING.

Speaking of the sheet metal business only, the summer was somewhat disappointing in amount of business done. One old house found that sales did not come up to within thirty per cent. of what had been expected. Another placed the percentage a little lower and still another placed it a little higher. The concensus of opinion, however, is that the real business improvement will come this fall, an improvement being generally expected to manifest itself early this month.

STRUCTURAL STEEL BRISK.

There is a good, brisk business being done in structural shapes. Prices remain firm, but show a tendency to rise. Orders fell off during the week, but inquiries were more numerous and of better quality. The largest fabricators are catching up with their deliveries and building operations depending upon structural steel deliveries in New York, Brooklyn, The Bronx and New Jersey are moving forward. Milliken Brothers' plant at Milliken, S. I., is working near to capacity, although the court order prohibiting the company taking any new business is still in force. This company is fabricating the steel for the Gimbel Brothers store and is ready to make deliveries whenever the general contractors, The Thompson-Starrett Co., is ready for it. It is expected that the reorganization of the company will take place this month, as the company is now in good shape to effect this change and to clear itself of its legal entanglements. The fabricating ships of Ravitch Brothers, Radley and the Hay Iron & Foundry Co., of Newark, are also busy.

Lumber Advance No Bar to Business.

Although long leaf yellow pine and the hardwoods were quoted higher than at any time this summer, the business in these woods in this city last week showed no material decrease, thus showing that the market in these departments, at least, is strong. Further advances are likely if present conditions continue. There was still a scarcity of maple and oak in the market. Cypress moved strong and firm with prices tending toward an advance. Spruce had a good market and white pine showed a remarkable improvement. The American Lumber Company reports good business generally and it has encouraging orders for September and October deliveries. The beginning of September witnesses an improvement in the wholesale yards and a decrease usually in the retail ones. This does not seem to be the case this year. The retailers show no signs of a falling away in business and the wholesalers say that August has been one of the best months in two years. The American Lumber Co. is delivering 50,000 ft. of 16-in. timbers for the caisson that is being sunk by the F. R. Long Co., of Hackensack, N. J., for the new bridge over the Paterson Plank Road. F. L. & A. Heidritter, of Elizabethport, N. J., have 18 factory buildings under course of erection in and near Elizabeth, N. J., valued at between $75,000 and $100,000 each.

Slate Recovers 5 Per Cent. Cut.

The feature of the stone market this week is the partial recovery of Genuine No. 1 Bangor slate to within 5 per cent. of the price it was early in the spring. The new figures are $5 to $6 as against $4.90 to $5.65. Other grades of roofing slate remain at their old figures. It will be recalled that Genuine No. 1 Bangor was reduced 10 per cent. in the spring for the purpose of working off large quantities of quarry stock and incidentally to keep this grade of slate on its feet during the recovery of the building material market. Conditions have gradually improved and the price was advanced 5 per cent., to hold until Jan. 1, when it is probable that the remaining 5 per cent. will be added. The slate-roofing business is expected to show remarkable improvement within the next two months, along with other building material and it is believed by the interests in back of the advance that by the first of the year conditions will have so equalized themselves as to warrant complete recovery of price.

STONE MARKET NOW FAIRLY STRONG.

The stone market on the whole is now considered fairly strong with much business in prospect. The cutters are fairly busy, but the prospects for a fall boom are good. There were no large local stone contract awards this week, but there were many inquiries. The marble companies have considerable interior work on hand.

New Ideas in Medicine Cabinets.

Not only does the Frank H. Graf Manufacturing Company, of 322 Seventh av, corner of 28th st, this city, present some new ideas in the medicine cabinets in which it specializes, but also offers some practical and economical suggestions regarding their installations. Regarding the cabinet, it has a steel back which is porcelain enameled. The door and frame are made in either brass, nickel plate or German silver. Each cabinet is supplied with the Frank H. Graf Manufacturing Company's shelf supports which slide on a slotted upright. Being equipped with set screws, they permit shelves to be set at any desired height. Two quarter-inch plate glass shelves are furnished with each cabinet. The door has a beveled French plate mirror and is equipped with lock and key. All the joints in the frame are closely fitted so that the cabinet is entirely sanitary and is easily cleaned. As to the installation, the walls can be entirely finished, all grouting and cleaning done before the chest is inserted into the recess. This prevents damage to the chest by acid spots, etc. It can be set in place readily. The fastenings are on the inside, the screws being concealed by sliding covers that form a part of the shelf rest. The entire chest is remarkably light. This company also handles a fine line of andirons, English settee fenders, fire tools and screens in brass, bronze and wrought iron, in all the styles and periods. Smokeless gas logs are also a specialty.

Imported Tile for Hospital Uses.

The high standards of hygiene and sanitation followed in hospitals and in their construction to-day, compels architects and builders to scan the markets closely for new or improved materials that will aid in any way this most desirable tendency. Few persons realize the extent that this demand has reached, yet Rudolph Schroeder, of 442 Greenwich st, this city, makes a specialty of importing French flint tile for that very purpose. This tile is fired during the course of manufacture in such a way as to give an absolutely smooth enameled finish which guarantees a non-absorbent surface. This makes it possible to wash grease, oil, dirt, and paint from them. It is therefore microbe-proof. It is also claimed for this tile that its exceptionally long life makes it cheaper in the long run whether it be used for floor covering, wainscot or wall covering. It is, besides, frostproof and is guaranteed against cracking, sprawling or blistering. Color harmony is another feature. This tile is being extensively used in new as well as old hospitals. Samples may be seen in space 13, second floor, Builders' Exchange, 30-34 West 33d street.

The Real Effect of the Jersey Tubes.

Now that the Hudson River tunnels are in operation and are carrying passengers from New York to New Jersey within three minutes, it is natural to look about over on the other side of the river and note just what the result is today.

In the first place the principal effect of the tunnels at present is to convert farms into building lots. It is the heyday of the speculator. Therefore the most apparent effect of the opening of the tunnels, of bringing New Jersey within three minutes of Broadway, is in the outer radius of the 25-mile-from-the-City-Hall circle. The real development is in the suburbs, not in the suburban cities. The suburban cities will develop later when the system is completed to Newark. Thousands of dollars are being invested now in real estate in Essex, Union, Middlesex, Passaic and Bergen counties. In Union County alone, the smallest in size, as well as in population of all of these, there are 192 houses in course of construction, of which 80 are on properties either in or contiguous to Elizabeth. Within a mile in either direction of Elizabeth there are 18 factories now in course of erection costing from $75,000 to $150,000. One store and apartment house of steel skeleton and brick construction, is being erected in Broad st, that city, at a cost of $50,000.

In East Orange fifty-three permits for buildings were issued last month, the total cost of which aggregates $243,675. This week one builder, Phillip J. Bowers & Co., filed plans for five two-family houses at a cost of $5,000 each. These will be frame structures. The amount of money represented in building operations in Montclair for the month is $166,390. The houses represented in these figures averaged from $4,000 to $8,000 and most of them were frame structures. Paterson, Jersey City and Hoboken report some improvement in building construction but these are generally looked upon as normal developments and in the case of Jersey City and Hoboken only indirectly resultant upon the completion of the tunnels.

Newark's development is also normal although it is felt among New Jersey real estate interests that that city will eventually derive the greatest benefit from the new rapid transit system. The building operations there appear extensive as viewed from the figures submitted by the Bureau of Buildings of that city, but this is due to the $4,000,000 building operations in Broad st, which include the extension to the Prudential Insurance Company's building and the Firemen's Insurance Company's new 16-sty structure being erected at The Four Corners. In outlying districts there is considerable construction of frame dwelling houses in operation and in prospect.

Jersey City and Hoboken are showing the greatest number of steel construction operations so far, although Newark leads in total valuation of these operations. Jersey City has the greatest number of prospective operations actually in sight. Real development in near-by New Jersey cities will come not sooner than five years, according to opinions of many builders although real estate interests vigorously aver that it is taking place now.

The inclination of New York manufacturers to move to New Jersey is not so keen as real estate operators had expected previous to the opening of the tunnels. True, it is early yet, and there is no doubt that the exodus will come sooner or later. It is significant that most of the manufacturers that are buying sites and putting up factories in New Jersey are Westerners. Charles W. Trembley, the shore front specialist, is authority for the statement that manufacturers from the West are gobbling up the best harbor-factory sites, offering the best prices and are putting up the biggest and best factories. Several negotiations are under way now for large sales on the Jersey shore.

The real effect of the tunnels to-day, therefore, is the development of New Jersey suburbs. Lots are being sold cheap by speculators. Purchasers are offered every inducement to build and in consequence, there will be an abundance of factory labor in outlying districts of the cities beyond the Hudson within five years and then some factories now located in New York will move there. At present, the tendency on the part of local factories contemplating locating on new sites is toward Long Island.

Composition Imitates Wood, Metal and Marble.

Wood, especially those kinds that are used for ornamental purposes, is getting scarce, marble is a luxury and metals are costly. At the same time there is a growing demand for some material that is fireproof, that can be worked up for decorative or finishing purposes and yet retain the solidity and permanency of marble or metal and at the same time be cheap enough to be practical. "Duretta," a secret composition that has been atracting the attention of architects and builders during the last three years, has, according to Mr. Gehlen, of the house of G. E. Walter, 155-157 East 44th st, which has perfected this material, solved the problem.

"Duretta" may be used in door panels and banisters, it finds a place as substitute for marble in mantels, giving a lustre or dull finish as desired, it may be used in place of bronze or other metals in chandeliers and fancy light holders, for either gas or electricity, room panels, door casings and bracket work, in styles and colors to match other decorations. In the case of mantels they are made in one piece in any size to suit architect. This composition is made up in many styles, even in relief resembling oak and other wood. It takes varnish and enamel readily and retains their brilliancy longer than wood or metal. It is difficult to distinguish "Duretta" prepared materials from fine stained wood, polished marble or genuine metal which it is made to imitate. It is fireproof and cheaper than wood, marble or metal. Because of the peculiar nature of the composition "Duretta" will not craise, crack or shrink.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

Goggin and Jacob Dux give notice that they have completed their supplemental and amended estimate and assessment in this proceeding. Objections thereto must be presented in writing, duly verified, at 90-92 West Broadway, on or before Sept. 21. The limits of this assessment for benefit include all lands, etc., as follows: Beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the easterly side of the Southern Boulevard with the middle line of the block bet St. Joseph st and Crane st; running thence easterly along the said middle line of the block bet St. Joseph st and Crane st and its prolongation eastwardly to the easterly side of Timpson pl; thence northerly and northeasterly along the easterly and southeasterly sides of Timpson pl to its intersection with the northwesterly side of Whitlock av; thence southwesterly along the said northwesterly side of Whitlock av to its junction with the easterly side of the Southern Boulevard; thence northerly along the easterly side of the Southern Boulevard to the point or place of beginning; excepting from said area all sts, avs and roads or portions thereof heretofore legally opened as such area is shown upon the benefit maps.

141ST ST.—Relative to acquiring title to certain lands and premises with the buildings thereon and the appurtenances thereto at the northeast cor of East 141st st and Cypress av, and extending eastwardly to Powers av on the northerly side of 141st st, Bronx, in fee simple absolute, the same to be converted, appropriated and used for school purposes, according to law. Said lands and premises so to be acquired are bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the northerly line of East 141st st with the easterly line of Cypress av, and running thence northerly along the easterly line of Cypress av 191 ft. 9 inches, thence easterly 200 ft. to the westerly line of Powers av, thence southerly along the westerly line of Powers av 217 ft. to the northerly line of East 141st st, thence westerly along the northerly line of East 141st st 200.82 ft. to the easterly line of Cypress av, the point or place of beginning. Notice is given by the Corporation Counsel that he will make application to the Supreme Court on Sept. 10 for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Appraisal in this proceeding.

TAX BILLS.

Notice is given by the Receiver of Taxes that taxpayers who desire to obtain their bills promptly should make immediate written requisition (blanks may be procured in the Borough offices), stating their property by section or ward, block and lot or map number, making a copy of the same from their bills of last year. If a taxpayer is assessed for personal tax, the requisition should also request bill for such tax. Each requisition should be accompanied by an envelope bearing the proper address of the applicant, and with return postage prepaid.

In case of any doubt in regard to ward, section, block or lot number, taxpayers should take their deeds to the Department of Taxes and Assessments and have their property located on the maps of that Department, and forward to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes, with the requisition, a certified memorandum of their property, which will be furnished by the Department of Taxes and Assessments. Taxpayers in this manner will receive their bills returned by mail at the earliest possible moment, and avoid any delay caused by waiting in lines, as required in case of personal application. The requisition must be addressed and mailed to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes in whichever Borough the property is located.

TO REMEDY LEAKY SLATE ROOFS.

A person with experience in slate roofs describes some of the causes of roofs leaking and suggests remedies for the difficulty in the Illustrated Carpenter and Builder, of London. He believes that there are few, if any, roofs that do not at some time or another allow water to enter the interior of a building, staining the ceiling and doing other damage. He affirms that the two leading principles in connection with roof work are the pitch of the roof and the manner of covering it; that the flatter the pitch the larger must be the slates and lap, and vice versa.

On more than one occasion when the writer has had to repair a roof that looked perfectly sound, he affirms that he has been told by the tenant that the leak appeared only after very heavy rains, and on removing a few slates over the defective part he has not found any broken or cracked slates to cause the leak. In such cases the roofs were usually flat pitched, the slates small, and the lap insufficient.

"To remedy the defect," he reasons, "and where appearance is no object, an easy way out of the difficulty, and one that does not involve stripping the roof, is as follows: Remove about a dozen slates centrally over the spot where the rain has soaked through. If the existing slates are 16 ins. by 8 ins. or 20 ins. by 10 ins. procure some larger slates, trim down to the same width as existing slates but not the length, so that the extra length will give an extra lap to that portion of the roof affected. If, however, through weakness of roof timbers, a part of the roof has become concave on the surface the rafters should be furred up and the slates refixed. Another and very frequent cause of leakage is where the roof abuts against the walls. It should be remembered that a great safeguard against leakage at this point is the insertion of a tilting fillet at the time of constructing the roof previous to covering in. It helps to keep the rain from percolating beneath the slates or flashings. The tilting fillets, though very essential, are in a good many cases omitted. They should be fixed at the junctions of walls and roofs as well as at the undereaves. There can be little doubt that flashings make the best finish at these points. Cement fillets do not, generally speaking, last long. The vibration of the roof in stormy weather causes the cement to become detached from the slates, leaving a gap for rain to enter, as the fillet has a better key and adheres firmer to the brickwork than the smooth slates. It would be better for the fillet to be oblong rather than angular in section, so that the greater part is on the roof. Were the fillet composed of lime and hair gauged with cement it would be an advantage over the usual cement and sand.

"The bond of slating should be regular throughout, as any variation has a tendency to allow rain to enter the roof, especially during heavy storms.

"In order to economize slates sometimes the undereaves are composed of small pieces of slates just sufficient to break the joint, etc., but this should not be allowed. Rain falling on a roof increases in volume as it gets nearer the gutters and consequently the undereaves course should be composed of full width slates as well as any other part of the roof, for if not so constructed it is liable to allow the rain to find its way to the interior of the building.

"A good sound slated roof requires:

"(a) Tilting fillets at gutters and at junction of walls.

"(b) No cement fillets but proper flashings wedged and pointed to the brickwork or stonework.

"(c) The bond properly kept throughout.

"(d) The lap regulated according to the pitch of the roof."

DEFECTIVE PLUMBING.

The question of defective plumbing is ever an important one to the average property owner. In this connection a writer in the Metal Worker observes that it has long been difficult to fix responsibility for damage done to plumbing fixtures in a premises—the tenant or the owner; that it is so in almost everything else around a house. There have been cases according to his argument, where a tenant has a grievance against the landlord of the property he rents and as a revenge he has deliberately injured a copper lined bath tub, broken the closet valve, seat, or done some damage to place the owner to an expense and possibly cause him to replace the fixtures with new ones. "No doubt tenants have in some cases desired better or more modern bathtubs and fixtures," he asserts, "and thought the only way they could get them was by such damaging. The agent, if he notifies them to move, receives another jab by the tenant putting rags, scrub brushes and other things of this character down a closet, necessitating a good bit of work for the plumber and the expenditure of quite a little for the owner before the plumbing appurtenances can be in operative condition again. The landlord always, of course, has recourse to the civil courts for redress, but, again, he has an expenditure of money, and so on it goes."

The truth of the above cannot be denied, but cautious real estate agents invariably investigate the class of people who request the lease of their buildings and thus save themselves considerable concern as well as much money for their clients.

WHO'S WHO IN REAL ESTATE—XIII.

The rapid and substantial growth of the metropolis of the country during the past generation and the growing importance and magnitude of realty operation, has had a tendency to direct public attention to that class of men who are recognized factors in the industrial growth and development of the city; and in the above connection no one possesses a grander heritage or transacts a larger business than Bryan L. Kennelly, the popular real estate auctioneer, broker and appraiser, whose commodious and elegantly fitted up offices are located at 156 Broadway. For over half a century the name of Kennelly has been prominently associated with realty operations in New York City. Mr. Bryan L. Kennelly being a son of the late William Kennelly, who was born in Ireland, and educated at Mt. Mellory College, and started at the age of sixteen in the law office of Thomas Addison and Richard Emmet, at 45 William st in 1844 and subsequently, in conjunction with Mr. William Emmet, who was a son of the immortal Thomas Addis Emmet, opened a real estate office at 7 Pine st under the firm name of Kennelly & Emmet, in July, 1847, and where Bryan L. Kennelly so successfully maintained the enviable reputation gained by his lamented father during the latter's long and honorable professional career.

BRYAN L. KENNELLY.

Bryan L. Kennelly graduated from Manhattan College in 1884 and occupies at the present time identically the same important and leading position in the real estate world as his father did before him, being the real estate appraiser for Comptroller Metz, City Chamberlain Martin, etc. Many of the most important real estate transfers which have taken place of late years have been conducted with eminent success by Mr. Kennelly, among which may be mentioned the sale of the property at the corner of 5th av and 51st st to the Union Club; the sale of almost the entire north side of 51st st, between 5th and Madison avs. He has also conducted some of the largest sales at auction ever made in the city, conspicuous among them being the Osborne Hotel, Herald Square Hotel, Empire Hotel, the New York and Northern Railroad, the Indianapolis, Decatur & Springfield Railroad, the Fort Lee Ferry, the famous Empire State Race Track, Wallach's Theatre, Bijou Opera House, the Casino, Empire Brewery, the Aldrich estate, which amount to nearly $5,000,000, and which holds the world's record for the largest auction sale of real estate every made in one day, the Adams estate, the Automobile Club of America, and many others too numerous to mention.

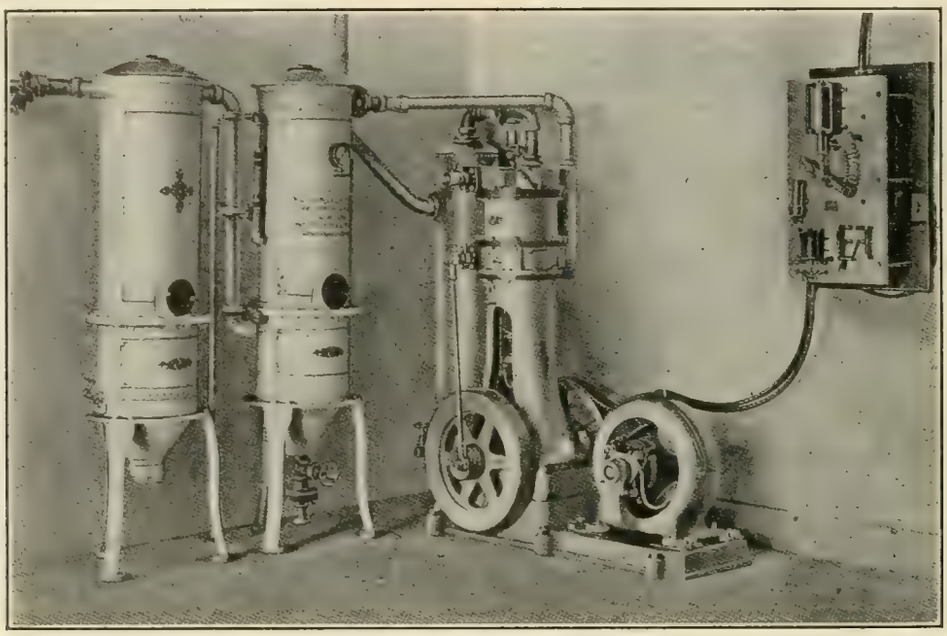
He is well and favorably known in financial, commercial, political, social and professional circles, and is a valued member of the Real Estate Board of Brokers and the New York Real Estate Exchange Salesrooms, where he occupies the same stand that his father occupied forty years ago. He was one of the organizers of the Deal Golf Club and is also a member of the following clubs: Manhattan, Lawyers, Baltusrol Golf, Apawamis Golf, American Yacht, New York Athletic, Automobile Club of America, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Army and Navy Club, and is a trustee of St. Patrick's Cathedral, a director in the Little Missionary Day Nursery, St. Joseph's Day Nursery and Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor, and is a director of the Night and Day Bank and a director in the Night and Day Safe Deposit Co.

EXIT THE BUGLE MAN.—If there is one thing that tenants and property owners have to be thankful for this year it is the anti-noise law which recently went into effect. The ordinance provides that no peddler, vender or huckster, who plies a trade or calling of whatsoever nature on the streets and thoroughfares of New York City, shall blow or use, or suffer or permit to be blown upon or used, any horn or other instrument, nor make, or suffer or permit to be made, any improper noise tending to disturb the peace and quiet of a neighborhood for the purpose of directing attention to his wares, trade or calling, under a penalty of not more than $5 for each offence. The principal sufferers will be the old clothes man, the scissors grinder, the wash tub mender and the umbrella man who usually toots a sharp bugle.

WHEN DIPLOMACY COUNTS.—It may truly be said that quick, decisive action, is what you need around the glue room when important jobs are under way. This applies with equal force when a dispute occurs over some point at the passing of a title. Don't get excited! Use tact, and 8 times out of 10 you will have earned your commission as a reward. The long list of failures in the real estate brokerage business are due more to the lack of diplomacy at such times than to any so-called dearth of buyers and sellers. Practice this and note the result.

VACUUM CLEANERS FOR APARTMENTS.

Practical Illustrations of the Cost of Maintaining a Modern Cleaning Plant. An Invention Adding Much to the Value of Residences and Apartment Houses.



It is only within the last two or three years that owners of apartment buildings have begun to consider the installation of the vacuum cleaner system as being of first importance, not only to their tenants, but also to themselves as well. That this is the case, however, is shown by the great number of such installations made during the past two years, and the contracts that are continually being let for this class of work. It has been an easy matter to convince owners of hotels and residences, that by removing the sand and grit from carpets and rugs (thus lengthening the life of such fabrics by approximately 50 per cent.), the installation of a vacuum cleaner system would soon pay for itself. They realized, that, aside from all considerations of sanitation and cleanliness, the purchase of such a plant would be an excellent investment in every way. Hence, it is a rare exception to find a modern hotel without its vacuum cleaner and the better class of residences are also similarly equipped.

The modern, high-grade apartment is an especially up-to-date residence on a "wholesale scale." Almost every form of convenience known to home-building has been drawn upon to complete its ensemble. In the renting department of any real estate firm, what chance has an apartment building that does not include modern conveniences, with one thoroughly equipped in this respect. It simply means that in order to obtain leases, the former class of apartments must accept lower rentals and consequently a lower class of tenants. A few years ago, few apartment buildings had elevator service—now a tenant refuses to walk up-stairs excepting in the lower-priced buildings. The elevator was a logical necessity—as necessary as lighting, heating and ventilating systems. The vacuum cleaner system is rapidly becoming of similar importance. And why should it not? The problem of keeping an apartment building and its furnishings in a clean sanitary condition, requires more time, labor and expense than any other one item in the operation of such a building—providing, of course, that the immense amount of this necessary work is done by hand power. In all cleaning by old-fashioned methods, but about 10 per cent. of the dust is actually captured and destroyed—the other 90 per cent. remaining month after month. Nearly all dirt in a building is simply dust in various forms. Dirt on walls and ceilings is dust turned into a film of sticky mud by moisture in the atmosphere. This is the principal cause for frequent redecoration and is a source of heavy expense. Is there any wonder then, that the vacuum cleaner system, with an efficiency of 100 per cent. in removing all dry dirt from a building and its furnishings, should be accepted as being a real necessity, and second to none other?

An apartment building that can advertise a vacuum cleaner installation is nearly always full of tenants and high rents are the rule. Some far-sighted owners, who build for speculative purposes only, usually install a cheap vacuum cleaning plant of inferior construction, simply to enable them to state, to prospective purchasers of the building, that a vacuum plant is included in the equipment—knowing well, that such an installation is the last word in up-to-date convenience. They are far-sighted as regards selling argument, but they are not looking to the permanent interests of their customers.

Paradoxical as it may seen, the cheapest vacuum cleaning plant is the most expensive, while the somewhat higher-priced vacuum cleaner systems are the least expensive. This is apparent when it is considered that such a system is installed to operate almost continuously for years. Another mistake that some otherwise astute and practical men have made is to even consider the purchase of the small "toy portable" machines. No one would expect to heat a building with a small oil stove. It would, however, be just as sensible as to try to get any real work out of a little machine that has no more power than an electric fan! The standard of capacity for the vacuum cleaner systems, is 80 cubic feet of free air per minute for each renovator in operation. When it is considered that the small toy machines remove but about 10 or 12 cubic feet of air per minute, the absurdity of purchasing such a machine and expecting it to do real work is at once apparent.

Another point that should be remembered is that it is always advisable to install a vacuum cleaner system while the building is in course of construction. The expense of placing the piping is not only less than it is after the building is completed, but from the first, the building will be kept thoroughly clean and that is, in itself, an important reason, for it only requires a comparatively short time for the bright and new finish of any building to become more or less dull and grimy from the action of dust, particularly if the cleaning is not properly done from the first.

AN EFFICIENT CLEANER PLANT

The proper size of a cleaner system for an apartment building if often a subject for much thought, as is also the method to be employed for operating it. Some of the plants installed in New York City can be best referred to as regards the general practice in this class of work. In one instance, a 6-sweeper system was installed in a 5th av apartment building. A 6-sweeper is a plant with a capacity to operate, simultaneously, six 12-inch carpet or floor renovators. The building mentioned contains 12 ten-room apartments. It was a question at first whether to have janitors operate the cleaning tools in each apartment every day, at a-to-be-determined upon amount per hour, or to allow the tenants or their servants do the cleaning in their respective apartments. It was finally decided to furnish each apartment with a complete set of cleaning tools and allow the tenants to do their own renovating. Certain hours were set in the morning during which the plant was to be in operation. This plan has worked so satisfactorily that both the owners and tenants would as soon think of going back to kerosene lamps as to return to the old hand-power method of cleaning.

Another case, that may be of interest, was that of an owner who desired to install a vacuum cleaner in his building, but who hesitated at the expense of a large multiple-sweeper plant. His building also contained 12 moderate-priced apartments and the tenants were all very anxious to have the plant installed. He thought over the matter at length and decided to purchase a two-sweeper system. He fixed upon a charge of 50 cents per hour whenever a tenant desired to use the plant. The two-sweeper system allowed two families to use cleaning tools at one time, and, as it only took about an hour to thoroughly clean one of these 6-room apartments, it was only necessary to operate the plant 6 hours per day to enable all the tenants to have their daily cleaning by vacuum. The janitor cleaned the hallways and stairs at other times. The plant operated approximately 300 days during the year and the average income from it was $4 per day, or $1,200 per year. At this rate, the plant would pay for itself several times over during its life—in addition to paying the entire cost of operation. And this does not take into consideration the fact that the whole building was kept in an absolutely clean and sanitary condition; the apartments always rented and the tenants thoroughly satisfied.

While, of course, the machinery—including motor and pump—is the chief consideration in the selection of a vacuum cleaner plant, the piping is also entitled to a great deal of thought. It is not merely a case of placing at random horizontals and risers with hose inlet-valves at various points, but in the piping as well as the machinery, exact engineering practice is absolutely necessary in order to give the most economical and efficient results. Vacuum piping should be, first of all, smooth inside. It should be equipped with "long radius fittings" so that the dust will not have to turn sharp corners. The system should be absolutely tight, the joints being made up with genuine white lead and litharge. The proper size of the pipe to be used in various parts of the system is of the utmost importance in order to reduce "skin friction" to a minimum.

The vacuum cleaner system of to-day is a system that has been perfected and improved upon by slow, constant evolution. Slight changes, all tending toward the betterment of the apparatus and equipment, have been made from time to time. These changes were not the results of random experiments, but were shown to be advisable by hard working conditions. One of the numerous labor-saving appliances that may be used in connection with the vacuum cleaner system, is the "remote control." This consists of placing "push button" or "key" switches on each floor of a building and having them connected to a system of wiring whereby the machinery in the basement may be started or stopped by simply pressing the botton or placing a key in a slot. This enables the operator to stop the machinery while changing from floor to floor or for any other delay in the actual work of cleaning.

Taken all in all, the question resolves itself—should an owner of an apartment building install the vacuum cleaner system? It can unhesitatingly be said, that if his building has cost him many thousands of dollars, and much thought and money have been expended on lighting, heating and elevator systems, the building and its contents are certainly worthy of being kept in the cleanest possible condition—"Cleanest possible condition" is synonymous with "economy" and the answer is vacuum cleaning.

SOME THOUGHTS ON MORTGAGE LOANS.

By HERMANN DE SELDING.

THE query is frequently made—Which is the preferable plan, to make a mortgage loan for a short or a long period of time? This is a difficult question, as it embraces too large a field for proper treatment in so limited an article as this. Long time obligations at a market rate would be more desirous, undoubtedly, for trustees of estates, guardians and the like under some circumstances, who fulfill their obligations to their trusts when they have safely invested their funds, and have only to see the interest, taxes and fire insurance premiums are met with promptness. On the other hand certain investments are made in mortgages by those absolutely free as to their action, and who naturally looked for the best return consistent with safety. This class are unwilling to loan for a longer period than from three to five years. I have known of loans being made on bond and mortgage at a high rate where a long period has been insisted upon by the loaner in the belief that money rates would decline. The last two years have furnished many instances of this kind. Most savings banks loan only from year to year; in other words, a mortgage becomes past due, and therefore subject to call, after the expiration of the first twelve months from the time of recording. Whereas as a matter of fact, it may run for many years with varying rates of interest due to the fluctuations of the money market.

Savings banks as a rule loan about 60 per cent. of an appraised value. Here again is a question—Some of the shrewdest loaners would prefer to loan on a valuation of 70 per cent. in some sections, than 50 per cent. in others. A careful lender considers the use that he could or would put the property to, should he become possessed of it, under foreclosure proceedings. Some monied men will not lend on tenement houses, others refuse to consider applications on factory property, even though the rate be higher, and the amount desired small.

BROKER SHOULD EXERCISE CARE.

Thus it is at once seen, mortgages come under classifications, and a mortgage broker is successful to the extent of his knowledge of the market—i. e., the location of, and the kind of, money seeking investment. It is frequently the case, and naturally so, when money is plentiful, applications are scarce, and when money is hard to obtain, the borrowers are more in evidence and seek the mortgage broker's aid. A careful broker will look into the kind of applications presented before seeking the needed money and ascertain if the property is worthy the amount asked for. Once a broker has established his carefulness along these lines, in the estimation of the lawyers controlling mortgage money, his applications receive first attention.

Unfortunately there are too many irresponsible brokers who make the rounds of the lawyers' offices with applications for loans, involving amounts far in excess of a reasonable valuation, and without, in many instances, the authorization of the owner of the property described. This course will account for the difficulty placed in the path of a legitimate and reasonable application, and causes a lawyer or trustee to exercise the greatest care before considering an application, thus causing delay and uncertainty. Such would not be the case had the owner, desiring to mortgage his property, placed the application with a responsible mortgage broker, who is conversant with values. Such care and forethought usually results in placing the loan.

A somewhat recent method of loaning is a "Participation Mortgage," by which several loaners may join in a loan on a large piece of property and thus reduce the difficulty of financing. Much has been said in recent years of the practice, common in Europe, particularly in France and Germany, of issuing long term mortages under a plan of amortization by which a fixed percentage is annually paid off, somewhat on the plan of a sinking fund as applied to railroad and municipal bonds, and thus at the end of, say, 20 years, the principal is entirely liquidated. While this method, which has much to recommend it, is successful abroad, it is a question if it would succeed in Manhattan, owing to the opposition of those controlling mortgage funds, as the frequent changes of loans means frequent searches of title. Again a mortgage on a piece of property which cannot be satisfied, sometimes prevents the sale of such, as it interferes with a building operation which requires a building loan mortgage to supersede the one already of record. If the mortgage has only a short time to run, it may be paid off, by a tender of interest to maturity, while if it was for a long period it would not be practical in most instances. The builder would seek in an instance of this kind some other location where he would not be hampered.

NOISELESS PLUMBING.

A very disagreeable feature of plumbing work in the home is the noise due to the operation of plumbing fixtures. In many residences the operation of the water closet in the bathroom can be heard all over the building. Such noise, however, is unnecessary and can be avoided by intelligent design of the system and judicious selection of fixtures, says a writer in a recent issue of Shoppells. It is well to be acquainted with the various closets that are on the market, so that when a noiseless one is wanted it can be specified by catalogue plate and number. But even when the closet is noiseless in operation, noiseless plumbing is not assured unless the supply and waste pipes are likewise proportioned to their several uses. If the supply pipes are too small there will be a disagreeable hissing sound when water is being drawn, not only at closet fixtures but at the other points in the building. Further, if the pressure is high and properly designed faucets or suitable air chambers are not provided, there will be a pounding noise when a faucet is closed, due to water hammer. These sources of trouble can be eliminated by using slow closing faucets and large size supply pipes to the various fixtures.

The noise of water from closet fixtures flowing through the soil pipe can be decreased in volume by using 3-in. soil pipes in the partitions, and the remaining noise can be almost entirely done away with by filling the space around the pipe and between the laths and plaster of the partition with some non-sound conducting substance. Finally, the partitions around a bathroom should be sound proofed, and, so far as possible, doors for bathrooms should be used through which but little sound will pass.

AN ASSET SLOW BUT SURE.—It frequently happens that real estate investors are obliged to carry centrally located land for an indefinite period, even though it be offered for sale at a price slightly below a fair market value. But this should not serve as an argument against vacant property investment, for it must be remembered that realty of this description, even of the highest type and in the largest municipalities, is a slow asset at best. This is due to numerous causes, among them being the fact that land is not easily passed from hand to hand as are stocks and bonds, or other securities of a like nature. Land may be said to involve personal or directly deputed management, where stocks and bonds do not. There is no exchange with daily quotations giving the values of land as with stocks and bonds, although as a result of the probable successful operation of the Torrens system of title registration in these parts it is possible that land values may be eventually listed in such a manner as to serve the same purpose. According to the belief of some of the most successful operators in unimproved real estate, vacant land should be purchased only for long time investment, and then at close market prices. While opinions differ widely in this regard enough facts are at hand to warrant the statement that whether a slow or quick asset, vacant land at least offers one of the most secure forms of investment known. To use an expression popular on the street—"Buying vacant lots is a slow game, but it's the surest of all."

PAYMENT OF COMMISSIONS.

New York real estate brokers, who maintain branch offices in Hudson County, New Jersey, will be interested in a recent Jersey decision respecting the matter of payment of commissions.

It is pointed out by the Evening Journal of Jersey City that the old theory that a commission on a sale of real estate is due as soon as the contract is signed has been exploded by the new ruling that a broker must hereafter be careful in taking his commission out of the payment to bind the bargain, or he may have to pay it back, if the sale fails to go through. The decision was rendered by Vice-Chancellor Walker of New Jersey, in the case of Andrew Volker vs. Fannie N. Fisk et al, tried at the April term of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey. The bill was heard on demurrer and the demurrer was sustained. The findings are as follows:

1. A real estate agent is not entitled to commissions on an invalid sale. 2. A vendor of land, who has been compelled by a decree avoiding the sale to repay the commissions paid directly to his agent by the purchaser as a part of the consideration, can recover them from the agent; the payment being compulsory, and not voluntary. 3. One who has been compelled to pay money on a liability from which a third person ought to have relieved him by paying the amount can recover it from the latter in assumpsit; a request for repayment being implied. 4. A vendor of land, who has been compelled by a decree avoiding the sale to repay the commissions paid directly to his agent by the purchaser as a part of the consideration, being entitled to recover them from the agent in assumpsit, is not entitled to relief in equity by subrogation to the rights which the purchaser had, but did not urge against the agent.

Vice-Chancellor Walker, in his opinion, says: "The bill alleges: That the complainant, being the owner of certain real estate, entered into an oral agreement, with the defendant Mrs. Fisk to sell the same for $5,700 or any greater sum, and that she should retain for her own use all purchase money in excess of that sum; that she procured the defendant Fornarotto to purchase the premises for $6,000; that he paid and secured the consideration money and gave his note for $300 to her for her commissions, and paid the note to her at maturity; that subsequently, and after payment of the note, the defendant Fornarotto repudiated the sale on the ground of infancy and brought suit in this court against the present complainant for rescission of the contract, which was decreed, the deed declared void, and the complainant was compelled to repay to Fornarotto the purchase price of $6,000, which included the $300 paid by him directly to Mrs. Fisk. The prayer is that the agreement between the complainant and defendant Mrs. Fisk may be decreed to be void, and that he may be subrogated to the rights Fornarotto had to recover the said sum of $300 from her, and that she be decreed to pay it to him (Volker). The defendant Fornarotto filed a disclaimer, and is not represented. The defendant Mrs. Fisk demurred to the bill for want of equity generally, and specifically because the complainant asks for a decree for the repayment of a liquidated sum of money, which demand, it is alleged, is cognizable in a court of law.

"As already seen, the entire consideration passing from Fornarotto to the complainant was $6,000, which included the commissions of $300 paid directly to the defendant Mrs. Fisk by the defendant Fornarotto, and this entire sum the complainant was obliged to pay back to Fornarotto under the decree of this court which avoided the sale. The defendant Mrs. Fisk was the complainant's agent, and cannot stand in any better position toward the purchaser, Fornarotto, than her principal, for whom she negotiated the sale. Her commissions could have been earned only upon negotiating a valid, not an invalid, sale. In Courter v. Lydecker, 71 N. J. Law, 511, 58 Atl. 1093, it was held that the condition upon which a broker earns a commission is that he shall obtain a sale. That, of course, means a valid sale. In this case it is as though no sale had been made, and the transaction must be so treated. An invalid sale is practically no sale. This being so, Mrs. Fisk never earned a commission. It was as a fact paid to her on a sale which was afterwards avoided, and she cannot retain an advantage resulting from her unavailing effort. Wood v. Sheldon, 42 N. J. Law, 421, 36 Am. Rep. 523, is a pointed authority to the effect that sales made through brokers, which are avoided because of some element of illegality, are cases in which the purchase money can be recovered because of failure of consideration. The complainant has been obliged to repay to the defendant Fornarotto these commissions which were included in the consideration moving to him upon the sale, and therefore the payment was not voluntary, but compulsory. Hence the complainant is entitled to a recovery of the amount of the commissions from Mrs. Fisk, and the remaining question is: Is he entitled to this recovery in this court, or must he be relegated to a court at law?

"According to the terms of the contract, the payment of the commissions was made directly from the defendant Fornarotto to the defendant Mrs. Fisk, who was the agent of the complainant in this cause. The defendant Fornarotto had the right to pursue Mrs. Fisk for the commissions he paid her on the avoided sale. He chose not to do so, but to recover them from the complainant as part of the consideration paid. That Mrs. Fisk was not a party to the suit between Fornarotto and the complainant for the rescission of the sale makes no difference. If she had been a party to the suit between the principals, she could have been decreed to repay to Fornarotto in that suit the $300 which she received, and any defense she might have had in that suit would be available to her in this suit. There was no decree for or against her there, and there is no record that binds either party here. In Shinn v. Budd, 14 N. J. Eq. 234, Chancellor Green held that, where a person is compelled to pay the debt of a third party to protect his own rights, a court of equity substitutes him in the place of a creditor as a matter of course without any agreement to that effect. Now, as the complainant was compelled by the decree of this court to repay to Fornarotto the $300 he paid to Mrs. Fisk as commissions upon the avoided sale, the complainant would be entitled to be subrogated to the rights which Fornarotto had, but did not urge against Mrs. Fisk, if the complainant could not sue Mrs. Fisk at law for want of a contract express or implied between them as to the payment by her to him of the commissions she received from Fornarotto; but it is clear to me that the complainant has a perfect cause for action in a court of law against Mrs. Fisk to recover the money in the equitable action of assumpsit for money paid, upon an implied contract. Mr. Chitty says the count for money paid is supported if the payment were made at the express or implied request of the defendant, and that it is clear that if money be paid by a person in consequence of a legal liability to which he is subject, but from which a third person ought to have relieved him by paying the amount, a request will be implied. 1 Ch. Pl. 351.

"Surely the complainant was under a legal liability to pay Fornarotto the $300, and that liability was cast upon him by the decree of this court. Just as surely Mrs. Fisk ought to have relieved him from the burden by paying the amount herself. Ergo, the law implies that the complainant has made the payment at the request of Mrs. Fisk, and therefore he can recover the amount from her in assumpsit. Chancellor Walworth, speaking for the Court of Errors of New York, in Hunt v. Amidon, 4 Hill, 345, 40 Am. Dec. 283, remarked that courts of law long since fell in love with a part of the jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, and substituted the equitable remedy of an action of assumpsit upon the common money counts for the more dilatory proceeding by bill in equity in certain cases.

"There is no need of subrogation to enable the complainant to recover. His claim is not grounded upon fraud, nor does it involve any other principle of equity jurisprudence, and because he has an adequate remedy at law, the demurrer must be sustained. The defendant is entitled to costs."

FIRE LOSSES.

Any effort made to reduce the annual fire losses of the country deserves hearty commendation and support, says the Chicago Tribune. The drain upon the resources of the nation due to this cause is a tremendous one. It is an example of American wastefulness which stands out in marked contrast with the results of European prudence.

Berlin has a population of about 3,000,000. Its average annual loss by fire is about $150,000. Chicago has about 2,000,000 people. Its fire loss yearly now runs close to $5,000,000. The fire loss per capita for Germany, France, Switzerland, Austria, Denmark, and Italy combined in a stated period was 33 cents. In the United States for the same time the per capita loss was more than $2.25.

It is no wonder that European insurance rates are found to be much lower than those in this country. The illustration given in comparison are typical of many that might be mentioned. Much is said in the United States about the enormous cost of standing armies. The total fire loss of this country each year averages now about $200,000,000. That is $20,000,000 more than the entire German army costs. Estimating American losses on the basis of European safeguards, it has been declared that $175,000,000 of the amount is needless waste.

A good many people never stop to think of the bearing of a fire loss upon their own pocketbooks. They read of a destructive fire. They note the amount of the insurance and possibly the companies affected. They say "Too bad!" as they think of the unfortunate individual or firm. But they do not realize that the conditions making the fire possible are the factors in determining the rate they themselves have to pay upon their own homes. They seldom think that they are the real losers to a certain degree rather than the impersonal existence known as an insurance company.

The fire losses at Chelsea or San Francisco are not measured by the amount of insurance carried. The aggregate of investments in buildings in those places was great. But the disarrangement of business, and in cases its complete paralysis, brought far greater loss to the community than that covered by insurance or property figures. Hundreds of homes and thousands of workers felt the effect of the fire.

If agitation will bring better building laws and courage in enforcing them to the letter, much may be accomplished. The local community has much of the responsibility to bear. But it is quite likely that any actual advances in State or local legislation must be preceded by an earnest campaign of education. The people must be brought face to face with the appalling facts. The bearing of these facts upon the individual must be shown. If the enormous waste is ever appreciated in its full meaning there will be hope for some progress in the right direction.

FALL VARNISHING.

Many property owners will devote the early part of the coming month to freshening up their store fronts and interiors. At such times considerable varnish is used, and since its application is frequently attended with many mysterious occurences it is suggested that the subject of varnishes be carefully investigated before proceeding. In this connection the Decorator observes that the thing to do when one has experienced trouble with varnishes is to look for general causes acting in particular ways by experiment if need be, such, for instance, as the influence of the atmosphere, mixtures of various unlike and incompatible substances with each other, and in some cases want of honest and fair dealing on the part of those who supply materials and even of those who use them. Faults in varnish and varnishing, it believes, do not always develop themselves all at once; that some perhaps can by a skillful hand be detected and remedied at the moment of application or shortly afterwards, others come forward only by time. They may be traced to four sources: Atmospheric causes; local conditions; the manufacture, and the varnisher. These we may briefly consider in order, and hint at their remedy.

THE WEEK.

The sales reported this week from the brokers' offices, while they were a little better distributed than for some weeks past, were with one or two exceptions of very little general interest. Several of the more interesting ones were filed in the Register's office this week and can hardly be credited to this week's business. The sale of the new 12-sty loft building at 104 to 108 West 27th st, just west of 6th av, by Parish, Fisher & Co., is the second sale of a new building on that street by the same builders within the year. The old buildings in the district are rapidly being taken over by builders, and with the completion of the Pennsylvania improvements and the assurance of a subway down 7th av, this section is bound to be the scene of a very profitable real estate movement.

Washington Heights contributed several minor sales to the budget of news, but sales of the more important new buildings now nearing completion in that section are not being made. There seems to be a feeling that there have been too many new buildings erected north of 155th st, and a little slowing up in building operations would benefit the section very much. The buildings between 135th and 155th sts, along Broadway and the Drive, completed last year are now mainly in the hands of investors and in the great majority of cases well rented and at paying rentals.

THE AUCTION MARKET.

The week's auction market was composed entirely of legal offerings with practically no competition, parties in interest being the buyers in every instance. Joseph P. Day offered thirteen parcels during the week; of these four were adjourned to various dates in September. Herbert A. Sherman, Samuel Goldsticker and Samuel Marx each disposed of a parcel during the week. For the coming week sales are scheduled for only four days and they are all legal sales.

LAW DEPARTMENT

"THE ONLY LAW."

We are all familiar with what is termed the Statute Law; we have been told enough of late, of the "Unwritten Law"; now, the theatrical element seems about to give some definition under a new term, "The Only Law."

Whatever the theatric purpose of the selection of the term, it gives us, together with the passage of the national corporation tax law, a term, or text, for thought.

Since the day that Moses is supposed to have given to the people of Israel a code that was far above the heads of a people struggling up from a wilderness, both of nature and evolution, a feeling has existed of desire to make the world better through Law. This has been peculiarly the feature of the Civil or old Roman Law, which has been the outcome of monarchical and Governmental regulation.

On the other hand, the early English forefathers gave us a body of law known as the Common Law (which has since been adopted and made a fundamental part of our own body of Law). This latter was based on a body of decisions actually lived up to and enforcible through the people themselves, in their jury verdicts; and it is the "only law" in fact that ever will or can be made to stand!

We may lay down Blue Laws, or Sunday Laws, through our millennium-seeking Legislatures, but the people will not—at least everywhere—enforce them! We may try to tax individuals and corporations directly by the National Government, and the Constitution has to be consulted—or amended!

Some day (and a happy one!) the Courts and their juries will be allowed to make law as in the English time; and then law will be absolute, and as strictly enforced as was the law of Expatriation—which at least ensured "desirable citizenship" in the days of early Greece!

"DISPOSSESS."

Editor Record and Guide:

Is it necessary to state the exact amount of rent due in a demand on a tenant before beginning eviction proceedings? Suppose by some claim of the tenant, afterwards allowed, the amount becomes different—does the suit fail?"

Answer.—No, not now; but it was formerly. The strictness of the old rule is not now in our Code of Civil Procedure, governing summary proceedings to remove tenants for non-payment of rent. Where any rent is due and the tenant refuses to pay, the landlord is entitled to the final order of dispossession. If all rent claimed due were, however, ultimately allowed off to the tenant through a counter claim, we suppose the proceeding would fail.—Ed.

OBITUARY.

Nathan Wiggen Riker, formerly head of the real estate firm of Riker & Son, No. 661 Fifth avenue, died Tuesday night of chronic bronchitis, aggravated by the infirmities of age. He was eighty-two years old.

Mr. Riker was born in Harrison, Me., on April 1, 1828. When fourteen years old he left his native place and took a position as errand boy for a dry goods firm in Portland. He soon rose to a head clerkship. In 1852 he came to New York to enter the employ of the old dry goods house of Bowes & McNomee, No. 111 Broadway, now the Trinity Building.

He made another change in 1858, when he joined the firm of Sitz, Irminger & Co., No. 98 Liberty st, where he became a junior partner. At the outbreak of the War of the Rebellion John Sitz, head of the firm, conceived the notion that the Confederacy would prevail, and he commenced to buy gold at high prices. So anxious did he become about the safety of the Union that he determined to withdraw his capital from the firm.

Although junior partner, Mr. Riker was regarded as the financial oracle of the house, and on his decision that the firm could not continue in business without the assistance of the senior partner's capital, all those interested agreed to dissolve. This ended his active connection with the dry goods trade. He then joined the Gold Room, which was a sort of open board for brokers, and during the exciting closing days of the war an enormous business was done in gold and stocks.

At the close of the war, because of the failing health of his wife, he gave up active business until 1869, when he turned his attention to the real estate field and built three houses in 44th st, the site of which is now covered by an office building used by the New York Central Railway Company. Subsequently he established the real estate brokerage firm of Riker, Hess & Co., No. 62 West 33d st, from which developed his later enterprises in the same field.

Mr. Riker retired from active business in 1902 and had since lived in the country. He is survived by two sons and one daughter.

IMPORTANT WEST SIDE MERGER.

The merging of two large hotels does not frequently occur. But this is what happened during the week when the Sherman Square purchased the adjoining Regent for a reported consideration of $900,000. It is learned that the present Sherman Square Hotel and the Regent Hotel, which combined, take up the entire west side of Broadway, between 70th and 71st sts, facing Sherman Square, and whose floors are on a level, will be thrown into one and some $150,000 will be spent in alterations and renovations, the larger structure will be then called the Sherman Square Hotel.

The Regent is at the northwest cor of Broadway and 70th st, on a plot 100x100 ft. It is 13 stories high. The property has been sold by Richard L. Howell, its former owner, to the Megonko Realty Co., of which Thomas Healy, the restaurateur, is president; John Healy, his brother, vice-president; John T. Dillon, treasurer; John E. Connelly, secretary, and Albert H. Ray a director. This company has owned the Sherman Square Hotel for several years at the southwest cor of Broadway and 71st st. It acquired the property when it wasn't particularly prosperous, and has made a success of it. It stands on a plot 100x115 ft., and is 7 stories high. When the two buildings were designed it was planned ultimately to throw them together.

The Sherman Square, which cost the Megonko Realty Co. somewhere around $400,000, is now valued at about $700,000. The combined hotel, with its alterations, will make it something like a $2,000,000 property. It will accommodate 50 families. The restaurant, while it will be owned by the company, will be looked after by Mr. Healy himself.

It will not be necessary to close either of the hotels while the alterations are going on. Outside of the work of cutting through the doors and hallways uniting the seven floors that are on a level, and unifying the offices, there will not be much to do in the way of radical alterations. Most of the $150,000 minimum set aside for combining the two hotels will be spent in providing more elaborate furnishings.

The Megonko Realty Co. is not the owner of Healy's Restaurant at Columbus av and 66th st, nor any of the several other Healy restaurant properties, which are his alone. The Megonko Co. was formed several years ago to buy and sell real estate. Frank E. Smith was one of Mr. Howell's agents in the sale of the property to the Megonko Co.

BUYING ALONG JERSEY CENTRAL.—Since the first of April there has been a marked increase in vacant land buying along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. This has been particularly noticeable in the vicinity of Roselle, Cranford and Westfield, which places are within reasonable commuting distance from Manhattan. Recently, a large tract of about 65 acres was purchased at Cranford by John N. Folkinburg, who has cut the parcel into building lots and will later place them on the market. It is understood that the owner will first attempt to auction off his new acquisition.

—Broken-down and faulty machinery for business-getting is what you have in your office unless you use the services of the Realty Records Co. Why muddle along extravagantly with poor tools, when in the end the best do not cost half so much? Inferior service is a tremendous drain on your resources and energy.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the lettrs "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Aug. 27, 28, 30, 31, Sept. 1 and 2.

This may present an opening for certain classes of machinery and construction material from the United States. Communications may be addressed to a party in touch with the enterprise.

Millstone Quarrying Up in Ulster County.

Statistics collected by the New York State geologist show a decline in the production of millstones, one of the more obscure of the State's quarrying industries. It is a result of an evolution in business which has brought about the introduction of roller mills in flour-making, ball mills, emery stones and improved grinding machinery in other industries. Now the demand for millstones is confined to corn-grinding mills in the South and gypsum and plaster mills.

A small section of Ulster County is supplying nearly all the millstones used in this country and is also looking after much of the trade in France and other European countries. The stone is known as Esopus stone and is a firm white conglomerate, varying in fineness from that of a coarse sandstone to a conglomerate with pebbles two inches in diameter. It is composed of partially rounded whitish quartz in a silicious matrix. The stone is obtained from beds of Shawangunk grit lying upon the Hudson River shales and varying in thickness from 50 to 200 feet.

The stone is worked out mainly with hand bars and is dressed by hand at the quarry into millstones and chasers.

Lumber for Canal Work.

The quartermaster's department of the Isthmus has on order about 18,000,000 ft. of lumber for delivery on the Isthmus. This includes the present fiscal year estimate of 6,500,000 ft. for the mechanical division and 5,000,000 ft. for the use of the Atlantic and Pacific divisions. The greater part of the order for the Atlantic and Pacific divisions has already been placed.

Vol. LXXXIV. SEPTEMBER 11, 1909. No. 2165

THE CLAIM of the merchants and property owners interested in the vicinity of 23d Street that an express station on the new Subway should be situated on that street is deserving of unqualified approval. Twenty-third Street is such an important line of crosstown traffic and Madison Square such a great and growing center of business activity that it has every reason to demand the convenience of an express station. The plans of the Commission at present provide that express trains shall only make one stop in the whole middle district of Manhattan, viz., at 42d Street, and they ignore, consequently, the fact that this middle district is destined to be a centre of concentrated business activity, second only to the financial district. In case no provision is made for an express station nearer than 42d Street and Fourth or Lexington Avenue, the Commission will be making the same kind of a mistake that the old Commission made when it situated the West Side express station at 72d street instead of Columbus Circle. It has always seemed to the Record and Guide that 59th and 23d streets were the proper points at which express trains on the new subway should stop, on the principle that different subways should provide express stations at different points, and so distribute this sort of accommodation to the public. But apparently the Commission, to judge from its recent letter to President Shonts of the Interborough Co., has fully decided to place another stopping point for express trains at 42d street, on the ground that the traffic originating there requires it. We are not convinced that, after the Lexington Avenue Subway is built, the existing Subway will not be fully adequate to accommodate the remaining traffic; but even if the 42d street station is not abandoned, the argument in favor of a station at 23d street loses none of its force. Doubtless the time which would be lost by making such a stop can be ill-spared, but there can be no doubt that the advantage of making the stop would be sufficient to outweigh the disadvantage of the loss of time. In the course of a few years the whole district between Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth streets will have almost as dense a business population as the financial district, and it should receive a correspondingly abundant accommodation. There is no sufficient reason why express stations should be distributed along the line of transit at approximately equal distances. The prime object of this, as of all other details of a transit system, should be that of providing the most convenient possible service for the largest possible number of people, and this object can be best served by arranging for a stopping place for express trains at 23d street. In deciding this point the Commission should keep in mind one important consideration. If there is no express station at 23d street, passengers will board the Subway at 23d and will transfer to express trains at 42d street in such large numbers as considerably to diminish the running time of those trains. In this way a large part of the time saved by the abandonment of the 23d street express station would eventually be lost.

A SUGGESTION has recently been made that the Broadway-Lexington avenue route could be rendered much more useful by constructing a connecting link down 7th avenue to 32d street, under 32d street to Broadway, and thence along Broadway to 14th street. This idea looks good, because it accomplishes apparently two desirable objects. In the first place, it would give the Interborough Co. an interest in bidding on the Broadway-Lexington avenue route, and in the second place, it would afford a subway connection for traffic seeking or originating at the Pennsylvania Terminal. A little consideration will, however, show that the idea is only a temporary expedient, which would accomplish an immediate result in an inferior manner, and tend to postpone a much more necessary and desirable improvement. Seventh avenue is needed not merely for a connecting link between the West Side and a Broadway Subway or for a subway passing under the Pennsylvania Terminal, but for an independent lower West Side route, which will give subway accommodations to the whole of that section. The Seventh Avenue Subway as planned by the old Rapid Transit Commission had this character and function. The lower West Side is a district of considerable and of increasing business importance. It deserves and needs a subway just as the upper East Side does, and in case Seventh avenue were appropriated by a link, which turned east at 32d street, it would be deprived of the service to which it is fairly entitled. No doubt it will eventually obtain such a service by means of a Hudson street-8th avenue subway; but this tunnel will not be built for many years and 7th avenue and Varick street is a better route than 8th avenue and Hudson street, because it will accommodate the more densely populated territory to the west of Broadway. If it is urged in answer to these objections that the Seventh Ave. Subway could eventually be extended south of 32d st along the route already selected the retort is obvious. Its extension into an independent line would render it unnecessary as a link. If a link is to be constructed between the existing subway at Broadway and 42d st to the proposed new subway at Broadway and 14th st, it should obviously follow the line of Broadway itself. A connecting subway under Broadway would be more useful and much easier to operate than the circuitous route suggested by the 23d St Association. Seventh av as far down as 32d st has been selected for the purpose, only because of the desirability of reaching the Pennsylvania Terminal, but what the Pennsylvania Terminal needs is an express station on an independent four-track lower West Side route. Every other plan would constitute a more or less ingenious makeshift.

ONE CIRCUMSTANCE in regard to the building and real estate situation has received but little public notice. It is a circumstance as important as it is peculiar, and is indicated in part by the suspension of construction for 5-sty non-fireproof houses on Manhattan Island. The public have begun to ask the reason. Does it mean that there is no more room for this class of construction? Or, is it because such houses no longer pay the builder; that the land has become too valuable for them, and that a better quality of house is more profitable to erect and invest in? These are the surface questions that one hears, and the responses are most often in the affirmative. But there are other questions which probe deeper into the subject. In some financial circles it is believed that a revival of small-house construction will be compelled by the rapid growth of population to follow from good times. Eighty thousand Italian people, for example, left this city in the winter of 1907-8 and in the following spring. About forty thousand of them have so far returned. The rest are coming with others. New housing must be provided for that number, even if not for these particular folk, because the percentage of occupancy of all classes of houses at the present time is at least normal. A large operator expressed the opinion this week that the percentage of vacancies in tenements is ONLY ABOUT TWO PER CENT. New people are coming in daily, from the interior as well as from abroad; Long Island and the Jerseys cannot build fast enough to hurt Manhattan, and consequently the construction of non-fireproof tenement houses must soon be resumed somewhere on this island. In this connection it can be said that negotiations are now in progress for the adoption of a convention, or arbitration plan, between the operators in this class of houses and the contractors to whom they have been accustomed in the past to let the mechanical work. We understand that a working plan for arbitrating such disputes as may arise is being formulated at conferences now being held, the result of which is expected to add to the amount of construction work in progress. The importance of this news will be realized when considered with the large amount of commercial and residential work already in hand, a total which is already engaging present forces and facilities very fully. It seems to confirm the prophecy of an unusually busy Fall. Meanwhile, new projects continue to be few in number, as indicated by the reports of plans filed; but the total number of plans on file is very large. The current renting season seems to be emphasizing the need for more apartments, but the next fortnight ought to disclose to builders and investors the exact state of the market for this class of property.

THE AUGUST PROJECTS.

Only about one half as many buildings were planned in Manhattan last month as in the corresponding month last year. This fact the Record & Guide's statistical table of last week made manifest. As 1908 was a dull year, the record is significant, but not alarming, in view of the large amount of work in hand. The total estimated cost of the projects scheduled last month exceeded by nearly two millions the value of the projects of the August of 1908, which indicates that this year's work is of a remarkably high average quality.

The August record in the Bronx was only about twenty less than in the same month of 1908, for number of projects, and the cost was more than fifty per cent. greater. Brooklyn planned 1,439 dwellings, of a total estimated value of $7,300,000, as against 538 estimated to cost $4,400,000, in August, 1909. In Queens the August record for this year is about $100,000 ahead of the corresponding record in the previous year in the estimated value of the work planned.

Here in Manhattan plans for a number of important buildings were filed, notwithstanding that the total number of plans was small. Among these important projects are the Heidelburg tower at Broadway and 42d st, the American Woolen Company's building at 4th av and 18th st, the 334 Fourth Av. building at 25th st, the building for the American Geographical Society on Washington Heights and a new theatre for the Shuberts, at Broadway and 39th st opposite the Casino. Plans for 12 apartment houses were filed, as compared to 16 in August of last year.

FROM OTHER CITIES.

Bradstreet's, Sept. 11, will say: Building construction or preparations therefor were very active in August, ordinarily a quiet midsummer month, as the very complete returns to Bradstreet's from ninety cities show. Thus, the estimated total value of the expenditure arranged for or undertaken in that month was $65,073,327, a decrease of 12 per cent. from July, but a gain of 39.6 per cent. over the record of August last year. As illustrative of the widespread character of the activity, it might be noted that sixty-one out of ninety cities, two-thirds of all reporting, showed enlarged expenditures as compared with August a year ago.

An illuminating sidelight on the cause for the decrease in the total expenditure in August from July is had from the detailed returns. The total expenditures in August fell off $9,000,000 from those in July, and it is found that the decrease in expenditures at New York was $9,824,000. That the New York expenditures do not cut so important a figure in the total gain over a year ago, however, is shown by the fact that out of a total gain in August over the same month a year ago of $18,470,000, New York City furnishes only $5,471,000, or less than one-third, though that great city's total expenditure was fully one-fourth of the entire country's in August.

PRUDENTIAL STRIKE CRISIS OVER.—The crisis in the strike situation on the Prudential Insurance Company's annex, at Bank and Broad sts, Newark, for which the Hedden Construction Co. is general contractors, is believed to have passed and the men have gone back to work. When the bricklayers went out with the iron workers, who objected to New York artisans being employed on the work, a wall that was to have been constructed of brick was started with concrete. When the bricklayers saw that they were to lose the entire job, it is said, they consented to submit the matter to discussion, with the result that the cement work was brought to a level, some distance below the street surface, and brick will be laid from that reach upward. The architects, George B. Post & Sons, were ready, it is understood, to order the entire wall built of concrete to permit the construction work to proceed. Im employing New York men to work on the Prudential job, the Hedden Construction Co. held that the work was of such a nature that Newark men with the required experience could not be procured. The settlement is said to have been mutually agreeable.

TUITION IN ARCHITECTURAL DRAWING.—Eli Benedict, architect, will conduct the class in architectural drawing in the night school at the 23d St. Y. M. C. A. during the coming season as heretofore. The class will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings from 7.30 to 9.45 o'clock from October 1, 1909, to May 21, 1910. The work is intended to help young draftsmen and beginners in the study of architecture. Particulars to terms, etc., may be had on application by mail or in person to the office of the Educational Director of the 23d St. Y. M. C. A., No. 215 West 23d st, New York. Mr. Benedict will also continue during the coming season an atelier class, which has been conducted during the past summer, in his drafting room at No. 1947 Broadway (65th st). This class will meet both day and evenings throughout the season.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS go a long way, and do not necessarily stop short at the showy entrance of an otherwise poorly built house.

AMERICAN RULES FOR THE USE OF CONCRETE.

The National Association of Cement Users is expected to adopt a new set of specifications for the use of cements, which have been prepared, and will be submitted for consideration at its next meeting. Some of the suggestions and rules are as follows:

(1) The materials to be used in concrete should be carefully selected, of uniform quality, and proportioned with a view to securing as nearly as possible a maximum density. (2) The unit of measure should be the barrel, which should be taken as containing 3.8 cu. ft. Four bags containing 94 lbs. of cement each should be considered the equivalent of one barrel. Fine and coarse aggregate should be measured separately as loosely thrown into the measuring receptacle. (3) If the coarse aggregate contains sand or other fine material, that which passes a sieve with ¼-in. round holes should be considered as sand in measuring proportions. In general, the concrete on the work should contain enough and only enough mortar to cover all particles of stone and fill the voids without an appreciable excess of mortar. (4) The proportions of cement to sand and stone should be chosen after a very careful study of the local conditions and the available materials. For small and unimportant structures the following list is presented to be used as a rough guide to the selection of proportions for different classes of work. The relative proportions of fine to coarse aggregate may be varied to suit the materials:

(a) A rich mixture for columns and other structural parts subjected to high stresses or requiring exceptional water-tightness: proportions 1:1½:3; that is one barrel (4 bags) packed Portland cement to 1½ barrels (5.7 cu. ft.) loose sand to 3 barrels (11.4 cu. ft.) loose gravel or broken stone. (b) A standard mixture for reinforced floors, beams and columns, for arches, for reinforced engine or machine foundations subject to vibrations, for tanks, sewers, conduits, and other water-tight work: proportions 1:2:4; that is, one barrel (4 bags) packed Portland cement to 2 bags (7.6 cu. ft.) loose sand to 4 barrels (15.2 cu. ft.) loose gravel or broken stone. (c) A medium mixture for ordinary machine foundations, retaining walls, abutments, piers, thin foundation walls, building walls, ordinary floors, sidewalks, and sewers with heavy walls: proportions 1:2½:5; that is, one barrel (4 bags) packed Portland cement to 2½ barrels (9.5 cu. ft.) loose sand to 5 barrels (19 cu. ft.) loose gravel or broken stone. (d) A lean mixture for unimportant work in masses, for heavy walls, for large foundations supporting a stationary load, and for backing for stone masonry: proportions 1:3:6; that is, one barrel (4 bags) packed Portland cement to 3 barrels (11.4 cu. ft.) loose sand to 6 barrels (22.8 cu. ft.) loose gravel or broken stone.

ARCHITECTURAL REFINEMENTS.

THE Architect and Contract Reporter (London) reproduces from the August Architectural Record (New York) the article by Prof. Hastings, of Yale, which is collateral evidence corroborative of Prof. Goodyear's view that in Mediaeval buildings there are variations from the obvious hard-and-fast setting out that might be expected, and that, whatever their reason, esthetic or otherwise, these variations are intentional and not accidental. At the same time the Architect and Contract Reporter prints a letter from Prof. Goodyear commenting on the article. No doubt the two papers will be reprinted all over Europe.

PROF. GOODYEAR'S COMMENTS.

"Although I do not wish to obtrude my own personality into the consideration of Prof. Hastings's article, it is still a matter of interest that after I examined this church in 1903 I described it in two publications as having strictly perpendicular piers. In 1907 I was led to re-examine this church, and was astonished to find that the piers diverged in straight lines, beginning at the pavement, 6½ to 7 inches to a side. This measurement was estimated on a surveyor's disc of rather small dimensions in the photograph, and could not be considered as a closely accurate measurement. It will be found, however, that this estimate corresponds within a third of an inch to the estimate made by much more accurate methods which is published by Prof. Hastings.

"It is not at all important to dwell on the correspondences of measurements as between my own measures and those of Prof. Hastings at Rheims, especially as the surveyor's disc in the nave at Rheims was of unusually small size in the photograph, and it is difficult to make an accurate compass estimate on such a disc. However, I will mention as a matter of possible interest that my estimated measurement for the divergence of the north side pier at Rheims, which is numbered four in Prof. Hastings's table, was 10 inches; 2 inches of this estimate are accounted for by an offset or stepping back of the vaulting shaft just above the capital, so that my estimated inclination was 8 inches.

"Prof. Hastings's estimated inclination on the same pier was 0.677, which is 8 1-16 inches. In other words, our estimates at Rheims correspond to the sixteenth on an inch. As I have said, I do not wish to lay any stress at present on these correspondences, as Prof. Hastings's measurements are scientific and mine are empirical."

WHEN A BUSINESS BUILDING IS BURNED OUT.

The Restoration of the Parker Building Suggests a Method of Proceeding in Similar Cases—Faults in the Old Building Remedied in the New.

The partial destruction of the Parker Building by fire with the subsequent investigations was the sensation of a week. The flames left the skeleton of a building too complete to tear down and yet presenting large difficulties as a rebuilding proposition, both for architects and real estate financiers. The following report tells the nature of the plan of restoration that has been worked out in this case; and it may possibly suggest ideas to owners who may unhappily sometime be similarly placed.

THE plans for the reconstruction of the Parker Building, at 4th av and 19th st, which was partially destroyed by fire last year, have been completed. The new structure is to be known as the "Pocono," and the builders expect its completion about February 1, 1910. It will be fireproof throughout. The steel frame will be protected by hollow tile, with floor arches of the same material.

The Pocono Building Company, the owner, will conduct the Pocono as an office and loft building. The same company owns the property adjoining on the south, the 18th st corner, where the 20-sty building of the American Woolen Company is to be erected.

The reconstruction of the "Pocono"—to give the Parker Building its new name—is in charge of the Seaboard Realty Company, of 320 5th av. R. H. Robertson & Son are the architects.

In height the new structure is the same as the old, 12-stys; and its depth along 19th st is the same, 150 feet. On the other side, however, the two southernmost bays of the old structure have been removed, so that the 4th av frontage is reduced from 121 to 82 feet. This means that the elevators, which were on the south side of the Parker Building, will be about 40 feet north of their former location, since they are to be in relatively the same place, against the south wall with an entrance from 4th av. As in the old building, the freight elevators will be against the east wall, with an entrance from 19th st.

Some of the floors will be loft, others will be divided into offices, according to the arrangements made with tenants.

FIREPROOFING THE FEATURE OF THE RECONSTRUCTION.

The circumstances surrounding this case make the fireproofing the most important feature of the "Pocono." The damage caused to the Parker Building, which had been called "fireproof," attracted attention all over the country. Undoubtedly it tended to weaken the confidence of the general public, unfamiliar with the technical details, in the ability of architects and builders to produce a really fireproof structure.

Experts who examined the ruins, however, learned that the fire had been caused by faults which could easily have been avoided. Unenclosed elevator shafts and stairways, and insufficient column protection—these were the principal faults responsible for the spread of the fire and for the collapse of portions of the building.

On account of the wide public interest in the fire, the precautions to make the reconstructed building safe were sure to be observed with unusual attention. This fact doubtless furnished a particularly strong incentive to the builder and architects to design a really fireproof structure. It may be safely said that no consideration weighed more with them than to make the Pocono safe from fire.

For the floors in the Pocono the architects have selected hollow terra cotta blocks. The arches are of the end-constuction type, with side-construction skewbacks and key arches. In the 6-foot spans the terra cotta blocks are 12 inches thick, in the 4-foot 6-inch spans 10 inches thick. In the old building they were only 8 inches thick in all spans.

In the old building the cinder fill on top of the floor arches was unusually heavy and thick, and imposed a load which—according to the official report of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters—was entirely too great for the spans. "At the large roof house," this report said, "the dead load alone exceeded the allowable safe live load, the cinder fill at this point being in excess of 30 inches."

This fault is remedied in the "Pocono" by increasing the depth and strength of the arches, and at the same time decreasing the load imposed by the fill above. The arches, being deeper, reach nearer to the top of the beams, and hence the cement surface covering is much thinner and lighter than the old cinder fill.

One of the principal criticisms of the fireproofing of the Parker Building was that the lower flanges of the girders were left unprotected, the only covering being an inch of plaster. In the "Pocono" the blocks nearest the girders have "lips" which project downward and completely enclose the flange, giving it the protection of two inches of terra cotta fireproofing. The beam flanges are also fully protected, the bottom surface of the arches projecting downward an inch and a half below them.

The Fire Underwriters' report on the fire criticized severely the insufficiency of the column covering, the interior columns having only an inch of fireproofing. To the inadequacy of this the insurance experts ascribed the collapse of the various parts of the building. To provide against such a possibility in the future, the architects of the "Pocono" have specified column-covering of 3 inches of hard-burned terra cotta, the enclosing blocks to be joined together by Portland cement mortar.

In the Parker Building the passenger elevators had open grill work at each story, and the shaft simply acted as a flue to carry the flames upward. The "Pocono" is to have its elevator shafts and stairways so enclosed that the flames will find no such passage. Each floor is to be separate from the one above and the one below in such a way that if a fire starts it will be confined to one floor.

Though the old building was planned and built under the old Code—the code which was in effect previous to the enactment of the present one—the alterations now planned must conform to the present code. As a matter of fact, the fireproofing provisions go much farther than the present code demands. For example, the code would allow elevator shafts and stairways that act as flues, like those in the old building; in the "Pocono" the shafts and stairways are not only to be enclosed with fireproof terra cotta, but the openings from them into the corridors or lofts will be so protected that flames will find no means of passage. The grill work at each floor in the old elevator shafts is to be replaced by solid material and wire-glass doors. The doors leading from the stairways, too, will be fire-resisting.

A BUILDING FOR YOUNG WOMEN ART STUDENTS.

This building which is being erected on Claremont avenue and 120th street, the northwest corner, by the Art Students Inn Company, a corporation semi-philanthropic in character, is intended to furnish proper room and board for female art students. Situated as it is, near the new Damrosch Musical Institute, Barnard College, the Academy of Design, and so forth, it will be an interesting addition to the numerous educational buildings now occupying this section of the city. The size of the plot is 47x125 ft, and the building will contain 319 rooms. In addition to these rooms there will be such conveniences as a kitchenette on each floor, a sewing room, laundry for the use of occupants, a medical ward and a gymnasium and plunge in the basement. All the floors throughout the building will be of Magnacide Sanitary Flooring with a sanitary base, and the entire first floor will be decorated in faience tiles. The building will be thirteen stories in height with a roof garden above. The material for the first story will be Indiana Limestone and the balance above of a light colored hand made brick laid in pattern and trimmed with polychromatic terra cotta and Moravian tiles. The roof will be of red Spanish tiles. Plans were designed by and is being erected under the supervision of Emery Roth, Architect.

A NEW IDEA FOR DEVELOPERS.—It will be noticed that suburban developments which proffer facilities for motor boating are preferred by many homeseekers. A great future awaits the motor boat. Thousands are owned by New Yorkers, and their number is rapidly increasing. Families wanting to live near pleasant boating waters are becoming very numerous applicants in real estate offices. F. B. Ackerson, who was a prominent developer at Flatbush has caught an inspiration and is acting on it at "Brightwaters". He has improved or constructed a séries of beautiful lakes, whence the name is derived, and a yacht canal 4,000 feet long and 175 feet wide, extending from the Great South Bay to the South Country Road. This canal has a depth of ten feet at low tide. The horticultural effect has been greatly enhanced by the planting of 50,000 flowering plants of selected varieties, ornamental vines, and shrubs.

SPECTACULAR LIGHTING.—At the firemen's convention at Poughkeepsie the night illuminations were exceptionably elaborate. The principal feature was a Court of Honor, which was formed in Market st. This consisted of columns adorned with baskets of flowers at the top and connected with festoons of electric lamps. Beside this, a long section of Main st was festooned with incandescent lamps, strung from temporary standards placed along the sidewalks. The City Hall, the fire company's stations and business blocks throughout the section were all outlined with lamps, for which purpose nearly 20,000 were required.

TESTS OF BRICK AND TERRA COTTA BLOCK COLUMNS.

For brick, stone and terra cotta masonry structures, designers commonly use stresses which are low in comparison with the strength of the constituent materials. In some types of structure mass and volume are important considerations and strength is subordinate. In many applications, however, the strength of the structure is of first importance, and a knowledge of the actual properties of the structure is essential to safe and economical construction. Much information is available on the strength and other properties of constituent materials like mortar, brick, stone and terra cotta, but relatively little is known of the properties of built-up structures. Anything that adds to our knowledge of such construction should be helpful; and it was with a view of obtaining further information on the properties of short built-up columns or piers that the Engineering Experiment Station of the University of Illinois undertook the tests which have been reported in Bulletin No. 27, by Messrs. Arthur N. Talbot and Duff A. Abrams.

The work described in this bulletin includes tests of 16 short columns or piers of brick and 16 columns of terra cotta blocks. All the tests were made in a 600,000-lb. Riehle vertical screw testing machine in the Laboratory of Applied Mechanics of the University of Illinois. The machine head moved at the rate of 0.05 inches per minute; except in some cases, where the load was repeated, when a speed of 0.10 inches per minute was used. The load was generally applied by increments of about 25,000 lbs. on the column, but for the columns built of lean mortar or of clay brick the increment was smaller.

COMPARISONS OF RESULTS.

Both brick columns and terra cotta block columns gave high strengths in all cases where strong mortar and care in building were used. For central loading, the strength of the brick columns ranged from 3,220 to 4,110 lbs. per sq. in., and the strength of the terra cotta block columns from 2,700 to 3,790 lbs. per sq. in., the columns having the highest resistance not failing at the full capacity of the machine. The effect of the strength of the mortar is apparent in the carrying capacity developed in the columns; lower loads were found in columns built with one-fifth Portland cement mortar than in those with one-third Portland cement mortar, still lower loads in those with one-third natural cement mortar, and still lower loads in those having one-half lime mortar.

The effect of the quality of the brick was shown in the columns made with inferior brick, which carried only 31 per cent. as much as columns built with the better grade of brick. In the case of the terra cotta columns, the blocks which were culled out as somewhat inferior gave a column strength perhaps 30 per cent. less than the columns built with superior blocks. The effect of the attempt to represent hurried or careless workmanship in two brick columns and in three terra cotta block columns was a loss in strength of about 15 and 25 per cent., respectively.

The ratio of the strength of the columns to the compressive strength of the individual brick and block is of interest. In the well-built brick columns loaded centrally, the ratio of strength of column to compressive strength of individual brick ranged from 0.31 to 0.37, and in the underburned clay brick column the ratio was 0.27. In the terra cotta block columns with central loading the ratio of strength of column to that of individual block was 0.74 for the incompleted test and 0.83, 0.85 and 0.89 for the others. If, as seems to be the case, the strength of the brick or block to resist cross-breaking is an element in determining the strength of the built-up column, a deeper or thicker brick would give higher column strength. It is possible that this partially accounts for the fact that the ratio is found to be higher for terra cotta block columns than for brick columns. The tests suggest that the ability of individual pieces to resist transverse strength is an important element in the strength of the completed column. This suggestion may have an important bearing on the advantageous size of the component blocks which may be used in a compression piece where high strength is desired.

It was apparent in the experiments that the quality of workmanship in laying up such columns has an important bearing upon the resisting strength. The work of building columns, however, is not difficult and requires only ordinary care. Full joints and an even bearing are important, and the ordinary workman ought to be able to construct columns of high strength.

THE LABOR DAY parade this year was less a matter of interest for the building trades than ever before. The Housesmiths and Bridgemen were in the lead and, as always, they made an impressive appearance. The Electrical Workers, Steam Engineers, Rockmen and Drillers, Building Material Drivers, Asphalt Workers contributed some elements of interest for the building trades, but it is the prevailing remark that the building trades generally have ceased to participate in these annual parades. Some day the real building mechanics and helpers of the metropolitan district may organize a procession exclusively their own.

GRAND BOULEVARD NEEDS AN APPROACH

The City Bought the Land, But Has Forgotten About the Viaduct—Plans of Chief Engineer Risse

ONE of the most important works ever done for the development of the North Side, the want of which had set a limit upon its development, was the completion and acceptance of the final layout and maps of the street system west of the Bronx River. One of the mose serious hindrances to real estate activity previously consisted in frequent changes of lines and grades. The effect of this final map was, of course, to convert a great area of farm land into city property. More particularly, it may be defined as the preparation of the exact working plans according to which a great city shall be constructed.

There was needed a spacious and attractive drive connecting the park system of Manhattan with the upper park system, and the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, as a result, was laid out on this map. It will be free for all time from the encroachments and demands of traffic and business. But while it will be a lasting source of enjoyment and health, as well as an ornament to the city, it will in nowise impede the growth of commerce and traffic.

The expectation was that it would open for development a wide section of real estate from which a large increase of taxable valuation would be secured. It will include not only a wide speedway, but also a double boulevard for common pleasure driving, broad walks, promenades and cycle paths, all to be adorned with lawn parking and shade trees. It is intersected by nine transverse roads passing underneath for the accommodation of railway and heavy traffic. This is one of the most admired features of the plan—because it prevents interference with the carriages and automobile traffic on the boulevard.

It was planned to be a drive of extraordinary delightfulness, whose effect upon the borough would be refining and at the same time financially elevating. It was the original intention that it should have the peculiar attractiveness arising from the fact that here one may drive for miles without encountering an interruption in the road or a change in its character.

ORIGINAL PLANS NOT CARRIED OUT.

But this crowning advantage was dependent on the original plans being carried out. These included an APPROACH to extend from Central Bridge (over the Harlem) to the entrance of the Boulevard and Concourse, which is on the ridge, at 161st st. The plan with profile showing an approach and entrance to the boulevard was officially adopted by the commission March 26, 1896. James A. Blanchard was the chairman of the commission. Louis A. Risse, of 16 East 42d st, was then the chief topographical engineer and the engineer of the Concourse.

CITY OWNS RIGHT OF WAY.

Title to the land needed from the improvement vested in the city December 13, 1896. Yet, with the boulevard now about to be opened to the public, no construction work has been done on this approach. No appropriation has been made for it. The original idea was to have a continuous drive from Central Park, via Riverside Drive, across Central Bridge and up the Boulevard to Mosholu Parkway, Van Courtlandt Park and Pelham Bay Park.

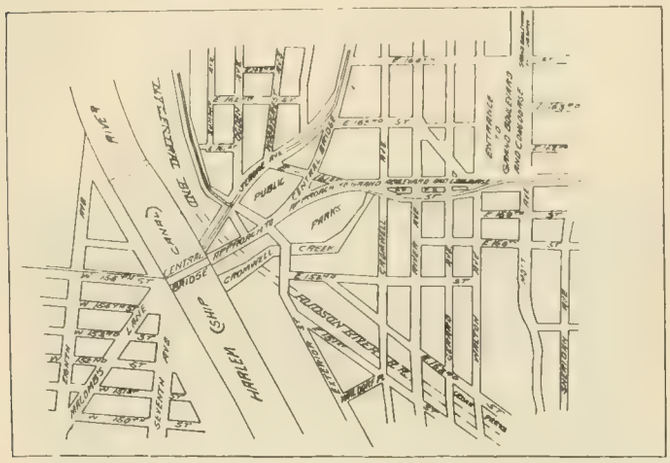
But there is a break in the line between Central Bridge and the summit of the ridge where the Boulevard begins, and this is the point of the present notice. It is very necessary, in order that all the advantages intended to follow from the construction of the new parkway shall be realized, that there shall be a proper approach to it. Otherwise, it may not prove "a most profitable investment to the city," a "magnificent real estate speculation" which will net the public treasury many millions of dollars over and above the most prodigal expenditure.

WHAT WAS PROMISED.

The people have paid or are paying the cost of the land needed for the approach, in taxes, and they maintain that the city should keep faith with them. The promise to the taxpayers was that "the grand Boulevard and Concourse will enrich the city, enrich the property owners, enrich the North Side, and impoverish and injure no one." Hence the Record and Guide is asked by these taxpayers to voice their demand that the Approach be CONSTRUCTED AS ORIGINALLY PLANNED.

COPY OF THE ORIGINAL DESIGN FOR THE APPROACH TO THE GRAND BOULEVARD AND CONCOURSE.
Louis A. Risse, Chief Engineer.

What these plans were can be seen in the accompanying drawing, made by Chief Engineer Risse himself. The original copy was signed by him and also by the then Commissioner of Public Improvements, Hon. Louis A. Haffen. The plans provide for a steel viaduct from the present approach to the Central Bridge near Exterior st to East 161st st and Mott av, where the present entrance to the Concourse is. This week Engineer Risse estimated the cost of the construction at $800,000. This does not include the cost of the land—which is already owned by the city.



Albert E. Davis, the architect, who is president of the Civic League of The Bronx, ex-president of the North Side Board of Trade and chairman of the Bronx committee of the Municipal Art Society, when interrogated by the Record and Guide as to the prevailing public views in regard to the subject said:

"The Grand Boulevard and Concourse was planned to be a great drive and it cannot be utilized for its primary purpose without adequate connection with the drives of Manhattan. This was recognized by its designer, Louis A. Risse, to whose engineering skill the Concourse will be an enduring monument. The viaduct which he planned to span the valley from Central Bridge to the Concourse, the land for which has, I understand, been already acquired by the City, should have been under construction long since to be available when the Concourse is opened. The distinctive features of this imposing boulevard are its great width—182 feet—and its altitude reaching 150 feet in its run of 4½ miles along the backbone of The Bronx.

"An equally imposing approach is demanded and I hope when it is built, as it soon must be, that it will be of masonry instead of steel because the former is more enduring artistic and monumental."

"Do you think the Concourse will fulfill its original mission?" Mr. Davis was asked.

MAP OF THE SECTION.

"A dozen years have passed since it was planned and the bicycle has since gone out of style so there will be no use of cycle paths—otherwise yes."

"Do you think abutting property will be developed with high class private residences, as originally contemplated?"

"I certainly hope so; and from such development as has already taken place along it, I should say yes. Most communities have at least one such thoroughfare, which becomes a local pride and a show place to visitors and the splendid elevation of the Concourse would make it ideal for such a purpose."

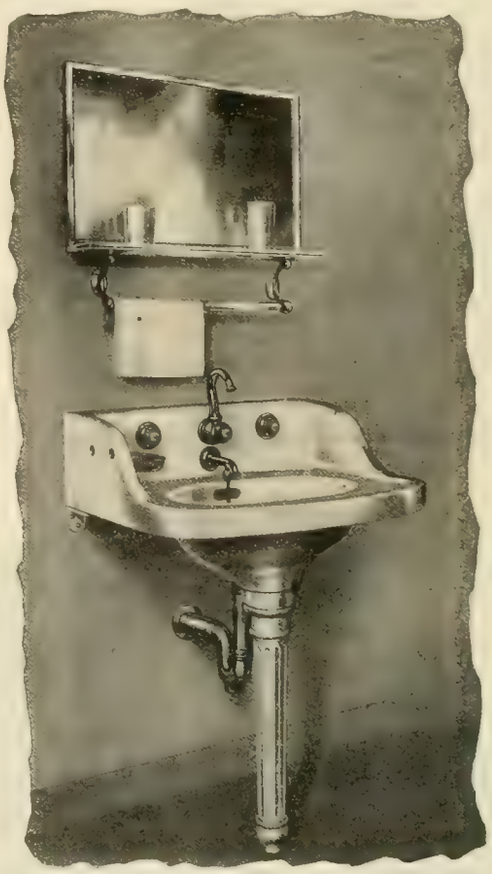
NORTHWESTERN CONSTRUCTION.

Mr. W. J. Holmes, secretary of the Building Trade Employers' Association, 30-31 West 33d st, returned from an extensive Western tour on Wednesday, during which he visited the Alaska-Yukon Exposition at Seattle. Casually mentioning some of the novelties of the fair and impressions of his trip, he showed that a remarkable development is taking place in the Northwest.

"By all means, the most novel exhibit was the Forestry Building and its exhibits," said Mr. Holmes, in answer to a question as to what interested him most at the fair. "The entire exhibit was original with the Northwest. The building itself, of very massive construction, was built of the crude logs taken from the forest and fastened together with wooden pegs and iron rods. The exhibits were most interesting. Whole sections of trees were displayed, some cross sections being of tremendous measurements."

"There was a great variety of woods, some of which were polished, showing their adaptability for furniture and for interior trim. The whole idea was to exploit the resources of the great Northwest, and this building certainly did what it was intended to. Every Seattle man, every man in all that territory, that I spoke with seemed to have one thing on his mind, and that was to tell the remainder of the world what a marvelous country the Great Northwest is. And it is."

Mr. Holmes said that British Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii had exhibits there, and all were of particular interest. He went west over the Canadian Pacific, touching Montreal, Banff (where he alighted from his train to get a glimpse of the Canadian Rockies), Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, and returning came through the Great Salt Lake-Denver route. He said he was particularly impressed with the apparent prosperity of all the big Western cities and with the amount of construction now going on there. In Seattle builders have taken the idea of the reinforced concrete factory and developed it into reinforced concrete department stores. Most of the new buildings there were of steel and concrete construction, the principal height ranging from six to eight stories. Ten stories was the exception rather than the rule. Bar and lateral wire reinforcement is used.



The cities, he said, were particularly well lighted. The hotels were equally as good as the best New York ones, he averred.

HOW THEY EXCAVATE BUILDING SITES.

"There was another thing that caught my eye," he added, "while in the Pacific coast cities and that was their way of excavating for buildings. They put a steam shovel or two into a lot and start them at work and as the earth is of clay-sand, it did not require much time to get to the proper depth. The sand is of no use to builders, being soft and clayey."

NOVELTIES.

BUTTON TAP REDUCES WATER PRESSURE.—Inventors have at last perfected a device for reducing excessive water pressure at point of discharge in lavatories. In tall buildings like the Singer, Metropolitan and Bryant the problem of reducing pressure is a serious one. But the problem must be met in other structures whether it be caused by storage tanks at great heights above the points of discharge or from city water pressure as in four, five and ten-story buildings. In a lavatory that a local company is putting on the market are various new features, and chief among these is a device for controlling the water pressure. The illustration shows the general style of the appliance. Note that the taps are on the splasher. The upward curving outlet pipe supplies ice water. The lower one, either hot or cold water. The soap receptacle is on the left hand side, where it is most convenient, not behind the faucets. The connections, with the exception of the trap, are concealed within a specially designed box back. The taps are automatically closing, the controlling device being hidden within the button itself.

DOORBELL, NAME AND STREET NUMBER ILLUMINATED.—Here is an illuminated doorbell that should prove indefatigable to a physician, a minister, a liveryman, or any one who is liable to be called late at night or who lives in a secluded portion of the city or country where the street light does not shine upon the house number, the push button or the name plate. A clever inventor has perfected a doorbell that is self-illuminant. On a rounded plate is the name of the occupant of the house and beneath that the house number. A two-candle power incandescent lamp illumines this plate so that it can easily be read at a distance of twenty-four feet, or the average distance between the front door of a house in the suburbs and the sidewalk. Over the plate is the push button, flush with the wall, and made of mother of pearl. The bell is wound to connect with the electric service in the house, or can be attached to batteries. The cost for current is infinitesimal.

MAKES EVEN THE FLOOR COVERING FIREPROOF.—The question is asked: "Why make a building fireproof and then put inflammable material on the floors?" A Western concern is in the market with a fireproof floor covering. It is made of asbestos and can be laid in any color and in any design. It can be made to imitate cork, rubber or composition floors and even granolithic. It is said to be sanitary, durable, decorative, seamless, and besides being fireproof is watertight. It is especially adaptable for saloons, steamboats, restaurants, bathrooms and hospitals.

HUDSON RIVER BUILDING.—At River View Manor, near Hastings, 48 houses are built or building. The villages of Hastings and Dobbs Ferry are having a remarkable increase in building this season. All the Hudson River towns are growing faster than in years, and building mechanics are in good demand. The West Point rebuilding gives employment to hundreds, and the work will last for ten years.

AMERICAN BUILDERS AROUND THE WORLD.

A New Wrinkle in International Organization Methods— New York Contractors Can Compete in Foreign Lands.

Do American builders consider that they have reached the North Pole of their careers? Are there no more lands to conquer for the inventors and builders of the skyscrapers, towers and bridges, the electrical power plants and great industrial works, that have distinguished American construction? Is there no "Big Nail" for builders to compete for and hang their signs upon? Are the United States boundaries really the limits of their ambition, while their countrymen in other lines of progress have set their goal at the very ends of the earth? Does not the glory of achieving great things appeal as much to builders as to other men? Undoubtedly it does, but it has occurred only to a few that there is "anything in it" for American general contractors. They have never been able to discover how they could compete with foreign wages, even if they could with foreign brains. But a few New York firms have found a way, and the following story tells how one organization of young American builders has been able to hit this "Big Nail" on the head.

A NUMBER of firms engaged in general building construction in New York, and having their main office here, take contracts of size from every part of the country. The number of such firms grows as the influence which the metropolis exerts broadens and becomes more commanding. A large number of New York architects and engineers have the whole country for their field also. Some general contracting firms have branch offices in various American cities, and at least one has several branch CORPORATIONS in foreign lands and through their agency carries on business in all parts of the world.

New York contractors will be required to take in the future more than a purely local view of their business, if they aspire to leadership therein. Americans must follow the example of the British and Germans, and get out in the world, as they will not always find scope enough for their abilities behind a Chinese wall. Many are getting ready and others have started. Every once in a while a name flashes across the seas that signalizes another contract victory for American builders, and we have often wondered how they did it. How can an American firm win in London? How do they manage about labor, material and wages so as to compete with apparently cheaper labor and material than we have in America?

NOT INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION.

The answer is contained in one word—"organization." In reality, American material and labor do not compete with the foreign, but an American firm can organize a branch corporation in London to cover contracts in all-Europe, Asia, Australia, New Zealand and South America, while the home company covers the field of consulting, designing, and supervising engineering and construction in the United States, Philippine Islands and Central America. Each can be separately constituted with its own staff, and supreme in its field, but in intimate and constant touch with the other. There is nothing impossible to the financier and the systematizer in this, for the principle is the same as that followed by the foreign manufacturer when he sets up a factory in America in addition to the one or more he has at home. It is merely a matter of organization, and not of international competition.

This explains to some extent the world-wide system of a certain New York contracting and construction company which works through three other corporations as well, two in London and one in Canada. A tour of inspection covering the more important of their engineering and construction undertakings, completed and under way, would necessitate circling the globe and traveling upwards of 50,000 miles. The time required for such a tour would approximate two years, and the average distance between points of interest would be less than 250 miles.

The concern referred to, J. G. White & Company, was organized in its present form in 1903, but as a private electric railway contracting firm it began its work in New York in 1890. At first only overhead construction was done. Then track construction was taken up, and later power-plant work as well as electric lighting and power transmission. J. G. White & Company, of New York, in 1899, secured certain tramway work in Australia, and in carrying this out it was found that representation in London was available. Further investigation of the field outside of the United States followed, and it was decided that an American company could not carry out work in foreign countries to so great advantage as a British company with headquarters in London, the world centre of finance and foreign enterprise.

THE LONDON END.

Consequently, in 1900, J. G. White & Company, Limited, of London, was formed, and foreign contracts of the New York company were transferred to the new organization. The work of J. G. White & Company, Limited, has expanded rapidly, and it has twice been necessary to increase its capital, the amount now outstanding being 200,000 pounds sterling. Commencing this with foreign business, J. G. White & Company, Limited, soon entered the field of construction in the British Isles, and has carried out construction works there amounting to many millions of pounds. All general engineering construction of the associated companies, outside of North America and the Philippines, is done by the British organization. The earlier contracts of J. G. White & Company, Limited, were all for tramways or power-plant construction, but latterly the field of the company has been broadened to include steam railway construction, hydraulic development, etc.

In 1903 a building department of J. G. White & Company, Ltd., was formed to carry out building construction on a large scale. After some experience, however, it was decided that the business undertaken by this department could be done to better advantage if a separate company were constituted, with independent headquarters and staff. At this time the opportunity came to make an alliance with Messrs. Waring & Gillow, Ltd., furnishers and decorators of London and Paris, who had also been operating a building department. The building departments of the two companies were consolidated, and the Waring White Building Company, Ltd., was formed in May, 1904. One-half of the share capital was subscribed by J. G. White & Company, Ltd., and one-half by Messrs. Waring & Gillow, Ltd. The clients of the building company are afforded the specialized experience of both J. G. White & Company, Ltd., and Waring & Gillow, Ltd.

MILLIONS IN CONTRACTS.

According to a recent report, the American company had contracts on hand amounting to $28,650,000. Besides general building, this great concern engages in railroad construction, harbor works, irrigation and water works, gas-lighting plants, electric light and power plants and water-power developments. The companies also manage or supervise the operation of public service corporations, among which many electric railways, electric lighting and gas properties are included.

It is believed that the general system upon which these associated companies is founded is, in many particulars, original, and that they offer exceptional facilities to financial interests and others for the prompt and reliable investigation of projects in all parts of the world. Other American building or engineering concerns contemplating foreign activities may get a new idea from this system to apply to their own purposes.

CEMENT STOREHOUSE IN HOBOKEN.

The Edison Portland Cement Company, of 1133 Broadway, has introduced a novelty in the handling of cement in this city and vicinity by constructing in Hoboken a storehouse where 10,000 bbls. of tested and seasoned cement will always be carried in stock for the purpose of meeting rush order demands of its customers. The building, which is being constructed of reinforced concrete on Long Slip, from plans prepared by the company's engineering staff, will be completed by the first of the month when the new emergency service will be opened.

When a contractor buys emergency stuff he generally orders what he wanted yesterday. That means that instead of anticipating his wants a week or ten days ahead, he orders it a day after he actually needs it. Building material supply men know full well that rush orders depending upon railroads are from eight to ten days late. A wreck, or a mistake in orders happens nine times out of ten. A big contractor might find at a critical time that he was just thirty barrels short to complete the job he has on hand. If he ordered a cargo through regular channels it would be ten days before he got it. With a storehouse across the river the Edison Portland Cement Co. can make these kind of deliveries in three hours, whether the job be in New York, Jersey City, Brooklyn or Hoboken. No extra charge is to be made for this accommodation.

Some time ago the United States Steel Corporation realized the necessity of having a certain quantity of their stock on hand, ready for immediate shipment to New York consumers, and the Carnegie Steel Co. erected a huge storehouse at Waverly. Now any tributary company may obtain rush stock there on short notice. The same theory has been put into practice by the Edison Company. All West Shore towns will receive cement supplies in small quantities from the new storehouse, but Newark will receive its supplies direct from the mills at New Village, N. J., as heretofore.

—The General Electric Company is now in a position to produce sixty million incandescent lamps a year, as the company has in the past year built four new factories, situated at East Boston, Toledo, Fort Wayne and Newark.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

ADVANCE REPORTS.

Important Contracts to the Thompson-Starrett Company.

The general contract for erecting a 12-sty and basement combination light manufacturing and automobile building at 244 to 252 West 54th st has been awarded to the Thompson-Starrett Company. The owners are Albert R. Shattuck and Geo. F. Chamberlin; architect, Percy Griffin. The general contract for erecting an 8-sty and basement office building in Jersey City, from plans prepared by William Pearson Field, civil engineer, and C. A. Rich, architect, for Colgate & Company has also been awarded to the Thompson-Starrett Company. Work on the operations will be commenced immediately, as time is a very important factor, and was a consideration that influenced in both instances the selection of the Thompson-Starrett Company. In speaking of the Colgate contract, Vice-President Horowitz stated: "We regard it as unusually encouraging that this is the second time we have conducted an operation for Messrs. Colgate & Company. Some two years ago, or thereabouts, we built for the same concern a large warehouse contiguous to the site on which the proposed new office building is now to be erected. The fact of our being selected to undertake a second operation for Messrs. Colgate & Company is one of a number of instances where a good record on one operation has been followed by a contract for another. By this, of course, I do not imply that that consideration alone influenced the decision of the owners. Competitors figures were taken, and 'numbers' are more potent than sentiment in governing building awards. But aside from all this, the fact of our being a second time commissioned to erect a building for the same owner is proof positive that we retain the confidence of those for whom we build."

Brown, McAghon & Strassle, architects, formerly of Chicago, Ill., have opened an office at Nos. 31-33 East 27th st, Manhattan.

Canavan Bros. have had good success through using steam shovels in the excavation for the Peter Cooper Building on 4th av.

Contracts have been let for several bungalows to be erected in the Woods of Larchmont, the new development of Wood, Harmon & Co.

Charles A. Cowen & Co., general contractors, have the steelwork of the Neptune Building, at Madison av and 27th st up 9 stories, and the masonry (limestone) two stories.

A new and attractive combination of colors in brick and marble is to be seen in the facade of the new Centurian Building on Broadway, above 28th st. H. L. Nelson was the mason contractor and W. L. Rouse, the architect.

The Record and Guide is in receipt of a souvenir postal card from Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman, president of the Lawrence Portland Cement Co., of No. 1 Broadway, who is abroad. The card was mailed at Interlaken, Switzerland, on August 8.

Mr. W. J. Johnson, formerly connected with the Safety Tread Co., is now with George W. Grote & Co. manufacturers of Damp Proof paints, oils, etc., of 430 East 102d st. Mr. Johnson will have charge of the building and general contractors department.

The Alpha Portland Cement Co., Easton, Pa., has issued a general catalogue on cement requirements, showing proper mixtures for various kinds of work, together with comparative statements of cost of cement work as compared with other materials.

The brick in the Melrose Public Bath, which was illustrated and described in last week's Record & Guide is "Tapistry" brick furnished by Fiske & Company of the Flatiron Building. It has been much admired. The report of last week was in error in describing it as "velvet" brick.

Edwin Gould's new house on Fifth av, has been designed by Carrere & Hastings in a pure Florentine Renaissance architecture. The site is being excavated. The J. W. Bishop Company has the general contract. George J. Gould's residence, a few blocks above, at 67th st will be ready for occupancy in a month or so. Mr. Gould returned from the other side with his family this week. The mansion is now in the hands of the decorators. D. C. Weeks & Son, have the general contract.

The site is being excavated for the new home of the American Geographical Society on Washington Heights at Broadway and 156th st. The building is being erected by the Collis P. Huntington heirs and will stand on the corner, beside the Hispano Museum, which has the Numismatic Society Hall and Museum on the western side. The Fleischmans are erecting two large and choice 6-sty elevator apartments on the adjoining block to the north, and Gross & Herbner are building on the opposite side of Broadway, making three of the four corners that are being improved.

Market Strong and Active.

Strength and activity generally characterize the building material markets. Brick was weaker, however, yesterday. The scarcity of labor at the Hudson River yards is a potent influence in the readjustment of market conditions. Cement is steady with little improvement in sales. There is plenty of it on hand but it is not being pushed at the present price of $1.43 cloth or wood. Iron leads the general Fall uplift. August was a record month for production with 1,591,-931 gross tons made as compared with 1,514,521 of October 1907, the previous record. Production has advanced from 36,000 tons daily in January to 51,354 last month. September, opened strong and despite advancing prices, the month's output may equal August. An improved inquiry for basic indicates healthy building conditions this Fall. 53 per cent. is from New York and vicinity. Structural steel is looking up. Sheets show a recession. Lumber is led in advancing prices by spruce. Yellow pine is steady. White is strengthening. Stone is moving well with big cargos inward bound. There is still a scarctiy of exterior marble work. Steel is adjusting itself to new prices. The first week in September does not indicate a building boom this Fall. Conditions will be better. Money is scarcer owing partly to National treasury perplexities and it is believed that few new enterprises requiring large funds will be started until Spring. The death of Mr. E. H. Harriman will not have an adverse effect on the building material market, save, perhaps, in an indirect way on structural steel due to a possible temporary curtailment of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific mill work pending adjustment of Mr. Harriman's affairs. This would ease up structural deliveries somewhat.

Brick Market Normal.

The brick market was weaker yesterday Conditions now appear to be about normal in demand and inquiry. The Hudson River situation is becoming a little worrisome because of the continued scarcity of labor. Each Saturday more of the brick yard help leaves the yards in search of steady winter employment in New England, and this has left the yards somewhat short handed.

LABOR A PROBLEM THIS YEAR.

The brick manufacturers in the Hudson valley have had a serious problem to confront this season due to the construction of the aqueduct near the most important yards. Most of the men that might be classified as skilled laborers have gone to work on that construction and have left the brick yards with only green hands for the most part. Despite this handicap, however, the manufacturers have been able to turn out good brick and in the usual quantities. This has been due, no doubt, to the exceptional run of good brick-making weather that has characterized the present season and, in part, to the fact that for every skilled maker two unskilled men have to be employed when he leaves the yards. While this does not carry out the ratio of two to one, of course, yet there is no doubt that a greater quantity of brick has been manufactured this year than last.

REMARKABLE DEMAND FOR RARITANS.

The quotation for Raritan River brick in cargo lots this week was $5.50@$6. Sayre & Fisher Co. report a remarkably healthy demand for their product, and other companies that manufacture along that water way report the same condition. Complaint is made that boats are scarce and that it is a difficult matter to move all brick now under order. As far as the Raritan River product is concerned Fall business started with a rush on September first, and the indications are said to be good for a continuation for at least three months. Inquiries show an improvement both in numbers and in size and the same is true of the Newark office. The yards are working full time with a full complement of help. Most of the business is in small volumes.

RETAIL DEMAND SOMEWHAT LIGHTER.

There is a slight recession in retail demand for Hudson River hards. This is, however, merely temporary, and while figures seem to show it, actual conditions show a falling off that is hardly discernible. The confusion is due to the holiday which permitted cargoes to pile up. On Wednesday an improvement was noted and it was thought on the Exchange that the demand and supply at docks would equalize themselves by the week end. Prices quoted yesterday on the docks were $5.50@$6. These transactions are of the week ending, Saturday, Sept 4: Holdovers (Aug. 28), 5; arrivals, 84; sales, 74; holdovers (Sept. 6), 15.

TRUCKS SCARCE IN JERSEY.

Brick companies in New Jersey who are unloading Hudson River material say that they are having considerable trouble in making job deliveries because of a scarcity of trucks to handle the material from the boats. One firm paid demurrage for three days to a local agent, which the agent declared had not happened before in any of the west shore cities in fifteen years. The same is true of Newark, Hoboken and even Bayonne. New business in Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken is likely to aggravate the present situation rather than to improve it.

Basic Iron Now in Demand.

Here comes the real sign of better Fall conditions: a better demand for basic iron. Pig iron orders have been large all summer, but railroad business has predominated. Now structural interests enter the lists. Of the 50,000 tons negotiated for this week one-fifth of that amount was for basic. The fabricating plants, as has been told in these reports, are filled to capacity, and September first brought new inquiries and an increased demand for thirty and sixty day delivery of material now fabricating. Levering & Garrigues say the situation bodes well for good business and especially in this city. Radley is nearing capacity business. Fourth av work and 5th av improvements have kept Post & McCord and the American Bridge Co. busy. When the fabricating plants are filled the demand for basic is at its height. This Fall the demand is exceptional, although nowhere near record figures.

The condition of the pig iron market is therefore active and strong. Prices continue to have an upward tendency, but irregularity features the Eastern Pennsylvania product.

NEW ENGLAND FREIGHT RATES LOWER.

What is believed to have had an important effect upon the pig iron situation is the recent reduction of 20c. per ton on Pittsburgh and Eastern Pennsylvania freight bound for New England. It is considered probable that a similar reduction will be made in the Buffalo territory.

STRUCTURAL FEELING IMPROVEMENT.

Already an improvement is noted in the structural steel market due to the uniformly better conditions in the building material market and increased activity in construction circles. Beams, channels, tees and zees are firmer and an advance is near. Bar iron has been in better demand and a stronger tone is noted in concrete reinforcement materials. Fabricated prices indicate that plain material is being shaded.

SHEETS SOMEWHAT DULL.

Beginning with tin and carrying all down the line sheet metals felt a recession during the week. There was a general tendency to improve, but a notable improvement was not expected for the immediate present. Another cause is the fact that there is a great copper surplus at present. Domestic consumption is improving, it is true, but August's consumption was said to have been less than 60,000,000 lbs., so that there was an increase of about 6,000,000 lbs. in production. It is estimated that the total amount of this stock on hand now is about 128,000,000.

Lumber Steadier and Advancing.

Favorable reports were heard at the various wholesale lumber centres early this week, and as it wore on reports of larger and more numerous orders came in. The Bronx offered the biggest field with one order for 125,000 ft. of yellow pine and timber. Retailers are doing a big business throughout New Jersey, particularly in Westfield, where big speculative operations are now going on. The American Lumber Co. and Collins & Lavery say they have excellent assurances of a busy Fall, and, in fact, one firm avers that it will be unprecedented in amount of business done during any summer and Fall in ten years, save that of 1906.

HARDWOODS STILL IN GREAT DEMAND.

The Strasburg Manufacturing Co. and other specialists in hardwood say that the demand for hardwoods is growing to be a serious matter. They are unable to catch up with business, and some of the mills in the South are working a few hours extra nights to meet new business. The inquiries continue despite the advancing prices, and another one is expected before long. The run is on oak and maple just now, but other woods are crowding in heavily. About 65% of the business is from New York, and is attributed in no small measure to the growing popularity of the parquet floor and hardwood trim now the vogue in apartment houses.

A large part of this demand just at present is coming from Newark, which, by the way, is fast becoming an important contributing field of the New York building material market. There apartment house construction is in the ascendency and since they are being constructed upon elaborate scales hardwood trim is forming about 18% of the business in some of the local hardwood agencies.

SPRUCE ADVANCE EXPECTED.

The demand for spruce, according to reliable authorities is somewhat lighter than during the middle of the summer, and the present advance in price is due to curtailment at the mills as prophesied some weeks ago in these reports. This is a time of year when the northern lumberman gets the wanderlust and, like in the Hudson River brick yards, labor becomes scarce in the Fall. Some of the cutters have decided to shut down now rather than run the mills at a loss. The demand for spruce will probably not last much longer than the first of November, as the mill men figure it, and so they will either close up or hold back on their output.

ANOTHER REASON FOR CURTAILMENT.

A representative of a Canadian lumber firm gave this explanation for the curtailment of spruce shipments at this time:

"This has been a dry summer and our people have had trouble in floating logs down from the forests because of the lack of water in the streams. A few of the smaller ones have dried up altogether." This explanation does not hold good in all instances, but it is said to be true of many Canadian and Maine lumber camps.

Three-quarters of an inch is counted in both oak and maple flooring for tongue and groove, viz., 13/16 x 2¼-in. face is counted 1 x 3-in.

To estimate the number of feet of either oak or maple flooring required, first obtain the number of square feet of floor space to be covered, and then add the following percentages to it: 2-in. face, 37½%; 2½-in. face, 30%; 2¼-in. face, 33⅓%; 3¼-in. face, 25%.

Much Figuring for Stonework.

Nearly all the big stone cutting firms and wholesalers say that the trade is figuring on a great deal of local work just at present, and that most of it is in large quantities and is considered desirable business. Nevertheless, the stone situation is not as good as it might be, although there is considerable encouragement to be derived from existing conditions. The New York Central Railroad alone has over 1,000 cars on the road at this writing bound for New York. Wholesalers say that within the next three months there will be 2,000 more eastward bound on that road alone. On Wednesday there were seven boat loads on the Harlem unloading to cutters from 102d st to 108th st, showing that considerable stone is moving in this city at present.

AN OPEN WINTER WANTED.

Stone men declare that if the winter is an open one, stone cutters, masons and setters ought to be busy until the Spring. The 4th av improvements and other big operations that will start this Fall will mean much activity at the local yards. Business was fair last winter, and that was immediately after the depression. The stone men figure, therefore, that better conditions should prevail this year. There are several big contracts hanging fire just now that promise good futures.

Adjusting Light Supply for Stores.

Store conditions differ. Some are light, some are gloomy, while others are dark. The same might be said of apartment house flats in large cities. The queer part of this condition of affairs is that those stores or flats that are light could be made lighter, those that are gloomy could be made bright and those that are dark could be made fairly brilliant without the aid of artificial illumination, yet in many instances storekeepers continue blindly to pay lighting bills when a judicious investment of a part of one year's illumination would solve the problem for all time.

During the fifteen years that the American Luxfer Prism Co. has been in business a careful study has been made of daylight—suitable for any condition. Over 30,000 buildings throughout the country have been equipped with these prisms, embracing every type made, and also meeting every possible condition. As an evidence of the adaptability of these various prisms the variety of contracts now on hand shows the versatility of the device.

At the home of William K. Vanderbilt, at 49 East 52d st, of which Warren & Wetmore are architects, different kinds of prism are being installed for the roof of a garage, for the west court and the front areaway. In the case of the two subway loops in Canal and Centre sts, still another type of prism is being installed, while at the Brewster homestead in New Haven, Conn., a type suitable for a suburban residence is going in. Another notable installation calling for even a different variety of angle and lense is for the new Saranac Hotel at 7th av, Broadway and 42d st. This is a sidewalk installation requiring exceptional light on the basement.

The American Luxfer Prism Co. has a special process for glazing which is worthy of note, inasmuch as both glass and glaze are fire retardants. The angles of the sash are all brazed with hard metal and are put together on the job in sections, each of which are securely fastened. Combined with this company's ribbed glass the use of wireglass is negatived.

Woodworking Company Moves Offices.

The Manhattan Woodworking Co. has moved its offices from its mill at 270 Rider av, the Bronx, to larger and more commodious quarters across the street, at 281 Rider av, at the head of 139th st. The demand for greater working room in the mill became so great, owing to the rapid increase in the company's business that a change became compulsory. Where the office formerly was located on the third floor of the building, the gluing department has been installed. In the building where the office is now located, space is provided for a telephone exchange connecting with all departments and the clerical help, besides some storeroom.

Roofing Tile Company Is Ready to Get Busy.

The New York Roofing Tile Company has purchased from Richard F. Mueller the 18 acres of land at Malden Station, near Saugerties, N. Y., adjoining the present holdings of the company on the west. This gives the company the sole ownership of the entire deposit of roofing tile clay, about forty acres.

Lucius H. Washburn, the president of the company, said: "This is the first step toward the larger plant. Our engineers are at work on the plans and we expect to begin the actual work of construction in about three weeks. We will employ when in full operation about 150 and will make a complete line of natural color and glazed tile of various patterns and sizes, together with the necessary fittings.

"The new buildings will cover nearly two acres of land and will consist of plain and glazing kilns, dryers, machinery houses and engine house and will have a capacity of three million tiles a year."

Roofing Slate Output.

A monograph on the production of slate in 1908 has been issued by the United States Geological Survey, under the authorship of A. T. Coons, with notes by T. Nelson Dale, and the following has been taken from it: Notwithstanding the unsettled conditions of trade, labor and finance in the United States in 1908, the output of slate as reported to the United States Geological Survey increased in value $297,597—from $6,019,220 in 1907 to $6,316,817 in 1908. This value for 1908 is the largest reported for any year since the beginning of the compilation of slate statistics in 1879, when the output was valued at $1,231,221, and was composed entirely of roofing slate.

Of the total value of slate production in the United States over 80 per cent. represents roofing slate. In 1908 the production of roofing slate was reported as 1,333,171 squares, valued at $5,186,167; in 1907 the figures reported were 1,277,554 squares, valued at $4,817,769, an increase for 1908 of 55,617 squares in quantity and of $368,398 in value. The increase in average value per square from $3.77 in 1907 to $3.89 in 1908 was 12 cents. The ordinary price per square of No. 1 slate varies from about $3.50 to $10 per square f. o. b. at quarries, and depends on the quality, the color, size, thickness, smoothness, straightness and uniformity of the pieces. Some of the inferior slate, which is mottled or ribboned, sells as low as $2.50 per square, but specially prepared slate, with pieces carefully selected, with reard to color, extra thickness and size, and extra cutting, sells as high as $30 per square. The red slate of New York commands the highest value per square for ordinary slate.

The slates in the United States include a very wide range of varieties dependent upon color, texture, fissility, composition, etc. While nearly all of them possess one or two excellent features, few possess many such features and none possess them all. Several are so conspicuous for their well nigh perfect adaptation to certain uses that the demand for these slates is likely to increase with the growth of the country. Such are: The blackboard slates of the "soft vein" region in Pennsylvania, which owe their fitness not only to their dark shade, but also to their fine cleavage and the thickness of the beds, which makes it possible to split off large slabs of half-inch thickness; the red roofing slates of New York and Arkansas, which owe their bright, durable color to hematite; the "unfading green" slate of Vermont, which owes the durability of its color to its very small content of the triple carbonate of lime, iron and magnesia; the very dark gray unfading roofing slates of the Peach Bottom district in Maryland and Pennsylvania, of Arvonia in Virginia and of Brownville and Monson in Maine, which owe the durability of their shade to sparseness of carbonate and in cases to the presence of graphite, and their general qualities to a very high degree of metamorphism; the very dark gray mill-stock slates of Northfield in Vermont and of Monson in Maine, and the greenish and purplish mill-stock slates of Vermont; and lastly, the "sea-green" roofing slates of Vermont and the very dark gray roofing slate of Northampton and Lehigh counties in Pennsylvania, which, owing to their abundant carbonate, fade more or less, sooner or later, but are less expensive. These Pennsylvania and Vermont slates will always be in demand on account of their cheapness, which is largely due to their great fissility.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

PLEASANT AV.—Relative to acquiring title, wherever the same has not been heretofore acquired for the same purpose in fee, to the lands, tenements and hereditaments required for the opening and extending of PLEASANT AV (now Olin av), from Gun Hill road to East 219th st, Bronx. Commissioners Wm. F. Burrough, William Sexton, Andrew J. Kelly give notice that they have completed their estimate of damage in this proceeding; that objections may be made in writing, duly verified, on or before Sept. 29. The area of assessment is bounded on the northwest by a line 97.5 feet northwesterly from and parallel with the northwesterly line of Olin av, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Olin av, and by the prolongation of the said line; on the northeast by a line distant 100 feet northeasterly from the northeasterly line of East 219th st, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of East 219th st; on the southeast by a line distant 95 feet southeasterly from and parallel with the southeasterly line of Olin av, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Olin av, and by the prolongation of the said line; and on the southwest by a line distant 100 feet southwesterly from and parallel with the southwesterly line of Gun Hill road, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Gun Hill road.

STANDING OF LLOYDS ASSOCIATIONS.

Superintendent Hotchkiss of the New York Insurance Department recently transmitted to Governor Hughes the report of Special Examiner John L. Train on Lloyds Associations and organizations of inter-insurers claiming the right to transact business in this State. Since many property owners carry insurance with associations of the kind referred to, the communication of Mr. Hotchkiss to the Governor relating to the examination will be of special interest at this time. It says:

"This report is the result of an investigation covering several months. It was prepared in order that the public might have the facts as to organizations of this character, and also to supply suggestions for remedial legislation and appropriate applications to court. Mr. Train's work considerably enlarges on the scope of the Richards-Scherer investigation in 1895, and that conducted by Special Deputy Attorney-General Edgcomb in 1902. It is, too, probably the first official compendium on Lloyds insurance as conducted in this country. Supplementing the report, permit me to call attention to the following:

"1. In spite of a general impression to the contrary, there are several Lloyds associations, as well as organizations of inter-insurers, whose underwriters are reputable and financially responsible, and whose business is safely and honorably conducted.

"2. The State of New York has, however, been much more tender in its treatment of Lloyds than have other States. Here, as was recently stated by the present attorney-general, 'the law, even with Section 63, is in a very unsatisfactory form.'

"3. Practically the only restrictions on the business of Lloyds associations or partnerships are that they must file annual reports, must maintain a premium reserve, must notify the department of any changes in the trading name or the underwriters using it, and must neither transact their business through branches nor create the impression that their policy is of the standard form. Recently, power was given this department to apply for possession and liquidation, in case a Lloyds refused to submit to examination or conducted its business in a manner hazardous to its policyholders or the public.

"4. If it be a fact—and it undoubtedly is—that the people of this State cannot now obtain sufficient fire insurance to meet their demands, the Lloyds institution can, perhaps, be so reformed and regulated as to make a Lloyds policy reliable, no matter by whom written.

"5. This can be accomplished, however, only by legislation of an emphatic character. Later, I intend to lay before you some specific recommendations on this subject. Some of the suggestions already made are: That such legislation should (1) put Lloyds partnerships under the same restrictions as stock companies, (2) prescribe an initial license or certificate to do business, (3) require a departmental deposit of securities in considerable amount, this as a guarantee against losses due to conflagrations or similar causes and to meet the obligations of such underwriters as prove financially unable to respond, (4) provide for official and periodical examinations, (5) prohibit changes in trading names without the consent of the department, (6) require individual underwriters to file, at least annually, verified statements of financial worth, (7) interdict the transfer of the license or charter to new underwriters without the consent of the department, (8) provide that service of process on the attorney-in-fact shall be deemed service on each underwriter, (9) limit the kinds of insurance which may be written, (10) prescribe a standard Lloyds policy form, and (11) give authority to the department to revoke any license in case of failure to substitute a responsible underwriter for one not deemed sufficiently so, or for non-user, impairment, insolvency, or the like.

"6. Meanwhile, it is apparent that proper proceedings should be taken either to liquidate, under Section 63, or to restrain from doing business, under general law, such of the present associations as, under the decisions and rulings cited in the report, have no legal right to do business, or have forfeited that right, or bring themselves under Section 63. The department has already begun proceedings against two of the associations mentioned in the report. The facts as to others will shortly be brought to the attention of the attorney-general."

The report of Examiner Train includes: (1) A brief summary of the parent institution, known as Lloyds, London; (2) a review of the statutes regulating and of the practices, both legal and illegal, of Lloyds institutions and organizations of inter-insurers in the State of New York; (3) the facts as to the organization, history and legality of each of such associations claiming to be authorized to do business in New York, and (4) certain summaries of the laws of other States affecting these associations and the attitude of the various State departments concerning them.

"The investigation brings out the following facts," says the Insurance Press: "Out of between 100 and 150 Lloyds which asserted the right to do business 15 years ago, official investigations, restrictive legislation and action by the courts have proved so effective that there are now only 22 Lloyds which assert the right to do business in New York, while three other Lloyds charters are used by inter-insurance organizations. In addition there are three associations of inter-insurers which assert that they are in no respect Lloyds or amenable to the provisions of the insurance law and yet report annually to the department. Of the 22 Lloyds 14 are active and eight dormant, the latter ostensibly retaining their right to do business by the issue of a few policies each year. Of the 22 Lloyds nine seem to be entitled to transact business; nine have no right to do so, while as to four the right is doubtful; indeed, of the fourteen which are active only seven are authorized beyond question to write insurance in this State. These 22 Lloyds, through failures to meet obligations, changes in underwriters or sale of charters, have done business under 62 names in the last 18 years. Some have written policies under four or five names. It is significant that the nine clearly entitled to do business have used only twelve names, a large majority of them still operating under the name assumed by the original underwriters."

It can now be safely reasoned that as a result of Mr. Train's exhaustive investigation much doubt has been dispelled as to the present standing of Lloyds fire insurance organizations.

PROPERTY OWNERS TO GATHER.

A call for a gathering of members has been issued by Joseph S. Schwab, president of the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the Twelfth and Twenty-second Wards. The meeting will take place on Monday evening, Sept. 13. It will be held in Colonial Hall, 101st st and Columbus av. Business of much importance to members of that body will be discussed on that occasion.

Recently, Mr. Schwab, who is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Congress of Taxpayers, gave out the following for publication:

"We are investigating municipal affairs thoroughly and will be able to give taxpayers and rentpayers exact information in regard to any public matter that may affect their interests. The Executive Committee will be called next week to name a committee of 5 that will represent the taxpayers' organizations of Manhattan and the Bronx in discussions regarding proper candidates for municipal offices. We shall begin work on an exhaustive public statement in behalf of the taxpaying interests."

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF BUILDING MANAGERS AND OWNERS.

(Mr. C. A. Patterson, Secretary of the Convention Committee, has issued a prospectus, from which the following notes are selected.)

A CORDIAL invitation is extended to every owner, manager, real estate man or in fact everyone having something to do with the construction, equipment or maintenance of office, loft, apartment and other large buildings.

There is no association, simply a convention open to all. Just appoint yourself a delegate and come—you will meet men from practically every city in the union.

The national convention of building managers and owners will be held at Detroit, September 13, 14 and 15.

This will be the greatest gathering of the prominent men owning or operating office buildings, apartment houses and similar structures ever held in the history of property management. It will be a meeting that no one interested in rentable property can afford to miss. A three-day session will be held at the Cadillac Hotel in the beautiful city of Detroit.

The program covers practically all the important problems relating to construction, equipment, renting and operating of buildings. Speakers have been secured from many of the cities from coast to coast. Each speaker is chosen for the topic which he has developed to the greatest extent.

HUGHES BRYANT ON CONSTRUCTION.

Hughes Bryant, considered one of the most progressive building managers of Kansas City, will take the topic of "Advantage to be derived by managers working in conjunction with the architect in initial construction."

Mr. Bryant has a national reputation as a practical manager, and as a man who has acted as consulting manager for many properties he is particularly able to qualify for a speaker on this interesting subject.

Seattle is a live city. The program would be incomplete without a speaker from this western metropolis. J. T. Curran, manager of the White Building, has accepted a place on the program and will tell us how they rent buildings out West.

Albert J. Marshall, of New York, will speak on the Proper Lighting of Corridors.

CLEANING PROBLEM AND JANITOR SERVICE.

The newest large building in Detroit is the Ford. The manager, Mr. Albert Kern, has always taken a keen interest in the cleaning problem. In his paper at the convention he will take up:

Janitor vs. janitress in care of offices.
Hours and system of operating janitor force.
Amount of work required.
Cost of janitor service per square foot of rentable space.
Checking supplies used by janitors.
Practical rules and regulations for operation of office buildings.

An interesting discussion will follow this paper and at least an hour is set aside to bring out the valuable experience of the delegates.

REVENUE AGAINST EXPENSE.

Another speaker which no live manager or owner can afford to miss hearing is C. T. Coley, of the Douglas Robinson, Chas. S. Brown Company, New York. To those who do not know Mr. Coley it might be said with truth that he knows the work from A to Z. He can discuss intelligently and give facts regarding any part of building construction, equipment or management that will be valuable to any owner and manager. Being associated with one of the largest companies in New York City, managing property, Mr. Coley is in a position to deliver a very practical address on his subject, "Percentage of net and gross cost of operation to income of office, loft buildings and apartment houses in New York City."

THE MANAGER'S PERSONALITY AS A FACTOR.

In St. Louis there is a building called the Merchants-Laclede. This skyscraper was erected many years ago and there are newer ones all around it, but despite this fact there is little or no vacant space in it. This isn't because the rents are cheap or the location unusual, but because special care is given to please the tenants.

Mr. Claude B. Ricketts, the manager, will deliver a talk on the "Manager's personality as a factor in successful superintendency." To miss this means to lose a chance of hearing a good straight from the shoulder talk which every delegate can profit by.

AN HOUR ON AN ELEVATOR.

The convention could not be complete without a discussion of elevators and elevator service. The great trouble with a subject of this kind is that it is rather technical and therefore difficult to secure a speaker who can talk elevators in plain English.

Mr. Reginald Pelham Bolton, whom many delegates last year remember as one of the "finds" of the convention, will take this subject. It will be "An Hour on Elevators with an Expert." This lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides of the various types of elevator machines, briefly describing their characteristic features, including some views showing the process of deep boring for the Plunger type. Some drawings of elevators showing the methods of support and operation of the car will be presented and illustrations of the effect of the shape and size of cars and doors. These will be explained by diagrams and statistics of passenger traffic in buildings of various sizes throughout the country with instructive observations on the results.

GENERAL PROGRAM.

The entertainment which will be provided by the local building managers will be most enjoyable, including a steamboat ride, automobile rides, luncheons, etc., to say nothing of a general and cordial reception and hearty companionship to all who come.

The mayor of Detroit will deliver the address of welcome and everything will be done to make you have a good time.

A cordial invitation is extended to every man who has anything to do with property in the United States and Canada.

It has been decided to make the addresses very brief, so as to give more time to the practical discussions, which really will result in more value to the delegates than the papers read. Ten or fifteen minutes has been suggested as the length of each paper, and three-quarters of an hour for a discussion. Under these circumstances almost any delegate attending is in a position to start the discussion.

If you miss the Detroit convention you will miss the greatest event ever known in the history of buildings. It will be a liberal education for any manager or owner. No matter where you live, no matter how great the distance, come to Detroit September 13, 14, and 15.

APARTMENT HOUSE PROGRAM AT THE CONVENTION.

For the second time in the history of apartment houses in the United States, will a large body of the progressive apartmen house men meet in convention. A splendid program has been arranged, and the speakers engaged are among the ablest men in the country. Heretofore, to a large extent, each operator has been left to work out his own salvation. Obstacles and pitfalls have been met in countless number, but thanks to the unconquerable energy which characterize the building manager, great headway has been made. Now, however, the spirit of co-operation is drawing the foremost from each community together, and instead of localism and secularity, a great wave of unity and solidarity will radiate from the convention into all parts of the country. Communities as well as individuals need stimulation. Cities and States, and even whole sections of a country can become moribund as well as individuals, and such a condition invariably exists in direct ratio with neglect to draw from the best wherever it is to be found. The "live" towns and the "dead" ones are known to every traveling salesman.

Two sessions of the convention will be devoted exclusively to apartment house subjects, although much useful data on such topics as vertical transportation, cost of production of light, heat and power, etc., are included in the office building section which will be applicable to all buildings.

Mr. Hannan, president of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, will discuss the general subject of apartment houses as an investment. Mr. Hannan's name is a household word among the real estate fraternity. As a man of wide experience, with a personal magnetism capable of holding any audience spellbound, he is an ideal speaker to sound the keynote of the opening session on apartment houses.

Mr. Eugene A. Bournique, of Chicago, will speak upon "Practical Management of the Property." Mr. Bournique manages the "Bryson" and "Marshall," which are recognized as being the most luxurious and perfectly appointed apartment houses in Chicago and the West. Chicago takes especial pride in these buildings, and in Mr. Bournique sends a man to the convention than whom there is none more competent and representative of the best real estate interests of the city.

Chicago ranks high in the buildings of the union in the number and quality of its apartment houses. Mr. John A. Carroll, who manages several of the finest family apartment buildings in the best residence sections of that city, will speak on the "Rental Values of Conveniences."

After all is said, the "Human Element in Renting" plays an important part, and often is the deciding factor in renting, as in every other transaction. We have been most fortunate in securing Mr. Garfield, of Rochester, to deal with this phase of the situation. Any discussion of the renting problem would be incomplete without a consideration of the human equation. Mr. Garfield is a representative American business man, and Rochester a representative American commonwealth. Take our word for it, you will go home a stronger man for hearing this address. Mr. Garfield is a great student of human nature.

Mr. George C. King, manager of the Addison apartment house in Detroit, one of the "show" apartment houses of the city, will speak on the topic "Operation in Relation to the Tenants." Mr. King is another of Detroit's gifted managers, and one who is heart and soul in this convention to make it a banner event in the busy lives of those who come. He is a man whose pride is in his work, and in his city, and whatever he undertakes, his friends know will be done well.

SMOKY CHIMNEYS.

Some chimneys begin to smoke in the early autumn and although many are so constructed as to make it difficult for the expert to effectively remedy the fault, still they can be made to draw tolerably well if thoroughly cleaned during the summer months. Nearly all property owners at some time or other have experienced trouble with chimney flues, in fact to the architect, the builder, and the tenant alike, the smoky chimney has been an abomination for decades.

There are two principal causes why a chimney should smoke, says the "Building News and Engineering Journal." A long flue full of cold air, and itself built of cold material, is one. The air is heavy owing to its low temperature; the lighter, heated gases in which the smoke is contained have great difficulty in forcing their way up, and it is necessary, as it is called, to create a draught. Every householder knows this elementary fact, owing to the difficulty of getting a flue to draw properly when the fire is first lighted in autumn, after a summer's rest. In large chimneys, used for manufacturing purposes, the difficulty is overcome by a forced draught, but in the ordinary, every-day house such an expedient is impossible of adoption. To prevent the flue from cooling too much or too suddenly is the only sure preventive. This, as all architects know, is done most surely by grouping the flues together in the middle of the house, so that all are kept more or less warm from their proximity to that from the kitchen range, which is in use all the year around. If, as happens in many houses, there are distinctly two sections—one devoted to the kitchen, and the other to the household—two such groups of chimneys have to be formed, and the household group has often to run the risk of being idle for a great part of the year, unless, indeed, it is possible to carry up within it a flue from a basement heating apparatus which is used for hothouses.

From what has been said it will be recognized that to put a fireplace on an outside wall is to invite disaster. Many careless designers think little of doing this, considering nothing else than the position of the fireplace in the room, or the artistic effect of an external chimney. The discomfort caused by smoke, however, has to be reckoned with as well as the extra initial cost involved. It is clear that a flue which abuts upon the external air will cool quite rapidly, and the smoke difficulty may occur when lighting the fire in the morning after a hard night's frost, just as in the early autumn after a summer's rest. All the same, occasional external chimneys cannot be avoided. Where they are used, wisdom suggests that they should have a thick outer lining, instead of the usual four and one-half inches of brick work, though comparatively few people, in these days of reducing prices to a minimum, think of doing this, except in high-class work. Tall chimneys, too, where they rise for some distance above the roof, ought to be at least nine inches thick externally, if rapid and undue cooling of the contained air is to be avoided. Yet it is rarely indeed that they are made so substantial as this, unless they are of stone instead of brick.

Another prolific cause of smoky chimneys is down-blow, resulting either from some accidental depression of the wind or the relative position of the chimney with regard to some neighboring tall building, or trees, or even a neighboring hill—anything, in fact, which can cause a depression in the current of air with a strong wind blowing from a certain quarter. This evil is most acute, as a rule, in towns; while fireplaces on the top story of a building are more affected than those from the rooms below. It is recognized by the smoke puffing out in sudden bursts, corresponding with the gusts of wind. The means of cure are obvious. Either the chimney must be carried up to a sufficient height to avoid the cause of the down-blow, or else a specially-constructed chimney-top, or cowl, must be used. There are many parts of Europe—hilly districts, most of them—where the open top is rare, the two sides of a flue being carried up, and a heavy stone lintel laid across, so that the smoke escapes laterally, and not vertically, while any depressed current is prevented from entering otherwise than across the flue-top, passing through the opening rather than down the flue, and so helping rather than retarding the draught. A chimney such as this can generally be made picturesque, so that its adoption is often worth consideration; but the stone used as a capping must be sufficiently heavy to resist the jar of the sweep's brush without giving away in the silghtest degree. This cause of smoky chimneys is, perhaps, the most common of all in large towns, where roofs rise to many different heights, and almost all the cowls and patent chimney-pots upon the market have been devised with regard to it. Ugly as they are, there can be no doubt as to the efficiency of some of them, particularly those of the revolving type, which always turn away from the direction of the wind, while the louvre pots and cowls have also proved very generally successful. That they are hideous beyond description is entirely another matter; but it only requires the recognition of the fact that a cowl or specially-devised pot of some sort is essential for architects to select their pots in advance—for there are many forms of combined pot and cowl which are by no means inartistic, and at the same time efficient, and much more lasting than the metal erections commonly put up as afterthoughts—or else to design them specially.

Another cause of smoke is an ill-constructed grate, with, perhaps, too small a hood or canopy, and insufficient ventilation. Nowadays, the fireplace has received so much attention that a badly-constructed one is much more difficult to obtain than formerly; but there are still many people who bottle up their rooms so completely that it is not easy for enough air to be supplied to carry the products of combustion up the flue. It must always be remembered that the flue, when the fire is lighted, acts as an outlet ventilator, up which there is a constant current of air. Consequently, there must be the same amount of air introduced into the room which the chimney serves, and, if this required amount is not allowed to pass in through sufficiently large openings, it will be drawn in through narrow cracks, and so cause draughts. The natural inclination of the most people is to stop a draught by closing up the opening through which it passes, and so, by reducing the inlets, the supply of air to the grate becomes insufficient and the chimney "smokes," because the smoke is not carried off with sufficient rapidity.

PRIVATE WATER PLANT.

Vacant property owners are not infrequently temporarily deterred from improving their holdings owing to the absence of city water. Although in some localities a policy of procrastination may be found, the most sensible course to pursue in such cases, at least until some substantial indications of public improvements are visible, the pleasures of earlier occupancy may be enjoyed by resorting to the use of a pressure tank or boiler in connection with a well or cistern, as shown in the accompanying diagram.

As will be noticed the piping to the several fixtures is run in the customary manner, in fact the arrangement is the same as if the supply of water was from the city mains. It is obvious that a pump of sufficient size will be required to lift the water from the source of supply and force it into the pressure tank. In this connection it may be said to be advisable to employ a small triplex power pump to do the work, particularly since the cost of operation is small. Between the pressure tank and house system a pressure gauge should be introduced, as well as a stop cock. In addition to this the owner should see to it that the fitter places a draw cock at the bottom of the tank or immediate connections. One of the important fittings to a system of the kind described is a check valve which must be connected between the tank and source of supply in order to prevent the water from returning after it has been pumped into the pressure tank or receiver.

The diagram shows connections for a complete hot-water service which will give satisfaction under trying conditions, although there will be found some difference in opinion as to the best method of piping for service of this kind when two heaters are to be used, such as the coil in the furnace and the water back in the range, some preferring that all the water circulating shall pass through both heaters.

The compressed air system is not new, on the contrary, it has been in use for a decade or more, and most instances, where properly installed, gives complete satisfaction, affording as well excellent protection from fire and in addition providing a reliable means of regulating the pressure of water at the faucets.

THE WEEK.

As was to be expected in a week broken by a holiday, the reports of sales from the brokers' offices were few, and for the most part of the commonplace order. Brokers are, however, more than sanguine as regards the general situation, they claim to have an abundance of negotiations nearly completed, a number of them running into six figures, and we hear of one of more than unusual importance, involving an investment of close to two millions by one of the large and most successful realty corporations.

The lease of the property at Broadway, 7th av and 48th st, by Moritz B. Philipp to Felix Isman for forty-two years, with two renewals of twenty-one years each, was recorded this week; the rental is from $36,250 to $42,000 a year and taxes, and it is said that the lessee will erect a theatre on the plot.

Mr. Philipp, the lessor of the Broadway parcel, took title this week to the dwelling at 11 East 57th st. It is assessed for tax purposes at $125,000.

That there are bargains in the market is indicated by the sale of the 6 and 7-sty apartment houses at the southeast corner of Columbus av and 73d st. They are on a plot 100x100, and are said to have sold for something less than $275,000. The land is assessed at $150,000, and land and buildings at $285,000, and while the buildings are not up to date, they are good enough to produce a rental of $33,000 a year.

The Unionport section of the Bronx reported an unusual number of sales this week, these being attributed to the fact that the Interborough is building a two-mile extension in Tremont av, from the West Farms Plaza to Throggs Neck.

THE AUCTION MARKET

IN the auction branch of the market this week most of the properties offered went the usual way, the plaintiff being the buyer.

For the coming week there are twenty-eight parcels to be offered as the result of legal proceedings. The most important offering being that by Herbert A. Sherman on the 16th. The properties are located on Henry, Monroe, Pell, James slip, Park, Cherry, Bayard and 33d sts, and but for the fact that the 16th is the Hebrew New Year, there would undoubtedly be some spirited bidding.

On Tuesday Joseph P. Day will offer seven parcels at voluntary sale, being the only one of the week. They are on 64th, 116th, 82d, 92d sts, and on Madison and St. Nicholas avs.

JERSEY PLANS REALTY EXHIBIT.

It is planned by the New Jersey Real Estate Men's Convention to hold an important realty exhibit, to consist of maps and photographs of New Jersey developments. These exhibits will be displayed on the twentieth floor of the Hudson Terminal Building, covering about one acre of floor area.

In addition, the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange, the New Jersey Development Federation and the Hudson Terminal Concourse Merchants' Association have combined for a vigorous campaign to familiarize the public with the Hudson tunnel facilities and the attractions of New Jersey. They are preparing to send out the annexed letter to the real estate men of the northern counties of the State. Among the speakers at the convention, all of whom have accepted the invitations, are President William G. McAdoo, former Governor E. C. Stokes, Joseph P. Day, president of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York City; Otto Kempner, president of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange; Henry Lemmermann, president of the New Jersey Development Federation; Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City, and K. B. Conger, of the Hudson-Manhattan Railroad Company.

The letter follows:

"The undersigned associations cordially unite in inviting you to attend the first of a series of inspection parties of the Hudson tunnel system, its great terminal buildings, and the wonderful concourse market on Wednesday, Sept. 15, 1909.

"This occasion is designed to mark the opening of a campaign by which it is intended to familiarize the public of both New York and New Jersey with the facilities that have been established by the Hudson-Manhattan Railroad Company for improved interstate transit. The initial party is to be dedicated to the real estate and kindred interests, and Sept. 15, 1909, will be real estate men's day.

"At three o'clock in the afternoon a real estate men's convention will be held in the Hudson Terminal building, for which a most interesting programme will be arranged. Its object is to consider the advantages to Northern New Jersey to be derived from a complete utilization of the Hudson tunnel system. President William G. McAdoo, among other speakers, will surely address the gathering. A reception to Mr. McAdoo and other distinguished guests will follow."

PLEASING THE TENANT.—Owners of improved real estate frequently have occasion to remodel an interior door in order to please the whim of a good tenant. It has been recommended that a good way to effect a change from the plainness of a door, say a 4-paneled affair, is to make it over into a door of 6 panels and, instead of retaining the wood in all the different parts, remove the top panels and insert leaded panes of glass. The leaded panes may be either diamond shaped or in small squares, or they may be rectangular and set in with the longer ends running vertically in the space available. The effect will be pleasing.

A verandah door may also be remodelled into an attractive entrance by making the upper section with a dozen glass panes and the original cross section of wood studded with little pegs of wood, or wrought iron nails. A rich black iron handle or knocker will set off the whole to advantage.

LAW DEPARTMENT

"CONSTITUTIONALITY."

One of the safeguards thrown around a possible minority when up to an adverse majority, in society, has always been since the time of King John of England, whose "Barons" of the day forced from him a compact called the Magna Charta, some sort of national or state declaration that certain things on which the individual may depend will always be respected and maintained.

These "things"—primarily the right to life, liberty, property and the pursuit of happiness unless deprived of them by due process of law, and by a jury of one's peers—have in various Constitutions of States and Nations, been multiplied, till a man by reading one of our State Constitutions for instance (particularly the more recent ones), almost decides for himself; among other things, such as climate, healthfulness, etc., whether he will throw in his lot with a State equally governed by women, or dry with total abstinence; and live assured that these things will always be.

But whether acts of the people or of the social majority which govern and enforce the minority, in the social fabric are or are not within the Constitution, has to be perfunctorily decided by some court or tribunal (ultimately if important enough, by the highest); and meanwhile "things may be as they ought not to be" until properly labeled and abolished as not constitutional.

During this period of waiting much uncertainty exists, and many believe the interregnum could in some way be avoided. Our Legislature, for instance, passes an Act taxing stock transfers, and after a year or so of worry, uncertainty and Wall st denunciation going and coming, the courts declare it to be unconstitutional.

Likewise, the State passes a Title-registration law, and that being suggested to be in some of its provisions outside the Constitution, some years seem about to pass before anyone will jump the fence and risk its offered benefits. Lastly, the Congress of the United States passes a general corporation income tax, in the face of a former decision by the Supreme Court of the United States, that the general government may not lay direct taxes on individual incomes. The question at once arises is a corporation within the inhibition, or does that apply alone to a direct tax on the individual?"

So jealous have the courts always been of deciding "mock issues," so called, that it seems unlikely that a Court of Constitutionality can ever be created, to pass on theoretical issues, and the constitutionality of laws, in the abstract. Till somebody actually aggrieved by a new law, actually arises in his wrath, and appeals to the courts for redress, no review can be had.

Probably the condition is really founded on protection of the individual from packed decisions of a selected judiciary, but meanwhile society struggles along with a mass of ill-digested law that often in the outcome is decided to have been null and void.

REDUCING A MORTGAGE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

On a certain piece of property there is a second mortgage, the same not being an instalment mortgage, on which the mortagager wishes to reduce the principal. Can he enter into an agreement with the mortgagee to reduce the same, by payments, without filing such agreement in the Register's office? Would it be legal to do this? Is he (the mortgager) running any risk in not having it filed? If so, what would be the most economical way it could be done? PRINCIPLE.

Answer.—No agreement is requisite to be filed in making payments on a recorded mortgage. The amount due on a mortgage is never arbitrarily fixed by the principal named in the recorded instrument, and an assignee of it would always have to satisfy himself otherwise of what he is buying.

In making payments on it, a borrower should always see the original papers, and that the amount paid is properly endorsed on the bond accompanying the mortgage; also a receipt taken stating that the payment has been so endorsed upon the bond. —Editor.

ANOTHER RENTING DISPUTE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A party living in New York City owns a small house in Mt. Vernon, N. Y. A local agent rents it for $20 per month and sends to the owner $8 cash and a receipt for $12 for his services in renting the house. Is it not a gross overcharge to retain such an amount (5% on a whole year's rental) for letting to a monthly tenant, as there is no mention or suggestion of a lease? What would be the legal fee for him to charge, and can he be sued for the amount overcharged?

Answer.—If the letting be but for a month, the commission charged is improper, being evidently based on a yearly letting.—Editor.

Each requisition should be accompanied by an envelope bearing the proper address of the applicant, AND WITH RETURN POSTAGE, PREPAID.

In case of any doubt in regard to ward, section, block or lot number, taxpayers should take their deeds to the Department of Taxes and Assessments and have their property located on the maps of that Department, and forward to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes, with the requisition, a certified memorandum of their property, which will be furnished by the Department of Taxes and Assessments.

Taxpayers in this manner will receive their bills returned by mail at the earliest possible moment, and avoid any delay caused by waiting in lines, as required in case of personal application.

The requisition must be addressed and mailed to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes in whichever Borough the property is located, as follows:

John J. McDonough, No. 57 Chambers street, Borough of Manhattan, New York.

John B. Underhill, corner of Third and Tremont avenues, Borough of The Bronx, New York.

Thomas J. Drennan, Municipal Building, Borough of Brooklyn, New York.

George H. Creed, corner of Jackson avenue and Fifth street, Long Island City, Borough of Queens, New York.

John De Morgan, Borough Hall, St. George, Staten Island, Borough of Richmond, New York.

After receiving the bills, the taxpayer will draw a check for the amount to the order of the Receiver of Taxes and mail bill and check, with an addressed envelope, with the return postage prepaid, to the Deputy Receiver in whichever Borough the property is located.

NO REBATES ALLOWED.

Checks should be mailed as soon as possible after the bills have been received by the taxpayer.

DAVID E. AUSTEN,
Receiver of Taxes.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

September 3, 4, 7, 8 and 9.

Vol. LXXXIV. SEPTEMBER 18, 1909. No. 2166.

CITIZENS of New York who are intelligently interested in the better government of their city should make a careful study of a book by Professor Frank J. Goodnow, entitled "Municipal Government," and just published by the Century Company. Prof. Goodnow is, perhaps, the foremost American authority on local political organization; and in this book he discusses with candor, impartiality and knowledge the problem presented by the political and economic conditions of the American city. The peculiar interest which this discussion has for the citizen of New York consists in its bearing upon the new charter, which will be passed, rejected or amended by the State Legislature at its next session. Prof. Goodnow does not, indeed, specifically discuss this proposed instrument of local government, but after a careful survey of the facts, tendencies, failures and successes of municipal government both here and abroad, he lays down certain general principles, which have a specific and immediate application to the situation now confronting New York City. Starting with the rule that the term of government which most cities should have is "one which is calculated to secure, under most adverse conditions, both social co-operation and technical efficiency," he infers therefrom that the number of elective officials should be reduced to a minimum, and that whatever system of representation is adopted, the supreme powers of the city should be concentrated in some one authority. Prof. Goodnow does not definitely claim that this supreme authority should under all conditions consist either of a council or a commission. He himself tends to believe that the concentration of the supreme authority in a council, elected by districts, would be likely in the long run to produce the best results; but he admits that under some conditions government by commission would work better than government by council. Whatever system is, however, adopted, should be pushed far enough to obtain a substantially complete concentration of authority, because when governmental powers are distributed among many officers and authorities, each one of whom is within the limits of the statutes a law unto himself, official responsibility for acts of government is so difficult of attainment as to be practically impossible.

THE application of these general principles to the new charter is obvious. The new charter substantially organizes a commission form of government for New York City. It considerably increases the responsibility of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for the good government of New York, and of the Mayor for the economical and efficient administration of its affairs. Consequently, it is a long step in advance towards the improvement of our local political organizations. That it is a thoroughly consistent and entirely satisfactory instrument of municipal government cannot be claimed. It does not go as far as it should in the reduction of the number of elective officials and in the concentration of authority. The commission form of government has been adopted, but a council has been retained, whose powers are so small that they will never be responsibly and efficiently exercised. In this and in certain other respects it is probable that in the course of time the new charter would be further modified and that a council would either be abolished entirely or else given an organization and powers similar to those proposed in the new Boston charter. It would be absurd, consequently, to assert that the Ivins charter is a perfect piece of legislation and that it will not in the future demand considerable alteration. One must even recognize the possibility that eventually it may be necessary to concentrate the local governmental powers in the hands of a council instead of a commission. But for the present the commission form of government has the better chance of success in New York City, and it deserves a thorough trial. The Ivins charter gives it a trial, which if it is not as thorough as it might be, is sufficiently thorough for practical purposes; and every taxpayer who is alarmed by the tendency to extravagance and inefficiency of the existing government, should never forget that these dangerous tendencies will continue until a responsible commission is granted the necessary power to check them. We have had for the last four years a Mayor who is honestly and intelligently desirous of giving the city economical and efficient government; and during the same period the majority of the Board of Estimate has also been well intentioned. But nothing has availed to check the excessive expenditure of the taxpayers' money and nothing will avail until authority is concentrated, and the responsibility for extravagance can be brought home to its perpetrators.

IT is announced definitely that the Pennsylvania station will be opened some time between December 1st and January 1st next, but the opening at this time will be only partial. In the beginning the new station will be used only for the express trains of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. and the trains of the Jamaica branch of the Long Island Road. Not until next summer will a large proportion of the local traffic of the latter company be carried to Thirty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, and it may be several years before the new service is completely installed. The actual effect of the Pennsylvania improvement on the local real estate situation will, consequently, be disclosed very slowly. The greater part, if not the whole of the commutation traffic to New Jersey will reach New York by the trolley tunnels, and only very gradually will a demand be created for the running of commuters' trains to the new Terminal. On the other hand it is planned little by little to run all the Long Island trains into the new station, as may be seen by the fact that there are four tunnels under the East River against only two under the Hudson River. Many commuters who are landed at Thirty-third Street and Seventh Avenue will not be much better off than they are under existing conditions; and it is only very slowly that the full effect and influence of the new terminal will be developed. Little by little an improvement of this kind creates a traffic, dependent absolutely upon the new and better means of communication. Business men and wage-earners, whose offices are situated between Twenty-third and Forty-second Streets, will have a much stronger inducement than they have at present to live on Long Island. People who live on Long Island will have a much stronger inducement to carry on their business in the vicinity of the new Terminal. Thus little by little the number of commuters to Long Island will grow, and their growth will be very much accelerated as soon as the new Terminal is provided with adequate subway connections. A Seventh Avenue subway will enormously increase the radius within which commuters on the Long Island road can make journeys twice a day, and until such a subway is constructed the new local Pennsylvania system will remain a mutilated object.

ACCORDING to the most recent reports the management of the Interborough Company is reconsidering the stand which it took a few months ago. At that time Mr. Shonts declared that the company stood upon an all or nothing platform. Either it must obtain from the city the routes and franchises it had claimed or else it would retire from the business of subway extension. This was an extraordinary attitude for the directors of an important business enterprise to assume, even though they had some right to complain of their treatment by the local authorities, and even though the plans proposed by the Interborough management did offer the best and most economical immediate extension of the subway system. But if these plans did not meet with official approval, the only attitude for business men to take was to consider whether the official plans could not be turned to profitable account by the Interborough management. Apparently this is the problem now under consideration in the office of the company, and it is to be hoped that the results thereof will soon be announced. Report has it that Mr. Shonts rather likes the idea of a Madison Avenue extension north of Forty-second Street for the existing subway and that he does not entirely regret the proposal that the Lexington Avenue-Broadway subway, connected with the existing subway by a Broadway link, might be useful and profitable to the Interborough Company. That these reports will turn out to be true are, we are afraid, too much to expect. They must mean, if they mean anything, that the Interborough Company is willing to build the Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway, an extension of the Fourth Avenue subway up Madison Avenue, an extension of the West Side subway down Seventh Avenue, and a link connecting the two different Broadway subways. But the construction of all these tunnels, with their necessary extensions in the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn, would mean the expenditure of probably $150,000,000, and the bankers who finance the Interborough have always hesitated at the expenditure of any such sum. It should, however, be possible to convince them that if its expenditure were distributed over about eight years, every dollar of this investment might well pay from the start. The enormous traffic developed by the existing subway within the first five years of its operation should be conclusive on this point.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

The question of sewer disposal will become a critical one before long, and it is regretted that the Engineering Bureau of the Borough of Richmond was not permitted by the Board of Estimate to equip and operate an experiment station for one year. While it is true that at Lawrence, Mass., Columbus, Ohio, and Baltimore, Md., sewage testing stations have been constructed and maintained for a number of years past, and the results from the first two named have been published, sewage is so very peculiar an article that treatment methods which may be successful in one locality may be positive failures in another, so that it becomes practically essential to carry on experiments in each locality, to determine what method of disposal is most efficient for the particular sewage to be treated.

It was the desire of the Acting Commissioner of Public Works of the Borough of Richmond, Louis L. Tribus, C. E., to establish the proposed station adjoining the West New Brighton refuse destructor, so that steam, electricity and a force of men would be available as required, and the refuse furnaces would be handy to dispose of the sewage sludge which would accumulate in the testing plant.

As a member of the New York Bay Pollution Commission during the three years of its existence, which did pioneer work in the investigation of the condition of the waters of New York Harbor, Mr. Tribus became fully convinced that, within a few years, the further debouchment of sanitary sewage into the waters of the bay would have to cease, in the interest of public health and comfort.

CONCLUSIVE RESULTS NOT OBTAINED.

Mr. Tribus says that throughout the civilized world engineers are very busily engaged in experimenting, with view to so treating the sewage as to render it innocuous and inoffensive; treatment ranging from processes that merely eliminate matters offensive to the eye, to those that practically furnish an effluent pure enough to be turned into streams, which later are used for water supply purposes. Though much excellent work has been done at various experiment stations, noteworthy at Lawrence, Mass., and Columbus, Ohio, conclusive results have not been secured.

"It is most probable that for all future time, sewage can be poured into the waters of New York Harbor, if treated, so as to be freed from sedimentary matters, and having the effluent nonputrescible, or substantially so. There are various ways of achieving such a result, dependent upon space, that can be given to the treatment and relative cost of operation under the different processes. It will soon become a matter of necessity to take up this phase of the sewerage subject in this borough, and we wish to be prepared, through careful experiments, for determining the question when actually facing the situation."

To this end he desired to erect, adjoining the new refuse destructor, at West New Brighton, a complete sewage experiment station. The results would have been of value to the whole city.

NEW ATTRACTION FOR BROADWAY.

THE adjoining plate illustrates the Broadway elevation of Churchill's new restaurant, to be erected at the southwest corner of 49th st and the "Great White Way," as designed by Herbert M. Baer, architect, of 542 5th av.

This restaurant will be one of the largest and most complete in New York City, and will embody a number of novel features. It will seat over 2,000 people at one time. The plot has a frontage of 78 feet 9 inches on Broadway and runs back 177 feet in 49th st. The main entrance will be on the centre of the Broadway front, through an arcade about 18 feet broad, to be executed in Caen stone.

On either side of this imposing entrance will be two stores, each to be about 15 feet wide and 40 deep. The arcade will lead right into the main dining-room, which is to cover the balance of the plot, and will be 20 feet high, with a 15-ft. gallery extending all around it.

Broadway, s w cor. 49th st. NEW CHURCHILL RESTAURANT. Herbert M. Baer, Architect.

This gallery, which will be picturesque and attractive, will likewise extend out, over the stores, into an open-air balcony, about 20 feet broad, extending across the entire front. There will also be a 4-ft. balcony opening out from the gallery all along the 49th st side with French doors; so that in summer time the whole room will be opened up to the fresh air. The style of this room will be French Renaissance.

IN VIENNESE STYLE.

The front half of the basement will be devoted to a large rathskeller, fitted up in Viennese style with alcove seats all along the walls. The rear of the basement will be given over to the kitchens, heating, ventilating and refrigerating plants; all of which will be most up-to-date and complete in every respect. All the water used in the building will be filtered.

The top floor will be laid out for a banquet hall, clubrooms, private dining-rooms, and the requisite bedrooms and baths.

LIGHTS THAT WILL DAZZLE.

The exterior will be executed in cream-colored stucco with a projecting cornice, roofed with red tile in Spanish fashion. The frieze and panels under the windows will be brought out in colored tiles. Under the soffit of the cornice there will be about 100 electric lights set in rosettes, lighting up the entire facade at night, which will be visible all the way up and down Broadway.

The cost of the building when completed will be, approximately, $200,000. No contracts have yet been placed for structural work.

CONSTRUCTION

LINES OF DEVELOPMENT IN NEW JERSEY.

Office Building Plans for Jersey City—Over 200 New Dwellings at Plainfield—A Big Jump in Values.

IT was estimated by a real estate operator of Newark this week that since the Hudson River tunnels opened real estate transactions aggregating $8,000,000 have been consummated in what is known as the Metropolitan District, that is, within 25 miles from the City Hall, New York. Builders and homeseekers are in the market heavily, and the former get good prices for completed work.

The speaker considered this a conservative estimate. Others placed the total at even a higher figure, holding that that amount should not include factory plots, but only residential sites. This would include all of Hudson County, which takes in Bayonne; all of Essex County, which includes Newark, Harrison, Kearney, the Oranges, Bloomfield and Montclair, Millburn and smaller towns; all of Union County, including Elizabeth, Garwood, Westfield, Cranfield and Plainfield, also North Plainfield, which is in Somerset County; and a part of Middlesex County, in which are located New Brunswick and Perth and South Amboy, both of which are manufacturing cities of about 25,000 each, but which are just outside the 25-mile radius.

A GREAT QUEST FOR BUILDING SITES.

In each of these cities, prices of sites have jumped FROM 5 TO 40 PER CENT. WITHIN THE LAST THREE MONTHS. The "Three-minutes-to-Broadway" slogan of the Hudson County developers is responsible for the jump. There the policy is to hold on to property now in hand for bigger prices a few years hence. The same is true of Hoboken.

Comparatively speaking, residential development is secondary to industrial and business development in Hoboken now. Jersey City is entering upon a big office building development; Newark is building heavily in 3-family apartment houses in the suburbs. In the city it is expanding in the direction of more office buildings, and factory sites are in greater demand than ever. Bayonne is building many homes of the 2-family apartment type. Factory sites are high.

Elizabeth has a good sized office building operation on, for the Union County Trust Co., and the Cleveland Toy Company is constructing a 4-sty store and flat building in Broad st, between East Jersey st and Elizabeth av. There is considerable development in Aldene, a suburb recently annexed, and in that district bounded by Orchard st, Morris av and the city line to the northwest. There are 80 frame residences now in course of construction in that city and throughout the remainder of the county twenty-one brick or frame factory operations.

Plainfield has had 203 new dwellings erected this year, but factories are a drug on the market at present, there being a number to let or for sale. The Livingston Manor section of New Brunswick in Highland Park, on the east bank of the Raritan River, has developed remarkably within the last year and a half—a whole city of fine homes, renting from $25 to $60, have gone up there. New Brunswick cherishes the hope that when the Pennsylvania Railroad electrifies its main line from Long Island City it will make it the Western terminus, where steam will be changed for the electric engines, thus making that city a sort of terminal for all through trains.

The city has shown a wonderful development within the last ten years. It has paved its streets, it has moved its principal business thoroughfare from an out-of-the-way part of the city, along the canal banks, where the streets were narrow and crooked, dirty and damp, to George st, which, as the main thoroughfare of the city, should have the distinction of being the main business street; and it has gone through an exhaustive house cleaning, thanks to its real estate men, who early saw that no development could come to that long slumbering city on the "Banks of the Old Raritan" until its own people took some pride in it beyond tradition; and to its progressive newspapers.

TWO JEALOUS CITIES.

Across the country, through rich clay deposits and extensive terra cotta works, where, by the way, the National Fireproofing Company manufactures its product, lies Perth Amboy. This is one of the most important manufacturing cities of its kind in the State, and it is growing rapidly. Like most rapidly-growing cities where there is a great deal of manufacturing going on, the town as a whole is not as attractive as some other New Jersey cities, but there is a wholesome public spirit among its people, and the loyalty and progressiveness of its newspapers makes up for the large foreign population, and the city, thanks to its real estate operators and developers, is being built up remarkably fast.

The tunnels have not done much for this city, but its admirable location at the mouth of the Raritan River, as the chief port in Raritan Bay, and at the western terminus of the Staten Island Sound, with the Pennsylvania and Jersey Central railroads (constituting the Long Branch Railroad) giving it fine passenger and freight service, makes it attractive as an important commercial city. There has been considerable construction there this year, mostly in factory and frame dwelling operations, but the figures are not obtainable, at this writing. The growth of this city is stimulated by a desire to keep New Brunswick from gaining a larger population or increasing its importance more than that of Perth Amboy.

EXCLUSIVE TOWNS.

Montclair, Morristown and Plainfield are more or less exclusive towns. The cost of living is higher and the disposition is to invite the commuter class to find homes there. Montclair particularly, is a city of exclusiveness, especially in what is known as Upper Montclair, which is built on a mountain in back of the town. The development there has been both municipal and individual. More than one hundred new homes have been erected there within the year, some of these being on very elaborate scales.

The business streets have been developed by alteration to stores and construction of new ones.

BIG THINGS FOR MORRISTOWN.

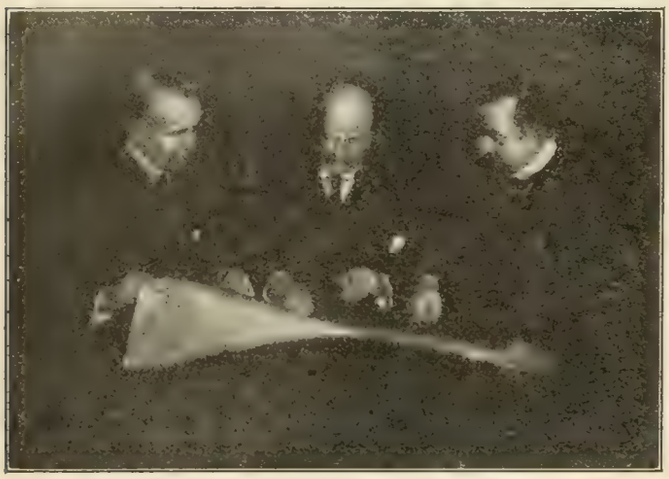
While Morristown, in Morris County, is out of the Metropolitan District, the opening of the tunnels under the Hudson River, between Christopher st and the Lackawanna Railroad terminal, has helped it. Its first trolley car system has just been opened and will remove it from that state of isolation which has characterized it for so many years. A line now runs to Elizabeth and another to Dover. The development here is mostly in houses costing from $10,000 to $50,000, but it is expected that the start that has recently been made to erect smaller houses for "substantial" commuter tenantage will develop into greater things. Morristown, by reason of its high altitude, fine water and good commuter service, is destined to grow much more readily in the future since its real estate men are able to offer exceptional advantages to prospective purchasers.

THE GROWTH OF WESTFIELD.

Every real estate operator in New York City and every one in New Jersey knows about Westfield. Why? Because it is alive, wide-awake and advertises. Five square miles have been added to the town since it opened its advertising campaign, and more than 200 new homes have been erected there this year. It has spread out now so that one progressive developing company refers to its property as Westfield-Garwood. One is a manufacturing hamlet, while the other is a residential town, and rapidly assuming the proportions of a city. It is the fastest growing community in the State, if the number of new residences that go up each year is any criterion. This growth comes without any aid from the tunnels, too! It is merely the result of advertising.

There are other towns in New Jersey that are reaping the benefit of the tunnels. Almost every city within the Metropolitan District reported big increases in building construction this year, and this was only the first year that the tunnels have been in operation.

The facts that have been given show why the New York-New Jersey Real Estate Exchange is desirous of letting New York people know about the advantage that the tunnels offer to New Jersey residents, and the inspection tours which began this week are merely first aids to Jersey homeseekers.



When Non-Performance Was Excusable.

The sub-contractor for the erection of a balcony, fitting rooms, etc., in a downtown building, suspended work, and in the action at law which followed claimed to excuse his non-performance by the defendant's refusal to pay according to his agreement, which was that they undertook to pay about $200 in cash, and the balance in notes during the progress of the work; that the plaintiff was to get the cash during the job, but on no specified day. It appears at the trial, as reported, that he received a $300 90-day note, but upon his demand for cash on a particular day the defendant refused further payment until the job was finished. The court held that this breach of the agreement by the defendants absolved the plaintiff from further performance and entitled him to abandon the work and to recover by way of damages such profits as would result to him from a complete performance, and it awarded him the difference between the contract price and the unfinished work.

CHARLES FOLLEN McKIM.

THE death of Charles F. McKim during the week was the subject of wide comment and regret. First because of the eminence of the man in his profession, and, second, because of the circumstances attending the demise three years ago of one of his former partners, Mr. Stanford White. The firm of which he was the head, McKim, Mead & White, has a reputation as architects that is worldwide. In many instances its work has been a matter of national pride.

Mr. McKim and Mr. Mead were the first partners in the firm, in 1877, and two years later Mr. White joined them. Mr. McKim had supplemented his course in Paris by traveling through

MESSRS. McKIM, MEAD AND WHITE.
(Mr. McKim is in the center.)

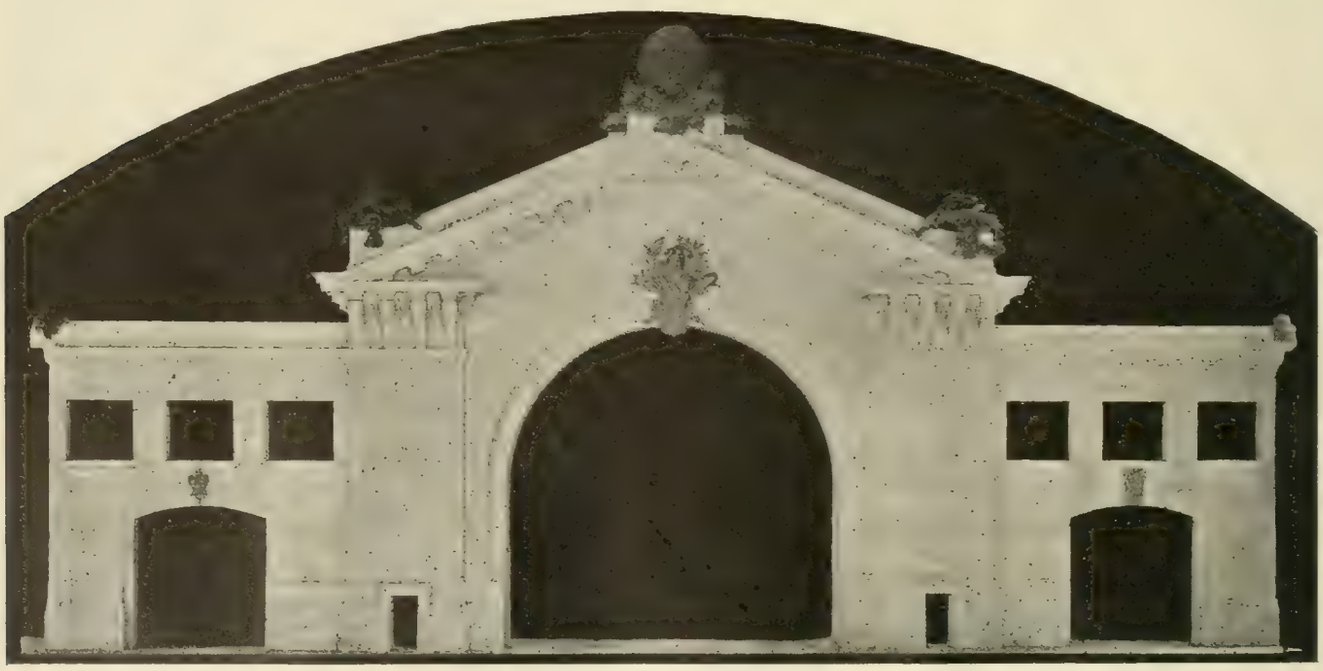
Europe for two years studying the various types of architecture as illustrated in buildings ancient and modern. Returning to this city in 1872, he entered the office of H. H. Richardson, then the foremost architect in this country. In this office was also William R. Mead.

In the year 1895 an entire number of the Architectural Record was devoted to the work of McKim, Mead & White. And in the issue of September, 1906, their work was again the subject of illustration and review in the same magazine. At the latter time it was said:

"Can it not be proclaimed at the outset that McKim, Mead & White have been the leaders in the contemporary American architectural movement, because their aesthetic point of view was so intelligently and so wholesomely representative? Before their influence became important, there had been much brilliant and conscientious individual achievement in American architecture; but its authors had not obtained much more than a personal success.

"These brilliant or conscientious individual performers had not succeeded in making their influence very widely pervasive, or in provoking intelligent and fruitful imitation. McKim, Mead & White, on the other hand, have succeeded in making their influence widely pervasive and in provoking imitation which has been both intelligent and edifying. In them the modern American architectural movement first began to find itself, and to become conscious that one group of architectural forms and one species of architectural expression promised to be more fertile than another. . . . They have introduced a definite tendency and principle into American architecture, not by preaching, but by the force of a compelling example; and its history during the next two generations will be a tale of the way in which that tendency and principle is accepted, transformed and perhaps in the end superseded."

Mr. McKim died unexpectedly at St. James, Long Island, of heart trouble, after a long illness, which for more than two years past had kept him out of active work. The surviving partner of the firm, which has had such a wide influence upon the development of American architecture, is now William R. Mead, who first became associated with Mr. McKim thirty-two years ago. It is understood that the firm was reorganized after Mr. White's death and that new members were admitted.



Mr. McKim gave to Columbia University two traveling fellowships for architectural students. A founder of the American Academy in Rome, president for a time of the American Institute of Architects, he also served on the commission for the improvement of Washington, and the New York Art Commission. He became an N. A. in 1907, but the crowning reward of his career was the winning of the King's Medal of the Royal Institute of British Architects because of his services for the advancement of architectural art. This was awarded to him in London on June 22, 1903, and was followed the next day by a great dinner of the British Institute in honor of Mr. McKim, who was the second American to receive this distinction.

THE CHELSEA IMPROVEMENT.

Unusual secrecy is being maintained by the Dock Department regarding the time when the "Chelsea Improvement" will be ready for public use. All inquiries are met with the reply that the officials are unable to state even the probable date of the opening. Contractors at work on the construction, however, estimate that they will be completed by the first of the year.

It is said that this mammoth operation (detailed descriptions have appeared from time to time in the Record and Guide) will be the most conspicuous ornamental concrete construction in this city, the material used being Edison Portland cement. The curtain is nearly completed and in some cases the moulds have been removed.

Practically all that remains to be done now is the setting of the ornamental concrete work, which will be entirely of pressed cement. This detail is shown in the picture of the model of one of the great piers, extending half a mile, from West 14th st and the North River to the West 23d st ferries. It will be seen that the ornaments consist of a sort of superstructure, the work of preparing the moulds for which is now in progress.

CONCRETE FACADE OF A CHELSEA PIER.

CONCRETE BRIDGE 1,500 YEARS OLD.—A bridge, near Amalfi on the Gulf of Salerno, is said to be more than 1,500 years old. Examination shows it to be made of natural cement and good-sized pieces of crushed stone. The bridge is of classic construction, and the worn ornamentations and designs unmistakably point back to Turkish origin. It was probably built under the direction of one of the Eastern emperors.

STATISTICS OF TENEMENT CONSTRUCTION

A Complete Summary, Showing Number of Houses and Apartments In All the Boroughs, and Their Condition

A summary tabular statement of the work of the Tenement House Department for the second quarter of the year 1909 has just been completed by Edmond J. Butler, Commissioner. In addition to tables showing the regular work of the Department, there is included a preliminary tabulation of the results of the block inspection of tenement houses undertaken during the first half of this year. For the first time in the history of the Department, certain facts herewith given are definitely known, and it is presumed that these tabulations will be of value and interest to property owners and operators, which the Tenement House Department for just such facts as these has not heretofore been able to give. It is proposed from this time on to keep a summary of this information up to date so that every half year the department can present tables of a similar character showing the exact situation in the city.

Among the first tenement properties to receive attention by the Tenement Department are those containing dark rooms and school sinks. It has not been possible to tell, until this time, just how many of these conditions existed in the city. The recent canvass shows that at that time there were in the entire city only 1,931 school sinks or privy vaults remaining, and 715 of these were in the Boroughs of Queens and Richmond, where in many cases no other form of fixture than a privy vault is possible, owing to the lack of sewer connection.

Of the 1,216 remaining, in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn, only 307 remained to be covered by orders June 30, the remainder being disposed of either by having orders already standing against them, or by demolition of the house, or classification as a non-tenement. With the co-operation of the landlords and the courts it should be no long time until every school sink or privy vault, where sewer connections permit, shall have been done away with.

ROOMS HAVING NO WINDOWS.

The canvass showed, with reference to dark rooms, that there were 101,117 rooms used for living purposes, containing absolutely no windows. This is exclusive of rooms with inadequate light and ventilation in other respects, as, for instance, windows opening upon too small an air shaft, or upon a covered shaft, or windows of too small size opening to an adjoining room.

The above figure represents the absolutely "dark room that is such a bad feature of our city life. At the date of the census orders had already been issued against 16,768 of these dark rooms, and by June 30, 6,124 more had been covered. Meantime, 421 had been done away with by demolition of buildings, or removal from the tenement house class, leaving 77,804, or nearly three-fourths of the original number to be attended to. Queens and Richmond are omitted from the summary here given.

Drawing Classes Open at Mechanics' Institute.

The school year of the Mechanics' Institute, which is conducted by the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of New York, at their building at 20 West 44th st, begins on Monday, September 27, and continues to about the middle of April, 1910. Instruction in this institute is under the directorship of Louis Rouillion, who is assisted by some 29 competent instructors in charge of the various courses. Thirty-eight separate subjects are taught, which include architectural, mechanical and freehand drawing; clay modeling, mathematics, physics and electricity. Classes are in session two evenings a week, from 7.30 to 9. 30 P. M.

The tuition is free and affords an opportunity for young men who are employed in ordinary working hours of the day and who wish to advance themselves in the theory and knowledge of the various trades in which they are employed, the only expense to the student being the purchase of instruments, paper, etc. Three years are required for the completion of any one of the courses, when, if all the conditions have been complied with, the diploma of the society will be awarded.

Application cards for admission can be had by applying at the institute, which, when properly filled out, are placed on file in the order of receipt, and this constitutes a waiting list.

The classes for the coming year were pretty well filled up at the close of the last term. It is advisable for those who wish to enter the classes to get on the waiting list as soon as possible. As soon as vacancies occur new applicants will be notified in their order.

WHERE RICHMOND EXCELS.—Louis L. Tribus, C. E., Commissioner of Public Works in Richmond Borough, says in his annual report, printed this week, that in the past eleven years, in almost all lines of public work, there has been a gradual increase of cost. "There has been, perhaps, an even greater increase in living expense; but in general not an equivalent increased remuneration for city employees; yet the standard required, executive, clerical, engineering, constructive and maintaining, has very greatly advanced; and it is a satisfaction to feel that the Borough of Richmond has been a leader in such advance. This has been frequently illustrated in the past year or two, where results here have been pointed to, not only as worthy of local note but as a cause for pride for the whole city and to some degree, of interest to the whole country. The condition of its highways, the construction of its sewers, the design and erection of the great retaining walls at St. George, the refuse destructor, have all received much commendation. The two latter works have been visited by many, coming from places ranging from Boston to San Francisco, from Milwaukee to Vera Cruz, with intervening cities liberally represented."

—"Success is the reward for energy. It is not luck. The man who starts out simply with the idea of getting rich won't succeed. If you do each day's task successfully, follow the established lines of high-class dealing, and keep your head clear you will come out all right. Be sure and look ahead."—John D. Rockefeller.

AN IDEA FOR A COUNTRY HOME.

A Cement House of Novel Design; Structure Is at Glen Cove and on Picturesque Plot:

THE accompanying picture shows a suburban house that is in course of construction on the top of a hill near Nassau station, Glen Cove, L. I., by the Craftsman Home Building Co., for a man well known in business and club life. Of cement construction, the house faces southeast and affords an extensive view of the hill section of Long Island. Cypress comprises such exterior woodwork as there is on the structure, and it is darkened to a brown tinge by a chemical process.

Red cedar shingles, painted a dull brick red, will form the roof. Dormer windows will break the straight lines of the roof, which has overhanging eaves supported on heavy square timbers. Cement construction embraces even the chimney.

At the west end of the house is a pergola, covering a terrace, while on the opposite end is a porch, overlooking the golf links nearby. Connecting with this porch, by double French doors, is the dining-room. Being protected by screens, the porch is for all practical purposes an exterior dining-room, suitable for summer use. In winter the screens will be superseded by glass. On the front of the house is a small porch, sheltering the entrance.

While the massive effects and straight lines of cement construction are preserved, the porches and pergola relieve the severity of the design. The floors of the pergola, the entrance porch and the dining porch, as well as of the small kitchen porch, are of dull red Portland cement squares, 9x9.

The house is intended as an abode for a family of three persons, and an office accommodation, or den, is provided for the owner.

THIS HOUSE HAS DOORS.

For this reason, double doors divide it from the living-room instead of the usual broad opening. The big fireplace in the living-room is so placed that the cheery glow of the fire is seen from both the hall and the dining-room, as it forms one end of a vista which goes straight through to the dining porch. The built-in bookcase fills the space between this fireplace and the corner on one side, and on the other side is the door leading to the pergola.

The woodwork in the hall, living-room and dining-room is all of chestnut, fumed to a rich brown tone and given the soft, dull finish that makes the surface appear to fairly radiate color. The fact that the woodwork is alike throughout these three rooms emphasizes the close connection between them and makes them appear almost like different parts of one room.

In the second story is a perfect system of bedrooms. These rooms, of which there are three, correspond in size to the rooms on the lower floor. A corner of the largest bedroom is taken off for the private bathroom, and the second bathroom is placed directly over the pantry, with the maid's room just above the kitchen. Both bathrooms are tiled and fitted with "Standard" sanitary fixtures.

The house has the usual frame construction, covered with Truss Metal Lath, which serves to hold the outer coat of plaster.

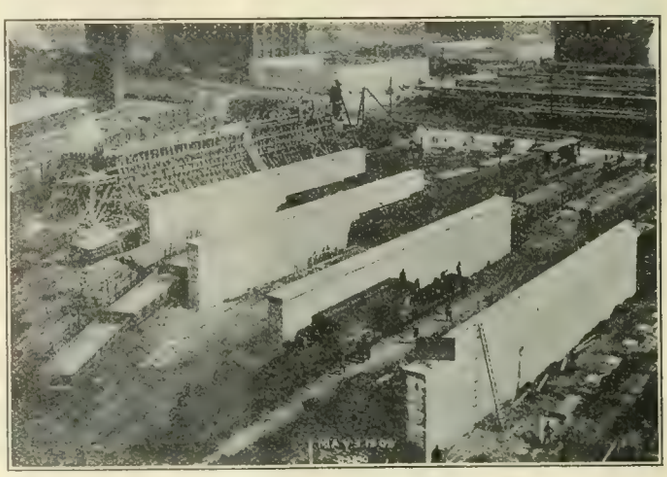
TUNGSTEN NOVELTY BATTERY LAMPS are intended primarily for dry battery use. They are preferable to carbon lamps for this purpose, owing to their comparative freedom from blackening or dimming, and the much higher candle-power which they give for practically the same average wattage as the carbon. Tungsten novelty lamps are from three to six times as efficient as carbon novelty lamps. They are used for bicycle lamps, portable candle-sticks, bedroom clocks, meter-readers' pocket searchlights, etc., etc. For compactness' sake they are regularly sealed off from the side. The 1½ volt and 7-16 inch round lamp can be operated on one primary cell.

WHAT 1910 WILL OFFER TO BUILDERS.

Those investors, builders and building material men who are watching the constantly changing conditions in the building material markets these days foresee a remarkable year ahead for construction business in this city and vicinity. Some of the most conservative construction companies in this city were visited this week and asked to express an opinion regarding the prospects for 1910. An official of the Andrew J. Robinson Co., of 123 East 23d st, which has taken, and is playing, an important part in the development of 4th av, expressed this opinion, which is fairly representative of those of other construction authorities:

"We are looking for a big year. I do not think that there will be any abatement of activity due to the passage of a necessary interim within which to find tenants for buildings now being constructed, as you suggest, in spite of the unmistakable tendency of some to move to New Jersey, others to go to Long Island and still others to move northward. There will be greater development of 4th av, for instance, than that now evidenced, the ruling type of building continuing to be store and loft because it offers the advantage of being sub-divided if necessary."

Some of the biggest real estate companies that are making a specialty of midtown business developments say that they have some big projects in hand. Among these are Horace S. Ely & Co. and Stephen H. Tyng, of Union sq.



As an evidence of how busy some of the most prominent construction companies have been this summer, the case of the Andrew J. Robinson Co. is interesting and instructive, as showing the number of high-class structures, in which this company specializes, now being erected not only here but out of town.

It is well known that this company is building the new Union Theological Seminary buildings at 121st and 122d sts, Broadway and Claremont av, for which Allen & Collins, of Boston, are the architects. Three of the buildings will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year, while the fourth, the Faculty house, has just been started. Another big operation, which is of general interest because the owner, Joseph Millbank, has insisted that only the very highest grade of material and workmanship enter into its construction, is the 334 4th av building at the southwest corner of 4th av and East 25th st. The excavation for the foundation is now under way. The contractors have not yet been announced for this operation by the architects, George B. Post & Sons.

Another big operation is that for A. Fillmore Hyde at the southeast corner of 27th st and 4th av. This structure will be 20-stys high and will be a modern loft building. The steel work is now up four stories.

What is perhaps one of the most important alteration jobs given out in this city in some time is that for the American Express Company at 63 Broadway. While the actual cost of this operation is not made public, some idea of the extensiveness of the work may be gained from the fact that in ripping out the old work nothing was left of the building but the walls and beams. New plumbing and heating systems will be installed and the structure will be modernized in every particular. The building at 63 Broadway is a landmark, inasmuch as it is one of the fast disappearing yellow stone fronts popular years ago.

The same company is building a residence for Mr. Dave Hinnen Morris in East 70th st, near Madison av, that is also of high class construction, from plans by Thornton Chard, the architect; also the Hudson River Savings Institution at Hudson, N. Y., which will be of limestone and granite, and the John Jermain library, which is being erected by Mrs. Russell Sage at Sag Harbor at a cost of $75,000, and is remodeling the offices of the American Express Company at Boston at a cost of $50,000.

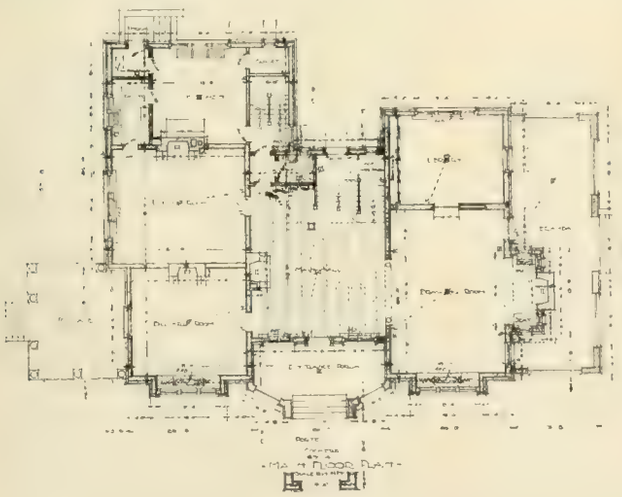
M. J. DEGNON BUILDING NEW HOME.

Overlooking Old Town of Jamaica, It Will Be a Show House of Queens.



Michael J. Degnon, the contractor is building a home in Jamaica, Queens Borough that promises, when completed, to be one of the show places of that section. The building, 3-stys high, of brick up to the second floor and the remainder of stucco, will be ready for occupancy next April.

The structure will be 63x45 and will stand in the centre of a large plot. Its roof will be of red tile, combining in effect the French chateau and the Southern California style of architecture. A sense of roominess is given the interior by a beamed ceiling hallway 23.10 ft. long approaching the grand staircase from the front door. The entire trim, including wainscot, will be of hardwood, the drawing room and library will be finished in white enamel, and the billiard and dining-rooms in oak. A servants' porch is provided in the rear leading from the kitchen and butler's pantry. Four bathrooms will be on the second story, which will be entirely finished in white enamel, excepting the bathrooms, which will be finished with tile. A steam heating system is specified. Thomas & Frohling, of 114 East 28th st, the architects, estimate the total cost of the house at $30,000.

INEFFICIENCY OF DAY LABOR IN MUNICIPAL WORK.

The recently published reports of Metcalf & Eddy, of Boston, consulting civil engineers to the original Boston Finance Commission, are exceptional in the thoroughness with which facts have been collected and marshalled to specifically show the inefficiency of day labor in municipal work, at least in Boston. They found the Sewer Department to be reeking with abuses. To inefficiency and lack of discipline were added inadequate inspection and the pernicious effect of contracts given through favoritism at excessive prices. In fourteen years the annual expenditures on account of sewerage had increased 175 per cent., while valuation had increased only 44 per cent. and the population but little more than half as much.

Inefficiency was manifestly the goal toward which the department was steadily keeping its course. One time-keeper carried a book from the office to the job once or twice a day; a carriage painter worked an hour some days, and on many days never appeared at all; two men were stationed on a dump for more than a week after the wagons ceased to visit it; one man had nine lanterns to fill and clean each day, another twelve; some had only to hang up rubber boots to dry; a "siphon" man attended an hydraulic siphon which needed no attention; a "rubber goods repairer," who ordinarily had nothing to do, sometimes assisted a clerk who had little to do; one storekeeper hardly ever appeared in the storeroom; a "stenographer" at $1,000 per annum seldom reported for any duty except that of political messenger; a "janitor" drew pay for seven weeks while he was sojourning in Europe.

In ten districts out of 579 men 144 were employed as watchmen or in other positions which required little effort, and 60 of these performed work of exceedingly slight value, or none at all. Inspectors were frequent offenders, and many of their written returns were practically useless. In some cases they were written wholly from imagination. The inspectors of catch-basins inspected usually from three to six basins a day, rarely over ten, although a fair day's work is fifty. Catch-basins which did not exist were included in the cleaning contracts at a fixed and excessive price; other basins were included in more than one contract, and paid for twice.

ASKS $30,000 FOR TESTS.

At the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment yesterday afternoon Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis asked for $30,000 to defray the cost of experiments designed to show the actual merits of concrete and hollow tile fireproof construction ordered by the Mayor when he vetoed the revised building code. It is understood that the sum will be forthcoming. Mr. Lewis informs the Record and Guide that none of the preliminary arrangements have been completed yet, although he has been at work on the matter during the summer.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

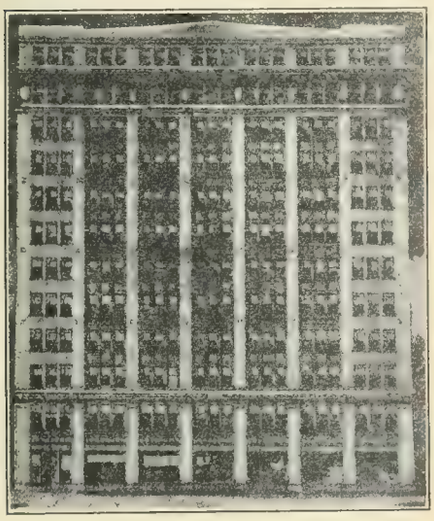
ADVANCE REPORTS.



No Architect Yet for U. S. Cigar Stores Building.

BROADWAY.—The Record and Guide was assured, on Friday, that no architect had yet been commissioned to design the plans and specifications for the new $1,000,000 office and store building which the United Merchants' Realty and Improvement Company, as lessee, is to erect as a home office and headquarters building for the occupancy of the United States Cigar Stores Company, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 42d st. Mr. Louis Biel, president of the Improvement Company, when interviewed by a representative, said: "Only preliminary sketches have yet been considered, as the question of actual height of the structure is now before the officials of the company for determination. The character of the neighborhood, however, calls for a high building. On the ground floor will be the largest 'show place' and most perfectly equipped cigar store of all its stores in this country. The general offices will be located on the upper floors as the headquarters of all the stores established, now operating in this country. The rest of the building will be fitted up for office purposes." It is planned to have the building entirely completed, ready for occupancy, by December, 1910. The site includes Nos. 147 to 155 West 42d st, and 1472 to 1478 Broadway. It takes in three structures, Shanley's restaurant on Broadway, a 2-sty building to the south corner, and a 4-sty stone building in 42d st. The lease with the Astor Estate, owners of the property, is for 21 years, with the privilege of three renewals for the same period of time, making, altogether, a lease of 84 years.

Excavating to Start For Fifth Avenue Building.

5TH AV.—Plans are being completed by Messrs. Hoppin & Koen, architects, 244 5th av, for the new 14-sty store, office and loft building which the Camolin Realty Co., Andrew J. Connick, president, is about to erect at the northwest corner of 5th av and 43d st. It is reasonable to suppose that the widening of 5th av, the removal of porticos and stoops and its ever-increasing land values, will all tend to compel the eventual improvement of all its remaining old buildings with new business structures of this character, for it is certain that the avenue is fast developing into an uptown office building centre. Operations are to be pushed on the new Camolin Building as rapidly as possible, as it is expected to be ready for occupancy by February, 1910. The exterior will be made up of light-colored brick and limestone, architectural ironwork, with a slag roof. The building will front 29 feet on the avenue and 125 feet in the street. The contract for excavating has been signed, and the architects are now taking bids on all other contracts. The site for the building was purchased by Andrew J. Connick and others of the company several months ago from the Lee estate for about $720,000.

J. M. Horton's New Ice Cream Plant.

24TH ST.—Excavating is now about finished by the Bradley Contracting Co., 1 Madison av, for the new fireproof, steel, brick and concrete ice-cream plant, 97x98 ft., which James M. Horton, 213 East 24th st, will erect at Nos. 209-211 East 24th st, under the supervision of Architect Frank Goodwillie, of 1170 Broadway. The building will contain 6-stys, and will possess many new features of appliance and equipment seldom found in a structure of this character. The mason work has been awarded to Christopher Campbell, of 10 East 33d st; A. E. Norton Co., 18 West 27th st, structural steel; York Manufacturing Co., 72 Trinity pl, refrigerator machinery; Rathbun-Jones Co., 17 Battery pl, gas engines; General Electric Co., 30 Church st, switchboard and motors; Gas Power Co., 2 Rector st, gas plant. All other contracts, including the carpentry, will be awarded during the week. The new structure, as shown in the sketch herewith, will be located immediately adjoining, having connection with Mr. Horton's present factory.

James Carlew Branches Into Office Construction.

37TH ST.—The Record and Guide was informed, on Thursday, that no plans have yet been prepared or architect selected for the proposed improvement of Nos. 3, 5, 7 West 37th st, by James Carlew, of 17 West 122d st, the West Side builder, with a 12-sty modern business building, although it is Mr. Carlew's intention to erect such a building sometime in the future. The site, which measures 75x100 ft., is now covered with old dwellings. The undertaking is significant, owing to the fact that it will be the first operation of this nature attempted by Mr. Carlew in recent years. Having been identified for many years with the West Side district, Mr. Carlew has put up scores of fine dwelling houses in the territory between 59th and 110th sts. His last operation in that section was a large one, involving the construction of fifteen dwellings in the north side of 85th st, between Central Park West and Columbus av. These houses were designed by L. A. Goldstone, architect, of 12 West 32d st, being of the American basement type, 5-stys, 20-ft. front, of limestone. The time of beginning the new operation is believed to be depending on the state of Mr. Carlew's health, as he recently submitted to an operation at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, at Baltimore, but is now regaining his former strength.

First Apartment and Store on 8th Ave. South of 59th St.

8TH AV.—The D. A. Cushman Realty Corporation, representing the estates of Angelica B. Faber, Emilie A. Wilcoxson and William F. Cushman, owners of the property at the southwest corner of 8th av and 49th st, is about to erect an 8-sty elevator apartment house, with stores, on the 8th av side. Schwartz & Gross, 347 5th av, have prepared the plans. Purdy & Henderson, 45 East 17th st, are the engineers, and the Edward Corning Co., 100 William st, has the general contract. Louis Cohen & Co., now tenants on the site, have leased the entire building, and will occupy the ground floor as a department store, renting the above apartments. The building will be the first of its kind erected on 8th av, south of 59th st. The site has been owned by the Cushman family since 1850.

Plans for "Churchill's" Soon to Be Figured.

BROADWAY.—Architect Herbert M. Baer, 542 5th av, will be ready to take figures about September 30 for the new hotel restaurant and store structure at Nos. 1603 to 1611 Broadway, and 216-218 West 49th st, for James Churchill, of 1547 Broadway, at a cost of about $200,000. The exterior will be of light cream-colored stucco, three stories in height, covering a plot measuring 78x117 feet. The top floor will contain ten bedrooms. For further particulars and picture of the building, see another column of this issue.

New Chemistry Building for Rutgers College.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Franklin & Ayres, architects, of Manhattan, are drawing plans for a chemistry building to be erected by Rutgers College. The new building is to be constructed of brick, and will be located on Bleeker pl, just north of the engineering building, which was completed this year. It is expected that the work of construction will be commenced this fall and that the building will be ready for occupancy by the opening of college in September, 1910. W. H. S. Demarest is president of the college.

Particulars of 29th St. Warehouse.

29TH ST.—So far as could be learned during the week, no plans have yet been officially prepared or architect selected for the new 10-sty fireproof warehouse which it is announced will be erected at Nos. 557-559 West 29th st, and 306-310 11th av, at the northwest corner. The site fronts 75 ft. on 11th av and 70 ft. in 29th st. The names of the interested parties could not be given in this issue. Horace S. Ely & Co. sold the property last week for Thomas J. Reilly and the Prudential Real Estate Corporation.

Commissioner Butler, of the Tenement House Department, has just reminded the Board of Estimate that he is the only head of a city department without a private secretary, and to keep abreast of the work of the Corporation Counsel, the commissioner asks for what he calls a "clearing house," so that the delays and confusion consequent upon lack of system may be avoided. It is planned that this group of three clerks and a stenographer, to cost $4,650, shall (1) review the violations before forwarding them to the Corporation Counsel, (2) eliminate those which can be handled by the department, and (3) thus "allow the Corporation Counsel to devote his time to the more important cases."

Comptroller Metz, acting under the advice of Corporation Counsel Pendleton, has decided to pay a bill presented by McKim, Mead & White, the architects, for $32,945 for work done on the plans and specifications for the proposed new municipal building in Brooklyn. This firm was retained by Martin W. Littleton when he was President of the Borough to draw the plans for the new building. When Coler came into office he refused to accept the plans of McKim, Mead & White, and made a contract with Lord & Hewlett, which the Corporation Counsel refused to approve of. When J. Edward Swanstrom (Littleton's predecessor) was president he also engaged architects to prepare plans for the building.

A delegation of Bostonians, representing the Joint Board of Metropolitan Improvements of that city, will be in New York on Monday next for the purpose of subjecting the freight and passenger transportation systems of Greater New York to detailed scrutiny. The members of the visiting committee have already made arrangements for a tug, which is to take them along the entire waterfront of the harbor, and the greater part of Monday will be spent by them at and near the plant of the Bush Terminal Company, in South Brooklyn. Vice-President Joseph A. Nash, of this company, will conduct the visitors through the establishment and furnish them with the data which it is understood is to form part of a voluminous report, which is to be submitted to the Board of Railroad Commissioners, the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners, the Boston Transit Commission and the Mtropolitan Park Commission of the Hub. An effort is now being made to bring about the appointment of welcoming committees, representing the South Brooklyn and West End Boards of Trade.

Mr. Smith Moves.

Rise of the Gasoline Engine.

The comparative tests of gasoline engines, with the ultimate view of the adoption of a type for use on naval launches, is in progress at the Norfolk Navy Yard under the naval constructors attached to that establishment. The response to the invitation extended to makers of these engines has been prompt and much interest is taken in the tests. There has recently been designed and built at the Norfolk Navy Yard a gasoline launch to be attached to the U. S. S. Mayflower for the special use of the President. It is a 35-ft. craft fitted with a canopy, with lashed protecting bulkheads.

Specializing in Quick-Fire Orders.

Fred. C. Summer, who has a sash and door mill at 246-248 Canal st, is developing somewhat of a novel specialty in the building material business, and is at present doing work for J. W. Clark, of 84 Roosevelt st; for Haas & Millard, 110 West 34th st; for A. J. Obermeier, of 310 West 40th st; for James E. Mitchell, 334 West 24th st; and other contractors. Mr. Summer's specialty is in supplying special sizes of door and window frames for buildings damaged by fire. He carries a full line of stock sizes, and is fully equipped, mechanically and otherwise, for making prompt deliveries on any size order and in any grade of stock.

Standard sizes of door and window frames have changed in recent years, either the result that when a fire damages old-style houses or buildings the contractor is at a loss to know where to turn to get them quickly. At considerable expense, Mr. Summer has equipped his plant so that he can supply these sizes in very short time. He also has a full line of tenement house alteration supplies.

Material Market Steady.

Steadiness in sales and firmness in prices marked the week. Structural steel and Southern pig iron were the only exceptions, in both of which were advances. An improved inquiry for basic iron was reported, with increasing orders of large size for early spring delivery. They indicated good structural business next year, and offered the first specific facts to show that a building boom could be expected in 1910. Brick moved slowly, the demand and supply being about even, owing to delays in steel deliveries on jobs here and the continuing scarcity of labor at the Hudson River brick yards. Raritan Rivers are still meeting with good demand, and prices have an upward tendency. Most of this business is in small contracts. Cement is dull here, although Western business is reported good. Few big contracts have been closed lately, the trade evidently awaiting final price adjustment which was due at about this time: It is possible, however, that no change will be announced until the first of the month now. Lumber is unusually active for this season, the wholesalers and dealers reporting good business. Stone had an uneventful week. Our investigations of the various cutting plants showed that most of them were busy, some having good-sized contracts on hand, with a liberal sprinkling of less conspicuous work.

We warn all stone men, lumber dealers and others who will have occasion to load or unload barges on the North River above 32d st, Manhattan, during the period of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, to move all material possible this week, so as not to be caught by an embargo that we understand will virtually be placed upon North River docking facilities by reason of the anchoring of warships along both sides of that stream. See detailed information under "Brick" on this page.

Brick Demand Below Normal.

While the supply and demand for Hudson River common brick are about even, the situation is not normal. The prices ruling on the docks yesterday were $5.50 to $6.00, the same figures being paid for No. 1 Raritan Rivers. $5.75 averaged for Hudsons. One important contract for Raritans is for 1,500,000, to Lammerding & Devine, contractors, of Elizabeth, N. J., for the Union County Trust Company's bank and office building at Broad and West Grand sts, that city. The local dealers are disposing of fair quantities of Hudson River commons, but most of the contracts are small rather than conspicuous large ones. This is the rule throughout all the building material markets. There were some instances where delayed steel deliveries on jobs interferred with local brick consumption.

Beginning last week there were 15 holdovers; 83 arrivals; and 79 sales, leaving 19 cargoes on the wharf Monday.

NO BRICK FOR OVER A WEEK?

The published formation of battleships in the North River has given the brick manufacturers and agents some concern, inasmuch as it is entirely possible that no brick will be received here for a week or ten days during the fete. If such a contingency should arise, building operations here will suffer severely.

Capt. J. W. Miller, chairman of the Naval Parades Committee, of No. 23 Nassau st, telephone, Cortlandt 2930, estimates that there will be 800 vessels in the parade on the opening day, Sept. 25. There will be 100 war vessels. Fifty of these will line up at least 500 ft. apart on the east side of the river from 34th st to Riverdale, during most of the celebration. A similar number will line up on the west shore.

With hundreds of man-of-war tenders and pleasure craft dodging in and out among the boats forming this naval court of honor, it is argued that it will be impossible to bring in any brick scow tows. To further add to the apprehensions of the brick trade it was announced that the Dock Department had arranged to turn over to the celebration committee, wherever it was feasible, two or three berths for landing places for ships.

SUCH CONTINGENCY NOT HERETOFORE KNOWN.

Brick men all say that they have never before known of such a contingency. During the Dewey celebration there was practically no tie-up, owing to the fact that there was no general rendezvous of war vessels in the Hudson. It is possible that some way may be found to overcome this difficulty, but up to the week-end there seemed to be no way out of the situation.

BIG JUMP IN PRICES LIKELY.

If the situation should prove as at present anticipated, there is danger of a tie-up of building operations here, and a subsequent advance in prices. The quantity of stacked material in this city is said to be not sufficient to carry contractors over a tie-up lasting a week or ten days and there will be a rush for this material when the barges began to run again and in consequence prices will soar.

TRANSACTIONS LIGHT ON THE EXCHANGE.

Transactions on the floor of the Builders' Exchange were light this week, although there has been a general improvement noted there within the last month. Hydrated lime now occupies more or less attention from mason supply men and prices for the material are being beared. Prices are quoted at $9, but it is understood that there is some cutting.

Adds Day to Cement Convention.

Edward E. Krauss, assistant to President Richard L. Humphrey, of the National Association of Cement Users, has issued an announcement to members saying that it has been decided to add another day to the sixth annual convention of that association which will be held in Chicago, Ill., from February 21 to 25, inclusive.

MORE DYCKERHOFF COMING.

Advices received at the office of E. Thiele, at 99 John st, this week were to the effect that a shipment of 500 bbls. of Dyckerhoff (German) Portland Cement, were on the way to this port. The new plant in Germany, the capacity of which was recently increased, is now in full operation. American Portland cement prices are unchanged:

Southern Pig Iron up 50 Cents.

The pig iron market is still characterized by strength and activity. Inquiries in hand this week, were for 8,000 from New Jersey and one for 2,000 and another for 1,000 from New England. There were practically no large individual sales, numerous small orders ruling. The business in steel making iron is being held in check by producers who believe that prices will be better later. The events of the week in structural steel seems to give strength to this theory. Pennsylvania is not showing a disposition to take orders carrying shipments over to the first quarter of 1910, but Buffalo will sell. Northern remains at last week's quotations. Southern is up fifty cents around. Jobbers are looking for record sales this month, even exceeding those of August, which established a record.

It has been said that all the basic iron that is available for shipment this year could be sold immediately if sellers were disposed to accept current quotations. This is taken to indicate that while building construction will improve this fall, the real boom will come in the spring. This demand for basic means that delivery to the mills cannot be made much before February and it is a safe estimate that fabricators' deliveries to jobs could not be much earlier than March or April. This will mean a good year for other lines of building material and good employment for the trades.

ADVANCE IN STRUCTURAL STEEL.

We have referred to changed condition in structural steel prices. Our quotations, based on actual sales, illustrate the present building tendency. The price of structural steel to-day is where it was before the post-panic slump, and is a most forceful argument to show that construction in New York city and vicinity is nearing the level of the year 1906-7.

That the condition is stable is shown by the fact that it exists despite the fact that construction capital has been somewhat hesitant within the last three weeks.

STRENGTH DESPITE ADVANCE.

It will be recalled that the first slump in the price of structural steel occurred in February, 1908. In June of the same year there was another, and from that time until the spring of this year structural steel was discouragingly low. Then building picked up with the return of confidence and placed itself upon a firmer footing. Railroad and structural work in this city and vicinity, as well as throughout the country, for which the late E. H. Harriman was largely responsible, by reason of his tremendous railroad developments; caused a general advance in May and another in July. The one announced on Tuesday of this week, therefore put this material wholly on its feet.

BUILDERS LOOK FOR A GOOD YEAR.

The George A. Fuller Construction Co., the Roebling Construction Co., the National Fireproofing Co., the Andrew J. Robinson Co., the Hedden Construction Co., and Charles T. Wills, Inc., when interrogated for the Record and Guide, expressed without qualification, the opinion that next year would be a record breaker; that the development of certain districts, notably Fourth av, 33d and 34th sts, Broadway, from 28th to 59th st, Riverside Drive and certain sections in the Bronx, would continue with even greater aggressiveness next year. Backed by the opinions of representatives of these companies, therefore, the activity of basic iron and structural steel at this time is a safe thermometer of building tendency.

Lumber Stiff and Active.

The promised fall activity has come to the lumber companies within the last two weeks. The wholesalers say that they are busy, and the retailers report increasing rather than diminishing business. Factory construction in Queens is taking large quantities. Apartment house construction in Newark, and office building and dwelling development in Jersey City and vicinity are calling for more, and store and office building work in Hoboken is calling for still larger quantities from other companies. The Bronx shows no abatement in its demands. No change in prices is reported this week, although it is entirely possible that further advances will be made before the end of the season.

Stone Holding Its Own.

Stone was not in as much demand this week. New inquiries were received and several important contracts are hanging fire. No new exterior marble jobs were reported, although there is considerable activity in this product, some big contracts going west and south. Prices remain firm. The cutters are busy now; B. A. & G. N. Williams stating that their yards are fairly busy, with inconspicuous orders. Among the jobs they have on hand being the cutting of buff limestone for the new home of Edwin Gould at 75th st and 5th av. The Woodbury Granite Co. has been figuring on some large contracts in this city and out of town and other concerns, notably the Tompkins Keil Co. marble, report activity and prospects of good late fall business.

Sanitary Pottery.

The wide-awake interest which is being taken by architects and engineers in the matter of high grade sanitary equipment in bathrooms and toilets has been productive of many efforts to further improve the sanitation of fixtures which are being made, and on account of the cheapness of many of the materials used, the great publicity given to their making, architects are fairly familiar with the general line.

However, the knowledge which has been conveyed to the architect of the value of solid porcelain vitreous china fixtures is very limited, and the various manufacturers of these goods are putting forth extra efforts at the present time to acquaint architects, not only with the advantages of using these fixtures, but are also devoting some time to an explanation of the manufacturing processes, in order to demonstrate that because of the quality of the materials used in making such goods, they are necessarily higher-priced than other grades, but are also superior sanitary goods.

The Trenton Potteries Co., Trenton, N. J., which is the largest manufacturer in the world of sanitary pottery fixtures, publishes a monthy house paper entitled "Sanitary Pottery," and in this paper has just been started a carefully prepared and beautifully illustrated description of the complete manufacturing processes. The article is entitled "A Personally Conducted Tour Through the Potteries."

The idea of this article is not merely to make interesting reading, but to demonstrate the utility of sanitary pottery plumbing fixtures to those architects and engineers, who have had no opportunity of visiting the factories. The Trenton Potteries Company will be glad to place upon the mailing list of this paper, any architect, engineer or other interested person, who will write them asking for this attention.

Books on Cement.

The Record and Guide is in receipt of books issued by the Lawrence Portland Cement Company and by the Atlas Portland Cement Company. All prepared with the object of educating the builder and the owner, whether they be amateurs or professionals in the use of Portland cement for any and all construction purposes. The information they contain is far more exhaustive than that contained in the usual single volume on the field and scope of Portland cement.

DRAGON PORTLAND CEMENT—224 pages, handsomely bound in paper, issued by the Lawrence Portland Cement Co., No. 1 Broadway. Illustrated. The issuance of this work marks the completion of twenty years of successful use of the Dragon brand of Portland cement, during which tremendous progress has been made.

The compilation is divided into twenty-eight chapters: "Introduction," "Evolution of Cement Manufacture and Use," "Yearly Production of Cement," "Cement Raw Materials," "Uniformity of Quality of Dragon' Cement," "Abstract of Foreign Specifications of Cement," "Effect of Sand on Cement Mortar," "Finishing Concrete Surfaces," "Waterproofing of Concrete," "Prevention of Rust in Reinforcement for Concrete," "Storage of Cement," "Testing Cement Without Laboratory Equipment," "Troubles with Cement and their Usual Causes," "Fireproof Qualities of Portland Cement Concrete," "Concrete Blocks," "Standard Specifications for Concrete Blocks," "Concrete in Connection with Farm Work," "Tree Dentistry," "Cement in Water Works Construction," "Torresdale Filtration Plant," "Cement in Railroad Work," "Connecticut Avenue Arch Bridge, Washington, D. C.," "New York Stock Exchange Building Foundations," "Thirty-Ninth Street Building, New York," "Westinghouse Lamp Co. Building," "Miscellaneous Cost Data," "Uses of Portland Cement, List of." It is a book indispensable in any contractor's or cement user's office.

"CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION ABOUT THE HOME AND FARM," "CONCRETE IN RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION." Price $1.00. "CONCRETE IN HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION?" Price, $1.00. Three treatises, 160, 228 and 136 pages, respectively; illustrated, handsomely bound in paper, issued by the Atlas Portland Cement Co., 30 Broad street.

"CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION ABOUT THE HOME AND FARM," for 1909, 160 pages, by the Atlas Portland Cement Co., 30 Broad street, goes out to users of Portland cement in revised form, and contains graphic descriptions of the most modern methods of using cement as a substitute for lumber. It contains a foreword which follows and is divided into 116 divisions, covering almost every type of construction on the farm. Each department is indexed, with subdivisions plainly marked for ready reference, giving specifications for given jobs, maps and diagrams. It is a book that no farmer could afford to be without. The foreword says: "During the past few years the price of lumber has advanced to almost prohibitive figures, and it is therefore only natural that a substitute material which affords the advantages of moderate cost, durability and beauty should be looked upon with favor.

"It is not our purpose to enlarge upon the uses for which Portland cement is now considered standard, but rather to direct attention to the economy of supplanting wood, brick and cut stone in divers ways by the more durable, sightly and sanitary Portland cement construction.

"In the following pages we shall endeavor to point out, in language free from technical terms, some of the uses for which Portland cement concrete is especially adapted."

"CONCRETE IN RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION," 228 pages, by the Atlas Portland Cement Co., 30 Broad street, is a treatise on concrete for railroad engineers and contractors, divided into seventeen chapters, and going into technical details of all kinds of railroad construction where Portland cement can be used. The illustrations show some of the most conspicuous railroad undertakings in recent years, a prominent one being the old and new Bergen tunnel of the Lackawanna Railroad in Hoboken. The chapters discuss "Railroad Construction," "Design and Construction," "Bridges and Culverts," "Retaining Walls," "Stations, Train Sheds and Platforms," "Coal, Sand Stations and Ash-Handling Plants," "Roundhouses and Turntable Pits," "Signal Towers, Water Tank Supports and Pumping Posts," "Power Stations," "Shops, Warehouses and Grain Elevators," "Storage Reservoirs," "Tunnels and Tunnel Linings," "Concrete Ties and Roadbeds," "Telegraph Poles, Power Transmission Poles and Towers," "Posts and Fences." The book has been compiled by the company's experts, and shows not only accomplishments, but future possibilities of that material in railroad construction, quoting instances where used under every heading.

"CONCRETE IN HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION," 136 pages, by the Atlas Portland Cement Co., 30 Broad street, is a text book for highway engineers and supervisor. It contains nine chapters: Concrete," "Sidewalks, Curbs and Gutters," "Street Pavements," "Sewers," "Drain Tiles, Brook Linings and Conduits," "Culverts," "Beam Bridges," "Arch Bridges," "Retaining Walls," and "Miscellaneous." In the 136 pages contained within the covers of this book is a wealth of information for the man who would keep up with modern road construction and the application of cement to this work. By far the most important part in this work is that chapter relating to street pavements, showing what an important part cement is taking in road construction to-day, when automobile traffic is such a deteriorating force. The work contains this foreword:

"The purpose of the present volume is to present to those in charge of street and highway construction and maintenance examples of work which have been satisfactorily performed, and, further, to give drawings and designs made especially for the Atlas Portland Cement Company, either as reproductions of existing structures, from drawings and photographs kindly furnished by the local authorities, or as original designs prepared by expert engineers at the request of the Atlas Portland Cement Company.

"The most important matter of sidewalk construction is taken up in considerable detail, while concrete street pavement construction has been thoroughly investigated, and recommendations made of methods which have produced durable and satisfactory results. Numerous examples and suggestions are given in the line of bridge design and construction, both for arches and flat bridges; sewers, culverts and retaining walls are quite thoroughly treated; and such minor structures as drains, brook linings, fences and posts are illustrated and described."

RECEIVER'S SALE OF BRICK YARD PROPERTY.

The receivers of the property of the Bartlett Brick Company, of Roseton and Hudson, will sell the property at auction at the Newburgh Court House on the 9th day of October. Particulars will be found in another place. The reason for the sale is a disagreement among the partners.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

PROPERTY OWNERS PETITION FOR AN EXPRESS STATION.

Property owners in the vicinity of 59th st and Lexington av have numerously signed the following petition to the Public Service Commission:

"Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, respectfully petition your Honorable Board to amend the plans of the proposed Broadway and Lexington av subway so as to provide an express station at 59th st and Lexington av.

"Firstly, because 59th st is the greatest crosstown thoroughfare between 42d and 110th sts, devoted largely to commercial use, and the only thoroughfare between these streets traversed by a trolley line across its entire length. It contains three of the largest and most representative hotels, one of the largest department stores in the city, two of the city's best clubs and numerous factories and business buildings. Fifty-ninth st forms the southern boundary of Central Park (the city's great play-ground) through whose main entrance at 59th st and 5th av passes probably the greater portion of its visitors, comprising, as they do, persons in all walks and stations of life, the greater part of whom are now dependent upon slow-moving surface cars to bring them to its gates. We call your attention to the fact that there are elevated railroad stations of the 3d and 9th av lines at 59th st and of the present subway at Broadway.

"Secondly, because the Queensboro Bridge terminates at 59th st and 2d av, but two blocks from the suggested station, is sufficient justification for this demand. When transit facilities are provided for the bridge, the residents of Long Island City, Astoria, Ravenswood, Corona, Steinway, Flushing, Jamaica, etc., all of which it will be possible to reach by trolley from the Manhattan terminal of the Queensboro Bridge, will need some means of rapid travel to the uptown and downtown sections of the city.

"Thirdly, because an express station is planned for 42d st is no good reason why 59th st should not have one; an express station at 59th st will daily accommodate a far larger traveling public, composed of our citizens and taxpayers, than one at the Grand Central station, where it is more of a convenience for out-of-town residents. Furthermore, 42d st is now better provided with rapid transit facilities than is 59th st. All the elevated railroads have stations at 42d st, and the express station of the present subway gives it more than its due share of advantage."

The above, giving the reasons why an express station should be created at 59th st on the proposed Broadway-Lexington av route, was presented by Edward Crone on behalf of property owners interested.

CROSS-TOWN TRANSIT ASSOCIATION.

The urgent necessity for some better means of communication between the East and West sides of the City in the district between 59th and 125th Streets, than now exists, is very apparent.

To meet this necessity the Metropolitan Street Railway has tried to extend its road through West 86th st from Central Park West to Riverside Drive, but owing to the unwillingness of the property owners of West 86th st to allow tracks to be laid on the surface of the street, nothing further has been done, so that all efforts to obtain this improvement have remained in abeyance.

In order to overcome the difficulties heretofore existing, a plan to obtain this much needed improvement has been proposed which is without doubt feasible.

The plan is to have a subway built under 86th st between Central Park West and the Broadway Subway. This subway is to be entered by the present 86th st surface cars by an incline some distance east of Central Park West on its cross road through the Park, with exits and entrances at Central Park West, Columbus av, Amsterdam av, and using the present subway entrance already in existence at 86th st and Broadway.

The proposed subway should be built by the city and leased to the Metropolitan Street Railway. The building of this 2,700-ft. subway is comparatively an inexpensive undertaking, as it is for two tracks only for the surface cars, and the work could be carried out quickly without any interruption to traffic or business, as 86th st is a broad street.

For the furtherance of this project the Cross-Town Transit Association has been formed. It has the cooperation of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the West End Association. A delegation will soon appear before the Rapid Transit Commission to urge the necessity of this connection.

Hon. Ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien is President; Charles Putzel, Vice-President, 299 Broadway; Townsend Wandell, Secretary, 62 East 86th st; S. B. Altmayer, Treasurer, 62 East 86th st.

The regular monthly meeting of the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the 12th and 22d Wards was held at Colonial Hall, Columbus av and 101 st, on Monday evening, Sept. 13, 1909. President Joseph L. Schwab presided. The meeting was well attended and a number of applications for membership were acted upon. Among the applicants was the Hon. Wm. B. Ellison, ex-Corporation Counsel. On the complaint of residents of 101st and 102d sts, between Broadway and Amsterdam av, the Grievance Committee was instructed to investigate the nuisance created by the noise of motor cars stored in the automobile garage in that location. A resolution requesting the United Real Estate Owners' Association to appeal to the Mayor and Commissioner of Police to prevent the destruction of asphalt pavements by bonfires at election time was reported favorably. Park Commissioner Smith has informed the Park Committee that electric light wires have been installed in Morningside Park and that the park will be well lighted within a month.

The usual pro rata for each delegate to represent the Association in the Congress of Taxpayers was voted on and carried. The next regular meeting of the Association will be held on Monday, Oct. 4, 1909, at Colonial Hall.

"AN HOUR WITH AN ELEVATOR EXPERT."

Reginald Pelham Bolton, C. E., of 527 5th av, New York, delivered a lecture on elevator construction and operation on Monday evening, Sept. 13, at the National Convention of Building Managers and Owners, which was in session several days this week at Detroit. His points were illustrated by lantern views of the various types of elevator machines. Mr. Bolton chiefly described their characteristic features, including the interesting operation of deep boring for the plunger type.

Some drawings showing the various methods of support and operation of elevator cars, were also presented, and illustrations of the shape and size of the cars and doors, with some general rules for passengers to follow, in facilitating the traffic. These were followed by illustrations of elevator traffic in various cities throughout the country, with instructive observations on the figures presented. The address concluded with views of the principal high buildings in Manhattan, which elevators have made practicable. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Bolton said:

"The development of the present types of elevator machines has been very clearly defined along the two lines of hydraulic and electric operation, both continuing to maintain a large number of advocates, and both showing excellent results in the security and safety with which enormous numbers of persons are daily carried.

"The electric engine has undergone radical improvement in the direction of simplification into the form of the Traction type, and the hydraulic is passing through a stage of an interesting character in the form of the long plunger.

"The development of the use of elevators has reached immense proportions, the manufacture in this country now exceeding fifteen millions of dollars of value per annum. The subject is one, therefore, in which a very large portion of the population is interested, and all classes of persons may be benefitted by learning something of the conditions under which they are so frequently carried up and down in all the modern forms of buildings.

Ten Commandments

For Elevator Passengers

DON'T!

Wait on the threshold.
Step on the threshold.
Step in or out sideways.
Stand at the door opening.
Get out till the car stops.
Get out without looking at the level of the floor.
Expect the operator to remember your floor.
Take an office or an apartment till you have ridden on the Elevators to see how they are handled.
Crowd into an over-crowded car.
Fix your hair or hat in the car.

DO!!

State your floor when you get in the car.
Call your floor in good time.
Stand facing the door of the car.
Step in or out promptly and carefully.
Step clear in or out.
Stand behind operator if going to a lower floor.
Stand back in the car if going to an upper floor.
Wait for another car when first is crowded.
Know your destination before you get in the car.
Remember that your actions may delay others.

R. P. B.

ELEVATOR TRAVEL.

"The public does not fully appreciate the fact that by the individual actions of those who use the elevator, its operation is largely affected. In a general way it may be said that of the total time occupied in good elevator service, one-half is due to motion, and one-half is idleness, while passengers are getting in or out. Where the latter are negligent or sluggish, a much larger proportion of time is likely to be wasted. Congestion and over-crowding then follow as a result of the slowing up of the service, just as is the case in the New York Subway, where the delay of one train by one congested doorway, or by one ignorant or stupid passenger, affects the whole system.

"These effects are clearly traceable by observations, of which I have, by the intelligent courtesy of a number of building managers throughout the country, obtained numerous exact examples. The habits as to travel and time, of those who use elevators, is an interesting study, and I am able to show how these vary in different cities, bringing about the heaviest traffic at hours widely different.

"The shape and size of the cars and the unsuitable arrangement of doors and other details, are all matters affecting beneficially or adversely, the effective results to be attained in handling traffic, just as it has been found to be the case in horizontal railway operation.

"The wide car, the wide doorway, the light-running gate, just as much as prompt control and trained operators, help to make the service effective. Such details we can study with great advantage when constructing new installations, or in deciding what to do to benefit inefficient conditions. But the public itself has a large percentage of the efficiency in its own control, and can by a little care and forethought help not only itself but others using the elevator to secure rapid and safe service.

"It is the interest of every passenger, therefore, to move in and out promptly, to avoid interference with others, to give way a little in order to avoid congestion, or to submit to a little occasional inconvenience by losing a car, rather than to delay its operation and so affect the whole schedule.

SIMPLE RULES.

"It might be well if some simple rules could be formulated and exposed in every car, suggesting to passengers certain simple ways of facilitating the traffic, which would be far better than the frequent negative or incomplete directions to passengers, which are placed in elevators.

"I have prepared a few suggestions, some portion of which may be adaptable to the purpose and to which I have applied the title of "The Ten Commandments for Elevator Passengers."

BUILDING OWNERS IN CONVENTION.

Detroit, Sept. 16.—About $50,000,000 worth of apartment houses and office buildings were represented in a convention which was called to order Monday morning at the Cadillac Hotel by E. H. Doyle, of Detroit, owner of the Majestic building. This was the second annual meeting of the Building Managers and Owners of the United States and over 100 delegates were in attendance from the largest cities in the country.

One of the features of the sessions of Monday was an address by W. W. Hannan, of Detroit, on "Apartment Houses as Investments." Mr. Hannan pointed out that three essentials make for success in apartment house investments: Location, construction and management. While the utmost care must be exercised in determining on a proper location, and the most minute details must be considered in the construction, the SUCCESS OF THE INVESTMENT DEPENDED PRINCIPALLY ON THE MANAGEMENT OF THE INSTITUTION, was the gist of Mr. Hannan's argument.

Mr. Hannan is the owner of the Pasadena, the Madison and the Lennox, all in Detroit, and his remarks, based on his successful management of those apartment house investments, were accorded the most careful attention.

On Monday evening, while the office building owners were listening to Reginald Bolton and Albert J. Marshall, of New York City, who followed him with a talk on the "Proper Illumination of Buildings," the apartment house owners assembled in an adjoining room and listened to three discussions. One was by John A. Carroll, of Chicago, on the "Retail Value of Conveniences." H. H. Garfield, of Rochester, N. Y., spoke of the "Human Element in Renting," and George C. King, of Detroit, on the "Operation in Relation to the Tenants."

HOUSE AND REAL ESTATE OWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th Wards was held at Turn Hall, 85th st and Lexington av, on Friday, Sept. 9. President George H. Beck was in the chair. A committee consisting of Frank Eberhart, chairman; August Wiggens, Arthur C. Muelker, Charles H. Schnelle and Counselor Adolph Bloch, was appointed to investigate the service rendered by the 1st and 2d av railroad companies.

This service is most unsatisfactory, and it is claimed that this is the primary cause of the numerous vacancies in the Yorkville section. A second committee, consisting of Charles E. Schnelle, as chairman, and Counselor Adolph Bloch and John Volz, was appointed to co-operate with the Crosstown Transit Association in its endeavor to get better means of communication between the East and West Sides of the city in the district between 59th and 125th sts than now exists.

The Water Supply Committee received a detailed report from J. M. de Verona, chief engineer of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, assuring them that the water supply on the East Side will be increased as soon as the connections are made with the proposed new high pressure pumping station at 98th st.

"PRACTICAL REAL ESTATE METHODS."

A Book Published by the Y. M. C. A. with the Co-operation of Thirty Practical and Representative Contributors.

WITH the co-operation of thirty of the best known real estate men of New York, the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, 318 West 57th st, has just issued a 416-page book on real estate, the publication of which is a genuine service to the real estate field. The title of the book, "Practical Real Estate Methods for Broker, Operator and Owner," aptly describes the aim of the book, which is to give practical authoritative information on all phases of realty holding, dealing and development.

Books dealing authoritatively with real estate are all too rare. Of the books on real estate heretofore issued, the fault found has been largely that the advice given came from an unknown source. In this book, the editors have escaped this criticism by offering no advice by unknown men, but by giving in each case, the source of the information or suggestion. The advice on operating, investing, leasing, management, buying, selling, mortgaging, improving all comes from a man so successful and prominent in each field, that what he says is recognized as the advice of an expert.

Probably no other agency in New York would have been able to get as authors of chapters so strong a list of successful experts. The West Side Y. M. C. A., however, through its Real Estate Course has won a reputation for educating men in this field. In this work the realty leaders were only too willing to aid as a means of serving men. Consequently, when the Association determined to preserve in permanent form, the cream of five years' real estate instruction, its lecturers were only too glad to prepare special chapters which should embody honest, careful advice to those who are interested in real estate. The result is thirty-two helpful chapters, each by an expert, dealing in a practical way with every-day real estate problems.

It certainly is worth the nominal price ($2) asked for it to any one who is dealing, or who expects to deal, in real estate, whether to buy merely his own home or to conduct a million-dollar development or build a great apartment house.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers already has endorsed the book and recommends it in the following terms:

"The Governors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York take pleasure in indorsing and recommending 'Practical Real Estate Methods, for Broker, Operator and Owner,' to all those who are interested in the development of realty."

EDWARD L. KING, Secretary.

In his introduction to the book, Mr. Francis Ward, former president of the Board of Brokers, says:

"The owner or private investor and the prospective builder for investment or speculation should find more than one of its chapters worth in actual cash returns many times the cost of the entire book. Every private investor should read carefully the chapters on appraising, the series on building and the summary on closing contracts; all being the works of accepted specialists who have given freely from their vast store of knowledge.

"Moreover, because of the way in which it deals with essential principles of realty trading, the value of this volume is by no means confined to those in and around New York. The principles defined, the problems solved, are applicable to real estate conditions in any city, and are of direct usefulness to those interested in the development of urban or suburban property, irrespective of its geographical location. Herein are treated the principles used by men who are active dealers, buyers and sellers of real estate; men who would have become great financial powers and land operators even if the field of their endeavors had been other than trafficking in New York realty, and the building and management of New York skyscrapers or tenements."

The several chapters in this book besides giving opinions also furnish in convenient reference form the Davies Appraisal tables and statements of commissions for brokers and auctioneers. Throughout, the language used has been freed from technicalities so that the reader will not be troubled by constant reference to dictionaries. It is a book in simple language dealing in a straightforward way with the best methods of accomplishing results in real estate. Its information about appraisals, methods of arriving at values and points of construction is invaluable to any broker, operator or owner. In its title the editors have not included the words, builder, lawyer, business man, who might very well have been added to the list to whom the book will be directly helpful.

Among the titles of chapters are the following: "Foreword," by Francis E. Ward, former president Real Estate Board of Brokers; "Real Estate Brokerage and Auctioneering," by Joseph P. Day, president Real Estate Board of Brokers; "Relationship Between Broker and Customer, and Legal Principles Involved," by Abraham Stern, of the firm of Jackson & Stern; "Leasing," by Albert B. Davies, expert appraiser for the City of New York.

There is a chapter on Brokerage and Auctioneering Commissions, and a general index.

CHEAP PLUMBING AN EXTRAVAGANCE.

Of the numerous ways of "skinning" a house, that which is concerned with the plumbing is, perhaps, to be most strongly condemned. There are many reasons for this statement, but one is sufficient; it is a menace to health, to life even, and occasions inconvenience, often positive privation and suffering, and without notice upon the most inopportune occasions. In this respect the American Contractor observes that the plumber has been long and most unjustly maligned. He puts in a good deal of time and material it is true, but this is chargeable to his enlightened and quickened conscience, since none understands better than he the importance of having plumbing properly done, from the standpoint of health, not lasting qualities. The plumber is a wise man, since while getting all he can out of the original installation, he looks to the future for choice pickings in the way of repairs. When his shop is located in the neighborhood of the new house he is fitting up, he is not apt to advise the highest grade of fixtures and material, since that would be to postpone the first hurry-up call for repairs.

Without heaping further abuse upon the plumber who is actuated by the same human nature as the rest of us, it may be said that too close attention cannot be given to the plumbing arrangements and plumbing work of a new home. In this matter decided advances have been made during recent years and it is now possible to so arrange and construct house plumbing as to insure great convenience and absolutely sanitary conditions.

As a rule, one who constructs his first home knows more about plumbing after he has lived in it a year or two than he did when it was in the process of erection. There is, however, such a thing as profiting by the experience of others, though few are sufficiently lacking in self-conceit, to avail themselves of the opportunity. The wise builder of a home will see to it that a competent plumber is employed to equip the house. He will likewise see to it that the specifications call for a high-grade of material, and that to the smallest detail. By insisting on these points and seeing that they are carried into effect, he will save himself a large measure of future annoyance and a large and unending payment for repairs.

A long list of warnings and suggestions might be presented, but they would prove of small practical value—a real plumber is thoroughly well informed in the premises and one who is not cannot acquire a comprehensive view of the subject offhand. The proper advice to one about to build a home is, insist that the work be given to a thoroughly reliable and competent plumber—of which, notwithstanding our pleasantry and the standard newspaper jokes of the past fifty years, there is a liberal supply. This attended to, high-grade material and fixtures specified and the work properly inspected at every stage, satisfactory and enduring plumbing can be secured. As to the location of bath tubs, lavatories, sinks and other prominent features, they should be figured out by the architect drawing the plans, who knows, or ought to know, all about the matter. If you feel called to skimp anything connected with a house, don't let it be the plumbing.

PROTEST AGAINST WATER METERS.

United Real Estate Owners Want No Limitations on the Reasonable Use of the Water Supply.

The special committee appointed by the United Real Estate Owners' Associations has made a report in answer to the suit in the New York Supreme Court to enjoin the Aqueduct Commissions from further developing our Croton Watershed, and also in answer to an article appearing in the Record and Guide of July 10 and August 14, in answer to the President of the Merchants' Association. The chairman of the special committee, Mr. Julius Schrag, of 142 West 23d st, informs us that the suit will come up for trial next Monday. The report which follows, contains a vigorous protest against the proposition to install water-meters in tenement houses.

(1) The United Real Estate Owners' Associations claim it is necessary to provide additional reservoirs for storage and also save the waste water in our Croton Watersheds. Further, we believe that the Aqueduct Commissioners have not proceeded contrary to law; it is of record that the Aqueduct Commissioners requested Commissioner O'Brien, of the Water Department, to submit plans for the Patterson reservoir as long ago as June, 1908; and if plans had been submitted at that time, a contract could have been awarded then, and water collected behind the dam at this time. Instead of acting promptly, however, Commissioner O'Brien failed to submit the plans at all.

Under the opinion of former Corporation Counsel, the Commissioner of Water Supply is not required and has no power to approve any plans for the Aqueduct Commissioners; he is merely required to make plans under their direction, provided by the statute chapter No. 490, of the laws of 1883 (the Aqueduct Laws); since this law was enacted, the office of Commissioner of Public Works has been abolished, and a new department created; Section No. 2 of said law reads in part as follows:

"The Commissioner of Public Works shall submit under the direction of the Aqueduct Commissioners the plan or plans, together with maps, specifications, estimates and particulars relative thereto, for the construction of a new aqueduct or conduit for water from some point in the Croton River or Croton Lake, to some point in the City of New York, and for the construction of one or more dams or reservoirs to retain such water."

NOT OVER-DEVELOPED.

The Merchants' Association says that the Croton Watershed is already over-developed.

WE SAY IT IS NOT. The proof is that ever since the new Croton Dam has been completed in 1906, each year water has gone to waste from the Croton watersheds into the Hudson River; it is estimated that two years' supply was lost during the period from the Fall of 1907 to the Spring of 1908. Over eighty billion gallons was wasted over the spillway again during the months of April and May of this year, right after one of the dryest seasons New York had experienced in years, water was again going to waste at Croton Dam to the amount of about ten billion gallons. Why let the water which we have go to waste if by building additional storage reservoirs we can save and store twenty billion gallons?

Further proof that there is plenty of water to be had from our present watershed at Croton, New York, is the fact that only during the last Legislature a bill was passed by the Senate and Assembly to permit the City of Mount Vernon to take water from our supply by tapping our watersheds.

The Merchants' Association says the Catskill water will be available before the Patterson reservoir can be constructed. Experts say the Catskill project will take at least ten years, while the water can be impounded by building the Patterson reservoirs in two years.

In the Mayor's message of January, 1909, he says that contracts for the Ashokan Dam was awarded August 31, 1907, an up-to-date contract for building twenty-six miles of aqueduct have been let, involving an expenditure when completed of $26,700,000, and varying in time from four to seven years; there is still over fifty miles to be contracted for.

The Mayor in his annual message in part says: "In spite of all efforts to add to our water supply, it is evident that a shortage may be experienced before water from the Catskills is available, so that it is essential to husband our resources and check preventable waste."

This, we believe, can be best effected by preventing and saving the waste or overflow in the Croton shed by building the Patterson reservoir where plenty of water can be stored.

Professor William H. Burr, of Columbia College, and Chief Engineer Walter H. Sears have recommended the Patterson site.

Commissioner O'Brien, of the Water Department, admitted to our committee that the Patterson reservoir could be completed before water would be available from the Catskills supply.

The Merchants' Association says the construction of the Patterson reservoir is waste of public funds.

We say no. If we can store and save the surplus water we can stop the constant cry of the shortage of our water supply and the installation of water meters for private use in all houses other than business. We believe the Merchants' Association stands alone as a body opposing the saving of the overflow water in our Croton Watersheds and advocating the Catskill project and wholesale installation of water meters.

The Merchants' Association's report book of 1906 gives the following estimate of the daily supply of water for Manhattan and Bronx, which was entirely over-estimated; the fact is, we have only increased about five million gallons a year.

Merchants' Ass'n. Estimate.		Normal Amount Used.
1905	319,000,000	During (1906)	296,000,000
1906	333,000,000	" (1907)	227,000,000
1907	348,000,000	" (1908)	315,000,000

In the same book on page 265 Chief de Varona in June, 1906, says: "The Water Department has estimated that by 1909 the whole city, including Manhattan, Bronx, Queens, Kings and Richmond will be using 640 million gallons a day. The fact is, that we are only using about 520 million gallons a day (only 130 millions out of the way)."

	Gallons.
Present daily use of water for Manhattan and Bronx	320,000,000
Brooklyn	140,000,000
Queens, about	50,000,000
Richmond	5,000,000 to 10,000,000
Total	520,000,000

Our committee finds that public bodies and the majority of citizens believe it wisest to save the waste by building extra reservoirs in our Croton Watershed. The United Real Estate Owners' Associations being one of the largest incorporated organized bodies of taxpayers' associations in the Borough of Manhattan, consisting of the following associations:

West Side Taxpayers' Association, Harlem Property Owners' Association, House and Real Estate Owners' Association of 12th and 19th Wards, Taxpayers Association of the 10th, 11th and 17th Wards, 18th and 21st Ward Taxpayers' Association, Real Estate Owners' Protective Associations of 12th and 22d Wards approves of the building of the Patterson reservoir. Also the press has at different times favored the construction of the Patterson reservoir.

The United Real Estate Owners' Associations believe the move on the part of the Merchants' Association to tie the hands of the Aqueduct Commissioners and stopping them from providing additional storage reservoirs to save and store the overflow at Croton, is unwise. If the injunction is sustained, it will give the politicians an opportunity to keep on telling the public there is a shortage of our city supply, in order to install water meters in every house, even for private use; this would be a hard blow to the over-burdened taxpayer, especially the apartment and tenement house owners, where the owner cannot control the water consumed by the tenants, nor is IT RIGHT TO RESTRICT THE TENANTS TO THE FREE USE OF WATER FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES.

The present storage capacity of our Croton Watershed is about eighty-eight billion gallons; this can be increased about forty billion gallons by building additional storage reservoirs in our Croton Watershed at Croton, New York.

The normal daily water consumption is about three hundred and twenty million gallons. Total aqueduct capacity of the two present Croton aqueducts is about four hundred million gallons per day.

Respectfully submitted,
LOUIS SCHRAG, Chairman;
PIERRE M. CLEAR,
DR. ABRAHAM KORN,
Special Committee on Water Supply of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations.

VALUE OF MOTOR TOURING.—There is no better or more pleasing way to study real estate values and conditions than to tour the nearby towns and villages in an automobile. Pessimistic real estate brokers will turn rabid optimists after enjoying the air and seeing the wonderful development on such trips. Moreover, it better fits them for the more serious work of appraising which is fast becoming such an important aid to buying and selling.

The Index to Volume LXXXIII. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 to June 30, is now ready for delivery. Price, ONE DOLLAR. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to everyone engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc., for MANHATTAN and BRONX. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

FOR A BROADWAY SUBWAY LOOP.

Views of Mr. Isaac Stern and the Twenty-Third Street Improvement Association on the Subject.

The Twenty-third Street Improvement Association, an organization which has been in existence only a few months, has, owing to the strength and prominence of its officers and directors, taken its place as one of the strongest organizations of its kind in the city.

Mr. Isaac Stern, its President, represents an investment of from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000; Mr. Walter E. Maynard, of the Fifth Avenue Building, vice-president, $10,000,000; Mr. Walter Stabler, Comptroller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, treasurer, $18,000,000; Mr. Joseph W. Cushman, of J. W. Cushman & Co., secretary, represents enormous real estate interests in West 23d st.

The directors are Messrs. Edward T. Moriarty, of Jordan, Moriarty & Co.; Geo. H. Putnam, of G. P. Putnam & Co.; E. Belknap, of Geo. C. Flint & Co.; Louis Stern, of Stern Bros.; C. A. Gould, of James McCreery & Co.; R. J. Horner, of R. J. Horner & Co.; Arthur Scribner, of Charles Scribner's Sons; Wm. H. McCord, of Post & McCord; Louis M. Starr, of Estate Theo. B. Starr; Louis Schrag and J. J. Cavanagh. This association was formed to promote the general interests and welfare of 23d st and vicinity, and to secure for the district the recognition which its enormous trade demands.

In an interview with the Record and Guide, Mr. Isaac Stern, its president, laid great stress on the need of more adequate transit accommodations.

"In the past there has been considerable neglect in providing proper rapid-transit facilities for the business of this great city," said Mr. Stern, "and we feel that the time has now come for the solving of this great problem, upon which depends the future welfare and business prosperity of our city. We feel that this section, representing as it does the HEART OF THE CITY—in a business way—requires means of reaching it from all parts of the metropolitan district, and as the first step for this purpose we have recommended the building of a LOOP TO CONNECT WITH THE SO-CALLED BROADWAY AND LEXINGTON AV UNDERGROUND ROUTE, leaving the main stem at about 10th st and coming up Broadway, to bring this important section in touch with the rest of the city."

A CASE IN POINT.

As an example of what such subways can do for the improvement of a section, Mr. Stern instanced what has been accomplished within the space of five years in the Washington Heights district, and he added, "I believe that the time has come when a comprehensive scheme of rapid transit should be laid out to cover the entire city; not alone for its present needs, but with a view to its needs in the future.

"The urgent needs of the city at this time, is rapid transit on BROADER LINES. Our association is in no wise opposed to any other routes, but realizes that the important interests centered in this district demand additional transit facilities in the nature of subways and express stations at 23d st.

"I also feel that the Public Service Commission and the city authorities have this object fully in mind; that they comprehend the magnitude of the subject and are doing their very best to solve it.

"I also believe that from the experience gained through the building of the Interborough road—the first underground road to be built, which has proven that it is a paying institution—that abundant capital can be found to build as many subways as are necessary for the city's development; and further, that everyone interested in the welfare of the city should lend a helping hand to solve this most important problem."

A committee from the association recently appeared before the Public Service Commission and expressed its views, which were very favorably received by the commission.

THE HUDSON CELEBRATION AND REALTY DEVELOPMENT.

Opinions differ regarding the effect of the Hudson-Fulton celebration upon local and suburban realty development. Coming as it does at a time when real estate men are beginning to formulate plans for consummating sales after a long, dull summer, it is counted by some as an unfortunate occurrence. Others, of a more optimistic temperament believe that it will be the biggest thing for New York that has happened in some time.

While it is true that a public demonstration, no matter how big, invariably upsets the business mind, before, during and after a festival in which there is great popular enthusiasm, it is equally certain that it is followed by a notable impetus which makes up for apparently adverse effects. It is the effect of the advertising a city gets.

It is pointed out that there will be over 2,000,000 strangers within the city during the celebration. Many of the city's own denziens will move about and note what is going on around them. It sometimes takes a mammoth concourse of people to convince the New Yorker that the city in which he lives is overcrowded and that the place for him is in the suburbs.

Likewise it sometimes takes a big demonstration like the Hudson-Fulton celebration to make the suburbanite think that "Little Old New York" is a good place to live in if one wants to be near the scene of the greatest business and social activity and he might be seized with the idea of coming to New York to live. But it is the stranger, the wealthy Westerner who will come to New York to see the show, who may be induced to invest in New York or suburban realty.

INVESTORS COME WITH THE CROWD.

One enterprising real estate firm sent personal letters out to a select list of possible purchasers of New York realty several weeks ago, announcing that if plans were entertained about coming to New York, he would be glad to provide courtesies for them without cost to them. Five answered in the affirmative. This enterprising real estate man immediately closed with five different hotels in Fifth av for windows. He spent the bigger portion of $500 for this, but he knows that the people to whom he sent the invitations are looking for a desirable estate, a good factory site, a good apartment house investment and two New York residences. He may not make good on his enterprise, but he is looking out for that.

Another real estate man had a customer in Florida, who has been up here looking over a property near Sea Cliff, L. I. The price was a little high, that was all. He has another proposition to make to that man now and so he invited him to be his guest during the celebration. The same operator has purchased grandstand tickets for some Baltimore people who are coming on to look over a factory site at Tottenville, S.I., and other prospective customers who want to move from Connecticut to this city.

WHO CAN TELL?

The real estate interests should benefit by the celebration. The visiting factory owner in the suburbs may look over some of the Fourth av loft buildings and decide that for his kind of light manufacturing he could save money by moving his plant into one of those desirable structures. The crowd that will sweep over Riverside Drive will not fail to note the tremendous development that has taken place along that thoroughfare, than which there is none more beautiful the world over, since they visited that part of the city during the Dewey demonstration.

The quantities of money that will be left here by visitors will make up for much of that lost during the late financial unpleasantness. This will mean more currency in circulation, which currency, moreover, will stay here and will help the real estate and building material markets, indirectly at least. On the whole, therefore, it is safe to predict that the celebration will do the real estate and building material men more good than harm.

THE CARE OF TREES.

Any observing person cannot help but notice how rapidly the foliage throughout the city is being destroyed by insects. This is especially so in the rural districts where large and valuable trees are dying in great numbers. In most localities well nurtured trees exert a beneficial effect on the value of surrounding real estate, and for this reason no effort or expense should be spared in taking intelligent steps toward ridding them of this destructive enemy. In Cambridge, Mass., the authorities have met with much success in coping with the troublesome tree insect. Not long ago the commission in that city cleaned 7,575 street trees and about 3,000 estates. For the latter a charge of 25 cents per hour for labor and 25 cents per gallon for creosote used was exacted, making a total of $3,499.

On one estate of about 1,200 trees which were infested with the gypsy moth, 9 men were employed almost 2 months, the cost equalling $762.51. The work done for the season proved successful, for upon inspection nine-tenths of the nests were destroyed. Bands of burlap were placed about the trunks of 6,816 trees at a cost of 2½ cents per tree, ½ cent for burlap and 2 cents for labor. This is considered one of the most economical ways of exterminating this pest. It is their habit to feed on the foliage at night and to descend in the early morning to the trunk of the tree for shade and protection from the sun. The burlap then becomes a trap for them and when it is turned up they are found in large numbers under it and can be easily destroyed with wire brushes.

It is affirmed that the elm leaf beetle is destroyed by spraying with arsenate of lead during the first half of June. This destroys the slugs and prevents their injuring the trees. It is suggested that care be exercised to thoroughly spray the under surface of the leaves. Later in the season the slugs and pupae may be destroyed in the bark or at the base of the trees by the use of strong soap suds, kerosene emulsion or hot water.

WEST SIDE TAXPAYERS.—The regular monthly meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association will be held on Friday, Sept 17, 1909, at 267 West 34th st. The Nominating Committee will submit the names of candidates for office for the coming year. The election will be held on Oct. 15, 1909.

THE WEEK.

The most important real estate transaction of the year was closed this week in the sale of the 11-sty office building known as the Night and Day Bank Building, at the southeast corner of 5th av and 44th st. This sale, to one of the most successful real estate operating companies, is another proof of the investment possibility of property in what is known as the 5th av section, and is a sure indication that the property on 5th av and the side streets, between 42d and 59th, is a good purchase at present market prices. The property is assessed on this year's tax books at $1,250,000. The asking price is said to have been $2,000,000, and it sold for very close to that figure.

An item of the week's news is the report that James Carlew, almost the last of the old time private house builders, on the West Side, has transferred his activities to a new district and an entirely new kind of an operation for him.

The move seems to indicate first that so far as private houses are concerned, about all of the available land for that purpose has been improved in that section, and second, that Mr. Carlew sees a more profitable field for his activities in the fast-growing 5th av section.

The sale of Nos. 28 to 32 West 36th st to the State Realty Co., by John N. Golding, is the second sale of a plot for improvement in the section, and is probably the forerunner of a considerable building movement for the district. The new land value maps issued this week by the Department of Taxes and Assessments are of the greatest value to taxpayers. They include ninety-two maps, covering every part of the sixty assessment districts in all the boroughs of the City of New York.

Lawson Purdy, the president of the Tax Department, said yesterday in speaking of the maps: "The necessary basis for a proper assessment is an accurate map, showing area and dimensions. That we had in this department. The deputies, using such a map as a basis, set about their work of assessment. They first determined the unit values of land on each street front for a normal depth of 100 feet, making the necessary changes up or down from the last assessment. Then after the land value was determined they fixed the improvement value, using the well-known rules and formulas of the department. The difficulty in the past has been to get a sufficiently large perspective on the field maps. These field maps show only one block on each page, and it has sometimes been difficult for the deputy to grade his values from street to street with the nicety and accuracy that we wish. Now with these large maps this can be done with ease and great accuracy."

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE offerings this week in the auction market by Joseph P. Day and Herbert A. Sherman were a distinct disappointment. Mr. Day's offerings on Tuesday were nearly all bid in, and while there was a fairly large attendance at the Ludlam sale on Thursday, they evidently did not want downtown East Side property; eight of the twelve parcels were purchased by the Cruikshank Company, said to be acting for heirs of the estate.

LAND VALUE MAPS.

They Will Assist the Deputy Tax Commissioners and Inform Taxpayers of the Quality of the Work of the Assessors.

The Department of Taxes and Assessments has just issued its new Land Value Maps. This is the first publication of the kind ever made and includes ninety-two maps, covering every part of the sixty assessment districts, in all the boroughs of the City of New York. On each map a unit is shown along every street, giving in plain figures the value in dollars per front foot of a lot one hundred feet in depth.

The object of these maps is twofold; to assist the deputy tax commissioners in their work of assessing values and to inform taxpayers of the quality of the work of the deputies. By the use of these maps the deputies are able to observe and determine the proper area of influence of known values at fixed points, whether these values be high or low. They are also enabled to preserve equality of land values among adjoining owners. The taxpayer, on the other hand, who questions or desires TO CONFIRM THE EQUITY OF TAX BILLS, by consulting the map of his assessment district, may compare the unit upon which his assessment is made with that of his neighbor and with any other tract.

PRESIDENT PURDY'S COMMENTS.

Hon. Lawson Purdy, the president of the Tax Department, said, in speaking of these maps:

"We have been at work upon them for a long time. The necessary basis for any proper assessment is an accurate map, showing area and dimensions. That we have long had in this Department. The deputies, using such a map as a basis, set about their work of assessment. They first determine the unit values of land on each street front for a normal depth of 100 feet, making the necessary changes up or down, from the last assessment. Then after the land value is determined, they fix the improvement value, using the well-known rules and formulas of the Department. The difficulty, however, has been to get a sufficiently large perspective on the field maps. These field maps show only one block on each page, and it has sometimes been difficult for the deputy to grade his values from street to street with the nicety and accuracy that we wish. Now with these large maps this can be done with ease and great accuracy.

"The making of these maps has involved long and patient effort, to examine the values, compare them with neighboring values and determine the final figures. There may be mistakes in them, of course, but if there are, we count upon the vigilance of real estate owners, brokers and operators to call our attention to them and so enable us to correct them. With each year, under such criticism, the maps should improve. As they are, we believe that they will be accepted by most people as very good evidence of true value.

"The policy of the Tax Department has been, faithfully and honestly to assess, as the law demands, at the sum for which property will sell under ordinary circumstances, and to invite the closest scrutiny of the methods by which our assessments are made. These Land Value Maps will furnish this information and the manner in which the public will receive and use them will be of the greatest interest to all in the Department."

BROAD COMPARISONS POSSIBLE.

The arrangement of maps admits of a broad comparison, so that the relative value placed on the land map may be compared along different streets, or in different sections of the same borough, and even carried to comparisons of tracts under similar conditions in different boroughs.

The fact that all property is taxed at a uniform rate on its valuation, reduces the question of equity to a simple matter of the proportionate assessed valuation of the property, the basis of which is indicated by the units on these maps. The taxpayer is enabled by comparing these units to test the justice of his tax bills.

Without the Land Value Maps the taxpayer, to obtain any idea of comparative assessments, would have to construct a map and ascertain and place on the map the actual assessed values on his own and similar property. Even this would not afford a satisfactory comparison, because the values are placed on lots of various sizes and shapes and could not be reduced to a unit, such as is used on the Land Value Maps, for comparative purposes.

THE PROBLEM OF EQUALIZING ASSESSMENTS.

Ever since the consolidation of Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond into the Greater City of New York, the problem of equalizing the assessments, which before the consolidation were made each independently of the others, has been a most serious one, and it is believed that this record of unit values on the Land Value Maps will enable the Department to solve the problem of bringing about a greater uniformity.

A large proportion of complaining taxpayers complain, not because of their knowing, or perhaps even thinking, that an injustice is being done them, but because they do not know, and are afraid that they will be overtaxed. Many of these, on an examination of the map of their district showing the unit values along their property and other properties in the neighborhood with which they are familiar, are satisfied of the justice and equity of the work. In case it should be discovered that any property is over-assessed by reason of erroneous units, their display on the maps will make the correction an easy mater.

A. NOTICE.

As a supplement to this report, there has been published a limited edition of the LAND VALUE MAPS of the Department. This is a volume of ninety-two maps covering every assessment district in the City of New York.

This supplement will be delivered to any real estate broker, appraiser or real estate lawyer, who will present this notice at the office of the Department in the Hall of Records, Manhattan, New York, and sign a receipt for the same. Those out of town who have been accustomed to receive the departmental report and who desire the volume of maps will please send this notice in a letter, with forty cents to cover postage or express charges, and the Department will comply with the request. The volume of maps is sixteen and one-half by twenty and one-half inches in size, about one-half inch thick, and weighs five pounds.

UNITED REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

The regular monthly meeting of the United Real Estate Owners' Association was held in parlor A, of the Grand Union Hotel, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 14. Vice-President Charles J. F. Bohlen presided in the absence of President Thomas Krekeler, who is in Europe.

A resolution was passed to appoint a committee of three to report in answer to the suit in the New York Supreme Court to enjoin the Aqueduct Commission from further advertising our Croton watershed, and also to answer articles appearing in the Record and Guide of July 16 and August 14, written by the president of the Merchants' Association.

A committee of two members from each of the locals has been appointed to examine the departmental estimate of the city budget and to oppose any increases. This committee will meet on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the office of Charles E. Schnelle, No. 1324 Lexington av.

The committe on Law and Legislation is taking steps to prevent the introduction of the licensed engineers bill which has been up for passage and defeated for the last six years. All real estate owners are requested to co-operate with the association in their endeavor to prevent this bill being brought up again.

NEW JERSEY REAL ESTATE INTERESTS.

The Convention in the Hudson Terminal Building Draws City Builders from All Parts of the State.

THE thing that stuck out most prominently in the convention of New Jersey city builders this week was the general complaint of the difficulty of obtaining money for real estate mortgages and building loans. Large as the volume of transactions are, and numerous as the number of building operations are, they are limited by the difficulty which builders and investors have in obtaining loans from the usual sources.

The representative men which made up the assemblage could not fully account for it. Mr. William G. McAdoo, president of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, thought it strange that the great insurance companies that are authorized to lend money in any State have not become largely interested in New Jersey. The New York mortgage companies, President Joseph P. Day, of the Board of Brokers of the City of New York said, are restricted by their charters.

At any rate, there is not local money enough to finance in a sufficient degree the great building movement that has started in Northern Jersey. This state of affairs has led to a movement to organize a mortgage company under the auspices of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange.

The convention at which this important fact came out was held in the Hudson Terminal Building on Wednesday of this week, Hon. Otto Kempner presiding. Real estate men, builders and large owners and developers, a number of them bringing their wives and daughters, came from all the northern counties of New Jersey. They rode through the tunnels, and were escorted in parties through the great building by Mr. K. B. Conger, the manager, and had the privilege of listening to William G. McAdoo, the tunnel builder, and other interesting speakers.

Mr. McAdoo talked along general lines of the progress and future of the State of New Jersey, of the necessity of having good local government, good streets and civic pride; and he referred particularly, for one thing, to the quick schedule of trains in the tunnels. His trains are now running under three-minute headway, but next week they will begin running every minute and a half. And what the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company promises it will do.

Addresses were also delivered by Mr. George J. Bayles, of Orange, representing the Board of Governors of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange; Mr. Joseph P. Day, President of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York; Mr. Henry Lemmerman, Vice-President of the New Jersey-New York Development Federation; Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City, and also by the presiding officer, Hon. Otto Kempner.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

The New York investor is a wary fellow, and like the man from a certain mid-western state, he wants to be shown. The members of the New York-New Jersey Real Estate Exchange thoroughly understand the advantages that will accrue to the State lying across the Hudson by reason of the terminals, and acting upon this knowledge they have been developing tremendous areas of what was once farm land, and are selling them for residence sites and factory locations. But the great need was to inform prospective buyers of the advantages that the state over yonder had to offer. Accordingly some bright mind devised the plan of having a series of receptions and inspections of the Hudson Manhattan Tunnels system during which personally conducted tours could be made of the tubes and the actual time spent by commuters in traversing the subterranean exits from Gotham could be noted.

On Wednesday of this week the first of these inspections took place and members of the Exchange assured the Record and Guide that it was without doubt a great success. Real estate representatives from every part of New Jersey were taken on trips through the tunnels, the through service of which was opened this week. They were also shown through the terminal buildings in Church st. Inspection trains started at 10 o'clock and made hourly trips all during the day.

When all the visitors had seen the tunnels a meeting was held, at which all the guests of the Exchange and its members were present. President McAdoo was the chief speaker. An exhibit of interest to brokers and New Yorkers in search of homes in New Jersey has been opened on the twentieth floor of the Terminal building, 50 Church st, which consists of maps, photographs and literature pertinent to the development of North Jersey.

OPENING REMARKS OF PRESIDENT KEMPNER.

"I have the honor to bid you a hearty welcome in the name of the three associations that have issued the call for this gathering of New Jersey real estate men. This meeting has been preceded by an inspection party, the first of a series of similar parties to follow, until the entire population of Northern New Jersey will have been introduced to this splendid tunnel terminal, and to the marvelous subterranean gateway to the Western world located beneath this structure, for the existence of which we are indebted to the genius and the indomitable pluck of one man—Wm. G. McAdoo.

"Ascending from the depths below the street surface, we have been lifted to the twentieth floor, and from this elevated position we beheld as picturesque a scene as could greet the eye anywhere in the world. To the south we saw the magnificent harbor of New York city, to the east and north we viewed the majestic vista of Manhattan Island, with its clustered sky-scrapers, its colossal office buildings and warehouses, and to the west the outlines of the hills and mountains of the beautiful and beloved State of New Jersey. It is a sight fit for the gods, and one not easily effaced from the memory.

"With the impressions made upon you by the grandeur of the scenes you have witnessed, you are no doubt the better prepared to grasp the immensity of your business opportunity, and we are now here assembled to counsel together on matters that need our thoughtful attention as business men.

"From this mountainlike height, the real estate horizon must unfold itself to us to its widest extent, for viewed from this point, the broad acres of Northern New Jersey are brought within visual range, and we are made to realize how largely we are a part and parcel of the great metropolitan zone and how closely we are within that golden circle of which the center is the wonderful city of New York.

"It would not be fair on the part of a presiding officer to forestall the speakers of a meeting, and for that reason I shall abstain from discussing any of the matters that will be handled by the gentlemen on our program. We are here that we may be enlightened as to the value of the great improvement in transit facilities that has been established between the States of New York and New Jersey, and as to the duty of the real estate men to utilize the advantages that the completion of the Hudson Tunnel System has brought them. Let us listen and learn from those who seek only to be of help to us, and let everything that is said this afternoon be construed as being prompted merely by that desire. I feel that if you receive the speakers in that spirit, you will reap the full measure of benefit that the organizers of this Real Estate Men's Day planned to confer upon you."

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON MORTGAGE COMPANY.

The Special Committee appointed by the Board of Governors of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange to consider the promotion of a trust or mortgage company to serve the real estate interests of Northern New Jersey, made a first report as follows:

"Ample evidence has been brought to the attention of the committee that the borrowing facilities now enjoyed by the real estate operators in the northern counties of New Jersey are not sufficient for the normal development of that territory. In its judgment there exists an exceptional opportunity for profitable business by a loaning and development company to operate in the counties of Hudson, Essex, Union, Bergen and Passaic.

"Responsible real estate men can safely use more capital, and it is the duty of the real estate profession to provide better means for raising capital than are now available.

"Your committee has carefully considered the question of how such a loaning company should be incorporated, and has come to the conclusion that it should be incorporated under the banking laws of either or both New Jersey and New York States, as may be later determined, which provide for the incorporation of mortgage and investment companies. These laws best meet the needs of the situation.

"Your committee recommends that a mortgage company be incorporated with the title of 'THE NEW JERSEY MORTGAGE COMPANY,' or 'THE NEW JERSEY-NEW YORK MORTGAGE COMPANY,' following the title of the Exchange. Such a company would find a profitable field for business in the following particulars: (1) In making loans on first and subsequent mortgages on both improved and unimproved property. (2) In making short time building loans. (3) In the sale of guaranteed mortgages. (4) In acting as agent for securing capital for investment in New Jersey.

"The initial authorized capital of such a mortgage company should not be less than $500,000, represented by 5,000 shares of stock of the par value of $100 each, subscribed at par, fully paid and non-assessable. The home office of the company should be in the Hudson Terminal Building.

"Every effort should be made to have the closest relation exist between such a company and the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange, and the members of the Exchange should be given an opportunity to subscribe to the stock. Furthermore, the members of the Exchange should be appointed the local agents of the mortgage company.

"Your committee believes that this proposition will interest capitalists of both New York and New Jersey, and it pledges the members of the Exchange its best efforts to speedily bring about the organization of such mortgage and building loan company."

TAXPAYERS' MEETING CALLED.—The regular monthly meeting of the Taxpayers' Association of the 8th and 21st Wards was not held as scheduled on Sept. 15, 1909, as many of the members were still out of town. President Bohlan is calling the meeting for Wednesday evening, Sept. 22, at 192 3d av.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Sept 10, 11, 13, 14, 15 and 16.

ARCHITECTURAL TREATMENT OF REINFORCED CONCRETE.

CONCRETE, as used by the Romans, furnishes no precedent for modern designing in reinforced concrete, because they used the material in enormous masses, and only where the principal stresses were compressive. The concrete domes that they erected are said to have had no thrust, but acted merely as inverted saucers. When nothing but their own weight was supported the thrust might have been negligible; but there must have been a sort of internal arch action amongst the particles of the mass, and the thrust so produced, if not transmitted to the walls, must have been counteracted by the tensile strength of the concrete. If a superimposed load were placed on the dome, the thrust would have become more than the tensile resistance of the concrete could withstand, and unless some outside aid were forthcoming the whole would collapse. However, in modern construction, we do not rely on the tensile resistance of concrete in any way. Wherever tensile stress exists, steel must be introduced.

Another essential difference is that whereas a Roman concrete wall was of very considerable and practically uniform thickness, taking stresses all along, in reinforced concrete no such arrangement is permissible. A wall consists of a framework of stanchions and beams which take all the stresses, and the remainder of the wall is formed of mere screen panels of very little thickness. This is true of steel-frame buildings also, and this principle is the only one that will affect the structural lines of architectural buildings; that is, those kinds of structures that are usually designed by architects as distinct from engineering structures, such as bridges, large roofs, water-towers, etc. This framework and panel treatment should make itself very evident; and it would seem quite suitable to build the panels afterwards in some other material, such as brick, stone, block concrete, or terra cotta, each panel being carried by the beam below it. The vertical members will, as a rule, be emphasized, as they are more important, becoming larger and stronger towards the bottom, because there they carry the whole load of the wall and their proportion of the floor loads, whereas the beams all do practically the same amount of work (that is, carry the panel above and a proportion of the floor) and are therefore of the same size. However, in some cases the horizontal members are emphasized, and the vertical members kept subservient.

In buildings of the warehouse and factory class, the windows are often made to take up the whole of the panel space. There will, said Mr. J. H. Markham, in a paper read before the London Architectural Association, be much more scope for the use of reinforced concrete, and opportunity to evolve a suitable style of design, in such buildings as bridges, large roofs (as over swimming-baths, etc.), towers for various purposes, light-houses, tanks, and reservoirs, to say nothing of all kinds of foundation work, than there will be in architectural buildings. In these structures reinforced concrete is likely to find favor because it does not need the periodic painting necessary to preserve a steel structure from corrosion. In most, if not all, works of this kind, economy of cost is an important consideration; and in steelwork the cost varies approximately as the amount of material employed. Not so with reinforced concrete. In a plain and simple building of reinforced concrete about thirty per cent. of the total cost is expended on centreing and false work alone, which all disappears when the structure is complete. Again, the metal costs a great deal more than the concrete bulk for bulk, so that it may quite well happen that a design that uses a considerably larger quantity of material than the minimum possible, may be of much less expense in execution, because it is of such a simple character that a great saving of false work is effected, or members are so skillfully arranged, both as to position and their internal composition, that the concrete is made to do as much work as possible, and the minimum quantity of metal is used. Therefore let parts be simple and large rather than intricate and small.

SALIENT FEATURES OF ROMAN ARCHITECTURE

THE Romans were primarily engineers and in architecture the practical turn of their mind was able to accomplish what it was unable to do in the case of the more abstract arts. Besides imitating the Greek, it added certain new and original features of its own. These innovations all lay in the direction of construction; but architectural construction the practical Romans developed to a point far in advance of any kind that had hitherto been reached.

The principle of the arch had long been understood—exactly who first discovered it will probably never be known—but there is no doubt that its use goes back to remote antiquity. The Romans, however, were the first to treat it architecturally. The arch in its simplest form is merely a device for spanning an opening by means of several blocks of stone. An arch is usually constructed by means of a wooden mould, called a centreing, whose outer face corresponds with the under side of the arch. The invention of the arch brought into architecture a new and important element. The Greek architects had only horizontal and vertical forces to consider, dead weights and the strength of the supports that must bear them. The Romans, in introducing the arch, created the new and much more complicated question of lateral thrusts.

Architects had thereafter to consider not only the tendency of buildings to fall downwards, but also their tendency to burst outwards. The calculation and overcoming of these lateral thrusts is a mechanical and engineering problem of the utmost difficulty, and one which, from the time of Rome to this day, has absorbed the energies of builders, and with what splendid results may be seen in Gothic architecture. And yet, even to-day, the mathematics of this elusive problem cannot be said to be completely understood.

From the arch to the vault the step is easy. If the introduction of the principle of the arch was an advance of grave significance, the vault, which followed as a necessary corollary, was destined to bear in the future even a rich harvest. The first progressive step was the invention of the groin vault, formed by the intersection of two equal barrel vaults meeting at right angles. From this came the cloistered vault, which can be constructed on a polygonal quite as well as on a square plan. If the number of sides be increased a circular plan is arrived at and the vault becomes a dome. Every vault, however, depends for its stability on the principle of the arch. In the dome, on the other hand, each course is complete and self-sustaining in itself, and this important fact allows the introduction in the centre of a dome of a window for lighting.

In no form of vault did the Romans say the last word. It was reserved for future ages to show of what developments the dome, the groin vault, and even the barrel vault were capable. But the credit of first applying these vital principles to architecture is due to Rome.—Stone Trades Journal.

—Twenty months ago the American Metal Hose Company of 173 Lafayette st, New York City, sold to the Pennsylvania Tunnel & Terminal Railroad Company, for use in the Pennsylvania power house, a 50-foot length of 1-inch flexible copper hose, asbestos covered, to be used for blowing out boiler flues daily under a working steam pressure of 250 pounds per square inch. This power house had to buy, before they used such flexible metal hose, a piece of high grade rubber steam hose every month, and now after 20 months, the flexible metal hose is still in good condition, and is used daily by the company with best results.

Vol. LXXXIV. SEPTEMBER 25, 1909. No. 2167.

THE LEASE recently consummated of the northeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second street by the United Cigar Stores Company is in some respects one of the most remarkable and significant ever signed in New York City. On a five per cent. basis it makes the value of the property, which contains about 12,000 square feet, equal to $165 a square foot, but obviously a lease, assumed by a corporation of such considerable resources and secured by a building which will probably be sixten stories high should be capitalized at a smaller percentage than five per cent. After the building is erected, the ground could certainly be sold on a four and one half per cent. basis and probably on a four per cent. basis. It really implies a capital value nearer $200 a square foot than $165, and this figure, considering the size of the property, is very extraordinary. Yet it has been made by the managers of a corporation that is probably the tenant of more Manhattan real estate than any other corporation in the city. The corporation in question has occupied part of the corner under a temporary lease for a good many years, and it is in the best possible situation to appraise its value. The president of the company has stated that it will be the best business corner in New York City, and if this statement is true, even $200 a square foot would be a cheap price to pay for the property. Most assuredly the statement is plausible, in case the number of people, passing on the street in front of the corner, constitutes any accurate measure of its value. It is more accessible and is passed by more people than is the old Hotel Metropole property, or even the Times Building. Both of these other properties cannot be reached either from the east or the west without crossing crowded thoroughfares, and a casual pedestrian will not take the trouble to make the crossing unless he is obliged to do so. In the same way the north corner of the intersection should be more valuable than the south, because the whole of Long Acre Square lies to the north, and east corners should be more valuable than west corners, because a larger amount of traffic comes from the east. If the Hotel Metropole property and the plot on which the Times Building stands are more valuable per square foot, that is only because they have larger frontages on the streets in proportion to their area. The northeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second street should certainly be the best business corner in that immediate vicinity.

IT MAY BE DOUBTED, however, whether the corner which has just been leased by the United Cigar Stores Company is actually the best business corner in the central part of Manhattan. In all probability this distinction belongs to the corresponding corner of Broadway and Thirty-fourth street. The difficulty at the present time with the neighborhood of Broadway and Forty-second street is that it has remained too much of a hotel and a theatre district. There is not a single retail establishment of the first importance in that vicinity; and the only tall office building thereabouts is that occupied by the Times. On the other hand the vicinity of Thirty-fourth street and Broadway contains five of the largest department stores in the city, and two of the largest clothing stores. It can already boast of three or four office buildings, and it is likely to become a better neighborhood for this class of improvement than is its competitor farther north. A location at Forty-second street may be better for a cigar store, or a drug store, because that district is more lively at night, but it is the money spent during the day which gives the greatest value to well-situated parcels of real estate. The neighborhood of Forty-second street and Broadway has not yet attracted the most substantial and profitable kind of business. The Record and Guide has no doubt that it will do so in the course of time; but hitherto hotels, restaurants and theatres have prevailed, and there is no indication that these will not continue to prevail. Two new hotels, one for Rector's and one for Shanley's, will soon be built. There is talk of another theatre; very little room, consequently, will be left which can be appropriated by more substantial business enterprises. It may also be remarked that in the future traffic conditions will become more favorable for Greeley Square and less favorable to Forty-second street and Broadway. At present Times Square has been much favored by the fact that the Subway turns east at Forty-second street. Greeley Square has reached its present importance without the advantage of the most approved means of transit. But it will not remain long without the best means of communication. Just where a subway will pass through this district is not determined as yet, but manifestly within the next five years subway trains will be running down either Seventh avenue or Broadway or both—an improvement, which will add considerably to the value of property thereabouts, both for business and amusement purposes, and, then, the increased traffic and business resulting from the opening of the Pennsylvania Terminal will have a similar effect. In all probability the neighborhood of Greeley Square will become more popular as a situation both for hotels and theatres. In spite, consequently, of the huge prices which are being paid for real estate at Forty-second street and Broadway, it still looks as if Greeley rather than Times Square would constitute the business centre of the Middle District.

CHAIRMAN WILLCOX has announced that the Public Service Commission is about to lay out a new subway route, which will follow the line of Hudson street and Eighth avenue, and which will supply the East Side with additional means of communication. It is difficult to understand just what the Commission is driving at in planning such a route. Is it intended as a substitute for a Seventh avenue subway or a supplement thereto? But in either event one cannot understand why such a route should be laid out at the present time. If it is intended as a substitute for a Seventh avenue subway, the answer is that it is a very inferior substitute. The first lower West Side route should run as near to the central ridge of the Island as possible. The line of densest traffic is to the west of Sixth avenue and Broadway. A Seventh avenue-Varick street subway would serve the retail shops on Sixth avenue south of Twenty-third street, and the wholesale district to the west of Broadway. Whereas a Hudson street-Eighth avenue subway would lie too far west to perform such services properly. Such a route, consequently, could not be substituted for a lower Seventh avenue subway with any advantage. On the other hand, if it were added to a Seventh avene subway it would simply establish a partial competitor for that line, before business had been developed sufficiently to warrant competition. In all probability the Interborough Company would refuse to build a Seventh avenue tunnel in case a competitive route were immediately to be built one block to the west. The time is undoubtedly fast approaching when the construction of a Hudson street-Eighth avenue-West Side subway will be justified; but such construction should not be commenced until after a Seventh avenue subway has been in operation for a long enough period to warrant accurate estimates as to the amount of traffic it will develop. The most plausible explanation of this announcement of the Rapid Transit Commission seems to be that the Seventh avenue subway is to be entirely side-tracked. It looks, at present, as if a plan was being hatched for subway development along the following lines: The Interborough Company will bid on the Lexington avenue-Broadway route, and in case it obtains the franchise, a connection will be arranged between Forty-second street and Broadway and Fourteenth street and Broadway. In case such a connection is made it would probably follow the line recently suggested by the property-owners' association of Twenty-third street. That is, it would probably run down Seventh avenue to the Pennsylvania Terminal and then turn east to Broadway; but it might avoid Seventh avenue entirely. Then at a later date the Hudson street-Eighth avenue-West Side subway would be constructed, also, by the Interborough Company. Of course, the foregoing is only a supposition; and it does not seem credible that the Interborough Company would lend itself to a plan of a subway development, such as the one proposed, which implies a maximum of competition with the existing subway and a minimum of additional service to the public. Neither does it seem credible that the contracting syndicate, which has proposed to bid for the Broadway-Lexington avenue subway will get out of the way without a fight. But it should be added that such a fight would be so expensive that some sort of an agreement will eventually be reached. What the agreement will be, however, remains a mystery. The situation becomes more confused every day, and the Public Service Commission is exhibiting a positive genius for adding to the confusion.

INDIRECT BUSINESS BENEFITS will accrue to the real estate and building interests from the inpouring of American citizens that we have seen this week, even if the direct fruits are not easily discernible from where one stands. Of course, whatever benefits the hotel, theatre and transportation interests benefits building and real estate also, and this is one reason why the men in these lines are filling a good citizen's part in presenting the open hand, the smiling face and the hospitable board and bed to their brothers from all over the land. Thousands of people from other States have been looking forward for months to this time, and will combine much business with their pleasure. Most Western families count on coming East at least once a year. As travelers and runabouts they outwing Eastern people far. One reason is because there is so much for them to see in the East. The first question an outsider asks on seeing New York's stupendous buildings is, "Where did 'he' find the money to build it?" The corporation method is one that the man from a small city or town has difficulty in comprehending. He is depressed by the evidences of vast wealth as invested in real estate, and by his own small financial ability in comparison. It is difficult for him to get away from the old idea of individualism, of single-handed effort and the lone-hand game that young men in small cities must rely upon in making their way. When he understands that skyscrapers are financed much after the same plan as the railroads, electric light works and trolley lines out his way, he recovers from his depression and begins to wonder if New York City real estate is not a better and a safer form of investment for his surplus than some of his Western securities. ONCE A STRANGER COMPREHENDS FUNDAMENTAL FINANCIAL METHODS IN THE METROPOLIS HE GENERALLY IS FIRED WITH THE DESIRE TO SOMEHOW PARTICIPATE IN THE BENEFITS RESULTING FROM THE RAPID GROWTH OF VALUES HERE. Thus, more and more New York is attracting investors from other cities, and if the Hudson-Fulton celebration, which begins to-day with a great marine parade, does nothing better for the real estate and allied interests of New York than to charm thrifty and ambitious men from the South and West and lead them to a better comprehension of our city, as a field of investment, it will be worth whatever it costs.

THIS IS THE WEEK for the traditional equinoctial storms and we have had them in reality. Outside building work has consequently been intermittent, and the sales of material much lessened. Besides the weather, the building trades are contending with the Hudson-Fulton celebrations, and consequently the situation must be judged, for the time being, on general principles. There is a large and very general activity, when the whole city is taken into account. In Manhattan an exception must be made for a decline in the construction of five-story non-fireproof tenements. The minimum standard of apartment house construction at the present time in Manhattan is the six-story elevator house. Why this is so is the subject of an important discussion elsewhere in this paper by the best authorities in the matter. Some extremely valuable inside facts are disclosed for the guidance of Record and Guide readers by men who KNOW. Apart from this exception, the projects on file are very large, though for a long time the filings have been running numerically low. There are some present signs of a slowing up in actual construction, "to let the real estate market catch up," but these signs may disappear when the returns from the current renting season are in. Conditions in the renting department being somewhat confused and disturbed by the Hudson-Fulton celebration, the percentage of occupancy will not be altogether plain for some weeks yet. But, looking beyond temporary circumstances, there will be found a general agreement of opinion that the city has really entered upon an era which will prove to be the grandest and most uplifting, in real estate and building, that history tells of.

—If money can be had at 3 per cent. on call and 4 per cent. on time while the crops are being moved, what will the rate be in January when the demand for that purpose is ended? Wall street looks forward to a financial freshet next Spring. —New York American.

CONTRACT AND DAY LABOR SYSTEMS

A Notable Report on Their Relative Merits—Where the Contractor Wins Out.

The report of Metcalf & Eddy, of Boston, Mass., consulting engineers to the Boston Finance Commission, is a document of unusual character and profoundly instructive. The economic efficiency of a municipal department is rarely the subject of a report made by engineers not connected with that department. It is instructive in a high degree because of the thoroughness of the investigation as to unit costs under the contract and the day labor systems in New England cities.

While no engineer who has had wide experience doubts that the contract system is much more economic than the day labor system, it is seldom that an array of statistics is produced to prove the fact. In a recent issue data were given from the Metcalf & Eddy report showing that the cost of sewer work in Boston done by day labor is more than double the average contract price for precisely similar work.

Of late years there has been a very marked tendency among New England cities to adopt the day labor system for municipal work. This is well brought out by the fact that of 18 cities in Massachusefts that replied to the inquiries of Metcalf & Eddy, only one was found to be doing its sewer construction by contract! This astonishing condition of affairs has doubtless come about largely because of the general freedom from political graft that has characterized New England.

Taxpayers had been taught to believe that not only could the contractors' profits be saved by day labor, but that better work could be secured. The shock that this illusion now receives is likely to cause a marked change in municipal construction practice wherever the contract system had been, or was being, exterminated. Metcalf & Eddy find that in the cities of Brookline, Portland, Providence and Somerville, the average employee of a contractor does as much sewer work in two days as the average city laborer does in three days.

In their admirable summary of the disadvantages of performing municipal work by day labor, Metcalf & Eddy emphasize the political influences that result not only in the employment of inefficient workers, but in keeping them on the payroll during winter months when out-of-door work can be done only at an excessive cost. Important as such political factors are in causing high costs where the day labor system prevails, a factor of much greater importance, in our judgment, is the lack of incentive to reduce costs and increase daily outputs when men are employed by any government at fixed salaries, or at fixed wages.

A contractor's salary is paid in the form of profits. Hence he has the strongest sort of an incentive to secure competent men and to stimulate them to the greatest activity. By the payment of bonuses, by increases in salaries, and otherwise, the contractor gives his superintendents a stimulus that "strikes them where they live"—in the pocketbook.

"Why," it may be asked, "cannot a city government do likewise? What is to prevent a city from paying bonuses to its superintendents of construction?" Graft? Conditions are bad enough now, but imagine what would follow a departure from civil service rules fixing the salaries of superintendents and foremen.—Engineering-Contracting.

When a flat is more costly than people can afford to live in, it is called an apartment. A flat in its primitive state consists of a small bathroom, almost completely surrounded by total darkness. A flat is a substitute for home, at one time a popular winter and summer resort, where traditions were allowed to grow up carelessly. Now in every well conducted flat the traditions are drawn out every morning through a tube by the pneumatic cleaning process.—Tom L. Mason in Success Magazine.

Anyone who does not like living in New York within a few minutes' ride of his place of business, near to the heart of great things, with interesting surroundings and associations, freedom of action and with plenty of ways to fill leisure hours, can, of course, move out into the country, put his capital into a fine house, spend three hours every day going to and from the city, and have the pleasure of sitting on his own piazza for a few minutes at night before going to bed in some raw and lonely inland settlement, far from any club, church, theatre or social interest, and also have the felicity of buying commutation tickets for himself and family, the cost of which added to his interest and taxes more than equals what a flat in the city once cost him.

The flat is after all only the symbol of city life—merely the means to an end, and for its inconvenience there are many compensations in city comforts, and social and business opportunities. Too often the detached dwelling represents a dreary, narrow and aimless life except for the satisfaction of having a spacious and quiet house.

GERMAN IMMIGRATION to New York City cannot be counted on any longer by New York real estate interests. Less than 20,000 Germans emigrated from the mother country last year. This is the smallest number since the German empire was founded. And by no means did all come to America. New York City's portion was probably comparatively very small. Of 12 European countries the emigration returns from Germany are now the smallest.

CONSTRUCTION

THE BUILDING UNIT ON MANHATTAN ISLAND

Is the Six Story Elevator House the Minimum Standard of the Future in Speculative Residential Work? —Why Five Story Houses Are Not Being Erected at Present

SINCE no five-story tenement houses are being erected on Manhattan Island at the present time, the investing public are asking why. There are exceptions—here and there a lone five-story operation can be found—but it is the general rule at the present time for Manhattan Island construction which is under consideration here. The six-story elevator semi-fireproof house is almost the only kind now under construction.

Does this fact indicate that the six-story elevator house is to be the minimum standard of construction in the future? Does it mean that, as the normal renting rate for elevator apartments must be ten to twelve dollars a room as the minimum, families not prepared to meet this obligation must gradually find homes in the suburbs? Questions like these were put before three of the highest authorities in apartment house development, and each representing a different phase of the work. They differed in their views in some respects, but in reality conceded the general proposition, while emphasizing more or less the exceptions which seemed probable to each.

THE FACTS.

Hundreds of six-story houses have been finished within a comparatively recent period on Washington Heights. In one large district concessions are being made by the builders to tenants which bring the average rental rate down to nine dollars a room, and even to seven dollars a room in some houses. And there are still many vacancies in that section, but the houses are new and builders understand that it takes time to populate fully so many as have been provided there. Moreover, the Hudson-Fulton celebrations have had the effect of persuading families to postpone for a few weeks contemplated residential changes. The sales market for new apartment houses is also perceived to be in a backward condition.

But while these conditions are recognized, it is at the same time perceived that they are near an end, and that the market is soon to recover its normal brilliancy. The builder's opportunity came a little in advance of the times. He took advantage of low building costs and in due time will get his full reward. Under these surface conditions, however, are others which concern relations existing between the contractors and their principals in the smaller tenement house work. These relations and interests are now believed to be in a fair way to be harmonized, and the effect will be to further stimulate building in Manhattan Borough.

Exceptions Which Prove the Rule.

Charles Griffith Moses, of 141 Broadway and 1960 Amsterdam av, says the 6-sty elevator house covering a plot, 100x100, has certainly become the minimum standard of improvement for the greater part of the residential area still vacant in the Borough of Manhattan, and that there can be no doubt of it.

The speculative building of the past two years on Washington Heights and the upper West Side has proved this fact to his mind beyond peradventure. Of course, as Mr. Moses said to the Record and Guide, a general statement of this kind, affecting a large and varied territory, requires some explanation and qualification. Hence he remarked:

"ECONOMIC CONDITIONS, chiefly the laws of supply and demand, have made this situation a reasonable one. In residence sections it is safe to say that when the price of vacant lots rises above, say $12,000 each for 2,500 sq. ft., it is necessary to improve such lots with buildings producing a greater rental than can be obtained from a non-elevator apartment house.

"THIS IS JUST the condition which prevails throughout the Borough of Manhattan, excepting at its northern and northwestern extremities," continued Mr. Moses. "While it is true that there are other parts of this borough where lot values are below the $12,000 standard, notably along the extreme East Side and in some parts of Harlem, the small number of vacant lots, as compared with the balance of Manhattan, makes these sections UNIMPORTANT FACTORS in the consideration of so comprehensive a matter.

"THESE EXCEPTIONS just mentioned include part of the lands lying along Broadway and Riverside Drive, which are most likely to be improved by fireproof apartments more pretentious and expensive than the 6-sty standard; the irregular lands on the ridge of Fort Washington and Inwood, which are best adapted for detached dwellings and Institutions, and finally the land lying north of Fort George (Dyckman and Ellwood sts) and between Broadway and Seaman av on the west, and the Harlem River on the east."

"What is to be expected from the last section you named?" Mr. Moses was asked.

AN INTERESTING CALCULATION FOR BUILDERS.

"In this section there are some 2,500 lots (not including plots suitable for factories, etc., along the Harlem River front east of 9th av) which can still be bought at prices which make it possible for the builder to put up five or six-story walk-up houses that can be rented with profit for $5 or $6 a room. Inasmuch as 2,500 lots will house 110,000 people (based on 44 persons to the lot, averaged on five and six-story walk-up houses with and without stores) and as our population increases at the rate of about 150,000 persons a year, the preponderant proportion of whom must perforce live in walk-up houses at low rents, it will not be long before the family unable to pay more than $5 or $6 per room rent will be forced to seek a home somewhere else than on Manhattan Island.

ONE OF THE EXCEPTIONS—THE DYCKMAN TRACT.

"IF THE MANNER in which a neighborhood starts to build up is any indication of its ultimate development, then this section surely has a bright future, for such high-class builders as the Coburn-Gahren Co. and the Balmford Construction Co. started to build walk-up houses this summer at 213th st and 205th st respectively, obtaining building loans from the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, and though barely under roof have been overrun with applications to rent by an exceptionally good class of tenants.

"IF LOT VALUES remain at their present level in this section, the whole territory will be improved by walk-up flats in a very short time; but taking the up-building and development of other parts of the city as a criterion, WHAT IS MOST LIKELY TO HAPPEN is this:

"After the first half dozen operations, land values will increase and cause builders to put up moderate priced 6-sty elevator houses, which, being built on land somewhat lower in cost than that farther south, can be rented for less per room than those built on more valuable land; and as that all determining factor in renting on Manhattan Island, quick, convenient transit, is the same here as two or three miles nearer 'down-town,' this part of the borough will probably build up even more rapidly than some of those sections of Washington Heights which still cause the student of Real Estate Conditions to stand in wonder and amazement at the magic of their development.

"IF THIS BE SO, then it would seem that it is no haphazard statement to say that the building unit for the greater part of unbuilt Manhattan is the Six-Story Elevator House.

Views of a Big Operator.

In response to the question as to whether he considered the 6-sty elevator apartment house the minimum standard of construction for speculative resident work, Mr. Elias A. Cohen, of Golde & Cohen, 171 Broadway, prominent building operators, and secretary of the new association of builders and operators, expressed the opinion that the great majority of New York residents cannot afford to pay more than $5 or $6 per room, per month, and therefore the problem of working out a profitable investment under these conditions absolutely precludes the possibility of elevator apartment house construction, especially at the price of Manhattan land, which would certainly not go lower in the future.

"NO 6-STY ELEVATOR APARTMENT HOUSE CAN BE BUILT ON THIS ISLAND AND BE A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT, unless the rents are at least from $10 to $12 per room," said Mr. Cohen emphatically. "While the buildings lately erected in the Heights seem to be filled fairly well, the rents there are higher than for similar accommodations in older portions of the West Side, and that, it seems to me, is not a permanent condition.

"For the present the 5-sty tenement or apartment house is not being built. This, however, is not due to a lack of demand, but is entirely due to the financial embarassment of those engaged in that class of construction during the late panic; nor is IT LIKELY THEY WILL RESUME THE BUILDING OF SUCH HOUSES in the very near future, especially in view of the attitude of the contracting associations which insist that the building loan operators shall make good the losses to the individual contractor caused by the foreclosures of last year and the year before.

ARBITRATION AGREEMENTS UNDER DISCUSSION.

"Under these circumstances, when the Supreme Court of this State is absolutely defied, and the law set at naught, none of the regular building loan operators are willing to again embark on so hazardous an enterprise. However, arbitration agreements are being discussed by various associations and by the Realty Operators and Builders' Association, and much progress is being made in some directions. Within a few months the situation will be pretty well cleared up and the ROAD WILL BE OPEN FOR A RESUMPTION OF TENEMENT HOUSE BUILDING.

"Out of the thirty-two tenements our firm has, there are only TWO PER CENT. OF VACANCIES, and the new buildings we have finished and are finishing are completely rented, almost before the paint is dry, and this condition is true of not alone on the East Side, but also on the West Side, in Harlem and in the Heights; what is more, the rents are being paid by the tenement dweller punctually, and there is every evidence that the people of New York are busily at work, and have the money with which to pay their rent.

"The portions of the Bronx easily accessible by Subway or "L" are well populated, and new five and six-story, so-called 'walk-ups' rent as soon as completed.

"There is at present NO SELLING MARKET. That, of course, being due to the scare of the last two years, and the proverbially slow recovery of real estate in the confidence of the general buying public.

"However, as the mercantile houses are all engaging their quarters, and are doing a progressively larger business and accumulating a surplus, this money will again find, as it has in the past, an outlet for investment in the purchase of real estate.

"Tenements have held their own throughout the panic, especially in well centred locations; by which I mean neighborhoods having a distinctly local 'neighborhood' color, where people are largely of one nationality, and have their own churches, or synagogues, clubs or associations. Neighborhoods which are not so distinctly local have suffered, and have suffered severely, and people have moved from them into boarding houses, or have doubled up, as times became harder.

A RECESSION IN SIX-STORY APARTMENTS PREDICTED.

"It appears to me that there will be a recession in the building of tenements or of 6-sty apartments in the next six or eight months, as the buildings erected in the last year have been sold in only very rare cases; the investments being made in real cash, not by speculative builders, but mostly by speculative operators, and operating companies, who, finding themselves with vacant land on their hands, and the material market in a reasonable frame of mind, decided to improve their property.

"This accounted largely for the building movement of last year which has now almost completely run its course. I do not see any possibility of a resumption in a large degree in the near future, and any forced growth beyond the normal will only tend to retard the healthy growth which is bound to come soon, and it will bring the real estate market a bigger boom than it has ever enjoyed before, in the next year or two.

WHAT LOFT BUILDINGS MEAN TO LABOR AND REAL ESTATE.

"Every new loft building being erected in New York City means the employment of from six hundred to one thousand hands, and necessitates new housing provisions for at least 300 families.

"We New Yorkers hardly realize how rapidly we are growing and what a tremendous commercial city we are becoming. With a record of 48,000 marriages, and about 111,000 births and constant incursion of country dwellers and out of town offices to the city, we are rapidly falling behind in living accommodations, and with the passing of another year of tenement building inactivity, we will again be facing the conditions of 1904.

"The tunnels, subways, bridges, etc., have not affected the tenements of New York City. Our own experience shows that the entire city is retaining its population in spite of all the drains upon it, and IF THE BUILDING MATERIAL AND CONTRACTING INTERESTS will RETAIN THEIR SANITY and not push up prices, to the 1905 and 1906 level, merely because there happens to be some apartment house and office building construction now, the reign of easy money and a better feeling all around, things will resume their normal tendencies soon."

Mr. G. Richard Davis, secretary of A. L. Mordecai & Son (Inc.), a house long active and prominent as owners and operators in real estate, said:

"I believe that the six-story tenement of the type that exists under the present Tenement House law of the lower East Side and elsewhere, will remain as a standard type in Manhattan in tenement house districts with the exception that this class of building will eventually be built fireproof and that the courts will also be enlarged. It is possible also that the height of such buildings will be restricted to five stories.

"I believe that in all other dwelling house districts that the minimum type of residential dwelling will be the six-story elevator house, and that in the future this type will be supplanted by the fireproof building of greater height, of, say, eight to twelve stories.

"Fireproof construction is infinitely more satisfactory for builder, owner and tenant, being more substantial and reducing the risk of loss by fire to a minimum. The prevailing sentiment among speculative builders to-day tends to this form of construction and of buildings ten to twelve stories in height.

"It would appear to me that TEN DOLLARS A ROOM IS THE MINIMUM RENT that can be charged for an elevator apartment house in any reasonably good location, and to bring a reasonable return of income to the owner. There are a number of locations, however, where elevator houses have been erected where the rents are as low as $7 a room.

"The cost of fireproof building to-day is such as to make it impossible to build a fireproof building and rent the rooms for less than $15 per room. IF SOME OF THE RESTRICTIONS PLACED ON BUILDINGS BY THE PRESENT BUILDING CODE were removed, the cost of fireproof construction could be reduced.

"To sum up, I am in favor of fireproof construction of the permanent type for future speculative building, but it will be many years before the six-story non-fireproof building which is now typical will be eliminated, if it ever is."

GRANDSTAND LUMBER DRAINS SUPPLY,

LUMBER dealers estimate that between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 ft. of spruce, hemlock short leaf yellow pine and North Carolina roofing will be used in the construction of grandstands in this city.

Most of the stands are already up and over a million and a half feet have been taken. Up to yesterday morning orders continued to come in to the lumber companies, for 3x8s, 6x6s, 4x6s and 2x10s. Never before have the lumber yards had the demand that has been made upon their stocks this week, but the wholesalers and retailers were ready for it, having foreseen the contingency months ago. Even so, some second-hand lumber was used and passed by the Building Department.

All lumber used on grandstands is bought outright. As grandstand construction is speculative in character, most dealers have demanded cash at regular market quotations. Builders known to lumber firms had no trouble in getting material as long as it lasted. When the celebration is over the grandstands will be sold to wreckers as they stand. They in turn will dispose of it in the second-hand market.

Collins & Lavery and Cross, Austin & Ireland did a large part of the business in supplying material for the stands.

As the material used is in short lengths it will not find much sale for building operations of any size. Most of it is undressed or dressed only on one side. The roofers may be used for underflooring. Some of the heavier beams might be used for sheet piling and some of the selects without many nail holes may be used for concrete moulds.

BUILDING INSPECTORS KEPT JUMPING.

The Building Department has been deluged with applications for permits and almost its entire force of inspectors is at work inspecting proposed sites, grandstands in process of contruction and finished structures. While there have been occasions when there have been more applications for grandstands, it was said, never before have the operations been on such an extensive scale as in this instance. Almost the entire length of Central Park West from 110th st to 59th st has been given over to grandstand construction. This is said to be the most extensive grandstand operation ever attempted in this city.

Carpenters were at a premium. Every unemployed man who could handle a saw, hammer and nail had no trouble in finding a day's work during the week. Couriers were out in the Bowery and in the parks offering work to the idle. Unemployed men from New Jersey and Westchester county came in and found work, according to contractors, on several stands. In no cases were wages paid over the union scale, however, as skilled men were not essential.

A representative of Cross, Austin & Ireland and Collins & Lavery assured a Record and Guide man that the demand for grandstand material would not affect the lumber market, because not only have the lumber men requisitioned for more stock but because most of the lumber used, excepting roofers, was 14 and 15-ft. lengths. This is too short for spans, and therefore it is quite natural that regular business will not suffer as a result of the raid on stocks. Quick deliveries have been the demand and in consequence every kind of available vehicle that could take a load of lumber was pressed into service.

A great deal of the second-hand material will be sent to New Jersey and Long Island for distribution. Even before the stands were fully completed, Newark, Hoboken, Jersey City, Long Island City, Astoria and Bronx contractors were receiving overtures by mail and 'phone to take the material.

THE GROSS AND NET COST OF OPERATING.

Office, Loft and Apartment Buildings, as Compared to Gross Rental Income—Calculations of High Value to Building Managers.

By CLARENCE T. COLEY, M. E.

Here are some inside figures on the cost of running or maintaining buildings in New York City. They were compiled by the supervising engineer for one of the leading firms of real estate agents, Mr. Clarence T. Coley, of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company. Figures like these are esteemed of such high value that they are rarely obtainable for publication. These were prepared for presentation to the Convention of Building Managers and Owners at Detroit last week by Mr. Coley, and are reproduced in the Record and Guide with his special permission.

WHEN your energetic secretary, Mr. Patterson, saw fit to assign to me the subject, "The gross and net cost of operating, to gross rents, of office, loft and apartment buildings in New York City," I realized that I would have difficulty in making the subject interesting while talking to you upon it, but I hope the tabulated calculations which I have made, when they appear in print, will prove very beneficial reading and serve many interested in the subject, as permanent, reliable data, upon the cost of operating city real estate.

When I took up my present work, five years ago, with Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, New York City, and was told that my business was to operate the buildings in their charge for management with the highest degree of efficiency, I saw that the best tool with which to accomplish the desired results would be the "deadly parallel," or comparison of figures, derived from carefully kept sub-divided accounts. Our system of bookkeeping was changed so that our accounts are subdivided under twenty different headings.

By carefully watching the operation of each building and the classification of charges, I am able to give you the following percentages of cost to gross rents, and costs per square foot, or room, of rentable area, besides interesting figures on cost of heating per season, elevator power, and repairs.

SO FAR AS I KNOW, THE INFORMATION WHICH MY FIGURES GIVE IS THE FIRST OF ITS KIND WHICH HAS EVER BEEN COMPILED, OR AT LEAST GIVEN OUT AS PUBLIC INFORMATION.

I wish to warn you against the use of my figures in estimating upon the probable cost of operating any building which may come before you. They cannot be used accurately unless the person doing so knows exactly the conditions under which they were made, and the property under consideration corresponds in detail with the original. I have had the satisfaction of estimating upon the cost of operating proposed buildings from the plans by the use of similar figures—backed up by my experience—and seeing the actual cost of operating the finished building follow my estimate very closely.

I also use such figures extensively in estimating upon the proper cost of operating old buildings which have been extravagantly run, and the results obtained after my recommendations were put into effect, proved very gratifying to the owners, as well as to myself. My success in the use of figures derived from actual economic operation of buildings is developing a new branch of business for us in the appraisal of costs of building operation.

ALL OF THE FOLLOWING FIGURES GIVEN ARE AVERAGES OF THE ACTUAL COSTS OF OPERATION DURING THE LAST THREE FISCAL YEARS, UNDER OUR MANAGEMENT. All of the buildings are over eight years old, so that all newness has worn off and the repairs are at their normal working point. No selection was made with regard to favorable results, but with regard as being typical of a class or type of building. I do not consider these as figures showing extraordinary records, but as figures obtained from the results of actual, unpretentious operation.

We will consider the subject under the three classifications, namely: (1) Office Buildings, (2) Loft Buildings and (3) Tenement or Apartment Houses.

Under the first class I have considered two distinct types: First, large, high-class, financial Office Buildings, and, second, small modern (Insurance and General) Office Buildings.

The second general class includes: High-grade Semi-fireproof Loft Buildings, and Medium-sized Non-fireproof Loft Buildings.

LARGE, HIGH CLASS, FINANCIAL.

For the first calculation take the highest type of office building in New York. There is heavy duty for elevators, as it is over twenty stories high; a very liberal supply of electric light; hot, cold and refrigerated water; a large quantity of marble and glass to polish; cement floors in offices, a complete mechanical plant; the building to be kept up to a high state of repair and reliability of operation; the tenants are bankers, stock brokers and lawyers.
